Red Stars Have Two Games

Saturday, at Slater's field, in Jewett City, the Plainfield Red Stars play the Fisk Rubber ball team, twilight champs of Jewett City, and Sunday, at the old ball ground in Plainfield, the Red Stars play the Assawaga All Stars of Dayville. Marriott will most likely twirl Saturday and "Peck" Allard Sunday.

SOME MODEST ADVANCES WERE MADE IN PRICES IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—Share prices turned upward once more in an extremely sluggish session of the stock market today.

Bears made efforts to extend the decline of the previous session during the early hours of the day, but made so little progress that speculation for the rise was resumed after mid-day.

Price movements on the whole were narrow, and the advance was modest. The price index of 90 shares showed a gain of only 1 1-5 points for the day. The day's turnover of 1,335,680 shares, was one of the smallest of the year.

The rally appeared soon after announcement of filing of a receivership petition against Warner Brothers, charging mismanagement. This stock has become an unsettling factor of late, as Fox Film was last December. It was omission of the Warner dividend that was a moving factor in the sharp decline of a fortnight ago.

The fact that the petition charged mismanagement rather than questioning the company's solvency, however, was reassuring. After selling off 2 points to a new low, the stock rallied to close only 1-2 off. Wall street looks for a contest for control of the company.

The day's news was meagre enough to intensify the speculative apathy. Aside from the Warner development, there was little in the way of corporate news, aside from announcements of halving the $2 dividend rate of McKesson and Robbins. After the close, Sinclair's first half earnings were disclosed as only 49 cents a share compared to dividend requirements for the period of $1 a share.

The tobacco issues displayed conspicuous group firmness, reflecting the favorable cigarette consumption figures for last month. Manufacturing issues and utilities generally were firm, but rails and coppers eased and oils were sluggish. American Tobacco B sold up 6 1-2 points to within 11 points of the year's high, and closed near the top. The new American Tobacco issues reached new highs. Other tobaccos generally gained 1 to 2 points.

Radio-Keith was again an active feature, selling about a point higher, then losing its gain. Fox and Loew's were firm. International Business Machinery, normally lightly traded, sold up about 4 points in a fair turnover, then yielded half its gain. The rise was attributed to announcement that it had orders to keep its principal plant running at capacity for several months. The safety razor stocks rallied a little, reflecting reports that merger negotiations are still in progress. Auto Strop closed up 3. Shares gained 2 to 3 included American Power and Light, Bullard, Eastman, Johns Manville, Stone and Webster and Vanadium, while U. S. Steel, General Motors, General Electric, American Can and United Aircraft gained about a point each.

Anaconda and Kennecott both sagged about a point to new lows, and Illinois Central and Baltimore and Ohio also reached new minimum levels. Goodyear sagged 2 points on a report that output would be curtailed next month. Nickel Plate, Chicago Northwestern, and New Haven eased a point or two.

Live stocks, commodities moved narrowly and uncertainly. Wheat and corn closed practically unchanged, after selling off a little, then rallying. The movement in cotton was also narrow, and the closing tone steady.

Credit was plentiful. Call money held at 2 per cent all day, but was available outside at 1 1-2. Foreign exchanges were steady to firm. Sterling held at $4.87 1-8, and the Canadian dollar increased its premium to 1-8, suggesting the revival of gold shipments to Montreal.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—The listed bond market was carried to a new high level for the year today on the strength of selective buying of domestic issues. It was the second time this week that the former high mark for the year has been revised in the averages.

The advance was ascribed to the strength of railroad and utility issues, with the latter profiting from increased buying. Many issues which have previously reached new peaks on the present forward movement were conspicuous in the list of carrier issues which sold at new top prices.

They included Chicago and Alton 3s, Canadian National 4 1-2s, Cincinnati, Indiana, St. Louis and Chicago 4s, Rock Island and Pacific 4s, of 1988, Lehigh and New York 4s, Toledo and Ohio Central 5s, Wabash second 5s, and Western Maryland 4s, of 1952. Baltimore and Ohio 4 1-2s, a convertible issue, was the most active in the railroad group, sagging nearly a point, and closing 3-8 lower. Other rail convertibles were steady to firm. Cuba Railway 5s, rallied 3 points, up 16 from its recent year's low, and Lehigh and New York 4s, an inactive issue, soared 4 points.

Bidding for about a dozen utility obligations was brisk. Brooklyn Union Gas 5s, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s, Public Service Electric and Gas 4 1-2s, Columbia River Power and Light 4 1-2s, Newark Gas 5s, New York Gas and Electric 4s, of 1949 and Federal Light and Traction 1st. 6s, registered new peaks. Havana Electric 5 1-2s rallied 1 1-2 points from its low.

High grade industrials were firm. Western Electric 5s duplicated its recent high.

Renewed selling of Warner Brothers convertible 6s carried it to a new low at 87 1-2, off 4 5-8.

Treasury issues were lightly traded, and firm. South American issues were a weak spot among foreign bonds. Peru 1st and 2nd 6s, sagged nearly two points, and several other municipal issues were in supply. German 5 1-2s, were the most active of the European issues, holding steady.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—Curb stocks successfully resisted several selling attacks and closed a little higher today. The best prices of the day were reached during the afternoon.

Trading was very quiet, the movement following a narrow groove despite recurring changes of trend, and the volume of sales for the day was only 301,200 shares. The active list of stocks was small, with utilities, motors, aviation and several specialties, most prominent.

The operations for the decline concentrated on utilities in which the largest proportion of the business has been centered this week. Electric Bond and Share sagged 1 point, and several others moved to lower levels but bounded back during the afternoon. Bond and Share closed 1-8 higher. Central States Electric, which was more active than in some time and gained 5-8. United Light and Power A, gained 5-8. On small sales, Duke Power sagged 1 point, American Public Utilities, 2 3-4 to a new year's low. American Gas and Electric, which was weak yesterday, advanced 3 points.

Buying demand for Mead Johnson, which has increased its earnings this year, continued strong. Opening a fraction above yesterday's high, the stock was buoyant throughout the session, its net gain of 3 points establishing another new 1930 high. Translux was firm, advancing 1-4.

Motor and aviation stocks showed more life. Ford Motor of Canada, and Durant each gained a point, and Ford of England, held firm. Aviation Corporation of the Americas, was a strong spot, rising 2 points, on acquisition of the New York, Rio line. Dayton Airplane Engine was steady.

Cities Service, which has moved narrowly lately, advanced 1-2 point in the final hour on short covering. Standard Oil of Indiana, advanced 1-2 to 49 5-8. Investment and holding companies, were steady to firm. Goldman Sachs was dull and slightly lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—(AP)—Evidence of corn market power to rally from price setbacks did a good deal to put backbone into grain values late today, despite earlier downturns. A reason for renewal of strngeth in corn values was likelihood that liberal clearance of corn out of Chicago by lake vessels would be anounced tomorrow. There were also late estimates that the yield of wheat in the Canadian prairies provinces would be only about 233,000,000 bushels, whereas a previous estimate today was 350,000,000 bushels.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous, 1-8c off to 3-8c up compared with yesterday's finish. Wheat closed irregular at 5-8c net decline to 1-4c advance, with oats [illegible] 1-4 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Provisions turned upward toward the last with grain, despite previous setbacks on account of lower quotations on hogs.

ANOTHER OF THE COUNTIES ARE HEARD FROM

What color is the flag of the Faeroe Islands?

Until recently when the blue-rimmed banner with a white field, bearing a brilliant red cross, was hoisted at Thorshavn, the emblem was almost unknown beyond the islands and Denmark. The Faeroes now constitute a county of Denmark.

"The Faeroes are a group of 21 small islands, sprinkled over a small area about 250 miles off the northern tip of Scotland," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"When the islands were first settled has caused a [illegible] contest among historians. At Thorshavn, the capital, a city of about 3,000 inhabitants, the wooden buildings on strong stone foundations, topped by turf roofs, take the traveler back a thousand years ago when Norsemen settled there. On some of the southernmost islands, however, live dark-haired, dark-eyed people.

"Thorshavn, rambling about the shore of the island and up the hillsides beyond, is a busy port. There are a few narrow streets winding between houses, but off these are mere paths leading to the 'suburbs.' Ponies have not been displaced by automobiles, or even by wagons and carts, so that there is no demand for good roads on the islands, and there are none.

"However, the Faeroes, although off the popular tourists' routes, do not entirely live in ages past. In some of the villages electric light bulbs throw their bright rays on paths that Viking feet once trod; telegraph wires are strung above ancient chimneys; radio towers throw their shadows upon turf-covered birch bark roofs; phonographs play for the entertainment of quaintly costumed men and women who sit on furniture that was built by the owners' ancestors before Columbus sailed west; and the staccato put-put of modern motors emanates from fishing craft that are patterned after those of Viking forefathers.

"In the village streets and throughout the islands, men don their native costumes. Buttons are numerous on their hip-length coats, but the garments are clasped only at the throat so that the shiny brass buttons and fancy embroidery work adorning their vests is visible. Knee-length breeches, long, brown hose, soft-skin shoes, adorned with buckles, tied to the ankles with white thongs, and a floppy cap complete the masculine costume.

"Many women have forsaken their voluminous dresses, white aprons with gaudy stripes, and colorful shawls. European fashions have won them, and frequently even the native costumed women will be seen wearing high-heeled shoes.

"Travelers are amazed at the lofty homes of many of the islanders, particularly on those islands which are rimmed by sheer cliffs, rising more than 600 feet from the sea. Some islands have home-made elevators, but many islanders scale the rocks as a 'human fly' scales a modern building.

"The cliffs appear insurmountable but they are sources of life to the Faeroe inhabitants. The ledges, from sea to summit, are the nesting places of myriad birds which form an important part of the Faeroe diet. Native hunters, with ropes tied securely about the waists and long-handled nets in hand descend the cliffs and return with several days' supply of food.

"If all the Faeroes were merged, they would not cover an area half that of Rhode Island. They are treeless, brisk winds sweep them, and there are few harbors where ships are safe from the treacherous currents and high winds. Yet 23,000 inhabitants live a busy, happy existence on the islands. Isolation has made the inhabitants a versatile race. In the village shops are imported goods, particularly Danish goods, but there is a noticeable absence of home-made products, for the families usually make their own colthing and implements.

"Acres of shore line are blanketed with white strips of drying codfish. They are also builders, furniture makers, blacksmiths, sheep herders, tanners and hunters. The women are adept knitters, weavers, fish curers and wool dyers."

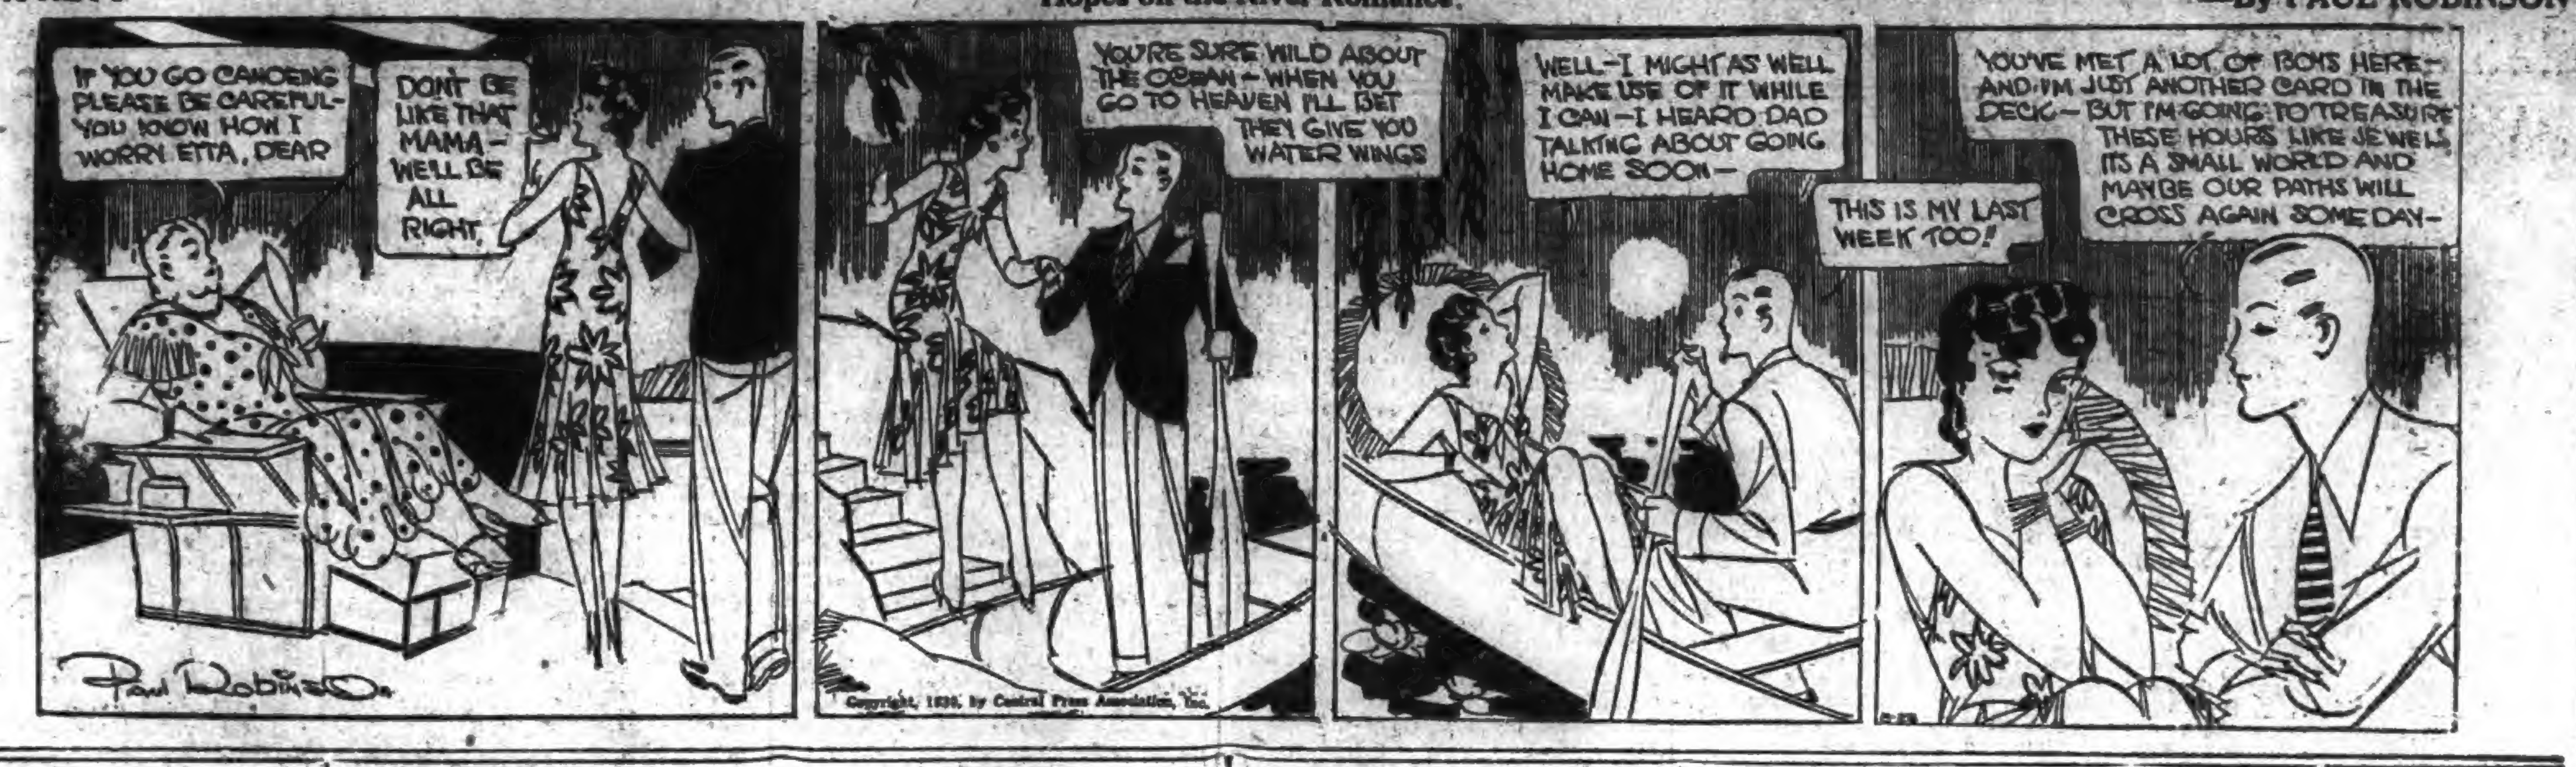
ETTA KETT

Hopes on the River Romance

—By PAUL ROBINSON



IF YOU GO CANOEING PLEASE BE CAREFUL— YOU KNOW HOW I WORRY, ETTA, DEAR
DON'T BE LIKE THAT MAMA— WE'LL BE ALL RIGHT.
YOU'RE SURE WILD ABOUT THE OCEAN— WHEN YOU GO TO HEAVEN I'LL BET THEY GIVE YOU WATER WINGS
WELL—I MIGHT AS WELL MAKE USE OF IT WHILE I CAN—I HEARD DAD TALKING ABOUT GOING HOME SOON—
THIS IS MY LAST WEEK TOO!
YOU'VE MET A LOT OF BOYS HERE— AND I'M JUST ANOTHER CARD IN THE DECK— BUT I'M GOING TO TREASURE THESE HOURS LIKE JEWELS. IT'S A SMALL WORLD AND MAYBE OUR PATHS WILL CROSS AGAIN SOME DAY—
Paul Robinson

CAMP WAKENAH CLOSED SEASON ON FRIDAY

Camp Wakenah, Boy Scout camp at Gardner Lake, closed Friday when the half hundred scouts in camp returned to their homes and the camp leaders stored all equipment for another year.

Thursday night the camp held its final camp fire which consisted of a big pile of brush collected on the athletic field near the main road. As the fire died down the scouts gathered around the glowing embers and toasted marshmallows, after which they were entertained by true life stories told by Scout Executive F. E. Burdick of New London and Scout Executive John L. Sellman of Norwich.

Picking their way through the woods back to camp proper the scouts made their last night pilgrimage at camp this year and tired out from a busy day turned in for a good night's sleep in the open tent houses before returning to their homes Friday. Taps, sounded by Scout Joseph Pawliki had a more significant meaning as it echoed across the lake Thursday night—it signified the end of the most successful camp in the council's history.

The actual storing of equipment began Thursday when all the screens in the mess house were removed, all extra cots were taken down and the floating wharf was hauled ashore.

Friday the camp leaders continued the work by storing the boats and canoes and taking down the rest of the cots.

A meeting of a special committee appointed to lay out a new grade for the area between the ten houses will be held at the camp this Saturday afternoon. At present there is a natural hump in the ground that rises as much as four feet above the level of the tent house floors. It is now planned to level this area off and to finish it as soon as possible so that grass seed can be sowed this fall.

PUBLIC HEALTH REPORT SHOWS NUMEROUS CALLS

The Public Health Nursing department of the United Workers admitted 117 new patients and made 1132 calls during the month of July, according to the latest department report. These 1122 calls are classified as follows: 226 maternity; 420 health supervision; 345 morbidity; 36 communicable, and 95 in behalf of patients.

Nineteen chest examinations were made at the free tuberculosis clinic, conducted at the United Workers' house on Washington street and sponsored by the state tuberculosis commission. There is but one clinic a month during the months of July and August, but throughout the rest of the year they are held on Tuesday of each week.

The Well Babies conferences during the month boasted an attendance of 118, while 313 were counted at the Rock Nook Children's clinic.

The monthly report of the department includes the following:

About six months after toxin-antitoxin is given, a Schick test is given to make certain that immunity, or protection, has been established. The physician places a drop of harmless liquid in the outer layed of the skin. This procedure takes but an instant and, like the immunization treatment, leaves no scar. If, within the next four days, a red spot appears on the arm, it shows that immunity has not yet been established, and that three more protective injections are needed. If no red spot appears, as is the case in the majority of the children receiving three injections, the child is immune to diphtheria even though he may be exposed to it.

The Shick test does not protect, but merely shows if the person is immune. Antitoxin may cure diphtheria, but toxin-antitoxin prevents the disease.

The above-described Shick test was given during July to 45 of the children treated with toxin-antitoxin six months before. Several of these children proved to be positive and were given a second series of toxin-antitoxin treatments. Altogether, 183 doses of toxinantitoxin were administered during the month under the supervision of Dr. William T. Driscoll, physician in charge of the Rock Nook Children's clinic.

EUROPE TO AMERICA FLIGHT MADE BY GERMAN AVIATORS

Captain Von Gronau and His Three Companions Landed About 80 Miles From Halifax at 5.20 a. m., E. S. T., Yesterday—Made Surprise Flight Across the Atlantic Ocean—Averaged About 85 miles an Hour All Across the Ocean.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Four German aviators on their way to the United States arrived in Nova Scotia this afternoon after an unheralded and surprising flight across the Atlantic from Germany.

Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his three companions landed at Queensport harbor, Guysboro county, about 80 miles from Halifax, at 3:45 p. m., Atlantic daylight time (1:45 p. m., E. S. T.).

Fog and the want of necessary charts forced them down before they could reach Halifax. They left Cartwright harbor, Labrador, at 7:20 a. m. (5:20 a. m., E. S. T.), which in turn they had reached yesterday from Ivigtut, Greenland.

As there is neither wireless nor telegraph station at Cartwright, their departure for Nova Scotia was as unheralded as their departure yesterday from Greenland. The whole flight has been a series of surprises.

Originally Von Gronau, who is accompanied by Edward Zimmer, one of the captain's aviation students, Franz Hack, mechanic, and a wireless operator named Albrecht, left the German school for commercial pilots at Warnemuende on a training flight, early last week. Von Gronau is head of the school.

They flew to the Faroe Islands, and from there to Reykjavik, Iceland, arriving on Wednesday. They were then expected to fly back to Germany, but on Friday they reported by wireless after starting that they were in a position on the route to Greenland. Subsequently it was learned from Copenhagen that Von Gronau some months ago had asked for a supply of gasoline to be sent to Julianhaab, Greenland, to await his arrival. He asked that his request be kept secret.

Friday afternoon their big Dornier-Wal flying boat came down safely at Ivigtut. The next news the world had of them, they were on their way to Labrador. Just before pulling in their wireless aerial last night, they reported they were preparing to land at Cartwright.

Throughout the flight the German commercial flying school authorities said they knew nothing of Von Gronau's plans. Von Gronau is known as an excellent aviator and is greatly interested in the scientific and practical side of flying. Apparently he wished to avoid the usual publicity connected with trans-Atlantic flights.

The flight from Cartwright to Queensport harbor is roughly 600 miles. They covered the distance in 8 hours and 25 minutes. All the way across the Atlantic they have maintained an average flying speed of about 85 miles an hour, but fog today apparently slowed them down to about 70.

During the trip they were reported over the Magdalene Islands, 225 miles from Halifax, over St. Paul's Island, north of Cape Breton, and over North Sydney, Nova Scotia.

WILL CONTINUE THEIR FLIGHT TO UNITED STATES

QUEENSPORT, Nova Scotia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Four modest and weary air heroes from Germany, who dropped in on Nova Scotia this afternoon after one of the least advertised trans-Atlantic flights on record, went to bed here tonight after flying in three days from Iceland to Greenland, Labrador and Nova Scotia.

Their Dornier-Wal flying boat, used in the polar regions by the late Roald Amundsen and again by Captain Courtney of England in a trans-Atlantic attempt, came down on the harbor here this afternoon from Labrador.

Forced down by fog, encountered during almost the entire trip from Greenland, Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his three companions were in good condition and pleased with the success of their hard flight.

The airmen plan to continue their flight to the United States, but have not yet decided to what city. If the weather clears, they will leave Queensport for Halifax tomorrow morning. Their most probable route after that will take them down the Atlantic coast over New England.

Captain Von Gronau said that apart from fog he had met with no difficulty on the flight. His charts were not detailed enough to enable him to reach Halifax.

NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT OF G. A. R. IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The public had its first opportunity today to participate in the 64th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Eden park here, where trees and a flag pole were dedicated, and the United States Marine band gave a concert.

Trees were dedicated by the Woman's Relief corps to the memory of William C. Johnson, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. 20 years ago, who died two months after his election; Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross and famous Civil war nurse, and the present commander-in-chief, Edwin J. Foster of Massachusetts. The third tree was accepted by Mr. Foster in person, who delivered a short address.

The flag staff, erected in the park in memory of the Union veterans of the Civil war, was dedicated by the Daughters of Union Veterans.

Special services were held in all Cincinnati churches this morning in honor of the visiting veterans and their friends.

Large delegations continued to arrive today. Among them were groups from Minnesota, North Dakota, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Oregon and Washington. The Pennsylvania delegation occupied five cars of a special train. On the same train was the G. A. R. department of Maryland and the Daughters of Veterans.

In the evening the federated patriotic societies allied with the G. A. R. held their annual conference and dinner.

SCHNEIDER MAKES THREE JUNIOR AIRPLANE RECORDS

ROOSEVELT FIELD N. Y., Aug. 24.— (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Eddie Schneider of Jersey City, N. J., landed here from Columbus. Ohio, at 3:03 p. m. (EST) today with three junior transcontinental records

Beating the three records set by Frank Goldsborough, who was killed recently in a crash, he chalked up the following marks: East-west, 29 hours and 41 minutes; west-east, 27 hours and 19 minute; round trip, 57 hours.

The Goldsborough records were: East-west, 34 hours, 8 minutes; west-east, 28 hours 55 minutes, and round trip, 62 hours, 58 minutes.

Battling a storm part of the way, the smiling junior flyer came from Columbus to Roosevelt Field in one hop today, slicing one hour and 36 minutes from Goldsborough's mark for the coast-to-coast crossing. Starting from Los Angeles Thursday, he made three overnight stops, at Albuquerque, Wichita and Columbus. He crossed the continent westward several days ago

YACHT SHAMROCK V. TOOK SPIN OFF NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Sabbath did not mean a period of inactivity for the four candidates for the defense of the America's cup or for the challenger, Shamrock V.

Sir Thomas Lipton's sleek green sloop went out of the harbor early today for a spin over the ocean course on which she will meet one of the four defender candidates on September 13. The sea was rough, partly as an aftermath of the past two days of strong winds, which interrupted the selection series between the four American boats and partly due to a good, brisk breeze, which lifted the tops off the waves.

But Shamrock seemed to enjoy the heavy weather and rode the seas easily. She had aboard her new local pilot, Captain William Stewart, who will be first assistant to her skipper, Captain Ned Heard, in the coming races. Stewart is a native of England, but a naturalized American citizen. He is a resident of Glen Cove, N. Y., and because of his familiarity with tides and currents off here he was selected for the post. Stewart was a member of the crew of the Valkyrie, Lord Dunraven's unsuccessful challenger in 1895.

ONE MAN WAS DROWNED; FIVE PERSONS RESCUED

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 24—(AP)—One man was drowned and five persons were rescued at Rhode Island beaches today.

John Cavallo, 27, of Fall River, Mass., met death within sight of his family at Sachuest Point, Middletown.

Prompt action by William G. Sweeney, of West Springfield, Mass., saved Miss Phyllis Phelan and her cousin, Andrew Phelan, both of Waterbury, Conn., when the two were caught in the undertow at Misquamicut beach. Though fully clothed, Sweeney plunged into the combers and dragged the two to safety.

Marie DeRensis, 13, of Warren, R. I., held her smaller sister Micoletto and nine year old cousin, Marie Primiano, above water and was nearly dragged beneath herself at Westerly town beach, until James Bent, well known distance swimmer, rescued all three.

ORANGE, Va., Aug. 24.— (AP)— At the instance of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the Virginia conservation commission has staked out a twenty-mile stretch of scenic Blue Ridge mountain country near the Hoover camp as the first link in the main highway to traverse the Shenandoah National park.

Work on the road, to be known as the Hoover highway, probably will start in the fall and commission officials expect it to be ready for tourist travel by next summer. Eventually the main highway will be continued up and down the great mountain ridges and probably will reach from Front Royal on the north to Staunton on the south.

'Ma' Ferguson Loses In Primary "Run-Off"

Ross S. Sterling Leads Mrs. Ferguson By About 100,000 Votes.

DALLAS, Aug. 24.—(AP) —His lead mounting slowly toward the 100,000 mark, Ross S. Sterling of Houston, wealthy chairman of the state highway commission, today received scores of congratulations on his selections yesterday as the democratic nominee for governor.

An unprecedented number of Texas voters was belived to have expressed a preference for Sterling over Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, former governor and wife of James E. Ferguson, who was impeached while in the governor's chair. More than 800,000 votes had been unofficially tabulated by the Texas election bureau today and most observers expected the total to exceed the 833,442 votes cast in the first primary this year, which set a new high mark.

Sterling, known in the vicinity of Houston through his philanthropies, his civic work, his building enterprises and his ownership of the Houston Post Dispatch, grasped his first opportunity for state wide service when he accepted an appointment as chairman of Governor Dan Moody's highway commission three and a half years ago.

Opposed to the Houston man, who is a novice at stump speaking, was James E. Ferguson, one of the most adept campaigners that Texas has produced in many years, who bore the brunt of the campaign for his wife. Seldom has a campaign been so bitter. Immediately after the first primary, Sterling said the issues were "Fergusonism" and honesty in government. "Farmer Jim" replied with character attacks on Sterling and Governor Moody.

Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson were high among 11 candidates in the first primary. Mrs. Ferguson led the field in the July race. As she did not have a majority of votes cast, however, the run-off race was held.

Democratic nominations for six state offices and one congressional post were voted upon in yesterday's run-off.

In all other contests, one of the candidates received more than 50 per cent of the vote in the first primary. The democratic nomination ordinarily in tantamount to election.

ANSONIA MAN BLINDED BY ACID THROWN BY BROTHER

ANSONIA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Four persons were severely burned, one so badly that he will be permanently blind in both eyes, by acid hurled today by a chemistry student during an altercation with his brother.

The acid, police charge, was thrown by Frederick Soudier, 16, at his brother, Nicholas, 22, who, physicians said, will be blind permanently. Some of it also fell on the youth's mother, Mrs. Marie Soudier, their 7-year-old sister, Dorothy, and on Frederick, inflicting severe burns on them.

Frederick Soudier, a chemistry student, kept the acid in the house for experimental purposes, police said. He was held in $500 bonds on a charge of breach of the peace.

The student hurled the acid at his brother, police charge, when the latter threatened him with an ice pick. Just before the attack, Nicholas had demanded money of members of his family and Frederick is said to have remonstrated with him.

FILM ACTOR LON CHANEY REPORTED "MUCH IMPROVED"

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24—(AP)—Lon Chaney, film character actor, was reported "much improved" today after a third blood transfusion last night in his battle against anemia, physicians said, however, the actor's condition still was critical.

"Mr. Chaney spent a restful night," hospital attaches said, "and was cheerful today. Barring complications, his condition should continue to improve."

Weakened by an attack of pneumonia early this year, Chaney became a patient at St. Vincent's hospital here shortly after his return from New York, where he consulted with specialists. His condition became critical a few days ago, and two blood transfusions failed to rally him. He underwent a third transfusion last night to offset a sinking spell.

51 ARRESTS WERE MADE IN PLAINVILLE GAMBLING RAID

About ten men escaped from the establishment through windows when police entered. Several games of dice were in progress.

The track was torn up for a considerable distance, and traffic on the line was suspended.

Bombs And Guns In Gangster's Rooms

Were Found and Seized by Detectives in Brooklyn—Three Arrests Made.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A small arsenal, including bombs, hand grenades, steel armor and fountain pen guns, was seized this afternoon in a Brooklyn apartment, by three detectives who trailed a chauffeur of Jack "Legs" Diamond, gangster chieftain, to the place.

The detectives arrested James Dalton, 28, of Acra, N. Y., alleged to be Diamond's chauffeur; Harry Klein, [illegible] by police as a rum runner, [illegible] Witcher, who lived in the [illegible]ment, which is located near the [illegible]y base in Brooklyn.

Detectives said they would notify federal authorities who are investigating an unsuccessful attempt several months ago to blow the safe in the army base and steal several thousand dollars.

Included in today's seizure were two powder bombs, known in gang parlance as "pineapples"; three iron pipe bombs, three tear gas bombs, 18 loaded hand grenades, five steel vests, three steel stomach bands, signalling pistols, machine gun and rifle bullets, and 22 fountain pen guns.

Also found in the apartment was a hunting license issued in Acra, N. Y., to "John Diamond." Diamond, who has a summer residence in Acra, in the Catskills, is now en route to Europe on the liner Baltic, police said.

Diamond, former bodyguard to Arnold Rothstein, slain Broadway gambler, has been arrested more than a score of times, including three times for murder, but his only conviction resulted from his first arrest in 1914 for burglary. Police have called him a beer baron and member of a narcotics ring but always lacked evidence to back this accusations.

In June he took over two summer cottages in the Catskills, arriving with a fleet of five automobiles and a retinue of Japanese servants.

BANDIT SLAIN AFTER KILLING TWO IMMIGRATION OFFICERS

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Aug. 24—(AP)—Two United States immigration inspectors were shot and killed early today on a train at Emo, Ont., 25 miles west of here. Their assailant was shot and fatally wounded 12 hours later by a posse.

The inspectors killed were Lawrence Loton, about 30 years old, of Ranier, Minn., and Lawrence Jones, 27, of Warrod, Minn. Their assailant was Emeric Frenett, 21, of Fort Frances, who died late today from bullet wounds inflicted by the posse men.

The inspectors were killed without warning. Frenett, thought they were about to arrest him, as Fort Frances police had pursued him when they caught him tampering with automobiles.

Doton was shot as he awoke from a nap on the train, and Jones was killed as he boarded the train at Emo, as was his duty each night. Neither inspector had been aware that Frenett was sought by local police, according to officials here.

Before leaping from the train he threatened to kill the conductor, George Ireland, whom he had forced to accompany him through five cars to the engine, where he robbed the engineer fireman and brakemen.

The posse of police and citizens which surrounded him in the farm house set fire to the structure after hours of waiting for him to come out. As he rushed out to escape the flames, he was shot down.

NO BLOODSHED THUS FAR IN THE PERUVIAN REVOLUTION

All the Garrisons of the Fourth Division Have Joined the Insurgents—Local Government Has Been Established by the Rebels in Arequipa—Insurgent Officers Received Everywhere by Ovations—Entire South of Peru is in the Hands of the Insurgents.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 24.—(AP)— A dispatch to La Nacion from Arequipa says all the garrisons of the Fourth division, including those of Puno and Fungullo, have joined the Peruvian revolution. In view of the action of the troops, Colonel Tosso has relinquished his acting command of the division.

Dispatches to the newspaper from Arica, Chile, report that a local government has already been established by the insurgents in Arequipa. It is under the direction of Guillermo Lira, who is said to be supported by reliable elements representing all social classes.

A group of insurgent officers who went to the port of Mollendo was said to have been received everywhere with ovations. The department is quiet and there has been no bloodshed.

Colonel Eduardo Del Aguila, commander of the Fourth division, who was in Lima on leave of absence, is reported to have arrived by airplane in Tacna, Peru, and to have left for La Paz, Bolivia, presumably to direct operations against the insurgents from the Bolivian frontier.

He was accompanied by three army officers.

ASLEEP IN AUTO STALLED ON RAILROAD TRACKS

DANBURY, Aug. 24—(AP)—Things happened rather opportunely here today. That's why Raymond Kniffim, 27, and Roland Hert, a Negro, are alive.

Hart fell asleep in his automobile after stalling it on the railroad tracks. A passerby saw the car and at the same time heard the rumble of an approaching milk train. He tried to arouse Hart, but failed. He was unable to budge the automobile; so he flagged the train in time to prevent it from ploughing into the machine and the sleeping Negro.

Police arrested Hert on a charge of intoxication and put him into a cell adjoining one in which Kniffim, also charged with intoxication, had been lodged The Negro awakened from a deep slumber several hours after his arrest and heard moans coming from the adjoining cell. He summoned police, who found Kniffim hanging by his shirt from a bar. Kniffim was cut down and revived. He is expected to recover.

ATTEMPTING TO SUPPRESS SEVERAL TIPSTER SHEETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—Watson Washburn, assistant state attorney general, left for Boston tonight to confer with officials there in an attempt to suppress several tipster sheets.

These sheets, he said, have headquarters in the Massachusetts city and attempt to mulct investors in New York.

He charged that the usual plan of operators of the sheets is to secure calls on stocks which large holders are anxious to unload for one reason or another. The tipster sheet then advises its subscribers to buy stock, often grossly misrepresenting its prospects and earning powers. When the artificially stimulated buying power of the victims is exhausted, the stock sinks down to its natural level, and they are left "holding the bag," he said.

FISHERMEN RESCUED BY COAST GUARDSMEN

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Three Portland, Me., fishermen, who had been missing in their 33-foot powerboat since Thursday night, when they put out for Jeffrey's lodge, were towed in here today by coast guardsmen from the Portsmouth harbor station, who sighted the disabled boat wallowing in mountainous seas two miles southeast of the Wallis Sands station.

The fishermen, Captain Antonio Raduano, 26; Cimino Antonio, 30, and Rasari Cino, 23, had been adrift for sixty hours in the worst northeast storm of the summer when they were picked up by a picket boat in command of Boatswain's Mate James M. Hoar.

Their engine went dead shortly after they had put out on Thursday.

PILSUDSKI REQUESTED TO FORM POLISH CABINET

"I understand Colonel Slawek's motives perfectly. I'm especially pleased that he doesn't desire to be everybody's handy man. Hence I'll select a system of work whereby my task as premier will be eased."

What action the premier will take has not been announced.

DECISION BY STATE TAX COMMISSIONER BLODGETT

NEW HAVEN, Aug 24.—(AP)—William H. Blodgett, state tax commissioner, has informally told local tax and assessing officials that taxation of charitable and non-commercial organization is incumbent upon on city officials if such institutions come under the meaning of a state statute recently interpreted in the case of the Canterbury school against the town of New Milford by Associate Justice William M. Maltbie.

In the Canterbury school case, Justice Maltbie held that under a statute passed in 1927, charitable and non-commercial organizations are liable to taxation if there is even a remote possibility that their assets will be divided among private interests or individuals in the event of their dissolution.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

The Ford was reduced to wreckage and the other car, a touring driven by Anthony Morabito of 407 3rd street, Brooklyn, N. Y., was put out of running condition.

Michael Berthiaume, who was the only one of the trio to remain a patient in St. Joseph's hospital where the young men received treatment, was placed under arrest by State Policemand Henry ehier of the Staffor Springs barracks on a charge of reckless driving. He was notified to appear in the Coventry justice court at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The investigation by Officer Zehler indicated that both cars were traveling easterly, or toward this city out of Coventry, with the New York machine in the lead. Berthiaume apparently lost control of his machine which struck the rear of the touring car. The coupe turned over in the highway and was badly damaged. Morabito and his companion, Walter Palmer, also of Brooklyn, escaped injury. They made an effort to get the injured youths to the hospital but their damaged car had traveled but about one mile when it went out of commission. The youths were then rushed on by George Bowen of this city. At the hospital -rays were ordered taken by Dr. J. A. Girouard, attending physician.

Biondi, his brother, Dominick Biondi and Herman Orlacchio, all of East Hampton, have been continued in the Hebron town court until next Thursday evening.

Joseph V. Biondi is at liberty under bonds of $5,000 charged with reckless driving and evading responsibility. His brother, Dominick, and Orlacchio, are out under bonds of $1,000, technically charged with breach of the peace. The trio have retained Attornys William A. King and John H. King of this city. State Policemen John J. Zekas and Carroll E. Shaw of the Hartford barracks arrested the trio on the allegation that Joseph Biondi was the driver of the car that struck and killed the retired minister, and that the other two young men were his companions on the night in question.

Pair Held in Columbia Fatality.

John W. Manyak of Hartford and Dona Thibeault of Putnam were arraigned in the Columbia town court Saturday, charged with misconduct, in the operation of their automobiles at Columbia Four Corners on August 2, when their cars collided, causing the death of Adelia Miller, 7, of South Manchester, a passenger in the Manyak car. Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch found probable cause in both cases and bound the accused over to the next criminal term of superior court, continuing the bonds of $1,000 each.

The charges against the pair are based on a finding of Tolland County Coroner John H. Yeomans of Andover that Manyak approached the intersection at too high a rate of speed while Thibeault failed to keep a proper watch for approaching vehicles. Both pleaded not guilty. Testimony for the state was given by State Policeman Charles F. Hill of the Stafford Springs barracks and Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins of Columbia.

CAMP MEETING OFFICERS FOR ENSUING YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND, Aug. 24.—Dr. Birney's topic Friday evening proved a fitting one with which to close the sacred meditations of "Interdenominational day," viz., "The World's Only Portrait of God." He found this suggested in the text, 2nd Corinthians, 4:6, which shows "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

Dean Pennepacker presided at the chapel service Saturday morning and was also the speaker. His remarks were based upon 2d Timothy 1:13, 14. Rev. D. F. Dodd offered the closing prayer.

The various classes held their closing periods Saturday forenoon. Considerable interest has been manifest in all the classes throughout the week though the holding of so many classes at the same time has made the number in each one very small.

Dr. Birney's address at 11 Saturday morning on the Holy Spirit and the prayer program emphasized that real fullness of life which is essential to make prayer effective and prevailing in continued strength and vitality.

Miss Mayo's class in public speaking was held at 1:15 p. m. In her closing lecture she spoke particularly of correct articulation in public speaking. There was also a debate upon the question, "Resolved that the country is a more desirable place to live than the city." There was a young man and a young woman on each side. Each speaker being allowed 3 minutes and each side to have 2 minutes for rebuttal. The judges gave the decision to the negative side but gave the affirmative honorable mention. The audience voted, however, by a decided majority while the judges were out, in favor of the affirmative.

A demonstration of the work done by the school of religious education during the week was given in the tabernacle at 2:50 p. m. Saturday. The exercises consisted largely of Bible pageants, each department including the primary, kindergarten, junior and intermediate departments. Dean Pennepacker presided and awarded the certificates to those who had completed the courses satisfactorily. Prizes were also awarded to several boys and girls who were winners in athletic contests.

The entertainment on Saturday evening included the work of three artists. Miss Pauline Mayo gave a dramatic interpretation of the hymn, "The Ninety and Nine." Rev. Glen Douglas, of Woronoco, Mass., gave a dramatic reading entitled "The Divine Tragedy." Justin Lawrie rendered several groups of selections with Mrs. Lawrie as the piano accompanist.

Rev. C. E. Spaulding, D. D., of New London, assisted by Rev. Joseph Cooper of Norwich, was in charge of the Love feast Sunday morning.

Sunday morning was bright and clear and the usual large camp meeting audience greeted the preacher at 10:30. The service was held in the spacious outdoor auditorium. Following the opening service of worship, which included two solos by Justin Lawrie, words of greeting were spoken briefly by Rev. I. W. LeBaron, the new headmaster of East Greenwich academy, who was introduced by Supt. Genter. The preacher of the morning was Rev. Edward E. Wells, superintendent of the Providence district. His discourse was founded on words in Revelation, 21:5, "Behold, I make all things new." The speaker found the truth of his text re-echoed in the marvellous changes in the world in the last 25 years. He felt that the advancement in the scientific discoveries and resultant inventions was finding a likeness in the present day ideals of our leaders in moral and Christian thinking. He urged, however, that the thing which should engage the church most directly is that newness of life which is realized when Jesus comes into one's life. The speaker took less time than camp meeting preachers usually require for a sermon but showed his genius in putting a great message into short and concise utterance.

Rev. Frank B. Adams, of Norwich, was the leader at the Stafford Springs house at 1 p. m.

Rev. Dr. Geo. H. Spencer, of Boston, was the preacher of Sunday afternoon. His sermon was based upon the words of Jesus in John 21:15, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me more than these?" The speaker interpreted this passage to mean that Jesus was asking Peter not if he loved him more than others loved him but if he loved him more than he loved aught else. Eloquently and convincingly the preacher set forth the call of Jesus to put God first in all affections and ambitions and closed with an appeal to men and women to hear the call of Christ.

A Sunday school was held on the ground at 4 p. m.

Justin Lawrie gave an address to the young people at the Epworth chapel at 6 p. m.

Dr. G. H. Birney was the preacher at the closing service Sunday evening.

The annual meeting of the Stafford Springs House association was held on Friday. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. Frank Chamberlain; vice president Rev. J. M. Von Deck; secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. D. Woodward.

Services have been held at 1 p. m., and 6 p. m., each day. The leader on Friday at 6 p. m. was the Rev. Delwyn H. Martin, of Jewett City. On Saturday, at 1 p. m., it was Dr. G. H. Birney; at 6 p. m. the meeting had to be omitted on account of the meeting of Camp Meeting association.

Dr. G. H. Birney, whose sermons and addresses have been so greatly enjoyed during the week, has been accompanied by his family which includes his wife, two daughters, the Misses Sarah and Mary Bernice, and a son, George H. Birney, Jr. They have occupied a cottage on Wesley circle.

NEW LONDON CITY MANAGER STOPS SUNDAY FISHING AT OCEAN BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24.—Acting on orders from City Manager William A. Holt, the police today caused all fishing from the pier at Ocean Beach to be stopped, much to the dissatisfaction of the several fishermen there. The ban, however, is for Sundays only, for fishing there will be permitted on other days.

The edict of City Manager Holt, it was said, was the result of the pier being littered by the fishermen and as a result of visitors there having made complaint because of its filthy condition. While there is no law to stop fishing on the Sabbath or any other day, the pier is city property and as such the police have control of it.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24.—Joseph Rondeau, a sailor, a member of the crew of U. S. S. Oglala, will be in the police court Monday charged with unlawful entry, upon complaint of Lieut. Douglas Gladding, stationed at the submarine base and residing at 43 West street. In default of a surety on his bond of $500, Rondeau was committed to jail to await trial. Rondeau had been drinking Friday night and during the early hours of Saturday morning he went to West street, where he entered a parked automobile. The sailor removed his clothing, except his underwear, and attempted to sleep. Probably because of the low temperature, Rondeau could not slumber, so he alighted and went to the residence of Lieutenant Gladding. Finding a window open, Rondeau climbed through the opening. He was heard in the room by Lieutenant Gladding, who took his 45-calibre revolver and made an investigation. Rondeau was found in the room which he had entered and was detained until the arrival of Sergt. John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer Arthur Feeley, who had been sent to the house in response to Lieutenant Gladding's telephone complaint. It was intended to turn the prisoner over to the custody of the naval authorities, but Lieutenant Gladding insisted that Rondeau be presented in court.

Sergeant Samuel Hick, Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy, Louis Tooker and Louis Wheeler were assigned to make the raid. She pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs. Mrs. Turski was arrested late Friday night when she attempted to make a delivery of hooch at the residence of Morris Lubchansky, 77 John street. J., were in the police court Saturday, the former charged with breach of the peace and the latter with the illegal use of automobile markers. Hathaway was fined $10 and costs. Christensen waived extradition and started back for Camden following the adjournment of court. Hathaway and Christensen came to New London last Tuesday in an automobile they had hired in Camden last Sunday, the auto having been rented for a day only. DANIELSON

FORMER DANIELSON MAN CENTER OF POLITICAL STRIFE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 24—Fred C. Burroughs, long a resident here and one of the founders of Burroughs and Hopkins, which has done, and continues to do, business here for many years is in the storm center of one of the biggest political rows that has broken out in Rhode Island for years, the affair being one that is attracting statewide interest in the neighbor state.

Mr. Burroughs, a resident of Central Falls and a member of the republican state central committee for Rhode Island, has revealed what is described as a desperate plan to put the city of Central Falls in bondage, in the sense of absolute control, politically, by what is known as the Franco-Polish bloc of citizens, represented by a considerable number of members of the city government.

Mr. Burroughs says he has documentary evidence, safely kept in a safe deposit box in a Providence bank, to substantiate his charges. He avers that one document is made up of demands that Police Chief James McCarthy, Probate Judge Charles A. Risk, City Attorney Lawrence F. Nolan and Mr. Burroughs resign their positions, and that the Franco-Polish common council members be guaranteed the privilege of filling their places in municipal posts.

The paper is alleged to bear the signatures of Mayor Adelard St. George, State Representatives Leo Mayhard and Philip Chartier, John L. Roberts, Francis Adamski, Albert F. Courtois, Oscar H. Poulin and Joseph A. Pion.

Because of the refusal of regular members of the common council to become parties to the compact when it was presented to them at a meeting in a Providence hotel last January, the police chief is now said to be in danger of being falsely indicted on what are termed concocted charges of accepting bribes for supposed immunity from police interference with illicit business said to be going on in the city.

This week end Mr. Burroughs, an outstanding political figure in Central Falls for more than 20 years, was at Scarboro Beach in Maine, but is expected back in Central Falls the first of the week. He has promised at that time to produce the documents that he declares upholds his contention that the Franco-Polish group are trying their very best to gain absolute control of the Central Falls city government.

The situation has attracted the attention of the entire daily press of Rhode Island, and was featured front page material in today's issue of Providence papers.

Real Estate: I have several excellent values in real estate both suburban and local, cottages, two tenement houses and small farms. J. C. Witter.—adv.

Ludwik Gugyka, about 38 years of age and a mill worker at Goodyear, was held in a cell at the state police barracks on North Main street today, facing charges of assault of an indecent nature and rape. He will be presented in the town court Tuesday. The man is unmarried.

Gugyka was arrested following accusations made against him by Dyonzy Romiak, 45, and also of Goodyear. Both men were in the town court here Saturday morning, each charged with intoxication and each with assault. The pair had been engaged in a fight Friday night. Each received a sentence of 90 days, execution of the sentences being suspended.

After the court session Romiak made accusations against Gugykas that were investigated by state officers. A check-up was made. Five children, one of them the 8 year old daughter of Romiak, another a girl of 13 years of age, appear to have been victims of the prisoner's unnatural attention. What appears to be a strong case has been built up against Gugykas.

High speed in getting in touch with the state police of the Danielson barracks from any point in the Willimantic telephone division has been made possible by the hooking up of a direct wire from the Willimantic telephone office to the Danielson barracks. This wire is now working. The call number is Willimantic 26. It may be called exactly like a local number, and there will be no charge to the user. In the near future a similar wire will be in operation between the local barracks and the territory of the Putnam telephone division. The Danielson wire, of course, has long since been in service.

At the present time wiring is being done for the installation of a teletype machine at the barracks on North Main street, this device keeping the officers there in touch with all police developments throughout the state all of the time.

PUTNAM

MUCH SPECULATION AS TO TRANSPORTATION AWARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 24—There is considerable speculation among the city's various taxi concerns at the present, as to which one will be awarded the school board's contract for the transporting of rural children to school. The year officially commences on Tuesday, September 2 and as yet the matter has not been disposed of, it was learned today. According to the calendar of the school board, the next meeting of its members is not scheduled until September 23. This leaves a possibility that a special session may be called for the purpose of considering proposals of various concerns and the awarding of the contract.

The independent Putnam Taxi company has performed the duty for the past few years, and its service has apparently met with the approval of the transportation committee, inasmuch as contract renewals have been given that firm each year.

This year the school work has attracted the attention of the management of other taxi concerns, who it is understood are submitting proposals for the work. A meeting of the school committee was held last week but there was no mention of the reported rural school transportation problem listed among notes handed out for publication, following the meeting.

This matter is left entirely with the committee on transportation, whose responsibility it is to recommend a reliable firm for the work. The board generally acts upon the recommendation submitted by the committee.

Children who are transported to school in the town chartered cars come from the Putnam Heights section, the territory in the vicinity of Sabin street, in the Little River section of the city and East Putnam. While the paramount object and requirement of the concern in possession of the contract, is to carry the students safely to school, another major factor is the punctual delivery of pupils. The Putnam Taxi company during the years it has been serving the educational department, has established a record which is free from accident or a tardy mark.

Four Negroes escaped serious injury and possible death late Saturday evening when a roadster car in which they were riding, skidded on the curve in front of the Anderson home on the Putnam-Springfield highway in South Woodstock, swerved across the road, climbed an embankment and wrapped itself around a telephone pole. The passengers, all men, escaped with minor bruises, for which they were treated at the Day Kimball hospital. Andrew Pappas of Pawtucket, R. I., owner of the car was injured more seriously than were his companions. He was taken to the hospital where he remained overnight and was discharged this afternoon.

The other occupants of the car were: Frank Veiga, the driver; William Coutere, and Edward Almeida, all of Pawtucket. Each sustained bruises about the face and body.

Veiga was arrested by State Officer James Carmody of the Danielson barracks, who investigated and found the man to be operating the car without a license. He is also charged with reckless driving and will be arraigned before Justice A. R. Scranton, Jr., in South Woodstock court Monday afternoon.

John H. "Jack" Cronin, one time ground-gaining ace of the Boston college eleven, and for the past few years a back field mainstay of the National Football league team, The Providence Steamrollers, has received an order to report for practice with the team on September 8. Cronin is a resident of this city and lives on Quinebaug avenue. Since he signed with the Rollers three years ago, his name has appeared in the line-up of nearly every contest, and it is certain that he will be given a berth in the backfield for the forthcoming season.

Jack is well known in Putnam and has a large following not only among local fans, but is also a popular favorite of the professional football enthusiasts who enjoy his gridiron performances. During the summer season, Jack has been a counseler at the St. Mary's Boy Scout camp at Laurel pond and during the tour of field duty of the Headquarters company, he served with the outfit at Camp Devens, as a corporal. Cronin is a team-mate of "Pop" Williams of Danielson, former Killingly high and Connecticut Aggies grid ace, who found his way into the Rollers line-up last season. "Pop" was recalled last week.

Upon a ruling handed down by Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling of New Britain, in which it was stipulated that a reflector is a necessary piece of equipment for a motor vehicle by day, as well as by night, Philip Laporte of North Grosvenordale was fined $1 and costs when found guilty of a charge of driving a commercial vehicle not equipped with such a reflector. The case was presented by State Officer Elton T. Nolan of Danielson barracks and was tried before Justice P. P. Tourtellotte in North Grosvenordale, Saturday morning. An appeal of the fine was made to the superior court for trial at the next term having criminal jurisdiction. Laporte maintained his innocence and acting as his own counsel demanded a ruling on the matter from the office of the attorney general. He also entered his own appeal.

The basement court room of Justice Tourtellotte was filled with spectators interested in the trial of two Grosvenordale boys who were to have been presented on charges growing out of their alleged violation of the Volstead act. Also slated for trial was the case of a Quinebaug farmer, under arrest on a charge of arson. Both cases were continued until next week.

Insurance adjusters have inspected the damaged chimney and roof at the Israel Putnam school on School street, which was caused last Saturday when a bolt of lightning struck the building during a storm. With the announcement that a settlement has been made, the building committee of the school board has made arrangements for immediate repairs in order that the building will be in condition for the opening of the academic year on September 2.

This week will see the completion of all repair work which has been underway in all schools during the greater part of the summer months. All class rooms, and corridors at Putnam high school have been brightened with paint and desks and other furniture have been groomed with varnish. The auditorium on the second floor has had its former lustre restored by complete redecoration. The rural schools too, were included in the general overhauling, inside and out, which was undertaken this year under the direction of John H. Bulger, chairman of the school board's building committee.

Within another week, Putnam will be more conveniently united with the territory patrolled by the Danielson barracks of state police. Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer announced this afternoon. This achievement will be brought about with the linking of inter-exchange calls from the local telephone switch board with the "PBX" board now in service at the police barracks. A Putnam number will be given the barracks, and the police may be called without the calling party being obliged to pay a regular toll fee. Such facilities are now in service between Danielson and the Willimantic exchange.

JEWETT CITY

RAILROAD SITUATION HOPELESS AND INTRICATE

Jewett City people read with interest in Saturday's Bulletin of the situations in which Webster and Southbridge find themselves, now that these two thriving Massachusetts cities have been virtually wiped off the map by the highhatted decree of the New Haven railroad. While considering the body blow which has been dealt these two municipalities local people are saying, remembering their own discomfiture when they, too, like Norwich and Danielson, were crossed off the map, what are they going to do about it? During the period when local resentment at the summary action of the railroad was the hottest, a grand effort was made at redress, and several near-by communities joined in and petitioned the public utilities commission. Jewett City was carefully canvassed for the purpose of securing a list of worthwhile objections, in order that the New Haven railroad might be called to account by some power higher than itself; if, indeed, such authority was to be located. It didn't amount to Hannah Cook. Now this little burg, with several others of more importance, is still struggling along and using bus transportation, just as Webster and Southbridge willl probably be obliged to do. The Putnam correspondent stated Saturday that nowhere in the country can tickets for rail transportation be purchased for either Webster or Southbridge, which is entirely true, with Jewett City in the same box. That fact is by no means the most deplorable part of the situation. The big rail people, after they cross off settlements from their time tables, appear to forget where those towns are actually located. To illustrate—A couple of months ago, Miss Elizabeth Dealey, of Manchester, N. H., for many years a resident here, went into the South station in Boston where she made known her desire to get to Jewett City. The official behind the ground glass sold her a ticket, all rail, to New London and told her that buses would take her from that point. This agent of the railroad appeared to have overlooked the direct route over the Midland division to Putnam, 61 miles by rail, then 24 by bus to her desired destination. Via New London, the distance is 108 miles by rail and 24 by bus to Jewett City. Some would wonder whether the long-haul ticket was deliberately selected, or otherwise. It would have been a saving of several hours and several dollars had Miss Dealey been routed the shorter way. The printed information also says that the petition is to be signed by the "selectmen." The local petition bore the signatures of the selectmen; yes, and the selectwomen, also. When it comes to the show-down the railroad company will produce a list of traffic revenues as long as a present-day freight train, to prove that this steam line or that gasoline pike is not paying the cost of operation. Result—No public utilities commission in the country is going to issue compulsory orders of operation, in the face of definite proof that it is a losing proposition.

CELERITY IN TRANSFER TO NEW SAVINGS BANK

Following the close of business Saturday afternoon, the Jewett City Savings bank moved into its new home, corner of Ashland and Main streets. At 3 o'clock an armored car of the International Detective Service, with an accompanying armed guard, backed up to the main entrance of the bank. Several men quickly transferred gold, silver, currency and negotiable securities amounting to $40,000 from the vaults to the waiting van. Within the space of 15 minutes the transfer was completed and the cash and other valuable papers were safely placed in the big steel vault at the new bank, the doors were closed, the great bolts slid into place and the time locks set. During the 30 minutes that both vaults were open the bank carried $50,000 insurance on the funds, effective during the transfer. E. E. Gilbert had six men and two trucks, acting under his orders, and his assistant, H. E. Olsen. They transferred the ledgers, savings account records, loans, deeds and all other banking books without incident. There was neither delay nor confusion, and today (Monday) the bank is open at 9 a. m. for business in its fine and modern new home. At a date not as yet determined there is to be a formal opening of the new banking house.

ASHLAND WATER CARNIVAL THRILLS BIG GALLERY

In weather much more suitable for an ice carnival, the annual water sports program of the Ashland club was run off Friday evening as scheduled. Even the crowd of 700 assembled shivered through the long list of events, but stayed to the finish.

The entry list was the largest to ever take part in this annual meet and the various events were exceptionally closely contested.

The first event was that of the children still under instruction and what a race this one was! Winnie Shorey, aged 8, was the girl winner and it was necessary to swim another heat to decide the boy winner as Joe Skoczylas and John Rosal finished in a tie in the first. Joe won the second heat and the boy's prize.

The young girls' relay was next and Mary Laframboise and Peggy Strickland were winners.

The men's backstroke furnished an unexpected thrill with seven starters and was won by Joe Golas with Stanley Grabofski second. It was a spectacular event with every entrant in the running all the way.

The Black Aces, Stanley Koziol, Steven Cholewa, Henry Magruder and Joe Zubroski, won the junior relay race over four other entries. This was a pretty race with the lead changing several times. The Ashland Boys' band team was second.

The women's relay race with entries closed to Ashland was another pretty race. The Weave Shop team, Stella Shorey, Sophie Burda, Lea Brochu and Estelle Ethier, were winners over the Warpers and the Winders, in the order named.

Dominick Slonski was winner of the boys' underwater swim, with Eugene Shorey second.

Apparently the big event of the program from a standpoint of advance enthusiasm, was the relay for men, a special race between the Jewett City team and a quartet picked from Ashland. Jewett City, Roland Guillett, Stanley Grabofski, Joe Kleman and Andrew Minorek, were the winners by just a few inches over Ed Gromko, Theodore Raill, Mat Solenski and Ray Greene.

In the boys' 50-yard dash, Edward Richardson was winner and Edmond Wolzak finished second, in an exciting battle with six starters.

No prettier race was ever staged than the 50-yard dash for men, in which Roland Guillet won, with Ray Greene less than a stroke behind him. At no time during this race was there more than two feet separating this pair, who are undoubtedly the best swimmers in eastern Connecticut.

With the atmosphere getting colder every minute as the sun passed out of sight, and the swimmers less eager to enter the battle, two events were scratched and the special diving exhibition by the Ashland Diving troupe was presented as the final number of a most successful aquatic meet.

The troupe members were Mary Laframboise, Roland Guillett, Geney Shorey and P. W. Chase. Geney was a whole show in himself, as he arrived in his private steam boat. All togged out with stove-pipe hat and long-tailed coat, his new parachute dive and submarine act won roars of applause from the delighted gallery. The steam boat, made by the boys, arrived on schedule, under full power with flames and black smoke streaming from the stack.

Those in charge of the program were: P. W. Chase, announcer; "Doc" Gingras, starter; Frank Kusek and Romeo Silva, judges; John Burda, clerk.

BOY FRACTURES SKULL WHEN JOLTED FROM CAR

Charles Wisniewcki, aged 10, of Uncasville, was taken to the Lena hospital, New London, Saturday evening, suffering from a fractured skull. The injury was received when the boy was a passenger with his brother John, who was steering a Ford car, being towed by a Hudson car which was operated by another brother Theodore, on the New London-Norwich highway near the Johnson ice house. The accident happened when the Ford car had a blowout and the youth looked over the side of the car to see which tire had blown out. While leaning over, he fell head first on the cement highway.

MORE RAIL SERVICE DROPPED

Southbridge is one of the Massachusetts cities which has been added to the communities from and to which the New Haven road has discontinued passenger transportation. It is added to the list of cities and towns along the Norwich & Worcester branch as being deprived of the long standing passenger and mail service.

The branch line to Southbridge included Webster and in the opinion of the Springfield Republican the "selectmen of Webster and Southbridge are justified in their aggressive steps to have their railroad passenger service restored." It further declares that "It is difficult to see why the New Haven should obliterate two Massachusetts towns from their railroad map so far as passenger, mail and express service is concerned. If the towns receive no satisfactory assurances from the railroad, they should bring the matter to the attention of the public utilities department. . . . On the other hand, railway mail officials should be asked to give the railroads the maximum amount of mail transportation in order to preserve passenger service."

Here is a situation on a par with that which has prevailed for months through the entire eastern end of Connecticut and presumably for the same reason. Putnam and Norwich have displayed their opposition to the loss of passenger, mail and express service by rail. Efforts to have it restored have not been successful, nothing having developed since the joint session of protest that was held in this city. What became of them? Did someone get cold feet?

Whether anything different will be obtained by the activities of the communities in the neighboring state remains to be seen, but it is apparent that Massachusetts towns are quite as much disturbed by the termination of such service as are those in Connecticut. There is furnished now a chance for a joining of the forces in the communities of the two states for the restoration of the lost rail service.

ILLINOIS' REFERENDUM

In the state of Illinois the decision has been reached to have a referendum on the repeal of the 18th amendment. The people of that state are going to be given the chance to express themselves upon this much discussed question in order that there may be some definite knowledge as to their attitude. This may be based upon their general attitude toward prohibition or upon their views as the result of the operation of the dry law, but it will provide a means of determining what the people of Illinois want.

As it is now it is possible for the supporters of either side to insist that Illinois is favorably disposed to their viewpoint. Illinois has ratified the amendment but it has had much time in which to study the problem since that time.

The wet and dry question promises to play an important part in Illinois this fall. The democrats have put forward a dripping wet platform. In the fight for United States senator the democratic candidate is known as a wet. The republican candidate is known as a dry. What can be expected of the democratic candidate is indicated by the platform. That that will be neutralized by the republican candidate declaring full support to the dry referendum is expected. That means that if the people of the state show by their vote that they want the 18th amendment repealed the republican candidate for United States senator stands ready to work to that end, even though personally inclined to be a dry.

Thus it remains for the people of Illinois to indicate what they want, to let it be known where the majority stands instead of having both sides claiming majority support without anything definite to back it up.

It is just this service that a referendum on the amendment can render and is expected to render in that commonwealth. It is a common practice to claim that because a law exists it has majority support. That doesn't always hold true, but the situation can be cleared up by giving the people a chance to express themselves.

ANDREE'S FATE

Three decades ago there was such a strong conviction that a balloon could be sccessfully sent over the North pole, or the polar regions, that August Andree fitted out an expedition and made a start with two companions. That was virtually the last seen of them. Messages released soon after their departure were received but their subsequent course and their fate were never known.

After due time it became apparent that they had become the victims of their hazardous undertaking, but whether they had descended safely, whether they had been wrecked and where they were located remained a mystery. All that existed to guide those who went in search and those who looked for further evidences of their existence were the early messages indicating the direction in which they were being blown.

The discovery of the bodies of Andree and one of his companions on an island in Nansen land recalls the intrepid explorer, and the hope is that there has also been recovered a decipherable diary kept by the aeronaut which will tell the whole story of what happened. On different occasions following their disappearance endeavors were made to find some trace of them, but all were unsuccessful. The polar regions are so vast that without some definite information as to a possible location of those lost, or a course which they are known to have followed, great difficulties are encountered by searchers.

How long Andree and his companion lived on the island where they were found will probably never be known unless there is some written record of their experiences. That they landed safely is indicated by the fact that their bodies were found in the remains of a camp though the fate of the third member of the party is still a mystery.

These are not the only polar explorers who have given up their lives in such a dangerous undertaking. They are not the only ones who have been missing for such a long period, but the finding of their bodies serves to strengthen the belief that some day the fate of others will be unexpectedly disclosed. Such, however, doesn't serve to increase the enthusiasm in polar explorations, though the facilities today are far greater than those when Andree set forth.

GAS TAX FOR ROADS

When the government bureau of public roads issues warning to the effect that the proceeds of the gas tax should be restricted to the building and maintenance of roads, it must be regarded as on solid ground.

The placing of a tax on gasoline has been resorted to in all states. The amount of the tax varies but the tax had received support and been put through because of the fact that the proceeds were to be devoted to operations which would directly benefit those paying the tax as well as some who do not pay, but opposition to it has always melted away because of the advantages secured.

Now it appears that there are states which are departing from that practice. They are taking part of the gas tax for other purposes. To be sure, they are of a public character, but that simply means that the drivers of motor vehicles are being taxed to provide benefits for others equally benefited and possibly equally able to pay but not required to because they do not operate a motor vehicle. This represents an unfair method of taxation and one which can be expected to arouse the opposition of motor vehicle owners.

The federal bureau of roads may have been prompted in its warning by the fact that Alabama is using part of the gas tax to swell the general funds of cities, because Florida is taking $2,000,000 out a year for schools and public buildings, and in other ways the states of Michigan, Georgia and New Jersey are drawing on the gas tax money for other purposes than road building. This is simply placing a greater burden upon an already heavily burdened class of taxpayers and the insistence upon the use of the gas tax for construction and maintenance of roads is the proper one.

ENDING LENIENCY

In the effort to make and keep the highways safe it is being found that all highway users must be included. In other words, it isn't a few but all the users of a roadway who must cooperate in respecting regulations and the rights of others if desired results are to be obtained.

In the city of Philadelphia it is being found that the drivers of busses have been creating a situation which called for special attention, and the commission which has charge of the Delaware river bridge has undertaken a campaign to eliminate the menace which they have been creating on that structure. After having prosecuted 13 in one day and announced that the recklessness of a bus driver had caused the death of a good bridge policeman, the commission through its counsel declared that "there will be no more warnings."

Evidently the commission had been basking in the belief that it could rely upon the giving of warnings to bus drivers as a means of bringing them to respect the law. By their experience they have found that the practice was seized upon by such drivers as meaning that they could do about as they pleased, play fast and loose with regulations and escape with a warning.

Warnings are well enough up to a certain time. They are justified in the case of strangers but with those using highways and bridges daily as part of their business it is to be expected that they will know and conform to requirements. Having found that advantage was being taken of their leniency, the commission has wisely decided to end its part in such an uncertain situation and henceforth it is going to be a case of living up to requirements by all or prosecution. Conditions on the highway or the bridges should improve.

DOUGHNUTS.

The aristocratic-looking woman in black, who had been unable to get a seat in the parlor car, drew the skirt of her coat closer and moved nearer the window as a thick-set man took the vacant seat at her side. He was a middle-aged man, slightly bald, wearing a checked suit and a flamboyant tie.

"Pretty cold weather we're having for this time of year. Looks as though we might have snow," presently he ventured.

"Yes," assented the woman with a slight inclination of her head.

"I wonder if I'm not going to get an evening paper until we get into Chicago." There was no response, and receiving no encouragement to continue the conversation, he looked over his fellow passengers, studied the time-table and finally drew from his breast pocket a photograph, at which he gazed long and intently.

As the woman changed her position her eyes suddenly met the smiling eyes of the boy in the photograph; smiling eyes looking joyously into life keen for adventure. His face riveted her attention. The man, quick to observe, moved the photograph toward her

"Pretty good looking boy, ma'am?"

"Yes, indeed." was the cordial reply. "Your son?"

"Sure, Cyrus Quigley Green. I'm Cyrus Green. Quigley is for his mother's side of the family. I tell you ma'am, he's a jolly little chap, smart as a whip, never been sick a day in his life."

He talked on, experiencing a glow of pleasure in finding an appreciative listener.

"An only child, I judge," commented his hearer.

"Why, yes."

"That's unfortunate. My boy was an only child and I know now that he had many lonely hours."

The man's face clouded.

"How old is he?"

"He'll be 8 a week from Sunday I'm going to buy him his first skates."

"And there will be a birthday dinner and a birthday cake with eight pink candles—no, nine; one to grow on," added the woman in a gentle, reminiscent tone.

"I suppose so," said the man bitterly, as he returned the photograph to his breast pocket, "but I won't be there."

"I'm sorry. Later on in life these anniversaries become precious memories and I'm sure your boy will miss you."

"Oh, he'd be glad to have me there all right. I was in hopes my wife would invite me to dinner on his birthday, but nothing was said about it.

"You see my wife and I separated two years ago, never did know what the trouble was. I've been on the road most of the time since, but now I've settled in Chicago to be near the boy. Been out there today, Cedarville, to take him to a football game between his school and Middletown. And, say, what that little fellow doesn't know about football. He was tickled, too, to be with his father; craned his neck to be sure all the boys saw him. When we went home from the game my wife thought he'd been out enough for today but nothing would do but that he must go with me to the train."

A paroxysm of coughing interrupted Cyrus Green's remarks for the moment. Then he continued:

"I got rather chilled sitting out of doors all the afternoon. My wife wanted to know if I had got into my winter flannels. Never thought of them."

"Are you doing anything for your cough?" was the polite inquiry.

"Well, no; I'm apt to take cold in the fall. Last year I doctored all winter, but it didn't seem to do any good. Now, Mary, that's my wife, used to make me a thick, sirupy kind of tea, I've forgotten the name of it, flavored with lemon, and give it to me hot as I was going to bed and that did the business every time. Do you know, ma'am, when we went back to the house my wife had been frying doughnuts and she never offered me a doughnut. Now wouldn't you have thought she would have offered me a doughnut? And my wife always made such good doughnuts."

"Did you ever tell your wife that she made good doughnuts?" asked the woman in her quiet voice.

"Why, n-no. I don't know as I ever did."

For the rest of the trip they were silent—the women looking out of the window watching in the dimming light the flying landscape; Cyrus Green, absorbed in thought, sinking deeper into his seat.

As the train moved into the station he turned toward her.

"I'm glad to have met you, ma'am. Your question about the doughnuts set me to thinking I guess there were lots of things I should have told Mary that I didn't. Maybe that was the trouble." And then in a scarcely audible tone, as he rose from his seat, "maybe it's not too late now."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Minor Infections And Blood Poison

By William B. Marbury, M. D., Washington

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The pin stick of the finger today may, unless properly treated, result in a blood poison case in a very short time.

Pain, swelling, redness and heat are the usual symptoms of infection. The first of these, pain, is the most important. When pain is present, it should always serve as a warning that the infection should have expert medical attention. When it is the throbbing type and so severe as to cause loss of sleep, you may be sure that pus is forming—that infection is present.

Pus, when not allowed to escape, spreads along the line of least resistance, often to the deeper tissues. We have all seen red or purple streaks extending up the arm in the case of an infected hand. This is a danger sign—it means a spreading infection. Simultaneously we note kernels appearing above the elbow or in the armpit. These may be considered as way stations, as they prevent, at least for a time, the spreading of the infection into the general circulation, resulting in blood poison.

Closed wounds or so-called puncture wounds are more dangerous than open wounds. All closed wounds, such as a nail puncture of the foot should be opened and cauterized. In other words, an infected wound should be allowed to heal from the bottom up and not just close over in a crust or scab. This should be done as pus under a scab cannot drain to the surface and may spread to surrounding tissues. A wet dressing over the wound is the best method to prevent scab formation.

Of particular danger are the infections which have their beginning in the region of the upper lip and within the nose. They should never be picked or squeezed as the germs may travel the short distance to the sinus along a vein to the brain. It is much safer to cause a boil or pimple to discharge by application of hot compresses.

The usual treatment for infections is localization of the infection by heat, then opening the wound aseptically and draining it. Infections of the hand or foot are soaked in a hot water bath, and hot compresses, frequently wrung out of the solution, are applied to infections on other parts of the body. Common table salt, one tablespoonful to a pint of water, may be added as a disinfectant, but it is the heat and moisture that do the greatest good.

The principal thing to remember is that any case of infection is a potential [illegible] of blood poison and should have the prompt attention of your family physician. Delay in seeking scientific treatment frequently leads to serious difficulty and sometimes death.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Bent on carrying further his pursuit for odd bits form recollections of his veteran colleagues of the Washington press gallery, the Bystander suddenly remembered that Henry Suydam, long Washington writer from the Brooklyn Eagle once was in the state department.

That was back in the days of the Washington naval conference and it seemed possible Henry might have something to contribute.

It was a good idea, but not so productive, for Henry is right conservative. He still has scruples about telling tales out of school, though he graduated from that government job school years ago.

Startling

Suydan was the state department publicity man, or "Chief of Current Information," as that department prefers to have its publicity set-up known.

He established the first contact with white house press conferences. He kept right on attending 'em, only reported happenings to the department instead of to a newspaper.

And at least twice he must have been present when President Harding made statements offhand that set the state department by the ears.

Once the president casually expressed the notion that his "association of nations" idea, launched during his front porch presidential campaigning in Marion, might well be advanced by the Washington arms conference meeting.

That was a rather startling assertion to be broadcast in American papers, not to Americans perhaps, but to members of the foreign delegations to the Washington conference.

All of their governments were members of the League of Nations and this looked like a counter organization plan, aimed to sweep away the league.

They made haste to ask Secretary Hughes about it, particularly the head of the delegation from the Netherlands who happened to be the then president of the assembly of the league.

Smoothed Out

It was all straightened out, of course, and assurance given that no deep-laid plot against the league was in hand, but a bit later, if memory serves, Mr. Harding said something about the Pacific non-fortification treaty aspect of the Wahsington agreements then being worked out that was even more confusing.

And following the adjustment of that difficulty, the old habit of asking a president questions at his press conferences was radically changed. The system of written questions, handed in before the conference, came in vogue. It still is in vogue in modified form under President Hoover.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Reddy Makes a Slight Mistake

The best of us at times will make
A foolish or a grave mistake.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox is a patient fellow. He is an exceedingly patient fellow when he has something to gain by being patient. Just now, he lay hidden by the old stone wall on the edge of the Old Orchard, hoping that Impy the black Chipmunk would show himself. It was partly curiosity that had brought Reddy there. He had heard of that black Chipmunk and he was anxious to see him. At the same time, he hoped that he would be able to catch Impy.

Reddy kept his eyes on the old stone wall in the direction of Striped Chipmunk's home. You see, he knew where Striped Chipmunk was in the habit of disappearing between the stones of the old wall to reach his home down underneath and he felt sure that the black Chipmunk was living in the same place. For a long time nothing happened. Then he saw the head of Striped Chipmunk pop up from behind a big stone. A moment later Striped Chipmunk was sitting up on that stone. Reddy hoped that Striped Chipmunk would come in his direction. He wanted to see that black Chipmunk, but he wouldn't miss the chance of catching Striped Chipmunk if he got it.

Striped Chipmunk sat for quite a while without moving. He was enjoying a sun bath. Finally he turned and, to Reddy's disappointment, raced away along the top of the old stone wall in the opposite direction. Reddy sighed with disappointment. It was a sort of inside sigh, a silent sigh. He was far too clever to sigh in a way that might be heard. How he did hope that that black Chipmunk would come out soon. But when after a long time Impy did not appear, Reddy began to wonder if perhaps he were making a mistake and that Impy was not living in the home of Striped Chipmunk, but had made a home for himself somewhere.

"I guess the thing for me to do," said Reddy to himself, "is to use this nose of mine to discover if there is more than one place in the old wall that is being used right along by Chipmunks. Of course, I am likely to find many places where they once in a while go in or come out between the stones, but if there is any other one place, excepting that one that I know leads to Striped Chipmunk's home, being used regularly, I ought to be able to find it."

So Reddy got to his feet and, as he did so, he looked back in the direction of the Green Forest—the direction from which he had come. His heart gave a little leap. He had caught a glimpse of something black. It was only a glimpse, but he was sure that what he had seen was black. Very, very carefully Reddy began to steal forward. With each step he stopped to look and listen. Little by little he moved along. He had not seen that black thing again. He was sure that it was Impy and that Impy had simply disappeared between the stones somewhere. When he reached the place where he thought he had seen it, he stopped, and there he crouched ready to spring.

At last his patience was rewarded. He heard the faintest of sounds—nothing more than the rustle of a leaf. And then he saw something small and black—as black as the blackest thing he had ever seen. It appeared for an instant from between two stones of the old wall and then disappeared. Reddy took two steps forward and crouched ready to spring. He waited, holding his breath. Once more it appeared and Reddy sprang as only Reddy can. He felt sure that he would have Impy the black Chipmunk as a reward for patience. An instant later Reddy discovered that he had made a slight mistake.

Stories That Recall Others

Improving the Talkies

Visitors at a summer camp were entertained during a talking picture which was given for the boys, by a custom of the group. Whenever the symbol of the picture company, a roaring lion, appeared, the boys would watch very carefully, and each time the lion's mouth opened to roar, a most lifelike sound would swell forth from the throats of the young listeners, perfectly timed with the movements of the lion, to the immense satisfaction of the boyish participants in the "talkie."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Stamford Rubber Supply Company, Stamford.

In August 1900, a new industry was incorporated to treat oils for the rubber manufacturer. From a start in a small box factory on Crosby street it grew until it now occupies larger quarters on its present site on the east side of the canal.

The product of the company is known in the rubber trade as "Factice" and is used by manufacturers of rubber goods to compound with crude rubber in producing the finest rubber articles. For this purpose factice plays an important role as it possesses the quality of prolonging the life of the compound and of producing a smooth velvety finish with attendant advantages of making the grinding and mixing of the compound earier for the man at the mill.

Factice is vulcanized vegetable oil. The process consists of solidifying various vegetable oils by mixture with sulphur or sulphur chloride. It resembles rubber somewhat in appearance and is quite resilient. While used chiefly as a compounding ingredient, factice is used also in special moulded forms by manufacturers of surgical appliances and as an eraser for pencil marks.

The present officers of the company are: R. H. Gillespie, president; W. F. Gillespie, secretary and treasurer; R. H. B. Fuller, sales manager; K. A. Gillespie, Tech. manager.

RURAL CARRIER RETIRES AFTER 40 YEARS SERVICE

After a record of 40 years in the U. S. postal service, James E. Bennett, R. F. D. letter carrier from the Old Lyme postoffice for 12 years, will retire with a pension Aug. 31. Carrier Bennett entered the postal service as substitute letter carrier in New York city in 1890. Within a few months he was appointed regular postman and served until 1917, when he asked to be transferred to the R. F. D. service at Old Lyme. He owned a place in the Sterling City section of Hamburg, near where he used to come as a boy with his mother and spend the summer months, and he and his wife wished to leave New York and make Sterling City their home. He acted as temporary R. F. D. carrier for a while as the route was without a carrier and was appointed regular carrier in 1918.

He has served the route faithfully and well and the patrons will greatly miss him. The route is over 28 miles and as Mr. Bennett lives over five miles from the Old Lyme postoffice this made his mileage about 40 miles daily except Sundays and holidays.

TAFTVILLE DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER MACHINE KNOCKED DOWN POLE

Edward Kearns, of Riverside, Occum, narrowly escaped death at 4:15 o'clock Sunday morning, when the machine he was driving crashed into a telegraph pole on Merchants avenue, snapping it off at the base and then struck and smashed a large cornerstone, before it came to a stop on the lawn in front of the Sacred Heart rectory. A warrant was sworn out by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy Sunday evening for Kearns arrest on charges of evading responsibility and driving a machine without having an operators' license with him.

According to the story told Constable Louis A. Paquette, who investigated the crash, Ralph Hunt, of Norwich avenue, Taftville, was driving the machine in a westerly direction on Providence street when a tire went flat. Hunt drove up alongside of the curbing near the intersection of North Third avenue and Providence street and while investigating the flat tire, Kearns, it is claimed, jumped into the driver's seat and drove away, leaving Hunt behind. The latter started after the car but could not overtake it.

For a distance of about 200 feet the rims of the two wheels on the right side of the machine scraped against the curbing, throwing off nuts, bolts and lugs onto the sidewalk, highway and gutter. Several bolts and lugs were picked up by the officer, but none of the nuts could be found. Kearns continued up Providence street until he reached a point near the Sacred Heart church, when his car swerved to the left side of the road and collided with a telegraph pole, breaking it off at the base.

The machine, traveling along with the telegraph pole resting on the top of the car, crashed into the cornerstone in the driveway of the church rectory, after mounting the sidewalk and came to a stop on the lawn. Several of the wires carried by the pole were ripped off, disrupting the power service in the village until about 12.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The automobile got clear of the pole, which came to rest on the sidewalk, pulling down a guy wire, attached to a tree across the road, so that it was only about three or four feet above the road on the south side.

As soon as Constable Paquette arrived on the scene he had his son put a support under the wire, while he warned approaching cars of the danger. The automobile was a complete wreck with its top smashed, its front end stove in and the smashed windshield pushed back onto the steering wheel.

Kearns disappeared from the scene, but Constable Paquette took the registration number and learned from the state motor vehicle department that the machine was registered in the name of Louis Barton, R. D. 8, Norwich, Conn., who is at present at Fishers Island, N. Y. The constable learned that the machine was operated by Kearns and had City Attorney Cassidy draw out a warrant for his arrest.

Kearns was only slightly injured. The machine was towed away. The pole was replaced and the wires were repaired by men in the employ of the Ponemah Co.

As the aftermath of a three-cornered collision at the intersection of North Main street and Roath street, about 9 o'clock Sunday evening, William Pulaski, of 27 Garfield avenue, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will appear in city court this (Monday) morning. The charge was preferred against him by the operators of the other two machines involved, Thomas Baker of 55 Freemont street, and John G. Lebert of 145 Church street, Middletown.

The Pulaski machine is alleged to have struck the Lebert car in the rear when it was at a standstill and caused it to collide with the Baker car, which was also stopped, the driver waiting for the Lebert machine to turn into an alleyway at No. 108 North Main street. All three machines were considerably damaged in the crash. No one was injured. The collision was investigated by Officers Shahan, Dunion, Morrison and Crary.

Upon complaint of the New York woman he was arrested here Friday by State Police Officer John Smith of the Groton barracks. The money, it is charged, was deposited in a local bank by Kozlowski under his own name, following which he disappeared.

FOUR REGULAR MASSES AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

Late summer activities in St. Patrick's parish differ little from those of the remainder of the year. While many families and individuals are on vacation, strangers and visitors in town take their places, so that the congregations at the four masses are always large.

Yesterday, the 11th Sunday after Pentecost, was also the feast of St. Bartholomew, apostle. The epistle read in all the masses throughout the world was I Corinthians 12:27-31. The gospel was Mark 7:31-37, the miracle of the restoration of hearing and speech to the man deaf and dumb. Rev. James F. Dargan, who read the 9 o'clock mass, announced for the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, that the date of the opening of the parish school term and year would be given out next week. At this mass, Rev. John J. Reilly assisted Rev. Father Dargan in giving holy communion to the customary large number of penitents.

Special masses announced for the week included an anniversary mass Tuesday for James J. Leary and a month's mind mass Thursday for William T. Doyle.

The three altars and the sanctuary had been adorned by the Altar society members with vases and decorative baskets holding quantities of handsome gladioli.

Patrolman William J. Ryan, who continues to do traffic duty at the head of Otis street every Sunday, following the 9 o'clock mass, notices that while many local cars are missing, as owners are out of town, their places are taken by strangers driving through, who stop to attend masses, while on their way to country or shore.

STATE'S GRAND LIST IS OVER THREE BILLIONS

The total grand list of the 169 cities and towns of the state of Connecticut as of October 1, 1929, amounted to $3,010,379,596, according to figures made public Saturday at the state tax department. This represents an increase of $207,248,220 or 7.39 per cent over the grand list of 1928 which amounted to $2,803,131,366.

Hartford, with a grand list of $380,650,399 was the largest of any city in the state and compared with $366,056,845 in 1928. New Haven's grand list for 1929 was $330,201,877 and in 1928 it was $322,760,000. Bridgeport's list amounted to $267,509,479 as compared with $265,643,526 the previous year. Waterbury had a grand list of $170,203,651 as against $168,683,815 in 1928. The 1929 figures of other cities included New Britain, $117,193,175; Stamford, $141,628,063; Greenwich, $121,844,143; Bristol, $54,901,585; Meriden, $62,348,825.

The board of assessors of most of the towns in the state have until October 1 in which to prepare their lists of taxable properties, and then the boards of relief have until February to make additions or deductions. An additional three months is then allowed for the addition of such taxable properties as may be omitted by both these boards, which extended the time for submission of the 1929 lists for final compilation by the state tax department.

State-Owned Plane At Races

Connecticut aviation experts and enthusiasts will figure prominently at the national air races at the Curtiss-Wright-Reynolds airport in Chicago.

Representing the state at Chicago in an official capacity in place of Governor Trumbull, who is on a vacation, is Colonel L. H. Horner, governor for Connecticut of the National Aeronautic association. The state aviation commission is represented by Commissioner Clarence M. Knox and Deputy Commissioner Harry W. Generous.

Connecticut's aviation industry is well represented by a state-owned plane—a Vought "Corsair." Both the motor and the plane itself are Connecticut-made. Deputy Commissioner Generous piloted this plane to Chicago. He was accompanied by Commissioner Knox and carried the state flag. The flag has been hung over the airport and is in company of flags from other states.

HESS COMES EAST TO GIVE BATTLE TO CANZONERI

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—One of California's finest lightweights, Goldie Hess, comes east this week to show Atlantic seaboard boxing fans what he can do.

Hess battles Tony Canzoneri, rugged little New York Italian, in the ten round feature bout at the Queensboro stadium Tuesday night. The coast battler has waded through a host of formidable rivals and looms as a serious threat to Canzoneri's scheduled lightweight championship battle with Al Singer in Madison Square Garden Nov. 18.

The Hess-Canzoneri battle is the high spot of the week in the Metropolitan district. Elsewhere, however, there is no lack of interesting matches. Primo Carnera, the ambling Alp from Italy, takes on Ricardo Bertazzola, a second-rater, in a 15-round battle at the Atlantic City auditorium Saturday night.

TAYLOR'S SPECTACULAR STEAL OF HOME IN NINTH GIVES CUBS VICTORY OVER GIANTS

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—A cream-colored streak, a big cloud of dust, and young Dannie Taylor had stolen home in the ninth inning today and with it he snatched another ball game for the Cubs from the Giants.

The play, one of baseball's most sensational and one rarely seen, came in the ninth inning of the final game of the series today and gave the Cubs a breath-taking 3 to 2 triumph, to boost them five full games ahead of the pack in the National league championship struggle. It also was Chicago's third victory in the four-game series with the Manhattan maulers.

The Giants tied the score at 2-all in their half of the ninth and when Wilson popped out to open the Cub half, it appeared that another capacity crowd of 45,000 spectators would have to stick around in Wrigley Field for quite a while. But Taylor, a young man from West Newton, Pa., who doubled in the winning run in the final game of the Brooklyn series last week, got his second hit of the day, a single to left. He stole second and hustled on to third when Bob O'Farrell threw poorly in attempting to catch him.

Joe Heving, who had relieved Fred Fitzsimmons as New York's pitcher in the eighth, got his orders and walked Hartnett and Lester Bell filling the bases after Kelly had struck out, to get at Guy Bush, Cub hurler who had fanned twice. Heving got two strikes on Bush, then deliberately wound up and threw a wide one. Taylor started with the pitch and hit the plate so quickly that no effort was made to get him.

The stage obviously was all set for the play, for Bush leaped back out of the way, took one look and raced for the Cub bench.

The battle was as bitterly fought as a world series contest. The Giants needed a victory to give them an even break in the series, but Bush was accorded such brilliant support that, although he was hit fairly hard, the Giants were stalled off until the ninth before they could tie it up.

New York opened the scoring in the second inning on Ott's double and a single by Frank Hogan. Jackson also singled and Roettger walked, but Fitzsimmons hit into the first of the Cubs three double plays to end the inning.

The Cubs got the run back and another one with it in the fourth. Cuyler fanned, but Hack Wilson singled and Taylor made his first contribution, a double which sent Wilson to third. Kelly flied out but Gabby Hartnett smashed a single to center, scoring both runners.

Bush was in trouble several times from then on to the ninth, but Cuyler leaned back into the crowd to rob Lindstrom of a double in the sixth with Leach on, and Wilson backed into the spectators on the next play to snag Terry's booming drive. English kicked in with two fine stops, and all this help kept Bush on top until the ninth.

Terry started the Giant ninth with a single and hiked to third on Ott's single. O'Farrell hit into a double play, but Terry came in with the tying run.

The Giants slapped Bush for 11 hits, including a double by Ott. The Cubs however, could do little with Fred Fitzsimmons except in their scoring fourth. He gave only six hits before he was removed for a pinch-batsman in the eighth, but three of them were doubles—by Cuyler, Taylor and Kelly, he fanned seven men, to three by Bush.

Today's triumph gave the Cubs nine victories over New York in 19 games, and maintained their record of winning every series of the present home stand. The Boston Braves were beaten four times in a row. Philadelphia was beaten three times out of five and the Robins and Giants were subdued three out of four times each.

Marse Joe McCarthy's club will rest tomorrow, before breaking into a two game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday.

The series also accounted for a new National league attendance record for a four-game series—178,000 customers jamming Wrigley Field, to displace the mark of 159,000 who watched the Brooklyn series. The score:

ROCKVILLE BEATS ASHLAND IN EXCITING GAME

Sunday in the most interesting and exciting game played at Ashland park this year the fast All-Rockville team beat the Ashland A. A. 10 to 6. The game was replete with arguments that marred a long drawn out game.

After Rockville had scored two runs in the first inning with the aid of one hit, Ashland evened the count in their half when Nap. Liberty, "one of the best infielders in the state," crashed out the longest home run ever seen at Ashland park, scoring Burda who had singled.

Ashland had their best chance to win in the seventh when a rally was stopped by a double play after they had scored three runs.

For Rockville the fielding gem was furnished by L. Dogauricz when he ran into deep left field and with a marvelous catch robbed G. Jarvis of a home run.

For Ashland, Nap. Liberty showed the local fans some classy fielding climaxed by a spectacular side-arm throw while out of position.

Both starting pitchers worked well until their support cracked at critical moments; L. Jarvis relieved Gaudette while Genovin was sent to the showers in the seventh during Jewett City's rally and Weber finished for Rockville.

PIRATES DIVIDE HONORS IN DOUBLE BILL WITH REDS

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 24—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds snapped Pittsburgh's winning streak of seven straight by winning the second game of today's bargain bill 2 to 0 after losing the first 9 to 6. Kremer won his eighteenth victory of the season by pitching the Pirates to victory in the opener and also broke the Reds string of five straight triumphs complied in that many games with the faltered Robins. Ray Kolp and Steve Swetonic engaged in a tight pitchers battle in the night cap with Swetonic weakening in the seventh when the Reds scored twice after two were out on Swanson's double, Cuccinello's single, a walk to Heilmann and single by Crawford. BILLINGS RETURNS TO RING ON TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 24—Gene Billings, Goodyear battler who hasn't done any fighting for the past three years, but who was going great guns when he quit, will return to the squared circle here Tuesday night. Gene, who weighs in at around 155 pounds, is taking on George Veigant of Webster in his first come-back bout at the North Street arena. Veigant, it will be recalled, is the boy who plastered Kid Laframboise of Canterbury in one of the bouts on last Tuesday night's card.

The announcement relative to the return of Billings to the ring was made this afternoon by Promoter Louis Peloquin, and came as a surprise. He was not listed to appear in the original list of bouts given out two or three days ago. However, the fans are pleased to hear it.

Billings holds a decision over Leo Harrington, won in Providence, Harrington being a boy who went up to the finals in the National A. A. U. contests in Boston some time back. What induced him to get back into the game after a layoff of three years has not been explained, but coming back he is.

This afternoon up at the Peloquin gym on North street a score of boys were going through their training stunts, some of them getting into condition for coming bouts. They were all energy and enthusiasm. These boys strictly follow training rules. They refrain from all indiscretions, they do road work, gym exercises and a considerable amount of actual battling in training.

All the bouts on the card for next Tuesday night promise well. Mr. Peloquin has made a great reputation for "matching 'em right," and the coming card looks as good as any of the good ones that he has arranged during the current season.

BROWNS STOP WHITEHILL AFTER 11 STRAIGHT WINS

DETROIT, Aug. 24—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns broke Earl Whitehill's string of 11 straight victories today, taking the first of a two game series with Detroit by 7 to 5.

Whitehill, who had defeated every other team in the league during his winning streak, was easy for the Browns, allowing 13 hits during eight innings before he was relieved by George Uhle. Stiles, Collins and Kimsey pitched for St. Louis. Kimsey held the Tigers hitless during the two and two-thirds innings he worked and was credited with the victory.

PUTNAM YOUTH PROVING TO BE SPEEDY SWIMMER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 24—A mere span of 39 seconds, prevented Eddie Redfern of this city, well known in New England amateur swimming circles, from establishing a new record for the New England junior mile swim. Redfern, who resides on Park street, under official timing, took to the waters at Roseland lake this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and exactly 27 minutes and 20 seconds later, crossed the mile finish line—failing to break the record by the narrow margin of time. Redfern has created a reputation for amateur distance swimming. Only a few weeks ago he took to the waters of the Connecticut river at Middletown and went several miles of a 10 mile marathon swim, before being stricken with cramp, which forced him to give up.

FERRELL'S PITCHING GIVES INDIANS SPLIT WITH YANKS

NEW YORK, Aug 24—(AP)—Wes Ferrell's pitching gave Cleveland an even break in the Yankees' final doubleheader against the West today. New York took the first game in 11 innings 5 to 3; Cleveland annexed the second 4 to 2.

The Yankees ended the home stay against the West with 9 victories and six defeats.

It was Ferrell's 22nd victory and his 11th straight success. He has now exceeded his last year's record. Pennock's one bad inning gave Cleveland the game.

Lou Gehrig did the best hitting of the day with six hits.

Dusty Cooke was the hero of the opener with a home run with two on and none out in the eleventh. The drive broke up a pitching duel between Charley Ruffing and Clint Brown

BETTY NUTHALL WINS NATIONAL TENNIS CROWN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Amid as enthusiastic a demonstration as any home-bred triumph has ever aroused, blond, robust Betty Nuthall, 20-year-old English girl, today became the non-resident queen of American tennis, succeeding to the title held by Helen Wills Moody for six years.

Three years ago Mrs. Moody repulsed the challenge of the blue-eyed Briton, but today the famous American was 3,000 miles away, having withdrawn from competition.

Bounding Betty pounded her way to decisive victory over Mrs. Anna Virginia McCune Harper of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-4, in the final round of the national women's tennis championships. The match lasted exactly 36 minutes.

Miss Nuthall, who wasn't playing well enough last spring to be picked for the British Wightman cup team at home, scored a clean sweep of American honors by winning the national doubles championship in partnership with the 17-year-old Boston girl, Sarah Palfrey. In a match delayed by a downpour and then played partly in the rain, Miss Nuthall and Miss Palfrey emerged victorious over Edith Cross and Mrs. Harper in three hard-fought sets, at 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

CITIZENS FAVORED TO WIN PENNANT AS CITY LEAGUE ENTERS FINAL WEEK

The baseball championship, a stake for which six clubs have battled all summer, will be decided within the next five days. Led by the Polish Citizens, the pack of contenders are well down the home stretch and will wind up the City league race Friday night. One club, the Italians, has finished its regular schedule and the remainder will finish up during the course of the week.

Holding a one game lead, the Cits go into the final week facing its stiffest games of the year, one with the Thermos and another with Ideals. The Thermos, which still has a good chance to regain the honors which it held for nearly seven weeks and then relinquished, also finds itself up against real competition. In addition to the Cits they too must meet Tony Bernard's Ideals. Inasmuch as the latter have upset the Citizens once and tied the Bottlers twice, who knows what may happen before it is all over.

To make a long story short, anyone who thinks that the chase is over has another think coming. True, four clubs are really out of it as far as the pennant is concerned but the two leaders are still very much in.

Should the Bottlers avenge their defeat of July 31 when they meet the Cits Tuesday the two clubs will be knotted tighter than the proverbial drumhead. On the other hand should the Cits continue with their winning streak then the race will be over. A win for the Bottlers over the Cits will make the Ideals a real important club. The latter can then either make or break either club in the games scheduled for the latter part of the week.

The schedule for the week including a fill in game, billed for Wednesday, is as follows:

Monday—Smoke Shop vs. Royals.
Tuesday—Thermos vs. Citizens.
Wednesday, Royals vs. Italians.
Thursday—Ideals vs. Citizens.
Friday—Ideals vs. Thermos.

Regardless of how the big game comes out Tuesday, the schedule will positively be finished, the fans having demanded that such a procedure be followed.

The official standing of the circuit as it goes into the last week is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Citizens	10	3	.770
Thermos	8	4	.667
Royals	8	6	.572
Italians	7	8	.462
Smoke Shop	4	10	.286
Ideals	3	9	.250

CARDINALS TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM PHILLIES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Cardinals took a double header from the lowly Phillies here today, 9 to 4, and 6 to 4. The Cardinals used their base hits to better advantage than did their rivals. In the opener each team collected 14 while in the nightcap the Phillies outhit the Cardinals, 10 to 9. St. Louis won all five games of the series which ended today.

Jim Lindsey, who until recently had been used chiefly for relief duty, went the distance in the opener for the Cards, but Claude Willoughby, his starting rival, lasted only an inning and a third.

The Cardinals used three hurlers in the nightcap, Grimes, the last, being credited with the victory. Collins pitched the entire game for the losers.

SENATORS SET BACK ATHLETICS BY 7 TO 3 COUNT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — (AP) — Washington trounced Philadelphia, 7 to 3, today and whittled down the Athletics lead in the American league race to 7 1-2 games.

A triple by Sammy West off the center field fence with two men on base in the sixth inning broke a tie and settled the game. Both Walberg and Crowder were hit freely, but the latter scattered the blows. Pop bottles were thrown onto the field as the Washington team and crowd protested that Simmons had interfered with Cronin in an attempt to complete a double play.

LOCAL MOTOR BOAT DRIVER SHOWS WELL AT WORCESTER

Joe Moore, local outboard motorboat driver, was second high point scorer in an outboard motorboat meet at Worcester on Saturday when he won both heats of the Class C event and placed second in the free-for-all. Moore attracted considerable attention with his speed and daring in a boat of his own design. A Worcester paper speaks of Moore's performance as follows:

"While thrills were plentiful in the first two races on the card it remained for Joe Moore of Norwich, Conn., to show the spectators, kept down to a minimum because of the rain, their first glimpses of real speed. Moore, driving Lone Wolf, which he fashioned with his own hands, looked like the fastest thing on water as he won both heats easily.

"Not one of the boats in the field of seven came anywhere near matching Moore's speed and he crossed the finish line with plenty to spare. Bob Flagg was his nearest competitor, taking two seconds, but even he was far in the rear of the Norwich pilot. Norman Kalat took third place in the first heat but was forced to drop out of the second when he burned out a piston. Stanley Johnson, another local entrant, took third in the heat.

"Moore attempted to duplicate his Class C victory in the seven and a half-mile free-for-all, but his 24-horsepower motor could not match Flagg's speed."

The summary:

Class A: First heat won by Bert Steacie driving unnamed; 2d, George Raymond, Hartford, Conn., driving D301; 3d, Charles Padula driving B72.

Second heat won by Bert Steacie driving unnamed; 2d, Charles Padula driving B72; 3d, George Raymond driving D301.

Class B: First heat won by Bob Flagg driving Dixie 3d; 2d, Norman Kalat driving B71; 3d, J. Roberts, Norwich, Conn., driving N532.

Second heat won by Norman Kalat driving B71; 2d, Bob Flagg driving Dixie 3d; 3d, J. Roberts driving N532

Class C: First heat won by Joseph Moore, Norwich, Conn., driving Lone Wolf; 2d, Bob Flagg driving Dixie 3d; 3d, Norman Kalat driving Oh-Oh.

Second heat won by Joseph Moore driving Lone Wolf; 2d, Bob Flagg driving Dixie, 3d; 3d, Stanley Johnson driving Hiram.

Family boats: Won by Bob Flagg driving Zax; 2d, William Crandall, 3d, Earl Moulton

George Gilman was the winner of the selected-best-twelve-holes tournament at the Norwich Golf club with a net score of 34. W. Russell Baird was second with a net 38 while A. H. Payson and W. E. Turner tied for third place with a net of 39. There were only 18 entries in the tournament due to the very disagreeable weather of Saturday afternoon.

The Fisk team went to Sterling Sunday and took a one-sided game from the Sterling team, 9 to 5. Kaduda pitching for the Fisks held the Sterling team to nine hits and struck out nine men. A. Lefty and J. Derda collected over half of the Fisk hits, Lefty getting five out of five and Derda three out of four.

WEEKLY SURVEY OF THE BUSINESS SITUATION IS NOT DISCOURAGING

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)— Some observers detected fresh stirrings underneath the surface of the still murky business situation during the past week.

Most cheering of the week's reports was Iron Age's estimate of steel ingot production at 53 per cent of theoretical capacity, a gain of only one per cent from the previous week, but after all a gain, and the first reported since the upturn after the mid-year closings for inventories and repairs.

While not all observers agreed that there had been an appreciable increase in steel output, at least no further general slump could be reported. The situation was difficult of analysis, for slackening activity at some mills was counter-balanced by quickening elsewhere.

Less cheerful reports came from the automobile industry, and steel companies supplying motor manufacturers continued to complain of slack business.

Steel trade circles, however, report better inquiry from the railroads and construction companies.

Although building operations still continue at slack levels, a slight gain in building permits taken out during July indicates plans under consideration are on the increase.

Merchants are approaching the autumn season warily, retail trade is normally at a low ebb during late August, the peak of the vacation season, and is dominated by clearance sales.

The probable effects of the drought, which has not yet been fully broken by adequate rains, remains one of the perplexing posers presented by the business outlook. It is unofficially reported in Wall street that at least one of the mail order houses is beginning to experience a pick-up in sales.

Commodity prices exhibited somewhat greater stability during the past week, and there was a notable upturn in livestock, hogs at Chicago reaching the best prices of the year. Wheat and cotton continued to suffer from the influences of burdensome stocks, but corn and other grains were generally firm.

Car loadings as reported for the second week of August showed another slump, failing to break away from the levels of eight years ago. The annalist's index of factory employment and payrolls for July reached levels not touched since 1922, and foreign trade figures for the month were the lowest in nearly 10 years.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.— (AP)— New municipal bond issues scheduled for award this week total $28,335,575 and represent financing for eight communities. The largest single issue is $7,520,000 Allegheny County, Pa., 4 1-4 per cent road and bridge bonds to be placed on Tuesday.

The monthly index of business activity of the Guaranty Trust Co., which is adjusted to allow for seasonal movements, stands at 76.0 for July, as against 82.6 in June and 103.2 in July 1929. The current issue of the Guaranty survey shows the current level is lower than was reached at any time during the brief slump in 1924, though it is considerably above the low points of the depression of 1921. The survey says "it is not yet possible to judge whether any genuine progress toward recovery has been made since the beginning of August," the survey adds, "and the reports of the next few weeks will be very carefully examined for any definite signs of improvement."

Atlas Utilities Corp., announced acquisition of in excess of 80 per cent of the capital stock of Exide Securities Corp., and has elected to exercise options for exchange of stock on the basis of one share of Exide Securities stock for either nine-twentieths of a share of $3 preference stock, Series A, of Atlas Utilities Corp., or two and one-quarter shares of Atlas Utilities common.

Middle West Utilities Co., has extended the period during which outstanding common stock purchase warrants, Series A, 1930, and Series B, 1931, may be exercised. Series A warrants, which entitle the holder to purchase common stock at $40 a share, until Dec. 31, 1930, may now be exercised until 5 o'clock Dec. 31, 1931, and Series B warrants, which entitle the holder to purchase common stock at $45 a share from Jan. 1, 1931, may be exercised until 5 o'clock Dec. 31, 1932.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

A pitch black night, an ancient mansion wreathed in fog, stealthy foot steps in the fog, a window raised by a trembling hand, a flashlight playing over a safe door—slim, practiced fingers fumbling at the combination—the door swings open, jewels flame in the thin ray of light—and lo, the Master Burglar has completed another daring robbery.

This is "Raffles," the great superdrama which opened at the Palace theater yesterday and which will be continued tomorrow and Wednesday. "Raffles," a splendid crook play, adapted from the stories of the famous E. W. Hornung.

Ronald Colman is the star of "Raffles," a debonair, immaculately dressed safe-cracker. He moves through the picture gracefully and easily, the perfect gentleman burglar, the man who can steal a diamond necklace from under the very eyes of the law, almost—the man who has set Scotland Yard crazy trying to catch him—crazy even to learn who he might possibly be.

Kay Francis plays opposite Mr. Colman and gives a magnificent portrayal of the girl who has been taking gifts from her handsome suitor without suspecting that they were stolen. She wears a diamond bracelet given to her in a taxicab just a few minutes after Raffles extracted it from a Bond street jewelry store. But in the end comes the bitter realization, and it is tremendously interesting to see how the girl makes up her mind in the crisis.

Broadway Theatre.

In a profession like that of acting which is said to breed envy, jealousy, and all sorts of other unamiable feelings between its members, there are occasional exceptions; and one of them consists of the firm friendship and admiration for each other between Joe E. Brown and Bernice Claire two of First National's stars who appear together in "Top Speed," which is now current at Warner's Broadway theatre.

The comedian and the very youthful prima donna only met each other last summer at the First National Studio; and not until "Top Speed" went into production, many months later, were they ever in the same cast.

Their first picture together, "Top Speed," is based on one of the outstanding musical comedy successes of the past season. Jack Whiting, another recruit from the stage, is also featured in the cast, as are Laura Lee, Frank McHugh and other popular players. The picture was directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

YERRINGTON CAR, TAFTVILLE, COLLIDES WITH COLLEAR CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24—An automobile driven by Raymond Yerrington, 4 Second avenue, Taftville and with a young woman as passenger, and a car operated by John A. Collear, a sailor stationed at the submarine base, with Mrs. Collear and two companions as passengers, collided Saturday night on Williams street, near the city line. None of the passengers sustained injuries other than minor bruises, but Collear's car was wrecked and Yerrington's auto was damaged. The crash was investigated by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray who arrested Collear on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $200 and will be in court Monday. Collear, his wife and friends were driving south on the New London-Norwich highway and when near Gallows lane, the auto in which were Yerrington and friend, approached from the opposite direction, being en route from New London to Norwich. When Collear's auto headed for Yerrington's car, the latter changed his course and drove to the side of the highway, but Collear apparently lost control of his steering wheel for the auto followed Yerrington's auto to the side of the highway and side-swiped it, then ascending an embankment and crashed against a stone wall.

Matthew C. Fyalla, U. S. Coast Guard, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Louis Tooker charged with driving while his license is under suspension and driving with illegal markers. Fyalla will be in the police court Monday.

John McArdle, former New London merchant, now employed in the west, is spending a few days in this city. Mr. McArdle was formerly proprietor of a Bank street bakery.

City employes are making repairs to water mains on Truman street and Montauk avenue. The work has not been completed and will require several days to do so.

The Shamrock V is at Newport preparing for the international yacht races next month and although she will be hauled out and painted, that work will be done at Newport.

THIRTEEN YOUNG GAMBLERS ARRESTED AT BATES' PARK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 24—Tomorrow will be gamblers' day in the police court for this afternoon, and following a raid upon the gambling resort, 11 Bank street, Saturday night, the police raided Bates' park where 13 youthful gamblers were taken into custody. All furnished sureties on their respective bonds of $50.

Those arrested are Leo Kelly, 21, of 26 West Colt street; James Sullivan, 17, of 8 Grand street; Joseph Gillis, 23, of 4 Williams street; John Philopena, 24, of 664 Bank street; Wells Geer, 23, of 37 Franklin street; Harry Schuman, 26, of 41 Spring street; James Vedatto, 23, of 286 Montauk avenue; John Walker, 36, of 78 Philips street; Frank Campagna, 23, of 10 Hobron street; Tony Mariano, 18, of 96 Bank street; Joseph Ferrigno, 24, of 10 Jefferson avenue; Leo Hutchins 23, of 444 Montauk avenue. The youths have made a practice of going to the wooded section of the park Sunday afternoons for gambling games. This afternoon, Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith, Motorcycle Officers Thomas Cavanaugh, Elwood Bailey and William Corcoran and Patrolmen George Laboue, Louis Pine and Louis Tooker swooped down upon the gamblers and arrested the gang. There is a possibility also that the youths will be charged with breach of the peace, for some of their number created a disturbance.

Ann Morin Missing.

Oscar G. Nyberg, 185 Main street, this evening requested the police to institute a search for Ann Morin, 19, also of 185 Main street, who Nyberg said, is missing from her home. In making the report, Nyberg said that the girl left her home Saturday evening, presumably to go to a dance at Ocean Beach and that she had failed to return.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has ordered the suspension of the driver's license of George F. Erickson, U. S. Coast Guard.

Charles F. Klinger, 652 Montauk avenue, proprietor of an automobile sales station on Truman street, reported to the police this evening that somewhere between his garage and his residence he had lost a bill fold, containing two checks, one for $50 and his driver's license. No money was in the bill-fold.

JANE ADDAMS, 70, STILL KIND RULER OF HULL HOUSE

JANE ADDAMS

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Time has dealt kindly with Jane Addams, who, September 6, will reach the Biblical span of life, three score and ten years.

Less active, yes, much less active, and not so smooth of brow and cheek as when she founded Hull House, her hand is no less firm in the affairs of that famous social center nor her enthusiasm dimmed for the welfare work to which she dedicated a lifetime.

Miss Addams will observe her 70th birthday at Hull's Cove, Me., where she spends her summers.

It will be simple as has been her life, although among those who felicitate her will be many of the great of the world.

There will be messages from President Hoover; Premier MacDonald, who visited Hull House with his bride more than a score of years ago; Julia Lathrop and from Walter Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's, who lived at Hull House in their youthful days.

A frail, sensitive girl of gentle breeding and refined education she was when Hull House formed in her active mind.

The sordidness, the sinster vice and depravity, the ignorance and poverty, she was to battle were unknown in Cedarville, Ill., where she was born. John Addams was a banker and member of the state senate. Jane went to an exclusive and somewhat puritanical school for young women.

Miss Addams studied further in Europe. In the crooked streets of old Paris and in London's Limehouse she glimpsed the poverty and degradation that changed her life.

At Toynbee Hall, London's social center, and a pattern for the world's welfare workers, Miss Addams conceived the mechanics of a plan for making more endurable the pathway of the unfortunates.

She was 29 in 1889 when, with Ellen G. Starr, she founded Hull House at Polk and Halsted streets, a Chicago vortex of racial hatreds, poverty and crime.

In the 40 years that followed Hull House has stretched through a block and Jane Addams' fame around the world.

2-3 cup chopped dates, 2-3 cup light brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ cup orange juice, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup chopped nuts.

Mix dates, sugar; flour, fruit juices and salt. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens a little. Cool. Add other ingredients.

Piccalilli

(Try this on cold meats)

4 quarts green tomatoes, 4 cups green peppers, 1 cup red peppers, 1 cup chopped onions, 3 cups cabbage, 2-3 cups salt.

Wash tomatoes, cut out blossom ends and chop tomatoes. Chop peppers after pulp and seeds have been removed. Mix all vegetables and add salt. Let stand over night. In morning drain well and add Vinegar Mixture.

Vinegar Mixture

2 quarts vinegar, 3 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons white mustard seed, 2 tablespoons yellow mustard seed, 2 teaspoons cinamon, 1 teaspoon cloves 3 cups celery.

Mix ingredients. Add drained vegetables and let cook slowly until mixture thickens. Stir frequently. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

GENERALS FOUGHT EACH OTHER, BUT KIN WILL WED

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 24—(AP)—Descendants of two generals who fought against each other in the Civil war will be married here September 3 when Augusta Rhodes Scott of Virginia weds Logan Morrill of Virginia and Cincinnati.

Miss Scott's grandfather, General John Fred Pierson, was a brigade commander for the federal army of the Potomac and Morrill's grandsire, General T. M. Logan, of Virginia, held a similar rank in Lee's army of northern Virginia.

MORE LYNX, LESS FOX TRIMS WINTER COATS

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—Lynx replaces fox extensively on the new coats.

Its creamy tint blends effectively with dark green and rich browns, both important winter colors.

In the main Paris uses more short furs than long ones, preferring the curled lamb and astrakan but also making much display of galliac, broadtail and the short pile furs like seal and beaver.

DEBS OF LATIN AMERICA LIKE U. S. PICNIC CUSTOM

WASHINGTON, Aug 24—(AP)—A picnic a day keeps the blues away—is the motto of two Marias, legation girls from Latin America.

The summer diversion of Washington society—picnics—has found enthusiastic followers in Maria Medina, daughter of the minister from Bolivia, and Maria Sacasa, daughter of the minister from Nicaragua.

BRIGHTER PAJAMAS MAKE WINTERS GAYER

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—Sunless days of winter mean gay colored pajamas for lounging, says Paris.

One designer suggests jade green silk marocain pajamas and tunic with a fussy wool jacket of watermelon pink. The jacket has comfortable patch pockets and a belt.

Black Linen Suit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—(AP)—Mrs. Merrit O. Chance, former president of the Woman's City club, is wearing a serviceable suit of black linen with a wide-brimmed black straw hat.

The upper half of the linen blouse she wears with this costume is white while the lower part is pink.

Kate Greenaway Again

PARIS, Aug. 25—(AP)—One of the old-fashioned dresses of the new season is a long skirted, puff sleeved model of Kate Greenaway inspiration made of cream colored lace with sash and trimming touches of brown velvet ribbon.

CHIC DRESSMAKER IS OWN MANNEQUIN

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—There are a few dressmakers whose own selection of clothes is eagerly watched at openings as indicative of what the well-dressed Parisienne will wear.

Paul Poiret's half-sister, Mme. Nicole Groult, is one of them.

At the winter opening of her house she wore a soft turquoise blue crepe de chine tunic blouse with a band of black fur around the bottom over a black crepe marocain skirt slightly flared.

A turquoise and black silk beret matched the costume.

MANY KINDS OF DRESSES SEEN AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—(AP)—Women callers at the white house wear dress materials ranging from gingham to chiffon these warm days. Invited guests are generally gowned in flowered chiffon.

But there are also the many women bearing cards or letters from congressmen who call to see the executive mansion.

Some "dress up" for the occasion, others go in their traveling clothes of linen, pongee or voile.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S HEAD TRAVELS 32,000 MILES

DETROIT, Aug. 24—(AP)—Miss Marion McClench, president of the federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, traveled 32,000 miles in her first year of office.

Autumn Hats

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—A woman may be shallow where her autumn hat crown is concerned.

The accepted autumn headgear — accepted by the foremost Parisiennes —perches atop the head exposing the entire face and part of the cherished marcel.

If the brim turns downward, as it is apt to do, the effect is reminiscent of the poke bonnet of 1830.

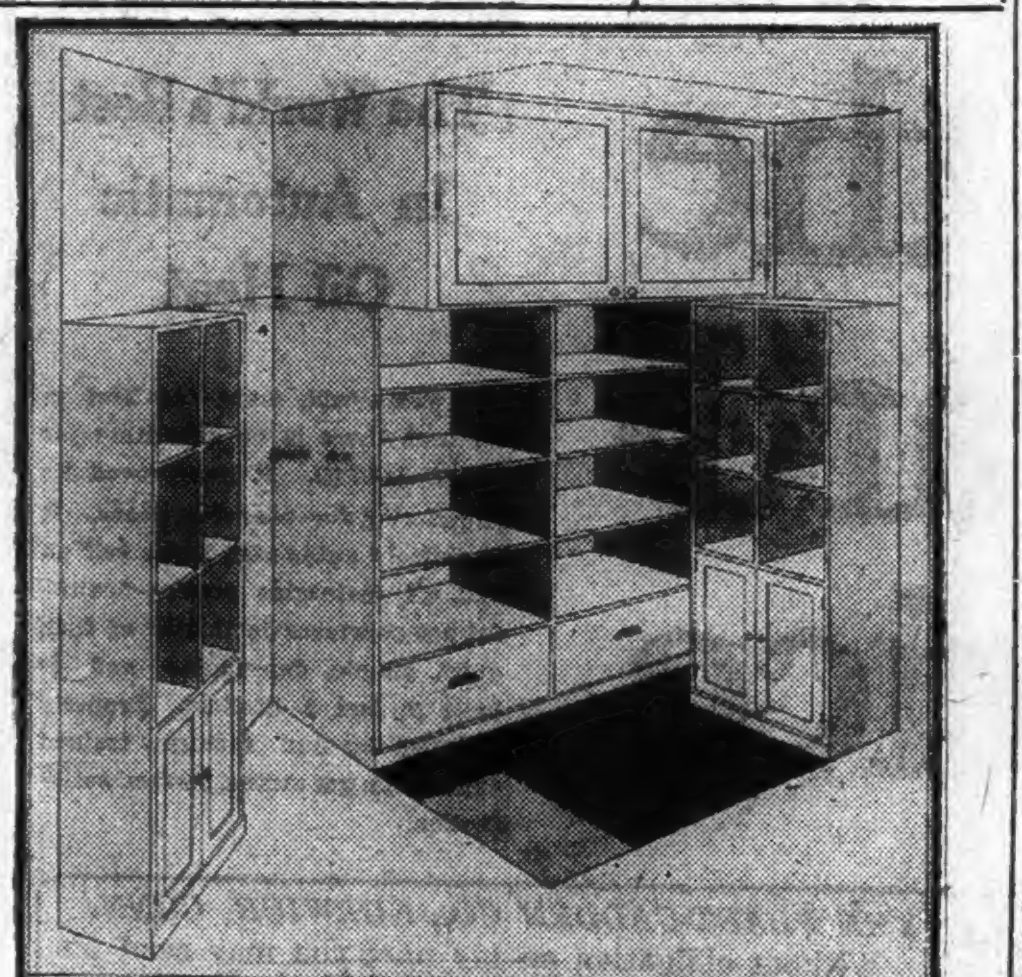
Necklines Complicated

PARIS, Aug. 24—(AP)—Necklines have forgotten how to be simple at many of the dressmaking houses which will influence winter styles.

Cape collars have largely disappeared but a vestige of them remains in the form of narrow collars which outline necklines.

More often than not the collar is confined to the front of the dress in modified bib effect.

ROOMY CLOSET ANSWERS A DOZEN NEEDS



It's no trick to keep such a closet neat.

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

The old story about the woman who rented an apparently mediocre house is familiar to all. When questioned by her friends as to reasons for her choice, she replied enthusiastically, "My dears, it has seventeen wonderful cupboards!"

Women still maintain an equal interest in closet space, though naturally the modern home or apartment has nothing like this amount of space. By adroit planning, however, every inch of available space can be used to the utmost advantage, and in this connection the storage closet sketched here will receive a cordial welcome by every homekeeper.

The capacious compartment at the top is cedar-lined, and a perfect receptacle for blankets and fine woolens. It also can accommodate cloth or fur coats, a man's dress suit or heavy winter coat not in use.

The series of broad shelves beneath will prove invaluable for keeping household linens in perfect condition, and accessible at a moment's notice. Lavender sachets, inserted here and there will give the closet contents a fragrance in the traditional manner.

Ribbon bands in colors that harmonize with your decorative scheme serve to separate the linens into their correct groupings. These are easily made and fasten with snaps.

The two bottom bins should be used for storage purposes—to keep in good condition the things that are rarely in use.

With the revival of the vogue for indoor games of every description, the left-hand section of this closet will prove helpful to the harassed homemaker who wishes her home to keep its usual immaculate appearance.

All kinds of table games may be neatly laid on the shelves, right in view so no time will be lost when guests feel the urge to amuse themselves. And the roomy cupboard beneath suggests itself for skates, country hiking boots, hiking breeches and sweaters.

If the home has a nursery, the right-hand cupboard section might well be reserved for toys.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cut flowers set in a draft will soon wilt.

If rice is boiled in milk instead of water, it will improve the flavor.

Use lemon juice instead of vinegar in dressing for lettuce and so increase your vitamins.

Lumps of camphor placed about the haunts of mice is an effective method of keeping them away.

Ornaments will not scratch the furniture if a piece of blotting paper is pasted on the bottom of each ornament.

If the bottom of the legs of furniture are waxed they will not scratch polished floors when moved around on them.

A lump of charcoal left in a closed bottle or jar will prevent your ice box from smelling or becoming musty.

Never leave egg whites after they have been beaten stiff. If left standing they will flatten and will not beat up again.

A good-sized cork makes an excellent pad for scouring purposes. Dip one end in the cleanser and rub briskly over the soiled surface.

More efficient dish towels are small cheap Turkish towels. They absorb water better than the ordinary dish towel and leave no lint on the dishes.

A small, short, tin shovel can be purchased for five or ten cents. Flatten out the sides of the shovel and it will make an excellent device for lifting hot pans from the oven.

When cutting butter into cubes, take a small piece of the paper in which the butter is wrapped and place it over the blade of the knife. The edges of the cubes will be smooth and even.

Cabbage used for salad is more tender if shredded fine and put into cold water for 30 minutes, then drained and wrapped in a towel until ready to use.

Save the juice left over when slices have been served from a can of pineapple. Pour it over sugar-covered apples in an apple pie filling before the top crust has been added and you will have a pie with a delicious flavor.

QUICK, EASY AND GOOD

This nourishing dish can be quickly prepared. Boil a quarter pound spaghetti in salted water until soft. Drain and cut into tiny pieces. Add a teaspoon butter, three eggs and beat until foamy. Turn into a buttered skillet and fry a golden brown on both sides.

AVOID THOSE CREAMY SPOTS

Put a little butter under the spout of the cream pitcher before placing it on the table. The cream will not drip over the buttered line and greasy spots on the linen will be avoided.

SAVE ORANGE PEEL

Orange flavoring is delicious for puddings and custards. Save the peel of oranges, preferably of tangerines, dry in the oven and then store in tins for use.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Soak a new toothbrush over night in a glass of water and bristles will not come out.

Nothing is more soothing to the overtired individual than a glass of milk just before retiring.

Your hands will not become soiled if you place paper bags on them when polishing the stove.

A cold in the head can often be relieved by adding a few drops of eucalyptus to a jug of hot water and inhaling the fumes.

Tweeze out the straggly hairs that grow about and outside the eyebrow proper and down toward the eyelid. Shape the brow to a nice arch by thinning out the hairs toward the inner and outer edges.

A LIFE OF EASE

Perfect comfort is guaranteed if upon your terrace or porch you place a wheel barrow chaise lounge that can be wheeled about, and is covered with cushions in waterproof and sunfast material.

Lace Clocks on Hose

A straight and narrow look is given to the full leg by a new stocking of mesh in the vertical line. A dull finished stocking in the full fashioned sizes is made without visible fashioning marks. Lace clocks continue modish. In a seamless hose the lace clock runs down into the foot and terminates in arrows at both ends. Another clock shows a wide Jacquard mesh.

MITTS AGAIN

Rather surprising to many has been the revival of the lace or silk mitt or fingerless glove for evening. Mitts are a compromise between kid gloves and no gloves at all that harmonizes well with the more picturesque type of Summer evening dress. They are chosen of pastel tones to match pastel frocks, while with black dresses black lace mitts are usually chosen.

Hair Ribbons Revived

Fortunately, there is no tendency on the part of little girls to let their hair grow in order to conform to fashion's demand for grater femininity.

To be sure, one sees fewer little girls with hair cut short enough to be really boyish, and the favorite hair cut now for well dressed little girls seems to be a cross between an old-fashioned long bob and a shingle. The hair is shaped to the head at the back, with a natural line at the neck, but is left long enough in the front to hide the ears.

To add the feminine touch so that no one will mistake it, there are hair ribbons. For hair ribbons are no longer a possibility—they are a real necessity for the girl of 6 or 7 who wants to conform to the fashion of her set.

The amount of ribbon needed depends, of course, on the width, but there should be enough to tie a fairly large outstanding bow after the ribbon has been tied around a lock of the hair.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Bloused silhouettes are discussed among furriers as an important new fur fashion.

Rough straws have become formidable rivals to ballibuntls and bakous.

The beaded evening dress looms large on the fall horizon, but at the moment self trimmings prevail in the finest collections.

Wide pale pink pique makes a sleeveless basque frock for morning bridge parties. The little basque fastens up the front with square pearl buttons.

The newest and smartest of stockings are seamless and finished with a dull lustre that is extremely becoming. They come in all the correct shades.

A new purse, imported from Vienna, is very wide, quite shallow, with rounded ends. It has three distinct compartments inside and has a tiny monogram in gold on its green suede outside.

HAT BANDS.

Having one's hat band in the cotton fabric of one's frock is a new and interesting style. A pink pique frock has its black rough straw banded in pink pique, with a smart bow right in front.

SHEER BLACK FROCKS.

Paris, Palm Beach and New York have taken to their hearts the formal afternoon or evening gown of sheer black crepe, or the somewhat filmier chiffon. It is seen wherever the fashion leaders gather together and is a style of much moment.

SHIRTING FROCKS.

They have come back to fashion, these shirtwaist frocks made of the same material that men's shirts are made of. Sleeves are short, blouses tuck-in and the skirt has a bit of a flare.

Ruchings For Smart Hemline

Ruching now comes in widths numbering many inches and is in white or black. Two or three rows of this added to the hem of the white or black evening gown give the smart transparency of hemline, and lend an old-fashioned and quaint air.

Felts In Autumn Style

In the midst of our problems of whether or not felt intends to keep its place of popularity in the fall millinery mode, we find that turbans are becoming increasingly important. This means that soft fabrics will be employed. Soft felt is frequently made into trig little turbans. Velvet, of course, is a favorable material for this small graceful headgear.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

To remove scorch stains, wet and rub with soap and bleach in the sun.

Wear an apron of white oilcloth when a lot of washing is being done.

Remove spots as soon as discovered and the removal will be much simpler, as no dust will have settled on the grease and a much worse spot will have resulted.

If dampened clothes are wrapped in a large Turkish towel until ready for ironing, the clothes will keep an even dampness throughout and makes ironing much easier.

TO KEEP CLOTHES WHITE.

It is very annoying to wash white silk hose, underwear or blouses and find that they have turned yellow despite the great care taken. Try adding a few drops of turpentine to the rinsing water. This usually keeps the silk nice and white, if other precautions are followed.

Wax Refinish For Furniture

In refinishing old furniture do not forget that wax-polishing is not only the easiest, but also one of the oldest and best methods of finishing. It is customary to wax wood that has not been filled, but to which a coat or two of thin shellac has been applied to set the stain. Filled woods do not show the polish so advantageously. The wax finish will not show scratches to such an extent as varnish or French finish, and may be renewed in the simplest manner.

TO CLEAN UPHOLSTERY.

Make a very weak suds of mild soap flakes and lukewarm water. Dip a Turkish towel in the water, then wring out to remove all surplus moisture. Place the towel smoothly over the upholstery to be cleaned, then beat with a carpet beater. The towel will collect the dirt and prevents dust from flying around.

CARE OF CARPET-SWEEPER

Your carpet-sweeper requires attention other than the usual oiling and cleaning of the brushes. See that it is never allowed to stand on the brushes, or they will be ruined. Have a screw eye attached to the top of the handle and use this to hang the sweeper to a hook in the broom closet.

RECIPES

Tuna loaf: One cup tuna, one cup breadcrumbs, two eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons chopped parsley, one-half cup milk, two tablespoons butter, melted, and mix ingredients and pour into buttered loaf pan. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold carefully.

Frosted Loaf Cake. Cook together until thick one cup of cocoa, two egg yolks and one cup of milk. When cool add to one and one-half cups of white sugar, half a cup of butter, another cup of milk, one teaspoon of baking soda dissolved in hot water, three cups of flour and two teaspoons of baking powder and a little flavoring. Frost as desired.

HOOVERS ADAPT THEMSELVES TO PREVAILING CONDITIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—There is not possible doubt that President and Mrs. Hoover are "weather broken." They simply do not mind what the weather is. If cold, they have blazing fires in the great fireplaces of the white house, if not, they adapt themselves to it by making the great south portico a dining room. Here is the shade of vines and huge trees they breakfast, lunch and even dine; they catch a glimpse of the glistening Potomac, as it flows sluggishly between the Capital and the Virginia hills; they ask friends to drop in for lunch or dinner, just the same as if it were served in the state dining room. Even in those three weeks of terrific heat, when the official record ran daily from high in the 90's to 110 in the shade, the president and the lady of the white house showed no annoyance. They take things as they come, and endure placidly sudden changes of climate that would phase any one brought up in only one sort of weather. You see, the Hoover's have lived in practically every part of the world, more or less, and so have acquired a climatic poise that could not otherwise be obtained.

They ignore heat and cold, rain or shine, and "they do say" that no one has yet seen President Hoover discard his high stiff collar and replace it with a soft outing "turn-down." He wears dark blue sack suits all summer, but occasionally modifies it by using white trousers. That is the nearest the president ever comes to "informal clothes."

Mrs. Hoover, as did Mrs. Coolidge, has a decided flare for white outing suits and all the fixins'. She still rides horseback, but not as frequently as before her severe fall on April.

The Ganns' Home

Washington official society has, for the most part, put up its shutters, closed its doors and taken up a summer residence at seashore or mountains. But there are one or two exceptions, though by the end of the week, Mrs. Gann, sister hostess of the vice president will be the one representative of the administration who still stands by, except of course, Mrs. Hoover, who will remain here until the president takes a vacation.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gann is out in one of the most delightful of the capital's suburbs, and Mrs. Gann's flowers, shrubs, vines and big wide porches are noted for beauty and hospitality. Mrs. Gann is spending the summer there, while her brother, vice president Curtis, is making a round of visits with his two daughters, often running back to Kansas for political primaries and things of that sort. Mrs. Gann practically lives in her garden summers, and devotes personal care to her gardens which are noted for their great beauty.

Busy Congressional Folk

Here is a sample of what some of the congressional folk are doing. Mrs. Borah went abroad in the spring, intending to remain all summer, but when the physician ordered Senator Borah to take a complete rest this summer and go to New England for the bracing air, Mrs. Borah came back and is now with the senator way down in Maine. Representative Edith Rogers is spending her summer campaigning for reelection. She gives five days each week to visiting cities and towns in her district, chatting and conferring with her constituents. She travels by train, auto or airplane as best suits the need of the occasion. She says she enjoys it far more than a vacation.

Mrs. McCormick is driving a hard campaign for election to the senate—Mrs. Koan, Mrs. Langley and Mrs. Pratt are fighting for return to the house; Mrs. Owen has one eye out for return to the house this election and a seat in the senate in 1932. Mrs. Oldfield had all she wants of public life and has gone to her home in Arkansas. That is the way the congressional women are spending the summer.

Pioneer In Air Law

And now we have women lawyers specializing in air laws. Wouldn't it make you go back to the fame of Darius Green and his flying machine, and the days when women didn't even drive from the back seat? Well, the fact is Miss Margaret Lamble of Washington, is much talked of in capitol circles just now, for she is the woman pioneer in air law, and is setting a pace some of the other women lawers of the capital intend to follow. Miss Lamble is now attending the first International Air Law institute in the history of aviation, and is one of the only two women lawyers in the entire country to have the distinction of attending this congress.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

After Illness.

Psychiatrists who deal with behavior difficulties of children often are confronted with cases whose symptoms date back definitely to a period of convalescence after some serious illness

Temper tantums, morbid fears, nervousness, irritability, poor school adjustments often are traced back to this period.

The reason for this cropping up of special behavior troubles after illness is found in the fact that although under ordinary circumstances the atmosphere of a home may be sane and wholesome, serious illness on the part of a child is apt to change all this.

The mother who is intelligent in handling a well child becomes so emotionally overwrought when he is sick that she concentrates on him every minute of the day and causes the entire household to revolve about him.

This situation naturally is pleasant to the patient and he is reluctant to outgrow the convalescent stage. He has known for a brief period what it is to recapture the prerogative of babyhood, and he is disinclined to take up again the difficulties of growing up.

During illness he has learned that merely to threaten to cry or to go into a tantrum is enough to get him what he wants and he finds these methods both easy and convenient.

Children are not slow to capitalize such advantages and many a symptom is invented in order to prolong a delightful state of affairs.

Quiet, unemotionnal treatment probably is much better for him both physically and mentally than the spoiling process which keeps him in the center of an emotional whirlpool.

For Normal Girlhood

"My daughter Magdalen did not seem to develop as she should. At times she had no pep at all and couldn't get her school work very easily. For four years we doctored her off and on. Then a friend told us how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her years ago, so I got a bottle for Magdalen. Her nerves are quieting, her general health is better and she is now as normal as other girls."—Mrs. J. Bartholdi, Thompson's Addition, The Dalles, Oregon

MAY CUT NORWICH DEMOCRATIC PARTY DELEGATION FROM 15 TO 10

If proposed party rule changes on convention representation are adopted at the democratic state convention next month at the Griswold, Eastern Point, the Norwich democratic party's representation will hereafter be cut from 15 to 10, Groton from 7 to 5, New London from 13 to 8, Stonington from 8 to 6 and other delegations from cities, towns, throughout the state will be cut correspondingly. The change in the party rules is proposed so that in the future towns get extra delegates only through the Democratic votes cast in a presidential election, instead of on the basis of the total presidential vote, including that of all candidates, as is now the case.

The change, if adopted, would be accomplished by the insertion of the word "democratic" in the present party rule on representation to make it read as follows:

"Each town shall be entitled to twice as many delegates as it has representatives in the legislature, and all towns in which the (democratic) vote cast at the last presidential election exceeds 1,000 shall be entitled to one additional delegate for each additional 1,000 votes then cast, and also each fraction thereof exceeding one-half."

Under the present system, with all votes counting, for whatever candidate cast, the state convention enrollment has grown to more than 1,000, and has become so unwieldy that limitation probably will be accepted without much question. If the basis of representation is made democratic votes in the past presidential election, the 1932 convention will have only 763 delegates instead of the 1036 eligible to sit in the meeting this year.

Such a change would reduce the representation of the cities, but would still give them extra representation in proportion to the greater party strength in the urban districts.

The results of such a change on some of the larger towns, with the reduction of the delegates for the 1930 convention under the present scheme would be as follows: Bristol, from 13 to 7; East Hartford, 10 to 7; Enfield, 8 to 6; Hartford, 62 to 36; Manchester, 12 to 6; New Britain, 24 to 14; Southington, 7 to 5; West Hartford, 1. to 7; Wethersfield, 7 to 5; Windsor, 7 to 5.

Ansonia, 11 to 7; Branford, 7 to 5; Hamden, 10 to 6; Meriden, 20 to 11; Milford, 9 to 6; Naugatuck, 9 to 7; New Haven, 62 to 37; Waterbury, 37 to 23; West Haven, 12 to 6.

Groton, 7 to 5; New London, 13 to 8; Norwich, 15 to 10; Stonington, 8 to 6; Bridgeport, 53 to 28; Danbury, 15 to 9; Fairfield, 9 to 6; Greenwich, 14 to 7; Norwalk, 17 to 9; Stamford, 22 to 12; Stratford, 10 to 6; Windham, 10 to 7; Torrington, 12 to 8; Winchester, 8 to 5; Middletown, 12 to 8; Vernon, 8 to 6.

PARK CHURCH PASTOR REGRETS MR. BAILEY'S GOING

Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, pastor of Park Congregational church, preached at the Congregational church here Sunday morning. Several of his parishioners from Park church, also other clergymen, were included in the good sized congregation. The children of the Vacation Bible school, under the leadership of Miss Margaret Chapen substituted for the adult choir, as has been the custom during August. The floral decorations on the platform comprised two large decorative baskets of gladioli. The Scripture reading was the 2nd letter of Paul to the Corinthians 4th chapter. "Our Larger Fellowship," was the theme of Rev. Mr. Shipherd's interesting address which dealt largely with international fellowship between the United States and Europe. Brief mention was made of the Fifth International Congregational council held during June at Bournemouth, to which the preacher was one of the 159 delegates from this country. In opening the service Rev. Mr. Shipherd spoke in appreciation of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey who concludes his services at this church Sunday, August 31st, after many years of faithful ministry. Rev. Mr Shipherd declared that it was a privilege to be present as a favor to Rev. Mr. Bailey for his courtesy quite recently to Park church people. He added that the retirement of Rev. Mr. Bailey was regretted by many to whom he had been so valuable in the community, through his singularly wholesome spirit. Said Rev. Dr. Shipherd: "You will look a long way before you will find a man so largely respected, especially by his ministerial brothers and we regret his going from us!"

"When Jesus Traveled, What He Saw and Did," Luke 8:22-8, was the theme of the Young People's C. E. service Sunday evening.

Having spent two weeks on Bashan hill, Bozrah, at the home of their uncle, Frank Barber, Master Robert Barber and his sister Betty have returned to their home at Norwich Town.

The August devotional service at the Johnson home was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Charles E. Reeves conducted the services, reading from the Scripture found in 1st Samuel chapter, 20, 17 to 23. Rev. Mr Reeves chose for his theme, "Unconscious Usefulness." The music was in charge of C. M. Beece, assisted by Miss Bessie Grant, Miss Mary Wattles and Oscar Henricks. Mr. Henricks also sang "Heaven Is My Home."

This is the annual meeting of the New England council, which meets this year in Connecticut for the first time in five years. Mrs. Robert F. Gadd, president of the Connecticut Federation of Women's clubs, is in charge of the program. Representatives from each club in the state will constitute the welcoming committee.

EFFICIENT MINISTRY OF REV. GEORGE H. EWING

Rev. George H. Ewing whose death was noted in The Bulletin Saturday, August 23rd, was for over fifteen years pastor of the First Congregational church. He resigned to take up work in the Chinese labor battalion in France. His work here was distinguished by an efficient ministry, he having marked ability as a preacher. He was especially interested in the young people of the Endeavor society and the Sunday school. His sympathy went out to those who were sick and afflicted. During his pastorate, there were a number of accessions to the church. Those who were privileged to have him as their pastor will cherish the memory of his years here with gratitude and affection.

DREDGER QUITS OPERATIONS ON THAMES RIVER CHANNEL PROJECT

Operations in the deepening of the Thames river channel have come to a halt, through the departure a week ago of the dredger which was, for several weeks this summer, engaged in scooping up the river bottom below and in the vicinity of the plant of the American-Thermos Bottle Co. Until a week ago the dredger had been in operation 24 hours a day clearing the channel to the required 18 foot depth called for in the specifications.

Operations ceased Friday, August 15th and the dredger, owned by Morris and Cummings of New York, went down the river for an undetermined destination. It could not be learned Sunday whether the dredging project has been completed, or a temporary halt called in the work. It is understood that when dredging operations were resumed in the river several weeks ago there was in the neighborhood of 300,000 cubic yards of river bottom to be removed and that the dredger was capable of removing 100,000 cubic yards a month.

Officials of the Norwich chamber of commerce, which organization has been actively identified with the Thames river project have no knowledge as to the reason for the departure of the dredger, and will make an inquiry to ascertain the status of the project.

POETRY

To Music

Ah music, thou sweet sprit
Thou trammelest my feet
With blossoms of delight
And tendrils of defeat.

Drugged by thy soft content
I let the charmed hours pass;
Days without effort spent
Drift by as in a glass.

Still, still thy strains allure;
I nothing lack of peace
Save that which makes secure
The power to bid thee cease.

But bewildered by delight
I stumble amid flowers,
While in my dream's despite
The minutes run to hours.
—William Kean Seymour.

Battle Cry

More than half beaten, but fearless,
Facing the storm and the night;
Breathless and reeling, but tearless,
Here in the lull of the fight,
I who bow not but before Thee,
God of the Fighting Clan,
Lifting my fists I implore thee,
Give me the heart of a Man!

What though I live with the winners
Or perish with those who fall?
Only the cowards are sinners,
Fighting the fight is all.
Strong is my Foe—he advances!
Snapped is my blade, O Lord!
See the proud banners and lances
O spare me this stub of a sword!

Give me no pity, nor spare me;
Calm not the wrath of the Foe.
See where he beckons to dare me!
Bleeding, half beaten—I go.
Not for the glory of winning,
Not for the fear of the night;
Shunning the battle is sinning—
O spare me the heart to fight!

Red is the mist about me;
Deep is the wound in my side;
"Coward," thou cryest to flout me?
O terrible Foe, thou hast lied!
Here with my battle before me,
God of the Fighting Clan,
Grant that the woman who bore me
Suffered to suckle a man!
—John G. Neihardt.

GEN. MANUEL PONCE HEADS NEW GOVERNMENT IN PERU

President Leguia Resigned Yesterday in Compliance With Demands of a Military Junta—New Government Guaranteed Deposed Dictator Safe Conduct Out of the Country—He was Taken Aboard a Cruiser to Be Transferred at Sea to a British Steamship Bound For Panama—New Government is Pledged to a Policy of "Progress, Concord and Moral Sanitation."

LIMA, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau steamed into the Pacific ocean today, carrying into obscurity President Augusto B. Leguia.

The 67-year-old man who seized the Peruvian government by a coup d'etat in 1919, and since had ruled the country as a dictator, resigned before dawn this morning in compliance with the demands of a military junta.

Thereupon the junta immediately established a new government, headed by General Manuel Ponce, and announced that its policy under the existing constitution would be one of "progress," concord and moral sanitation."

Then the government guaranteed safe conduct out of the country to the former president, and the journey to Callao, port of Lima, began. At 3:15 o'clock this morning, accompanied by his son John, his son-in-law, Alfredo Larranaga, and the remainder of his family, Leguia went to the dock and walked a board to the Almirante Grau, which immediately steamed out. The cruiser was scheduled to connect at sea with the British steamship Orduna, due in Panama Aug. 25. Some of his supporters were at the pier and they cheered him farewell as the cruiser pulled out. Catcalls were heard from others on the pier.

The dramatic events which unseated one of the strongest rulers of South America began only a few days ago. Late last week the garrison at Arequipa revolted under the leadership of Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro, and the revolt soon spread to other districts in the southern part of the republic.

Nothing occurred in Lima, but the city had a restless air yesterday. This grew into excitement when the cabinet, of which Huaman De Los Heros was premier, resigned in view of the southern movement. The ministers were reported to have become dissatisfied at a meeting Friday, when some of them suggested that Sanchez Cerro be given command of the army. Leguia refused.

Meanwhile, students began demonstrations during the morning, shouting "Down with the dictator; long live liberty;" and were not disturbed by the police until one group was dispersed at the door of the government house.

In the face of this the president, who has a large racing stud, followed his usual Sunday custom of going to the St. Beatriz racetrack. There he received an ovation from a little group of friends in the official grandstand, the last for him on Peruvian soil.

He left the track about six p. m., and his motorcar escorted by police, was followed by students who shouted against the dictatorship. The cries were taken up by the great crowds, who by this time were being disgorged from the motion picture theatres. The party reached the presidential palace without incident, however.

Leguia then conferred for half an hour with his military staff and announced that the resigned cabinet would be replaced with a ministry under General Pedro Pablo Martinez. On hearing this news a group of officers informed the president that they would not accept Martinez, so the president designated General Fernando Sarmiento to head a new government. Others chosen for ministeries were: Julio Goicochea, Colonel Roberto Lopez, Colonel Montagne, Colonel German Yanez, and Rear Admiral Cesar Bielich.

At midnight President Leguia went to the government building to swear in the new cabinet. When all had been sworn in a dramatic interruption came with a military committee which said that no cabinet headed by either Sarmiento or Martinez would be satisfactory to the military forces.

While General Leonidas Gonzales told him this the president, pale but determined, attempted to continue the ceremony. Gonzales remonstrated and John, the president's son, placed himself before his father in fear that he would be attacked. Leguia finally gave in and the group adjourned to the president's office for further conference.

There General Ponce declared that the junta would not accept Sarmiento.

"Mr. President, you should resign," said Lieutenant Colonel Bueno.

"I am ready," said Leguia.

His son attempted to participate in the argument but was curtly ordered to hush by an officer. Sarmiento then attempted to take control of the situation, saying that he had been sworn in, but the military men would not recognize him and said they would go to any lengths to make their will prevail.

The president went to his private rooms without further argument and wrote a resignation which said:

"I hereby close another chapter in Peru's history."

He prepared immediately to leave for the steamer.

The junta then drafted a communique telling that a new government had been formed and saying that Sanchez Cerro, who started the revolt, would be given the post of minister of war. General Ponce was made president and minister without portfolio. The others are as follows: Captain Julio V. Goicochea, foreign affairs; Colonel Eulogio Castello, government and police; Lieutenant Arturo Zapata, justice and public education; Colonel Ricardo Llona, finance and commerce; Sergeant Major Eduardo Castro Rios, public works; Rear Admiral Cesar Bielich, marine and aviation.

All of this made a great day for the populace of Lima. As early as 4 o'clock this morning the central thoroughfares were filled with excited crowds, shouting "Long live liberty; long live the army; long live the navy." No one slept apparently.

OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF THE SITUATION IN PERU

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The state department is not unduly concerned about the safety of two American aviators reported in the hands of Peruvian revolutionists.

Officials, in touch with conditions in the country, expressed the opinion tonight that the two men, Captain H. B. Grow of Greenville, Mich., and Elmer Faucett of Savona, New York, soon would be released. It was felt that President Leguia's resignation had largely wiped out the cause for further disorders or armed uprisings.

Grow, a graduate of the Naval academy and World war veteran, went to Peru in 1923 as a member of the naval mission to that country. He resigned in 1926 at President Leguia's request to further Peruvian aviation. He accepted a commission as lieutenant commander in the U. S. naval reserve in February, 1927.

Faucett is an official of the Faucett Aviation company. First reports were that the revolutionists seized an airplane belonging to his concern but from Buenos Aires came word that he also was held at Arequipa. Grow was captured Sunday morning at Camana.

Commerce department officials took an optimistic view of the situation as it affected American investments in Peru. Estimates of the American investments in Peru place the total at approximately $200,000,000. Of the total $75,000,000 to $80,000,000 was said to be invested in Peruvian government bonds; approximately $80,000,000 in copper mines; $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in commercial and miscellaneous enterprises; and between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 in utilities.

WHITES CONTAMINATING THE SEMINOLE INDIANS

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 25—(AP)—Charges that Seminole Indians are faced by deplorable conditions from association with "irresponsible members of the white race in villages back of Miami" were contained in the report made public today by Clement S. Ucker, a member of the board of United States Indian commissioners.

Mr. Ucker came here some time ago to investigate reports that the Indians were suffering from high water, disease and lack of food.

The report referred to allegedly alarming social and moral conditions during the last year and a half, and asserted:

"The changed condition of affairs is due directly to bootleg liquor and to the harboring of girls in so-called 'places of amusement' back of Miami.

"Wholly irresponsible people construct a 'typical Florida jungle' and in the center of this jungle is erected a typical Seminole camp.' The visitor is charged 25 or 50 cents admission to see a Seminole Indian village. A Seminole man is hired to look after the Indians. He pays them, feeds them, cares for them and keeps the camp supplied with Seminoles.

"Moonshine liquor is readily accessible to the young fellows and the old ones too. Its effect is absolutely and totally demoralizing."

The report recommended enactment of a law providing a ten-year prison term for making liquor available to a Seminole; ten years for improper social relations with a Seminole; and recommended establishment of an advisory council in Florida to handle complaints by Seminoles or others regarding the Indians.

The people of Poland seem to view the marshal's return to the helm of the state favorably and hopefully. The general opinion is that the diet in the future will have rough sailing.

German Flying Boat To Alight In N.Y. Bay

Landed at Halifax Yesterday—Capt. Von Gronau to Resume Flight Today.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, German flying instructor who took off from Germany a week ago on an unannounced flight to America, landed here today after having accomplished the westward airplane crossing of the North Atlantic.

In an old rebuilt flying boat which had already known two great adventures, Captain Von Gronau and his three companions will continue on tomorrow to New York, their destination.

A week ago today they hopped off from the Isle of Sylt, in the North Sea off the northernmost part of Germany. No one then knew that the unassuming quartet, in a winged boat that had flown the Arctic air lanes and had failed once to cross the Atlantic, were turning their eyes to North America.

Their first stop was the Faroe Islands. From there they went to Reykjavik, Iceland, where they announced that they would return to Germany as soon as they were rested. But instead of retracing their trail across the sky they turned toward Greenland and their next alighting place was Ivigtut. Thence the course was laid to Labrador.

Yesterday, the first men ever to cross the North Atlantic in a flying boat flew to Queensport, N. S. The flight to Halifax was completed today after a stop enforced by fog at the little fishing village of Marie Joseph 80 miles to the east.

Tomorrow, Capt. Von Gronau plans to push on to New York and to alight in the harbor or in one of the rivers bounding Manhattan.

The flying boat, a Dornier Wahl, bearing the insignia D-1422, is old as planes go, for away back in 1925 it was one of two vessels used by the late Roald Amundsen on an Arctic expedition. The next year it passed to Capt. Frank Courtney, of England, who tried to fly it to America but came down in the region of the Azores and was rescued after floating about the ocean for eight days. After that it dropped out of public view until the present flight.

There have been few previous westward crossings of the North Atlantic by plane. The United States army fliers, the German Bremen, and the British Southern Cross expedition accomplished the feat.

MIGHT TAKE-OFF FOR NEW YORK ABOUT 7 A. M.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, trans-atlantic flyer, tonight advised a representative here he and his companions intended to take off from Halifax about 7 a. m. (e.s.t.) tomorrow if weather conditions are favorable and land off the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor about 3 p. m.

CLEVELAND HOLD-UP MEN CHARGED WITH MURDER

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Three alleged hold-up men tonight faced charged of murdering Miller Wilkison, 23, Princeton university senior, during a hold-up early today of 40 guests at a fashionable party in the Shaker Heights home of Ray S. Dunham.

Those held for the shooting were Angelo Bell, 20; his brother, Mike, 16, and Ross Valone, 18. Police said the Bells confessed to the hold-up and named Valone as the engineer of the plot, and that Angelo admitted firing the fatal shot "because Wilkison was after my brother."

Guests at the party said five robbers participated in the hold-up, but the accused men said there were only three. They were heavily armed and masked, but their robbery efforts were those of amateurs. Seeing the robbers were nervous, Wilkison and several other guests advanced cautiously toward them, while the gunmen backed toward the door. Once outside, Wilkison grabbed Mike Bell and threw him to the ground. As the student started to get up, a bullet struck him in the head. He died two hours later.

While the hold-up was in progress, neighbors summoned police, and three patrolmen arrived in time to join with members of the party in pursuit of the fleeing robbers. They found Angelo and Mike, both wounded in a leg and captured them without resistance. The wounds apparently were accidentally self-inflicted, police said.

A .32 calibre revolver from which all bullets had been fired was found in Angelo's pocket. A 47.50 calibre rifle, known as an "elephant gun" was found where Mike was captured.

In addition to the three charged with murder, the police held for questioning the Bell brothers' father, Andrew Bell, 39. They found three revolvers, two rifles and 500 rounds of ammunition in his home.

Wilkison, who was a manager of athletics at Princeton, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Wilkison, of Shaker Heights.

The elder Wilkison is a prominent investment securities dealer. Durham, who was giving the party, is a prominent dealer in real estate.

STATE LUBRICATING OIL ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

HARFORD, Aug. 25—(AP)—Eleven leading oil companies won their case against the state of Connecticut today with a saving of millions of dollars to them, when a statutory court of three judges, sitting in the United States district court of Connecticut, ruled as unconstitutional the lubricating oil act adopted at the last session of the general assembly.

OUTPUT OF AUTOS 1,000,000 LESS THAN LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—The number of automobiles manufactured in the United States for the first seven months this year, was more than 1,000,000 below the output for the same period last year.

This was announced today by the commerce department which said the comparative figures were 2,481,311 and 3,726,283.

The campaign against noise in New Haven is getting under way. Mayor Tully has named a committee to study the matter.

Blood-Marked Auto In Brooklyn Garage

Located by Detectives After Questi[illegible]g Gangsters Arreste[illegible]rooklyn, Sunday.

NE[illegible], Aug. 25.—(AP)—Detective[illegible]ng up their seizure of the gre[illegible]England arsenal ever found i[illegible]ty, were led today along a [illegible]ained trail which started at a [illegible]use in the foothills of the Catsmountains.

[illegible]he arsenal—bombs, pistols, hand [illegible]enades, gas, bullet-proof vests and machine gun clips—was seized yesterday under a bed in a Brooklyn flat. Three men and a woman were arrested, friends or employers of Jack (Legs) Diamond, former bodyguard of the slain gambler, Arnold Rothstein.

Questioning of the prisoners led to the finding of a blood-marked automobile in a Brooklyn garage today. The car belonged to Harry Weston, owner of The Chateau, a roadhouse halfway between Kingston and Saugerties in the zone of influence of Diamond, who has a country estate not many miles away, at Acra.

Weston left his home on Friday in the car. He has not been seen since.

Police believed Weston was killed—if indeed he was killed—in Kingston or its environs, and asked the sheriff of Ulster county at Kingston to help search for his body.

Harry (Skunky) Klein, one of the prisoners taken when the gang arsenal was seized, told police he was a $75-a-week beer runner for Diamond, working out of Acra. He said he was summoned to Newburgh Saturday by a man named James McNamara and given $50 to drive the Weston car to New York and "ditch" it off a Brooklyn dock.

He drove the car down here Saturday, he said, but for some reason postponed the "ditching." On that same day Diamond sailed for Europe.

Arrested with Klein were James Dalton, chauffeur for Mrs. Diamond, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wichter, friends of the Diamonds, in whose home the three suitcases of gang implements were found. Mrs. Wichter fainted in the police lineup today after saying that she had not known what was in the cases. Wichter said the bags had been stored with him by a Boston sailor and he had been ignorant of their contents.

The seizure and arrests were made by detectives who saw Dalton talking to Klein, whom they knew as a beer runner, and followed him to the Wichter flat. When the Weston car was found today after Klein had told of bringing it here from Newburgh it had wooden blocks in it constructed for use as runways in driving it off the Brooklyn dock.

Dalton told police of taking Diamond to the Baltic on Saturday and being instructed to call for Mrs Wichter and take her to Acra to visit Mrs. Diamond.

Police would not reveal today whether they had sent a wireless message to the Baltic about Diamond, but it was generally believed this had been done. They did say Diamond was believed to have been engaging in beer running and imposing his racket rule on the region he had selected as his summer home. Klein's story gave color to this belief, for he related that at Acra there were four beer runners besides himself in Diamond's pay.

CRITICISM OF THE BRITISH MANDATE OVER PALESTINE

League of Nation's Mandates Commission Finds That the Fatal Troubles of Last August Should Have Been Foreseen, But Were Not—Maintains That the Arab Interests in the Face of Jewish Colonizations, Were Not Fully Safeguarded—Secretary Henderson Defended the Conduct of Great Britain.

GENEVA, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The whole case for and against Great Britain's exercise of her mandate over Palestine under the league of nations' mandate commission was laid before the world today in an official report and a supplemental memorandum issued with it by the British foreign office.

Great Britain replies with asperity to the commission's charges of negligence in having inadequately provided policing which would have averted last year's bloody Wailing Wall conflicts and their consequences to the development of the Arab executive's plans as well as the enlargement of the activities of the Jewish National home.

Besides holding the mandatory power responsible in large measure for the disorders in Palestine the commission discusses lengthily the question of Jewish immigration, in this latter instance viewing "with approval the mandatory power's intention of keeping Jewish immigration proportionate to the country's capacity for economic absorption."

The report discusses the charges of the Jews against the Palestine government that it did not fulfill by deeds the obligation to encourage the establishment of a national home. It points to the "fact that the government has shown itself unable to provide the essential condition for development of the Jewish National home — security for persons and property."

The commission report points out that the unprecedented phenomenon of the Zionist movement, with the intensive colonization which resulted on so vast a scale, was bound to cause a profound disturbance in the lives of that section of the population not concerned in the movement. The report adds that faced by a strongly organized Jewish body under a single control and with considerable capital at its disposal, the Arabs, with no organization, and no financial resources, were bound before long to have legitimate apprehensions regarding their economic future.

When the disturbances of last August occurred, resulting in more than 200 deaths, the mandatory powers had sufficient warning to have prepared adequately to prevent in large measure such disturbances.

Replying for the mandatory authority, Arthur Henderson, on whom responsibility for execution of the mandate rested, challenges the accurac or justice of many of the league's ndings and defends the British Palestine authorities against imputation o inaction and lack of foresight.

Upon one thing the mandate's commission and the mandatory power sorrowfully agree: The job of acting as umpire between the Jews and Arabs in Palestine is not an easy one.

It is not the mandatory power's duty to establish a Jewish National home—which the Jews themselves must do—but only to safeguard the Jews' rights to establish this home.

The general position taken by Secretary Henderson with regard to the complaints lodged by both Arabs and Jews was that Great Britain's pledge to safeguard the rights of all sections of the population without regard to race and religion, was a fundamental law with which certain aspirations conflicted.

The extremely delicate position of Great Britain in Palestine was recognized by the mandates body when it said: "The Jew accused the mandatory power of having hindered rather than promoted Zionist immigration and has done little to encourage the close settlement of the Jews on the land. . . . The Arabs consider that Jewish immigrants are receiving unduly generous treatment, that the number of immigrants authorized to enter the country is too great and that there has been no development of self-governing institutions."

In another connection the league commission fully associated itself with the sentiment of the British spokesman, who, appearing before it, said: "No government can do good constructive work for the whole country while it has constantly to act as an umpire."

The mandates body, in addition to approving the restriction of Jewish immigration to the country's power to receive and absorb it, urged that the government concern itself with the social and economic adaptation of the Arab population to the new conditions caused by Jewish immigration.

It also suggested extensive land development to increase the possibility of absorbing immigrants and advocated an educational campaign among the Arabs to show them that the country can be developed in a way to accommodate Jews and Arabs together in great numbers.

Immediately a hand-to-hand fight began. The mullah was seriously wounded in the British onslaught and subsequently died. Eight British infantrymen were killed and ten injured. Thirty-two tribesmen were slain, 14 wounded and 70 captured.

No wonder baking is perfect . . with Calumet's DOUBLE-ACTION

MAKE THIS TEST
See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that takes place in your mixing bowl.
After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture rises to the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that takes place in your oven. Make this test today. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

CALUMET'S Double-Action makes it easy to bake perfect cakes. Its first action—in the mixing bowl—gets the leavening started. Its second action—in the oven—is a full steady rising that lifts the batter up and holds it until your cake is perfectly baked—high and light, even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature perfectly . . . Make a pan of Calumet muffins or a cake and you'll soon see why Calumet has become the most popular baking powder in the world!

ONLY ONE LEVEL TEASPOON OF CALUMET TO A CUP OF SIFTED FLOUR!
That's the usual Calumet proportion. Be sure to follow it even though you may have been using nearly twice as much with other baking powders. You'll be delighted with this economy! And more than delighted with the results Calumet gives you. Perfect texture! Perfect flavor!
All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action. Not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action—Double-Action. Get a can of Calumet from your grocer today. Notice Calumet comes in full-sized one pound cans.

DANIELSON

PLAINFIELD MAN SUED FOR DAMAGES BY KILLINGLY WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 25—A suit for the recovery of damages amounting to $2,000 has been filed in the superior court at Putnam, against Alfred J. Bousquet of Plainfield, by Elizabeth Marsden of Killingly. The suit instituted by the Killingly woman is the result of an auto accident which occured in Plainfield on the Danielson-Norwich highway, on June 22, 1930. According to the various motions entered in the writ, the plaintiff alleges that the car driven by Bousquet, was being operated at an unreasonable rate of speed, in a careless and negligent manner, when the width and turn in the road and the amount of traffic on the highway at the time, is considered.

The plaintiff was a passenger in a car being driven by Alfred Baldwin of Plainfield. As the result of the collision between the Baldwin and Bousquet cars, the plaintiff claims that she sustained serious and permanent injuries. Process has been served on Bousquet, who has recognized the suit, which is returnable in the superior court on the first Tuesday of September.

Two Brooklyn men, residents of the Quebec section of the town, are under arrest on charges growing out of their alleged violation of the state fishing laws. They are Joseph Mazzarelli and Anthony Jamowski, both of whom were taken into custody Saturday evening by County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels of Plainfield, who accosted them while fishing in the Atwood lake near Wauregan and found the anglers to be using lines having more than two baited hooks.

It is probable that one of the men under arrest will be charged with attempted bribe, and the other will be arraigned on an additional charge of attempting to destroy evidence of guilt. Both will appear in town court Tuesday morning.

With the conclusion of his duties Saturday evening, Francis Harrower, will end his career as assistant agent of the Wauregan mills, a position which he has held for a number of years. Announcement was made today that Mr. Harrower has submitted his resignation, which will become effective at the end of the week. Mr. Harrower, is the son of a Worcester physician and surgeon. Since coming to Wauregan as an official of the textile organization there, he has been a progressive member of the community and has closely allied himself with all Wauregan advancement programmes. He is well known, not only in Killingly, but in other parts of the state, where he has associated himself with the manufacture of textile products. As yet Mr. Harrower has made no definite plans for the future, but in departing from Wauregan, he will take with him the good will of every member of the community, who deeply regret his going.

Borough Fire Chief A. Putnam Woodward, is making a survey of the conditions of chimneys in various homes and public buildings. During the past five years Chief Woodward has conducted campaigns against property owners whose chimneys are soot-clogged. Many have co-operated by having the flues cleaned with the result that the number of fire alarms during that period of time has been greatly reduced. In 1925, according to Chief Woodward's records, 28 alarms of fire were received during the year. Last year only 13 were registered. It is the aim of the fire official to lower the department record again this year, and this he says, can be accomplished only with the co-operation of the public.

The present season has been suggested by the chief as an ideal time to have the work performed, in order that chimneys may be in condition to effectively combat the first onslaught of winter weather—which as a matter of fact, is not many weeks away.

Strange things happen in Winsted, Conn., but during the past few months East Killingly has been producing inspirations for news copy, which have been of a more unusual calibre than many of the recent press despatches appearing under the well known Winsted date line. This time that community is credited with having concocted another snake story and the yarn by the way, first came to the attention of Killonians via the loud-speaker of the radio.

While the whole thing is considered to be of a fictitious nature, is is one of the most amusing and laugh provoking yarns spun in some time. It appears that a man, whose identity has not been revealed, while in search of a well stocked fishing pond, happened onto a body of water in the vicinity of East Killingly and while strolling along the shore, observed a large snake in the act of devouring a frog. The fisherman's sympathies were with the smaller reptile and he captured the snake, forcing it to release its prey. Taking into consideration the fact that the snake may have been suffering from thirst, he reached into his pocket and emptied a portion of the contents of his whiskey filled hip flask into its mouth. He then took to fishing. With the passing of a few minutes, the fisherman was startled by a sudden and friendly slap on the back. He turned and to his surprise, glanced upon the same snake, gripping another frog between its jaws.

The funeral of Frank Barber of Dayville, was held this morning at St. Joseph's church, in that village at nine o'clock with a large number of relatives and friends in attendance. Rev. I. Kost, pastor of the church was celebrant of a requiem high mass. The bearers were A. Daniels, Alfred Tourchette, Fred Breault, Philip Goulet, Fred Lafevre and Napoleon Briere. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, Dayville. Undertaker L. E. Kennedy of Danielson was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Next Sunday morning will mark the commencement of the two day celebration of "Old Home Day" in South Killingly. Sunday's observance will be in the form of a religious programme and will be held with services at the "White church on the hill," of which Rev. Henry Coolidge is pastor. Both the church and the community house have been painted and groomed for the occasion, which it is expected will attract a large number of people to the village.

PUTNAM

RING LUMINARIES TO APPEAR AT BENEFIT SHOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 25.—In a telephone call Sunday afternoon, Frank Barber, of Danielson, who is Killingly's promoter of boxing art, was advised by Frank Flourney, well known matchmaker for the Madison Square Garden corporation, that three boxing headline characters in the service of the Garden will positively appear on the fight bill, which is to be staged at the state armory in Danielson on September 26, for the benefit of the nurses' home fund of the Day Kimball hospital.

Among the luminaries who will grace the armory ring on this night will be Al Singer, world's lightweight champion; Benny Leonard, colorful ring character who retired as undefeated world's lightweight champion; Jackie "Kid" Berg, conqueror of the well known Kid Chocolate, who is the world's junior welterweight champion, and last, but not least, will be the incomparable Joe Humphries, master of the megaphone, who will handle the announcing of the bouts.

Singer and Leonard will be seen in exhibition bouts. Berg will be seen in an exchange of blows with his sparring partner, who will accompany him on the trip to Danielson. In addition to the famous quartet, the committee in charge of the hospital benefit show will treat the fans to an unusually attractive card of other bouts, in which there will appear many familiar members of Connecticut's amateur boxing roster. Mr. Barber said this morning that the complete card will be announced on Friday.

With the assurance of the appearance of Singer, Leonard and the inimitable Humphries, the Danielson show promises to be one of the most attractive entertainment bills yet arranged for the hospital home fund. That the drill shed of the armory will be filled to its seating capacity is a foregone conclusion, as Putnam followers of fistic art, as well as Danielson fans, at this early date, are clamoring for an opportunity to enhance the fund which is to provide the nursing staff of the local hospital with a new home.

Financial embarrasment, boyish appearance and extreme youth, were three contributory factors that enabled Frank Veiga, colored, of Pawtucket, R. I., arrested Saturday night by State Officer James Carmody of the Danielson barracks, following an auto accident in South Woodstock, to escape a stiff fine and jail sentence, when arraigned before Justice A. R. Scranton, Jr., this afternoon in Woodstock court. Veiga was found guilty of a charge of reckless driving and operating without a license. A fine of $25 was imposed on the first count; $20 of which was remitted. On the second count a fine of $5 was imposed; $3 of which was remitted. This afternoon, friends of the young man came to his rescue, with a timely money order which was wired here in payment of the $7 fine and costs.

According to a story appearing recently in a Boston newspaper, Harold R. "Dick" Newcomb, former manager of the savings department of a Northampton, Mass., trust company and known to hundreds in Connecticut as the Master of Modern Melody, because of his leadership of a popular dance orchestra bearing his name, is now leading a gray clad prison orchestra at the state penitentiary at Charlestown, Mass., where he is serving a ten-year sentence for larceny of more than $285,000.

The debonair Newcomb and his band appeared in this city and at ballrooms in this vicinity on several occasions before the downfall of the "Master," who was arrested after the discovery of huge shortages in the savings department of the bank where he worked. As the Boston paper interestingly puts it, "Jazz tunes from tin pan alley brought about the downfal. of Harold Richard Newcomb of Northampton, widely known orchestra leader, but now the same chubby young man who was known to radio audiences as 'The Master of Modern Melody,' is attempting to make tin pan alley retrieve his lost reputation, pay back a quarter of a million dollars to the Hampshire County Trust company, and lay aside a nest egg against the time when he may be released from an eight to ten-year sentence.

"There's a vast difference between the expensive grand piano he used to play in his hey-day as a band leader and the battered upright in the chapel at state's prison, where he now does his playing. But the battered upright is turning out jazz tunes that Dick Newcomb never turned out in his palmiest days, now that the drive of adversity is spurring him on.

"Instead of leading his brilliantly uniformed 'Masters of Modern Melodies' Newcomb now leads the gray prison clad orchestra. His players of strings and woodwinds and brasses are not called by name, they are mere numbers. But they are playing jazz music in a way that would net them a fortune if they were on the outside."

Farrows street, from the intersection of Florence street, is closed to traffic while workmen are engaged in excavating ditches for the laying of a new water line, which is part of the reconstruction work of the city water system. The pipe is of a six-inch calibre and is to service consumers in the vicinity of the northern part of Farrows street and the Walnut street sections.

It was said today that if fair weather prevails during the remainder of the week, there is a possibility that contractors in charge of concrete road construction on the state highway between Wauregan and Danielson will have finished the task.

County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels, of Plainfield, was in Hartford today on business, pertaining to the duties of his office. On his return tonight, the warden said that the distribution of more than 2,000 pheasants in Windham county marshes will have been completed by the end of this week. The young birds, released for the benefit of sportsmen planning to follow the woodland pastime during the forthcoming hunting season, have been set out only in areas which are not in close proximity to posted lands. The birds are healthy specimens, Warden Daniels said, and are of such a breed that the sport is certain to be of greater interest this year than ever before.

State Officer Henry M. Mayo, of the Danielson barracks, is continuing his investigation of the robbery at the A. & P. Tea company's store on upper Main street, two weeks ago. Police reported today that valuable leads on the solving of the break in which thieves secured more than $300 have been obtained and are now being followed.

Painters are at work on the rectory of the Congregational church on Grove street, revamping the house inside and out, for occupancy by Rev. Joseph Vasey, of Terre Haute, Ind., newly appointed pastor of the church.

Miss Marjorie Bradford, of South Main street, was in Conway, N. H., over the week end where she visited with her niece, Miss Dorothy Bradford of Putnam, who is spending the summer at a large girl's camp there.

A number of members of the Putnam grange are at Durham, N. H., this week attending a New England conference of Grange lecturers, which is being held at the University of New Hampshire.

The September terms of criminal and civil superior court will open on Tuesday, September 3, it has been announced.

Miss Simonne Larose, of Woodstock avenue, is spending a week at Pleasure beach in Rye, N. Y.

Funeral services were held this morning at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock for Mrs. Rosanna Marion, of Church street, who died Friday. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

JEWETT CITY

CHARLOTTE ALBERTINE SUFFERS PAINFUL INJURY

Miss Charlotte Albertine, while on a visit with relatives in South Coventry Sunday, met with a serious accident. While walking on a fence the young girl missed her footing and fell into a deep hole. Her arm was broken close to the shoulder, the splintered parts of the bone protruding through the flesh in several places. When hurried to the Backus hospital in Norwich, it was advised, that on account of the serious nature of the fracture, and its proximity to the shoulder joints, treatment by a specialist would be of advantage. After being cared for until Monday morning at the Norwich hospital, the injured girl was taken to a bone specialist, in Hartford. The trip was made by automobile, Mrs. Albertine being accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Richardson, who offered her services as nurse, ministering such comfort as was possible during the 40-mile journey. Miss Albertine was graduated in the class of 1930 from Riverside Grammar school, and was to enter Norwich Free Academy in September. Much sympathy is felt for the family, as this accident is particularly unfortunate because B. W. Albertine, the girl's father, is in ill health.

Gladioli and dehlia bouquets were presented by Rev. G. F. Goodenough, the Pilgrim gardens and the Old Cluey Watson gardens. The treasurer, Frank E. Robinson said that arrangements for the formal opening were nearing completion.

Byron C. Willcox, of Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey, who with his family is spending the summer at Cornfield Point, was a caller in the borough Sunday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Elizabeth, and sons, Norman and Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. Alpherie Tetreault and daughter, Georgette, are home after two weeks' visit in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Chase, after spending this week at Misquamicut will enjoy six days' visit in Boston next week.

The borough electric light commission, agreeable to a recent vote of the warden and burgesses is setting new poles along the new state highway in Main street. The eleven new poles on the north side of the street together with the original, will be equipped with a lighting system of increased candle power. When completed a White Way will extend from the new bridge as far north as Park Square, in a straight line from the borough's river boundary.

Mr and Mrs. William Kalenburger have moved to Eddystone, Penn. where the former has a position. William Ferguson, formerly of Jewett City, is also located there. Both men until recently were employed here as printers for the Aspinook Co.

Mrs. Redmond Walsh has been visiting in New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough and family returned Monday from a three weeks' vacation at Pine Grove, Niantic.

FISK CO. CONTINUES LIBERALITY TO EMPLOYES

When the local Fisk Rubber plant shut down July first it was stated in this column that no rent would be charged to those who occupied the mill tenements as long as such occupants were out of work. At this time members of a few of the families have secured jobs, so that a certain percentage of rental is being collected. Fully three-quarters of the 400 operatives are being charged no rent at present. The matter of rental allowances is discretionary with the superintendent, W. A. Richardson, who is contemplating nothing in the line of hardship for his tenents.

Score Was 29 to 24.

Monday afternoon in what was said to have been a regular Indian contest, the Tadpole Athletics defeated the Junior Aspinook Sluggers 29 to 24. One Tadpolite made a six bagger. After reaching home on a circuit clout, he kept going, and ran to second base again for good measure, before the ball was fielded from a near-by cabbage patch. This remarkable feat is to be reported to the Philadelphia manager, with the result that the local slugger may appear with the Mackmen in the world's series.

The Blakeslee Construction Co. of New Haven is placing conduits under Main street to carry the wires of the Southern New England Telephone Co. The big pole, which at the corner of Slater avenue stands in the new right of way for the Quinebaug viaduct approach, is to be removed making a new cable connection at the exchange necessary. The borough electric linemen will also remove their wires to other poles. Commendation is due the Elm City contractor in that he has given employment to a gang of local laborers.

Carnival Steamboat Unseaworthy.

Although it will probably not be noted in the Maritime Register, among the list of vessels lost, yet a wreck occurred on the Ashland reservoir Saturday afternoon during the stiff northeast gale that roared down the pond. Geney Shorey's steamboat, the keel of which was laid down in local yards with especial construction for the Ashland club water carnival, broke loose from her moorings and blew down onto the big dam. The seamen on board were rescued after a hard struggle by the captain and coast guard. The boiler blew up and the stock went by the board, otherwise the salvage was complete. Captain Shorey says he hasn't much use for a steamboat that kept the crew at the oars and pumps all the time when a voyage was made over to the diving raft.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Couture of Hartford were week-end visitors at the home of Joseph Couture, of Dime street. Miss Rita Couture, Sylvia Bryant and Mrs. Leda Gingrass motored back with them. They will also visit New Britain and other places.

FEDERAL TAXATION

There remain many months before it will be possible to tell what the country's revenue is going to be for the fiscal year. It is thus too early to speculate on what the receipts are going to be or what they are not going to be. It is known what the income is at the present time but that gives no inkling of what it will be six months ahead, and it gives no clue to what business activity and its influence upon the income tax will be before the close of the treasury year next June.

To speculate on what features the opening of the year and predict what will be the case if such conditions remain unchanged is dealing with something which no one expects. Whether the 1 per cent cut in the income tax is continued will depend upon conditions. It was declared, at the time it was voted, to be a temporary measure and its continuance to be dependent upon favorable conditions. Naturally, the hope is that it will not be necessary to restore it, and of course that it will not be necessary to raise taxes in order to avoid a deficit. The president recognizes the injustice of trying to tell what may happen some time next year because of revenue conditions now. He contributes an optimistic, rather than a pessimistic, note to the situation. He is unwilling to let the unpromising statement stand without having it understood that it creates a wrong impression. He makes it clear that the government economies are going to have their influence, and that there is no reason to harbor the thought that the present revenue conditions are going to continue.

Backing the president up in this view is the expression by the secretary of the treasury. In his opinion there is ground for belief that the end of the fiscal year will be so different from the beginning that he will be able to recommend a continuance of the present tax rates.

The whole discussion about the increasing of federal taxation has been based upon a hypothetical question. There is no reason to expect that such a condition will continue. Indications point away from it and to better times and with better business there will naturally be a different basis for figuring federal taxation.

TEXAS DECIDES

Texas has gone through some very interesting political antics first and last but, try as they would, the Fergusons could not make it jump through a hoop again. It was not so many years ago that Texas had a most interesting and painful experience with "Jim" Ferguson. Even though it was necessary to put him out of office the state turned around and elected Mrs. Ferguson to the governorship, knowing full well that the impeached "Jim" would be the guiding force even though his wife held the office.

It was quite the same as predicted, but that didn't stand in the way of Mrs. Ferguson again being a candidate for the governorship this year, after the state had been experiencing the services of Governor Moody.

Even though Texas had put up with Ferguson government to its disgust and was further promised if Mrs. Ferguson was elected she would release all the prisoners in the state penitentiary, she received the largest number of votes in a large field of candidates in the first primary. Not getting a majority, a run-off was necessary and it was between the two primaries that the voters of that state had a chance to come to a realization of what was in store for them. With the nomination of Mrs. Ferguson, in a state where a nomination in the democratic party is considered as good as being elected, it was apparent that there would be a return to Ferguson policies with "Jim" Ferguson at the helm. With the nomination of R. G. Sterling, a successful business man who is interested in many enterprises, a business-like conduct of state affairs could be expected.

Even though it would seem to the outsider as if there was no question as to what choice should be made, there was a red hot campaign in which personalities were freely indulged in but after it was all over the voters went to the polls and made certain that no more Ferguson government was desired. It is true that Mrs. Ferguson, on the strength of the campaign that was made almost wholly by her husband, got a big vote but the majority was, nevertheless, heavily against her. The country would have looked on in amazement, however, had the result been in her favor.

THE BANKRUPTCY LAW

In view of the manner in which Solicitor General Thacher presented the defects of the bankruptcy law of this country to the American Bar association, it would seem hardly possible for any great delay in taking steps to overcome such conditions.

The solicitor general speaks from the standpoint of an expert. He knows what the conditions are by seeing them in actual operation. As a former federal judge he had unusual experience in this direction but, in addition, he has devoted time to study the workings of the law. Probably there was no better body before which to direct attention to these defects than the association of American lawyers, but there should be a reaction to the revelations which will be reflected in the necessary legislative action to overcome them.

When it is set forth that the law is encouraging dishonesty, promoting the inefficient handling of bankrupt estates, encourages the perseverance of crooked insolvents and provides such an insignificant return to the creditors, there ought to be no more severe indictment awaited before taking the necessary steps to correct such conditions.

When it is maintained that more than half of the bankrupts belong to other classes of insolvents than those intended under the law, when the law is apparently resorted to for decidedly different purposes than was intended, the time for a change has come. It is not improbable that those who have had experience had before this reached the same conclusions that the solicitor general has, but with such an authority, following personal experience and inquiry, pointing out that the bankruptcy law is not what it should be and not what was intended, it should not be expected that there will be a longer test demanded in the hopes for better things.

With the evils of the law set forth the cue is given to the changes that should be forthcoming. To neglect action under the circumstances is simply to countenance and encourage the weaknesses which have been revealed through long experience.

UNUSUAL WEEK END

In view of the fact that there were no fatal crashes over the week end, Commissioner Stoeckel of the motor vehicle department is inclined to regard it as the effect of the Save-a-Life campaign now underway. This may or may not have been the case, but he is certainly entitled to claim full credit, for the campaign is one which has served to direct the attention of the motorists to the mechanical equipment of their cars and to such use of the highways as will create greater safety.

This doesn't necessarily mean that there will be no more fatal accidents right away or in the near future, but it is a real accomplishment to get through an August week end, especially a pleasant one, without having a single death caused by a motor vehicle accident.

Just how big a part any campaign plays in causing motorists to give increased attention to safer highway conditions is hard to say. Certainly the success of any effort depends to a large degree upon the interest that is aroused and the cooperation that is obtained. When it is a matter of life and death that is involved, there is reason enough for all auto drivers to contribute their assistance. This involves careful driving, respect for regulations and a sufficient regard for the rights of others. With all handlers of automobiles doing their part to contribute to the safety of the highway, refraining from serious chance-taking and actually striving to prevent accidents, there will be more opportunities for the motor vehicle department and all others who are trying to better conditions to feel that desired results are being obtained.

The many fatalities are a severe condemnation of the kind of driving that many indulge in and the character of the equipment found on too many cars.

CHANGES AT MERIDEN

With the new superintendent of the state school for boys at Meriden settled on the job reports are coming of the marked changes which are being made at that institution. It is quite evident that save for outward appearances it will bear little resemblance to the school of other days. Even those who are at present located there must experience considerable difficulty in realizing that it is the same place.

That there should be such a pronounced change with the elimination of much that connected it with the past and the introduction of new policies, new equipment and new officials is not surprising. The school had been run in a manner which could not get the approval of the investigators. They found much to criticize, so a thorough housecleaning has taken place. The new superintendent, who made such an excellent record in Rhode Island, has different ideas regarding the conduct of such an institution than his predecessor, and he is proceeding to put them into effect.

The boys are going to encounter different tactics. Instead of being put in solitary confinement on bread and water for punishment they will find a different corrective plan, one that is expected to get better results and leave a lasting but favorable impression. Their family life is to be studied and consideration given to their cases in keeping with the conditions found.

Everything points to a decided reform at Meriden with the expectation that it will bring about the desired results. Much is expected from such an institution that cannot be obtained under handicaps. With those removed and a much more modern system set up the prospects for those who have to be sent there are more promising. At least, that is the goal aimed at, and Connecticut certainly hopes for the best.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—Washington, as well as republicans all over the country are rejoicing over the "pep" House Leader John Q. Tilson of Connecticut put into his reply to Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee. Tilson resents hotly that the blame of everything from rain to lack of rain, for heat, when it ought to be cold, and frost when heat is needed for crops should be placed on the republican party. He made a tremendously strong showing of how the confusion of the past session came about, through combination of insurgents and democrats, and that the party enacted much excellent legislation in spite of the handicap. Courage and the ability to analyse a situation and condition are two of Tilson's great qualifications as leader. He doesn't lose his temper, but when he feels his party and the president are being unjustly blamed for things that are beyond their control he is ready to strike out from the shoulder, no matter who gets the brunt of the blow.

The republican leadership of the house was very strong and acted in absolute team work. Speaker Longworth, Tilson as leader on the floor, and Snell of New York, chairman of the committee on rules pulled together every time, and made a team that could not be bluffed into letting the house be stampeded under pressure of the men in the ranks.

Col. Tilson is to be director of the republican national committee speaker's bureau of the eastern section this fall, with his secretary, Captain McCuen, in charge of the headquarters in New York city. Col. Tilson held that position with marked success during the Coolidge and Hoover campaigns, and the committee was insistent he also assume it for the 1930 campaign.

Except the old brick capitol, all the buildings up on capitol hill that are to be razed and make room for the new supreme court building are now things of the past. The old brick capitol as it is commonly called is existing under courtesy, that it may be pointed out to visitors till the last minute of preliminary preparations for erecting the new structure.

All Washington regrets that Chief Justice Taft could not have lived to be the first chief justice to preside in the new building. Mr. Taft headed the list of men who planned and carried out the plans for a structure in harmony with the dignity of the United States supreme court. The structure will be 385 feet long and 304 feet wide, and takes up the entire square facing the senate wing of the capitol, separated from it only by the capitol park, with its magnificent trees, and perfect lawn.

Instead of the cramped quarters of the court, now located in the middle of the capitol building, there will be ample room for comfort, convenience and an opportunity for library space adequate for the large collection of books; a lunch room, a kitchen, where lunches will be prepared for the court and the attendants; a private lunch room for members of the press covering the court proceedings. There will be a full corps of attendants, messengers and other attaches, beside secretaries, clerks and other high officials.

The building will cost upwards of $9,750,000 and with the lot of land and furnishings will reach a total estimated at over $12,000,000. The building commission is headed by a New England senator, the Hon. Henry W. Keyes of New Hampshire.

Many remarkable and interesting stories are going the rounds about what has happened in that old brick capitol of national interest. Perhaps that of how the custom of holding presidential inaugurations out of doors originated is one the least known yet one of the most important, for it led to a new order of things.

That was back in 1817 when James Monroe took oath of office. A small temporary platform had been erected in front of the building as the senate and house did not agree on what should be the order of exercises indoors. As the story runs the house, being the larger chamber, was entirely ready to have the ceremony performed there, and the senate seemed to be in accord, but insisted that its big red plush chairs be brought over from the senate chamber for them to sit in. That was too much for the house members, and discord broke out at once. 'Plain democratic chairs are good enough for any one" the house leaders are said to have declared. No chairs—no senators; plush chairs—no house chamber in which to hold the ceremony, seems to have been the critical situation. Then a compromise was effected, and it was agreed the ceremony should be out of doors. From that time, out door ceremonies have been held, except that of President Taft when a blizzard drove every one indoors, but several heavy storms have cut into the display of military and pageants, though the proposed ceremonies were carried out. The old brick capitol was used as a federal prison during the war and scores of noted spies were imprisoned there.

Edmund E. Schreiner, 83, has retired from service in the office of the controller of the treasury after 67 years of continuous service. He was the veteran employe of all departments, and at his resignation was superintendent of the office. He was eligible for retirement in 1920, but as he was so much younger in "his feelings" as well as his capability that an exception was made in case and he rounded out ten additional years in the service.

When Lincoln was assassinated Schreiner was an usher at Ford's theater. He entered the treasury service in 1867 and remained in the same division till his resignation last week. Mr. Schreiner says that records show that during his term of service, that office has destroyed more than $13,000,000,000 in frayed or torn bank notes, and prides himself that he has destroyed or supervised the destruction of more money, than any man who ever lived.

For the first time in the history of a Washington summer, the police were permitted to leave off their coats, while on duty. The intense heat was almost unbearable to the police who were on day duty, as traffic men, for they stood hours in the sun, with the mercury recording 110 official in the shade, and from their post in the middle of Washington's cemented streets it must have been many points higher. This "spell of weather" lasted nearly four weeks—and one newspaper referred to the "chill" that followed when the mercury got down to 88—and it was not intended for a sarcastic comment, either.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams of Boston, who sailed the cup defender in the recent yacht race, says it costs much to defend cups and gives some interesting figures. It has been computed that to retain the silver flagon known as America's cup, the 120 members of the New York club must raise several million dollars to defend the American title. The cup itself has a money value of only $500 and was given by the Royal Yacht squadron of Great Britain. That was back in about 1870. Since then the cost of defending the title has jumped by strides, until the last estimate was figured to be $5,000,000 so writers familiar with the races have stated.

Many a woman keeps a dark secret in a bottle labeled "hair dye."

THE ENIGMATIC DOCTOR.

Mary Chard and Joan Bellant had very similar tastes which doubtless explained their perfect friendship. They danced gayly to the same music, delighted in the same books, enjoyed the same gastronomical dainties, selected clothes so similar that they gave the casual observer an impression of twinship. But now—

Well up until now their tastes had never been so entirely identical that both had decided to vamp the same man. Through school and college there was only one Dr. Shipley and neither could claim priority.

Homeward bound with four days of the Atlantic spreading adventurously before them. Less than twenty-four hours out of Cherbourg he had come strolling down the deck in time to help the girls adjust their deck chairs and unfold their blankets. Then he strolled on his way, leaving the girls a bit breathless.

"My dear," sighed Mary, "those eyes!"

"And hi shair"—breathed Joan—"black waves, the wind playing through it. Ah, romance!"

Dr. Shipley had circled the deck, he nodded to them as he passed on another round. The girls were decidedly autter. Rather suddenly one thought came to them both. Their eyes met in a friendly though questioning fashion.

"Well," demanded Mary, "shall we toss a coin for him?"

"No, indeed!" her friend replied promptly. "I couldnt bear to relinquish him without a struggle. All is fair in love and war, my dear, so to the victorious the prize! Shall we?"

"Agreed!" cried Mary.

In less than three hours they had learned many facts about the prize-to-be. He was Dr. Shipley of New York, traveling alone, a big authority on something or the other, spends two hours before breakfast out on deck, eats at a table with two other men. No one knew him intimately.

For the next few days Mary and Joan weren't seen together so much as formerly. They went about separate ways vamping Dr. Shipley. Mary engaged him in conversation concerning exercise, diet, traveling. It was obvious he found her interesting. With Joan he visited every nook and cranny of the ship and she listened beautifully while he raved over the beauty of the engines, the impressiveness of the stacks.

Mary played the role of health incarnate to gain his admiration. Joan feigned headaches and mal-de-mer to gain his professional interest. They seemed to be running neck and neck in his favor. It was maddening. Now they were only a few hours from New York and still he had shown no preference. The girls held a conference in their cabin and decided to force his choice.

Mary wrote a note on her precious pale blue stationery; Joan's was on alluring orchid, but the text of the notes, as prearranged, was about the same: "Would Doctor meet her in the lounge immediately. — Mary". "Would doctor meet her on the forward deck right away. — Joan." And while the notes were being delivered to his cabin by separate stewards, the girls laughingly wished each other lots of bad luck and hurried each to her designated rendezvous.

Fifteen minutes, twenty-five, a half hour passed. Mary, curled up on a davenport in a corner of the lounge, realized her defeat. Well, she must congratulate Joan!

Up on deck Joan paced away the half hour expectantly before she, too, admitted defeat.

They reached the cabin at the same instant, each rather nonchalant as to her defeat, and each surprised and puzzled by the other's appearance. But this was jolly, being able to comfort each other in disappointment. A note from the doctor explained things—they found it lying conspicuously on one of the beds.

"Awfully busy preparing a speech for a medical association I must address in New York tonight. Sorry.—H. H. Shipley."

"He isn't worth further discussion," Joan declared. "But the moral of this is—don't flirt with doctors! They might stand you up some night just because some patient got a tummy ache or a sneeeeze."

"And I am sure they forget birthdays and anniversaries, too!" Mary added sagely.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—A chance remark that the Hoover cabinet probably was composed of younger men than any recent presidential family caused the bystander to look up for his own satisfaction.

And it is not so.

Mr. Hoover's 10 executive first lieutenants average about where most cabinets since and including the Roosevelt cabinet have stood so far as age is concerned.

And the average age for cabineteers usually runs in the late fifties, sometimes in the sixties.

That is a very cheering thought for those of us going down the shady side of life. Here is one important lot of jobs not by preference given to "young men" under the Osler 40-year mark.

Exceptions

President Wilson's cabinets were notable exceptions as to age. His original group in 1913 averaged not much over 50 years. Redfield in commerce was 55, Bryan in state, 53. Four of that cabinet were 51 when appointed; three under 50.

The war cabinet also was young comparatively. There were three replacements of the original group, Lansing, Baker and Gregory vice Bryan, Garrison and MacReynolds. But the average age was 54.

The Roosevelt cabinet of 1906 figured out at an average of over 60 years. It had two men of 71 and one of 58 to season the group, then nine instead of ten strong as now, with the wisdom that comes with years.

The Taft cabinet also ran well up in age with one 74-year-oldster in Wilson of agriculture and one or two other seniors.

By contrast, however, Frank Hitchcock was postmaster general at 42, which is very young for a cabinet job.

Harding's "best minds" lot in 1923 when he died were well along in years. Hoover himself was the junior man at 49; but there were six of the ten who ranged between 60 and 70. Uncle Andy Mellon was 68 then.

The Coolidge cabinet of 1927 had no youngsters even after Dwight Davis suceeded John Weeks in the war department. Uncle Andy was then 72, Frank Kellogg 71, Harry New 69, Dr. Work 67, Sargent, 67. They were well seasoned with years.

And coming along to the Hoover cabinet, Uncle Andy is still going strong at 75. Stimson is 63, Adams 64, Lamont 63, Brown 61. There are plenty of years to discount Pat Hurley's youth at 47.

Distinction

From Roosevelt to Hoover, Uncle Andy Mellon has achieved the distinction of being the oldest cabineteer. Even before that time not many men of 75 were ever called on for cabinet duty.

And there have been very, very few to get cabinet jobs as young as Frank Hitchcock did, at 42.

YOUR HEALTH

MOSQUITOES NEED NOT BE TOLERATED

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)
By Bowman C. Crowell, M.D., Chicago, Chairman, Scientific Board, Gorgas Memorial Institute

The people of the United States are rapidly becoming mosquito conscious. When ever community awakes to the importance of a campaign to eliminate these pestiferous and disease-bearing insects, then shall much sickness and untimely death be prevented, and people in cities and country alike enjoy the great out-doors to the fullest extent.

Unfortunately, there are many communities where the people are not yet aware that the mosquito annoyance is preventable; that it is no longer necessary for us to allow these hungry insects to feed on us. Yet Gorgas demonstrated in Havana and Panama that this could be the case.

In both areas did General Gorgas wipe out yellow fever by destroying the yellow fever mosquito. If mosquito control can be accomplished in sections where they breed every day in the year, how much simpler should the problem be for us, where the mosquito breeding season is so much shorter!

The method used to conquer these pests in the tropics has come to be known as "The Gorgas Plan", and it is being used successfully in many sections of the country where the importance of control work is being realized.

The basic principle is to eliminate the breeding places, for mosquitoes breed only in stagnant water, by draining off the water or filling the depressions; it is essentially an engineering process and oil or other larvicides are used as substitutes only where drainage is not feasible.

The important thing to remember is that the effects of a program of mosquito control can only be permanent and successful when mosquito proof conditions are maintained. After the initial piece of work is accomplished the project cannot be forgotten and disregarded. There is always follow-up work to be done, and if it is not done mosquitoes re-appear and the money and time expended in the initial work are wasted.

The mosquito engineers of the Gorgas Memorial Institute have successfully developed a "mosquito conscience' in the many districts they have served. In these communities we find the happy golfers, the unmolested picnic parties and successful, well-attended concerts and other out-door entertainments. Here also we find health conditions above the average.

When all people everywhere understand the menace of mosquitoes, both from the standpoint of health and comfort, and the simplicity and small cost of the measures necessary to abate them, there will be universal co-operation in the campaign to destroy one of the greatest enemies of mankind.

The control work which is now under way in several sections of the country can be duplicated wherever mosquitoes exist and the Gorgas Memorial, following in the footsteps of General Gorgas, stands ready to co-operate with all communities who want mosquito freedom.

Stories That Recall Others

O. K. With Mother

One day while entertaining a guest Edwin's mother was called to the phone. Edwin promptly disappeared from the room to return with an expensive looking box of chocolates. After giving some to the guest Edwin selected several for himself.

"Are you sure your mother knows we are eating this candy?" the guest asked.

"Sure!" said Edwin. "Didn't you see her frown and shake her head when I came through the hall with it?"

Heat Control

Grandpa missed the usual morning greeting from Albert. His inquiry to the boy brought forth the following youthful logic:

"On account of this hot weather, we are going to seesaw on the speaking; it's not my turn until tomorrow."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut,

Tweedy Silk Mills Incorporated, Danbury

Tweedy Silk Mills Incorporated was developed from the firm of Butler & Tweedy, which was organized in 1887, at a time when nearly all the hatband used in this country were imported. The firm was soon operating a small mill at Mt. Carmel, Conn., using four looms and was one of the first to make hat bands for home consumption.

Mr. Butler left the firm in 1893 and the business was carried on by Arthur E. Tweedy, under the style name—Tweedy Silk Mills.

In 1897, increased business made it necessary for the firm to build an addition and in 1910 when still more space was needed, a large brick mill of "saw-tooth" construction was built. At this time a stock company was formed and in 1911 the concern was incorporated under the state laws of Connecticut.

In 1923 it became necessary to again enlarge the mill and an extension 120 x 60 was added to the weave-room; and, an administration building and power-house of brick was also built. Then, in 1925 when a dye-house and dressing plant were built—also of brick—this completed one of the largest, most attractive and most complete equipped plants for the manufacture of the medium and better grades of hat bands in the country.

The present officers are: Arthur E. Tweedy, president; James D. Biggs, secretary and treasurer.

ROMANTIC ROSES ARE WINTERS' FIRST FLOWER

PARIS, Aug. 25—(AP)—Roses are the flower most favored for evening wear at the dressmaking houses.

One of the leading stylemakers tucks a couple of big roses in the front of nearly every dance and dinner frock. As a rule they are attached without stems or foliage.

Pale yellow and shell pink are smart with white gowns. White roses on black are much newer than gardenias or carnations.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

The vegetable market developed but few changes during the past week. The range of quality of most vegetables on sale is wider now than earlier in the season. Supplies now arriving consist of both early and late varieties. Late kinds as a rule are of higher grade and higher priced.

Tomatoes were more plentiful this morning and rather draggy. Sweet corn was very low priced and in fair demand. Lima beans were fairly liberal with heavy well filled stock bringing the high quotations. String beans were in light offerings and in active demand while shell beans were selling slow.

Native peaches were more plentiful and good stock in moderate demand but apples were moving rather slow even in the better grades.

Native eggs remain firm. Pullet eggs are increasing in offerings but full size graded stock was in lighter supply. All live poultry was weak.

KITCHEN QUESTIONNAIRE 2

HOW CAN I PREPARE "BAKED STEAK"?

To preserve meat juices in steak, bake it with a thick layer of Ivory Salt on both sides, remove from the oven and scrape off the encrusted salt. This assures full flavor without "saltiness."

NORWICH CHAPTER AHEPA SENDING LARGE DELEGATION TO SOMERVILLE PARADE

Nearly 50 members of Norwich chapter, No. 110, of the Order of Ahepa, in addition to the official delegate, Theodore Phillips, will attend today (Tuesday) the eighth annual convention of the Order of Ahepa, which is being held at Somerville, Mass., this week. A number of the members will remain in Somerville for the remainder of the convention, which opened Sunday and will close Saturday. Today there will be a parade and the unveiling of a statue of George Dilboy, World war veteran, who died in France while in service for the United States, will take place. The statue is a gift of the National Order of Ahepa to Somerville, the home town of Mr. Dilboy, and was erected at a cost of several thousands of dollars.

The local delegation will make the trip to the convention city by special bus which will leave in front of the Chelsea Savings bank at 7:30 o'clock this morning. The committee in charge of local arrangements includes Christ Alexopoulos, Christ Stamos and William Stavrou.

Private George Dilboy was born of Greek parents at Alatsata, Asia Minor, on Feb. 5, 1896. He came to the United States when a young man and became an American citizen. He enlisted and served on the Mexican border in 1916. He re-enlisted in the World war and went over seas with Company H, 103rd Infantry, 26th Division, U. S. A. He was killed in action on July 16, 1918, near [illegible]au, France. His heroic death was one of the outstanding features of the World war and he was posthumously awarded the Congressional medal of honor the highest decoration possible that the United States government can bestow on any man. His body, which had been taken to his home in Asia Minor for burial, was desecrated by the Turks, who captured that country. The United States government rescued his remains and brought them back and they were laid to rest in the Arlington National cemetery.

His citation reads: "Award, posthumous, of medal of honor.—By direction of the President under the authority of the act of Congress approved July 9, 1918, secretary of war has directed the award of a congressional medal of honor posthumously to George Dilboy, private, first class, Company H., 103rd Infantry, for gallantry and intrepidity in action above and beyond the call of duty near Belleau, France, July 18, 1918. After its platoon had gained its objective along a railroad embankment, Private Dilboy, accompanying his platoon leader to reconnoiter the ground beyond, was suddenly fired upon by enemy machine gun from 100 yards. From a standing position on the railroad track, fully exposed to view, he opened fire at once, but failing to silence the gun, rushed forward with his bayonet fixed, through a wheat field toward the gun emplacement,—falling within 25 yards of the gun with his right leg nearly severed above the knee and with several bullet holes in his body. With undaunted courage he continued to fire into the emplacement from a prone position, killing two of the enemy and dispersed the rest of the gun crew."

FUNERALS

Miss Maude L. Eiler

Funeral services for Miss Maude Lester Eiler, R. N., were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Norwich Town Congregational church with a very large attendance of relatives and friends. Among those present was a delegation of about 25 members of W. W. Backus Hospital Alumnae association, which assembled in a body to pay a final tribute to a loving friend and companion in the profession of registered nurses. There also were several student nurses present. The services were conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, and Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of Bozrah Congregational church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. Mr. Strouse spoke in commendatory words by saying that this beautiful girl who chose to throw her life on life's battlefield of sacrificial service, had fought life well until the last. She did not spare herself, wholly sacrificially to others, for she was stricken down when life was sweet and rosy, this brave and noble spirit. He also read a poem entitled "Ancient Sage," by Tennyson. During the service the church soprano, Miss Bernice Underwood, sang Lead, Kindly Light and Sunset and Evening Star, the last by special request, with Organist H. L. Yerrington playing the accompaniment. The services at the church closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Bailey, who also read the Scripture from Psalms.

There was a profusion of beautiful floral remembrances banked on the church platform and in front of the pulpit.

Relatives and friends were present from Fall River, Worcester, Mass., Wethersfield, Bozrah, Uncasville, New London and Norwich.

The bearers were Edward Shannon, of Fall River; Kenneth Fox, Harry Lathrop and Charles Frink, of Norwich. After the body had been borne from the church, the Nurses' Alumnae association formed an aisle for the bearers to pass through.

Burial took place in Maplewood cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Bailey and Rev. Mr. Strouse conducted the committal service. The arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Charles A. Gager.

In the death of Miss Eiler a promising young life has been cut down in the spring time of her chosen profession, of which she was most prosperous, being called upon by some of the well-to-do families of Norwich to administer to their needs in times of illness or accident, on many occasions. It was not an infrequent occurrence for her services to be solicited in the same families more than once. For some time previous to relinquishing her duties as a registered nurse, she was seriously handicapped with a fatal malady, though she did not give up until her strength compelled her to do so in the the early part of this summer. Born in New London, July 17, 1902, she was the daughter of the late Charles Eiler of New London and Mrs. Annie (Eiler) Pike of Worcester. After the death of her father, when she was three years of age, with her two sisters, Mildred and Marguerite Eiler, she was placed in Rock Nook Children's home, remaining there until she was 14. During this period she attended the First Congregational Sunday school. When leaving Rock Nook home, Maude Eiler was taken into the family of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Lathrop of Bozrah, who reared her to young womanhood, her home being with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lathrop thereafter until entering the W. W. Backus hospital training school for nurses, she having been graduated in the class of June 2, 1925, just five years previous to her entering Uncas-on-Thames, where she died Friday morning, Aug. 22.

When the elder Mr. and Mrs Lathrop moved from Bozrah to Norwich Town, she continued her home with them on Wauwecus street, until taking up her residence a few years ago with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lathrop of Washington street.

A coincidence is that her mother, who was Annie Shannon, was also brought up at the Lathrop home in Bozrah. Miss Eiler is pleasantly remembered by her friends in Bozrah, where she was a member of Bozrah Grange, also by Norwich Town friends when residing there.

Besides being a member of the Nurses' Alumnae association of W. W. Backus hospital, she was a member of the Nurses' Association of America. Besides her mother and sisters, she is survived by an uncle, Philip Shannon of Fall River, Mass., two uncles in New London, Henry and George Eiler, and one aunt, Mrs. Charles Avery, of Bozrah.

Mrs. John F. Kelly

At 8:30 o'clock Monday morning the funeral of Mrs. John F. Kelly was held from her residence, No. 92 Boswell avenue, followed by a requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. The mass was celebrated by Rev. James Dargan and the music was in charge of Henry J. LaFontaine, the organist, who played Chopin's Funeral March at the processional. At the offertory Mr. LaFontaine and Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis and as a waiting hymn, Mr. Sullivan rendered What Shall I Render? Lead Kindly Light was the recessional hymn.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery and the committal service was conducted by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May. The bearers were William Baer, Louis Hust, John Shannon, Charles Ruffo, Alfred Blanchette and Harold Perkins. There were many beautiful floral remembrances and many relatives and friends were in attendance. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Cummings and Ring.

Mrs. Joseph B. Sullivan

Funeral services for Mrs. Joseph B. Sullivan, formerly of Norwich, were held from her home, No. 174 Broad street, West Haven, Monday morning, at 8:30 o'clock, with many relatives and friends attending. At a requiem mass in St. Lawrence church, West Haven, at 9 o'clock, Rev. Fr. Finnance was the celebrant. The body was brought to Norwich by automobile cortege and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May. The bearers were John Sullivan of Groton, and Edward Sullivan, Thomas Wilson and Harold Walker, all of New Haven. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The local arrangements were in charge of Hourigan Bros.

ST. PATRICK'S PARISH BOYS ENTHUSED BY JOYS OF CAMP

The second week at Camp Rosary, Bushy Point, where the boys from St. Patrick's parish have been spending a vacation, started off very early on Sunday morning—to be exact, it was 5 o'clock. The boys were roused from their slumbers to get ready for the row across Baker's Cove and the hike to the Hotel Griswold, where each Sunday mass is celebrated at 6:30.

During the day a treasure hunt was organized, and the treasure was discovered by Thomas Foley. Late in the afternoon some of the boys returned to their homes, while others came to take their places.

Monday, the outstanding event was the hot dog roast in the evening on the beach, the boys constructing an elaborate fireplace with rocks, sea weed and sand.

Fishing Honors

Tuesday, the fishing record of the camp was broken when Malcolm McKeag and Thomas Foley each caught a dandy blackfish, which aroused the envious admiration of the rest of the camp.

Wednesday, boating, fishing and swimming were enjoyed, and the evening was enlivened by Francis Sullivan and Malcolm McKeag in a costumed sketch impersonating Gertrude Ederle. Arthur Aldi, with his banjo, gave unstintingly of his talent to add to the enjoyment.

One of the features of the camp was the stringed instrument orchestra and harmonicas led by Mr. Aldi, who spent much of his time during the two weeks at the camp.

Mysterious Visitors

Thursday will perhaps remain as the banner day in the memory of the boys, for on this day they admit that they received the thrill of their lifetime. The camp authorities had arranged for this thriller far in advance. Along about 9 p. m., while the boys were making merry in the assembly room three rough-looking men made their appearance, and in gruff tones demanded to see the camp director. John P. Corcoran informed them that he had gone across to the mainland for supplies, etc., and would be back presently. They decided to wait on the porch. Visions of rum runners, pirates, and what not, filled the thoughts of the boys, due, no doubt, to the stories they had heard. After some time the camp director returned, and in hushed tones the boys informed him that three men were looking for him. What did they want? No one knew.

Mr. Corcoran brought them in from the porch and the director introduced himself to them and asked what he could do for them. Their leader announced that a complaint of rum running had been made against this camp and they were sent to investigate it. Badges were duly exhibited and the boys were told to bring out their baggage for inspection. Everything was thoroughly gone over, in the meantime the flow of words between the searchers and the camp director becoming more and more irritating. After the baggage had been thoroughly searched, orders were given to search the camp. The kitchen was carefully gone over, even to the extent of smelling of the kerosene cans. The coffee pot hanging on the wall next drew their attention. Taken down and peered into, it disclosed a bottle about half filled with "evidence." Nothing else would do but that all hands were to be arrested and marched off, baggage and all. The camp director objected strenuously to the boys being subjected to such an indignity, and suddenly the lights being put out, the leader of the searchers and the camp director engaged in a rough and tumble match all over the floor in the dark. After a few fearful minutes lights were again on, and the camp director lay groaning on the floor, while the boys were looking into the muzzles of the biggest guns they had ever seen. The director "painfully" raising himself to a sitting position on the floor, wrathfully challenged the three to put up their guns and he would take them on, single-handed.

A Critical Situation

The boys shrieked their entreaties to him to calm himself and save himself from further injury. The searchers were then told that their brutal action led to the belief that they were not officers at all, but rum-runners themselves. They admitted they were, also that six of their number had been killed when their ship made its escape from the coast guard and they needed more help to man the ship. Their intention was to kidnap everyone in camp and take them aboard the rum-runner. The boat was waiting up the beach about half way to Bluff Point to take them on. (During the day a cruiser type yacht had opportunely anchored at that point on the beach, and as luck would have it, it was still there, which greatly helped in the deception). Orders were next given to take baggage and march up the beach at the point of the guns.

But the drama was not to end thusly, right must always triumph, and it did this time. Father Finnegan and Michael Wenzel were late visitors to the camp that night their presence being unknown to the boys. Their part was to wait in the bushes or under the trees until the party was going by, and then stage the rescue act. This was admirably done just before the open beach was reached and the "raiders" and all hands marched back to camp with their baggage.

Once with the "raiders" in their power the boys were ready to wreak vengeance on their would-be captors and threatened them with rocks and clubs. Only by the prompt action of the camp authorities was the danger of injury to the raiders averted. After several minutes more of action, including sending a fisherman for help to the Groton barracks, the boys were "let in" on the deception. A roar of relief and joy burst from their throats when they saw it was only a joke for their own amusement. During the height of the excitement of the "raid," one of the boys saw his chance and dove through the window screen and took refuge under the cottage. One made his way in the dark to a neighboring cottage and asked to be permitted to stay for the night, while still another parked his baggage between the rocks and made his way to the cottage of Mr. Powers where he wanted to stay for the night. The neighbors were all in on the joke and came over with the boys to enjoy the ending of it all.

The boys then cheered their visitors for their realistic acting, and after refreshments, the visitors started home, happy in the knowledge that they had been the means of furnishing unique entertainment for the boys.

The "raiders" comprised Messrs. William Yoke, leader; George Hagberg and Jos. Schaffhauser; the camp authorities being John P. Corcoran, Anthony Ulrich and Arthur Aldi. The rescuers were Father Terrence Finnegan and Michael Wenzel.

Saw Shamrock V

Friday, the wind and waves had increased in fury, and a dip in the surf whetted appetites that had always been good. Father Finnegan carried off all fishing honors by catching more black fish than all the rest of the camp combined.

The Shamrock V and the Erin passed the Point on their way to Newport.

Saturday, a rare treat was in store for the boys. A howling northeaster was lashing the water into mountainous waves and sweeping the Point with hurricane force. During the morning, two trips were made across the cove for supplies, and each time the two rowers were drenched to the skin by the spray and the splashing of the waves. A good impression was gained of the strength of the storm when no ships were anywhere in sight. When the brave Nesseco II, from Norwich hove around Eastern Point on her trip to Block Island the boys gave her three lusty cheers to encourage her on her way.

Up for Early Mass

Sunday at 5 a. m., the camp was aroused to make ready for the trip to the Hotel Griswold to attend mass. The storm had abated during the night, for which blessing all hands were thankful, and the trip across the cove to the mainland was made without a drenching. A farewell swim was taken and then all hands packed their belongings for the return home, with regrets that the camping season had come to an end.

Saturday evening the campers had enjoyed a marshmallow roast at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Powers.

Visitors at the camp during the week were Rev. Father John J. Reilly, Father James E. Dargan, Father Henry Murphy and Father Terrence Finnegan.

The camp was sponsored by Rt. Rev. Monsignor M. H. May, Rev. J. J. Reilly, Rev. J. E. Dargan.

In active charge of the camp were Messrs. John P. Corcoran and Anthony Ulrich.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varish St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mary of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

MARGARET FULLER WRITES ANOTHER BRILLIANT BOOK

Miss Margaret Fuller's latest book "The Golden Roof," will be released August 28th. Miss Fuller, of Norwich, accomplished author of Her Son Alma and other novels, has created a true romance in this new story, of Nikole, a Danish girl, who marries Conrad, a brilliant medical student. They go to Paris, and on the brink of fame, Conrad dies.

Nikole's devotion to her husband, to their young son Victor, then to the soldiers wounded in the war is the theme of this new and gripping story. As a critic has said, "Her characters are vital, happy people, who—in the last analysis—find life worth while."

It is a great pleasure to all Miss Fuller's Norwich friends and the admirers of her literary style and creative genius, that her health has permitted the completion of this charming story.

KATHERINE KUEBLER WRITES FASCINATING STORY

An artistic and unusual book just presented the Otis Library by its author is a tale which will delight every young child, "Hansel the Gander." It is written by Mrs. Katherine Kuebler, of New York, N. F. A. 1905, who is Mrs. D. J. McCormick, formerly of Norwich. The dainty book has the advantage of illustrations by Isle Bischoff, some of these pictures being in color and others in black and white. The story is a Bavarian legend and so compelling in interest is the volume that already it has been quoted and its illustrations copied in "The Horn Book." It is a volume of 45 pages and is being put forward for the holiday trade.

The United Kingdom has become the largest foreign market for American-made motor boats popular for sport and pleasure.

CITIZENS CAN CLINCH PENNANT IF THEY BEAT THE THERMOS CLUB TONIGHT

Big games have come and gone in the City league race but the biggest one, that which will probably decide the pennant winner for the year of 1930, has yet to be played. The Polish Citizens and Thermos Bottlers, leader and runnerup, respectively, come together this evening in the classic of the year. The Cits, by winning, will clinch the pennant while a Thermos victory will send both clubs pounding down the home stretch neck and neck. Should the Bottlers gain a verdict it will really be up to the Ideals to decide the race in the final two games scheduled. The Gasmen play the Citizens Thursday and Bottlers Friday.

With the "crucial" game still in the offing the standing of the two contestants is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Polish Citizens	10	3	.770
Thermos Bottle	8	4	.667

Should the Thermos come through with a win the standing will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Polish Citizens	10	4	.714
Thermos	9	4	.692

A Citizen victory on the other hand will clinch the title for them and will result in the following lineup:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Polish Citizens	11	3	.786
Thermos	8	5	.616

Regardless of who wins tonight one thing is certain—the winners will know they have been in a ball game. Both clubs are keyed to a high pitch having looked forward to the contest since July 31. It was on this date, it will be remembered, that the Citizens started the Bottlers tumbling with a decisive defeat. Prior to this setback the Hastedt-Driscoll combine had been wading through all opposition and was being picked by the wise ones as a sure winner.

Since the 31st the Bottlers have anxiously awaited the opportunity to avenge the setback and the Cits have been equally anxious to prove to the following that their win was no fluke.

During the past few games the Bottlers have been short a few men but tonight Bill Hastedt insists they will all be on deck. He will start Mike Nickerson on the rubber and in all probability Boots Greene will work from the Citizen box. Boots, it will be remembered beat Mike in the game of the 31st, allowing but three scattered hits.

There have been some pretty large crowds at the campus this season but it is expected that tonight's will break all previous records. League officials predicted last night that at least 3500 spectators would turn out for the affair. Despite the fact that everyone concerned does not favor betting on City league ball games there were a number of bets placed about the city last night, the odds favoring the Cits slightly.

The lineups for the game will be as follows:

Citizens	Thermos
Cimmy, ss	2b, Normandin
Leo Jarvis, 2b	rf, Hart
Lamory, c	2b, N. Lemieux
West, 1b	ss, Krauss
Lloyd Jarvis, lf	1b, Hamil

BRIDGES, A ROOKIE, PITCHES TIGERS TO WIN OVER BROWNS

DETROIT, Aug. 25—(AP)—Tom Bridges, rookie right hander making his first major league start today, held the St. Louis Browns in check for eight and two-thirds innings to give the Detroit Tigers a 7 to 5 victory, although Waite Hoyt had to come to the rescue of the former Three-Eye league ace. Hoyt pitched to the last batter after the Browns had rallied to score four runs in the ninth.

Bridges was in trouble most of the time because of 12 bases on balls, but tightened in the pinches, holding the Browns in seven hits. Hoyt went to the mound after Ferrell had cleaned the loaded sacks with a triple.

The Detroit sluggers got 11 hits, including a homer by Bill Akers. The Tiger infield backed Bridges' hurling with four double plays.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT PLANNED FOR COMING WEEK-END

After a summer of inactivity local tennis players and players from Eastern Connecticut will meet in a three-day tournament at the old Roque club courts during the Labor day week-end. This tournament takes the place of the regular Eastern Connecticut championships which were held at the Norwich Golf club courts in previous years but which were abandoned this year. The Eastern Connecticut tournament was held at New London this season.

Already there are some 30 players from the eastern part of the state entered in the tournament, play for which will start on Saturday and continue through Labor day when the finals will be played. There will be both singles and doubles play and prizes for the winners and runners-up in both divisions will be awarded.

Entries are being received by Shepard B. Palmer, Jr., and the list does not close until 6 o'clock Friday evening after which the pairings will be made. Those wishing to enter the tournament can call 1627 or 1157-J between 5 and 6 o'clock any afternoon. Entries from Baltic and Willimantic are especially desired.

SIMMONS ONLY ONE OF BIG SIX IN ACTION MONDAY

With only two games played in the major leagues yesterday, Al Simmons was the only member of the big six to get into action and he failed to do much in the way of upholding the honor of the "select." The Philadelphia slugger faced Sam Jones of Washington three times but got only one hit with the result that his batting average remained stationary at .391.

SMOKE SHOP ENDS LEAGUE SEASON IN CELLAR

The Smoke Shop played its final game of the 1930 City league season at the Academy last night and celebrated the occasion by dropping back into the league cellar. After winning two straight last week the West Siders proved that they could not stand prosperity and played miserable ball in losing to the Royals 7 to 1. The Royals, themselves were not so brilliant, their win being due partially to the fact that the Smokers were worse than they were.

Both clubs dragged through five and a half innings of baseball, playing an indifferent type of ball. They made a total of 6 errors, splitting even on the slips.

Eddie Kozlowski and Butsy Weisgraber took up the pitching burdens, the latter retiring in the midst of a rally in the fifth in favor of Zip Gero. Both sides secured six hits, the Royals clubbing five from Butsy's delivery and the other from Gero.

The winners bunched their runs, scoring 4 in the second on two hits and as many errors and three in the fifth on three safe swipes and one slip. The only West Side run was scored in the early sixth and was the result of two singles and one error. The leading hitter was Mickey Breen, Smoker second and third baseman, who had two singles. GREY BREWER WINS OPENING FEATURE AT GOSHEN TRACK

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 25—(AP)—Grey Brewer, owned by E. Roland Harriman of Arden, N. Y., and driven by the Goshen reinsman, William K. Dickerson, won the 2:14 trot, purse $2,000, the feature event on the opening day's program of the grand circuit meeting at Good Time Park today.

Peter Patch, favorite for the 2:14 trot, was nosed out in a close finish in the first heat by Bob Galloway, and Saint Guy. Breaks in the second and third heats ended Peter Patch's chances of winning. In the second heat Dickerson nosed out Bob Galloway and won the final head by half a length. Grey Brewer was a rank outsider in the betting, being held at ten to one, while Peter Patch was held at three to five.

A field of ten answered the bell for this event.

Volo Yorke, owned by Frank C. Niles of Kansas City, Mo.; and driven by Walter Breitenfield, won the 2:30, the other feature event on the day's program.

The event was a battle between the Niles trotter and Day Tide, driven by the veteran Harry Brusie. Both were held at even money. After being out in the lead the first heat, Brusie's gelding made a break and Volo Yorke won the heat from Edmund Butler's Elizabeth Dillon.

In the second heat Brusie won in a whipping finish and in the final heat Daytide made a break 50 yards from the wire, Volo Yorke winning.

Corporal Lee, owned by J. J. Roberts of Worcester, Mass., and driven by Harry Brusie, won the two-year-old pace from Cherry the Great, owned by William N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C. Both colts were held at even money in a field of seven starters, but Brusie had the lock in both heats in close finishes.

The heavy track dried out as the afternoon program progressed.

Colt events feature Tuesday's program, with the rich Hambletonian for a purse of $70,000 on Wednesday's program.

CRONIN'S HITTING HELPS JONES BEAT ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25—(AP)—Joe Cronin's timely hitting in support of Sad Sam Jones brilliant pitching gave the Washington Senators a 3 to 2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics today and at the same time cut the first place lead of the world champions to six and one-half games.

Lefty Grove, seeking his ninth straight and twenty-second mound victory of the season for the Mackmen, also was in rare form but he caught Jones on a day when the 38-year old Washington ace had the Athletics swinging wildly at his curve ball while Cronin was connecting with hits when hits meant runs.

Cronin's first part in the Senators victory came in the fourth inning, when he drove in Heinie Manush, with a homer into the left field stands. The A's were not long in tieing the count, however, coming back with two runs in their half of the same frame. Successive doubles by Bishop and Summa, followed by Foxx's sacrifice fly, were responsible for the two tallies.

In the eighth Cronin came to bat again and this time Sam Rice was perched on third with the score still tied. A sizzling single to right produced the winning run.

The game, witnessed by a crowd of 20,000, took on a world series' atmosphere with four umpires on the job. Hildebrand was behind the plate, Moriarty at first, Guthrie at second and Nallin at third.

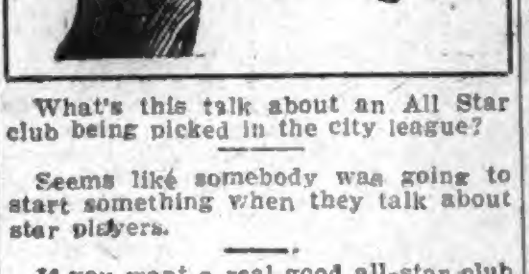
Army Coaches Report Thurs.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Army's coaching staff has been directed by head football coach, Major Ralph I. Sasse, to report here Aug. 28 to make plans for the opening practice on Sept. 2, when the academic year opens at the military academy.



What's this talk about an All Star club being picked in the city league?

Seems like somebody was going to start something when they talk about star players.

If you want a real good all-star club of the city league do as Luke Riley says, take the Polish Citizens and make three changes in the lineup and you've got it. Put Normandin on second, Nap Liberty on third and Hal Cummings in right field and you've got a club that will be hard to beat.

But here's what I should call a real all star club, a team that knows it's baseball even if it doesn't play it.

For the catch's berth I nominate Hank Morin. Hank has been right back of that bat for many seasons and can follow a curve with a mean eye. And besides it would take a mighty wild pitcher to miss putting 'em right in to Hank, he's such a substantial person.

Then for the pitchers I pick Tony Bernard and Luke Riley with Riley as first choice due to the splendid control he has shown at the games this season. Bernard is a little wild but has plenty of pep and speed.

Our choice for first base is Jim McCaffery. Jim is tall and rangy and should be able to stop most everything that comes his way.

Bert Lucas gets the second base assignment with George Gorman at short. Here's a pair that works well together, whether on a ball diamond or in the bleachers.

We assign the dizzy corner to Ed Burke who used to cover that territory thoroughly when he was a member of the third base gang.

For outfielders we recommend the arbitration board. Here's an outfield that would know all the rules regarding balls hitting buildings, trees, bounding through fire escapes and fences, etc. This is something that has puzzled the league players all season.

As for managers of this outfit we recommend Chief Linton, Judge Libby and Oscar Main. This trio ought to keep them in bounds all right.

VIC DARR IN FINE SHAPE FOR BOUT WITH PETERSON

Vic Darr, local battler who meets Eru Peterson of Worcester in the six round semi-final at Westerly on Friday evening, is right down to his best fighting weight and completes his training this evening. Vic surprised local followers of the ring when he knocked out Julio Rossi in the first round at Taftville a week or so ago and expects to take Peterson inside the six rounds. Darr is boxing much better than he was several months ago and his hitting is straight from the shoulder and carries plenty of power behind the punch.

In Darr's last tangle with Peterson he floored the Worcester-boy for a count but Peterson came back and took the verdict. Darr expects that when Peterson hits the mat on Friday night, he'll stay there.

Darr will go through a stiff workout this evening at Hickey's gym on the square, boxing several of the local boys. The local fans are invited to see the workout at the gym. To those who have not visited the gym it might be worth while saying that the gym is very nicely equipped and is one of the best training places in the eastern part of the state.

FAST HORSE RACING HERE ON LABOR DAY

The members of Nemrod Grotto have been working hard and long on their Labor day program, and they are planning to give Norwich the largest meet of running horses that has ever been held in eastern Connecticut. Already 16 horses have been entered and there is still time for more entries.

The committee has done very well in securing the Morgan Chaney outfit from C-Lazy Y ranch to come here for the day. Mr. Chaney is well known among the horse people throughout the United States, and has done considerable training of horses for circus events. A few weeks ago Mr. Chaney sold six stunt performing thoroughbred horses to the Great United circuses. These horses were shipped to Ireland where they will soon perform in circuses. One of these horses is a gray jumper that is able to jump obstructions six foot high. This horse generally jumps without a rider and will be featured by the circus in a "liberty" jumping act. Another is a spotted bucking broncho and the others are trick and wild west riding horses.

WESTERLY

COUPLE RESCUED FROM DROWNING BY WESTERLY MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Aug. 25.—Joseph S Grills, proprietor of a store at Misquamicut, on Sunday night did not wait for a second call when someone entered his place of business and informed him that a man and woman were drowning in the ocean off the beach near the Andrea hotel. Hastily pulling off his clothes and in his union suit, Mr. Grills about 6 p. m. started for the struggling couple about 50 feet off-shore. Assisting Mr. Grills in the work of rescue were George Litman, Beach street, Westerly, and William G. Sweenor of West Springfield, Mass.

The struggling couple in the water, which was roughened by the storm of Saturday, were Miss Phyllis Phelan, 34, of Waterbury, Conn., who was staying at Overlook cottage, and her cousin, Andrew Phelan. When the impromptu life guards reached the shore bringing the exhausted bathers it was found that Miss Phelan had swallowed a quantity of water and she was taken to Overlook cottage and restoratives applied. Unlike some previously rescued rough water victims, Miss Phelan gave full credit to rescuers, declaring that without their assistance she would have undoubtedly lost her life.

At the Atlantic Beach Casino end of the beach a couple swimming far out attracted much attention from those on shore and even started the attempt of a number in taking boats out to their supposed rescue. This couple had started out to swim around Hercules buoy which marks a rock over a mile off-shore. When this couple was reached they declined to enter the boat and swam back to shore just as if the water had been a mill pond.

BIG ANNUAL DANCE OF GROTON LONG PT. EMPLOYES

Top coats for men, and women's fur wraps were in use at Groton Long Point Thursday night, as strong wind was blowing, when the third annual dance given to the maids of the Point and their friends from Noank was held in the Casino. The hall was pretty, trimmed with drapes along the ceiling. It was 9 o'clock when Russo's orchestra of six music boys took their places for the evening, and the Big Hop was on, with a fox trot.

The dancers soon got warmed up. Instead of freezing. Over one hundred were there to make the big hop a success. This dance is given free to the maids and their friends by the Groton Long Point club each year, when they can have an evening by themselves.

The club lets the employes have the hall and has an orchestra for dancing and they sure enjoy it. A disappointment to the dancers came when Stretch Mann told them that Hank Gee could not be there, on account of an auto accident, in Providence late in the afternoon when he called Stretch up. Hank was going to do the Harvard Hop in the newest way, as the comer from Boston. His automobile was towed to a garage, after an ice truck hit it. So Smiling Charles Everett Ellis who can shake them dogs, did the Pearl street flip as the orchestra stepped on the music. The crowd called, "get hot, Charlie!" Fast as the music went, his legs would go faster. He received a real Babe Ruth ovation from the crowd.

At intermission of 15 minutes, they all went downstairs to have soft drinks and ice cream, while some went down to the board walk to look on the ocean and to cool off. When the music started up again with a waltz the floor was crowded for many think a waltz is the best dance, for it is slow and every one with the same step sure looks nice. It was a long one to dance.

C. C. McNamara, of Norwich, vice president of the club, came down to see if everybody was having a good time for a while, then went back to his cottage, happy after he saw things were running all right and things in good order. It had been planned to put on a play, "Down at the Old Swimming Hole," but two of the actors backed out at the last minute, so some had to play a game of bridge. The chairman for the evening tried hard to give the dancers something special, and he was glad to see them all enjoying themselves. At a late hour the orchestra played a good night number and the dance of 1930 came to a close. The dancers were saying "I will see you all again next year at our big hop here," and all went home happy, after having such a good time. Neil Morrison in behalf of the Noank fellow and girls thanked the officers of the club for letting them come over and enjoy an evening of dancing at the Casino, also was glad it was a success and hoped they would meet again at the same place in 1931.

STOCK MARKET CLOSED REACTIONARY BUT MAINTAINED GOOD UNDERTONE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The stock market began the new week with indications of climbing out of the narrow trading area of the past week, but soon began to falter and developed a reactionary trend before the close.

The market maintained a fairly good undertone, and losses in pivotal shares were mostly restricted to a point or so. Sharp breaks in Vanadium and Goodyear and steady liquidation in the oil shares appeared to be the chief influences toward unsettlement.

Trading still was dominated by personal transactions between floor traders, but much of the selling of the oils was reported in brokerage circles to represent real liquidation rather than professional trading maneuvers. Commission houses reported good investment buying in favored industrials and rails, but only on declines. The day's sales barely exceeded 1,600,000 shares.

The rails maintained a better tone than other groups, and the index of 20 leading carrier issues held steady, although that of 50 industrials sagged 2.4 and that of 20 utilities, 1.6. The improved tone in this group was believed to represent short covering and investment buying of the prime dividend payers, attracted by high yields. The first 20 roads to report July net operating income show little improvement in comparison with last year, but compared to the previous month, net was almost 18 per cent higher.

Liquidation of the oils resulted from unfavorable earnings and dividend actions of the previous week, and publication of a survey of the gasoline and crude situation by "The Lamp," official organ of Standard of New Jersey, which indicated that gasoline stocks were still unwieldy, and took refiners and producers to task for failing to gauge their activity by consumption prospects. E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum institute, however, issued a reassuring statement after the close of the market, reviewing the progress already made at control of output. "The industry intends to reduce its tremendous stocks of petroleum products above ground at an orderly rate," he explained.

Losses of a point or so in the oils were fairly general. Standard of New Jersey sold off 1 3-4. Rio Grande, Skelly and Shell Union touched new lows, and Sinclair, Simms, Royal Dutch and Richfield sold around the year's minimum levels. Among the outstanding weak spots elsewhere, Goodyear dropped about 6 points to a new low, reflecting reports of slackening output and failure of a mail order house's efforts to raise tire prices. Vanadium lost about as much, in response to an analysis predicting lower profits during the current half year, and reports that the company ran in the red during July.

Several recent favorites sagged in profit taking. Efforts were made to extend the rise in United Aircraft, but it closed off a point. Bendix Aviation, however, stepped up a point in active trading. Loew's lost 3 and American Tobacco new B stock lost 2. Shares closing 1 to nearly 2 points lower included U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, DuPont, Eastman, General Electric, General Motors, Radio, International Nickel and Public Service of New Jersey.

Union Pacific, however, gained 5, and shares closing up a point or so included Air Reduction, which shot up 4 in the morning, then reacted, Mathieson Alaki, Proctor & Gamble, and Foster Wheeler. National Power & Light was an active feature of the power stocks, and closed up 1-2.

Credit conditions held stationary, with call money at 2 per cent officially, and 1 1-2 in the outside market. Foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling cables sagged 1-8 of 1 point to $4.87 flat, but leading continental currencies were firm.

Commodity markets moved narrowly, in the main. Wheat sagged 1-4 to 3-4 of a cent, reflecting an increase in the visible supply. Corn closed barely steady, unchanged to 5-8 of a cent lower. Cotton, on the other hand, rallied to close up 65 cents to a dollar a bale.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—William G. Clyde, president of Carnegie Steel Co., has resigned because of ill health and I. Lamont Hughes, a vice-president of U. S. Steel Corp., has been elected to succeed him, effective Sept. 1. Ambrose N. Diehl, a vice-president of Carnegie, has been elected a vice-president of U. S. Steel, and Ralph Watson, general superintendent of the Homestead Steel Works, has been elected a vice-president of Carnegie.

The complete semi-annual report of the Fox Film Corp. mailed to stockholders today by Harley L. Clarke, president, shows a complete reversal of the company's financial position, as a result of the refinancing and change in management which grew out of efforts to have a receiver appointed. Total current assets were $30,444,121, against current liabilities of $12,229,245 on June 30, compared to current assets of $23,408,965 on Dec. 31, considerably exceeded by current liabilities of that date of $46,101,586. Cash on hand June 30 totaled $6,965,126.

Pilot Walter Toepel, of Pottstown, Pa., and W. M. Hewett, Lincoln Aircraft company, Philadelphia, ran out of gas at an altitude of 3200 feet, glided one mile and made a forced landing on the concrete roof of a water reservoir in Cleveland.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—Changes in the quoted values of curb stocks were of a divergent character today with the price level slightly lower. Utility and oil stocks were conspicuously heavy during the afternoon. The volume of business approximated 308,500 shares.

Petroleum shares sagged in sympathy with the downward trend on the big board. Humble Oil sagged 2 1-4, Standard Oil of Indiana, 3-4 and Houston Oil. Vacuum and Cities Service lost about 1-2 a point each.

An advance in the utilities at the opening of the session attracted a volume of offerings which was sufficient to turn the tide. Electric Bond and Share, United Light and Power A, American Gas and Electric lost a point or more. Duke Power sagged 2 points. American and Foreign Power warrants, Associated Gas A, American Cities closed slightly higher as result of a rally in the final hour.

As a group, aviation stocks displayed the best tone profiting from a renewal of speculative interest evidenced the past few sessions. Western Air Express which has not been very active for some time, surged up 4 1-2 points. Fokker and Trans-Continental Air Transport gained about a point each. Aviation Credit reached a new high at 21 1-8. Motors stocks were dull. The principal change was a 1 1-2 point drop by Ford Motor of Canada. Durant and Ford, Ltd., were firm.

The miscellaneous list of industrials moved both ways. Profit taking depressed Mead Johnson, which showed a reversal of trend after steadily rising for two weeks to new high ground. It sold down to 87, a loss of about 2. American Cynamid B and Translux worked slightly lower. Deere, Dresser Manufacturing A, Driver Harris, Newmont Mining, Ruberoid and R. B. Stetson gained 1 to 2 points in thin trading. Aluminum, Ltd., in which there is a small floating supply dipped 13 1-2 points. U. S. Radiator hit a new low at 29.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A bigger increase of the United States wheat visible supply than generally was expected gave an advantage today to believers in lower prices for grain. Buying demand waned, with the amount of wheat on ocean passage much larger than either last week or a year ago, and Liverpool quotations failing to respond well to price advances on this side of the Atlantic. Moreover, an increase of 4 per cent in 1930 wheat yields of 22 countries was reported, compared with 1929.

Chicago wheat values closed unsettled, 1-4a3-4c lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 3-4a down, oats unchanged to 3-8c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 7c.

Provisions rallied somewhat toward the last, after averaging lower most of the day with grain and hogs.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—High grade investment issues held a firm trend in the bond market today but second grade and semi-speculative obligations, more sensitive to general news developments, worked lower.

The market was highly irregular in a quiet trading session in which the volume of business slumped to $5,711,000.

There were no developments in the money market, with call money remaining at 2 per cent. The only offering was a municipal issue. It was learned in bond circles that among the new financing which is expected to be offered shortly are several large issues, including $10,000,000 first 5s to be offered by the Iowa-Nebraska Co. around 96 1-2; $5,000,000 Western Pacific 5 per cent bonds priced about par. The State Line Generating Co. contemplates offering $17,000,000, 4 1-2s, and $8,000,000 debenture 5 1-2s. A large piece of financing is in prospect for the Pennsylvania-Ohio-Detroit railroad, subsidiary of the Pennsylvania.

The strength shown by the bond market during the quiet summer period is attracting attention from business circles where a rise in bond prices is regarded as a forerunner of business recovery.

About a dozen carrier issues climbed to new 1930 highs. The 1 5-8 point advance of New York Central 3 1-2s B, on a large turnover, and a similar gain by Big Four general 4s, were among the best gains in this group. Pennsylvania 3 1-2s B, Atchison general 4s, Union Pacific 4s, Chicago & Northwestern refunding 4 1-2s, Northern Pacific lien 4s, Southern Pacific 4 1-2s (Oregon line), Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio first 4s (Richmond and Allegheny), Missouri-Kansas-Texas first 4s, were others to register new peaks for the year.

The firmness of Brooklyn Edison 5s, Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s, General Public Service 5 1-2s, New Orleans Public Service 5s B, stood out in the irregular movement of utilities. Western Union 4 1-2s established a new year's high. Brooklyn City Railway 5s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4 1-2s and Northern Ohio Traction & Light 6s, worked lower.

Industrial bonds showed a mixed trend to carry Humble 5s, Skelly Oil 5 1-2s, Texas Corp. 5s, and Trans-Continental 6 1-2s downward. Bethlehem Steel 5s were weak. Pacific Coast 5s, Lorillard 5s and National Dairy 5 1-4s were in demand.

Weakness of Peruvian bonds reflecting the uncertainty over political conditions featured foreign bond dealings. Peru 7s and 6s sagged 5 and 4 points to new lows. European bonds were steady. U. S. governments were more active and firm.

Offerings will be made tomorrow of $1,781,000, 4 1-4 per cent Essex County (N. J.) gold bonds.

MUCH PROGRESS MADE ON LOCAL BUILDINGS DURING THE PAST WEEK

With ideal weather conditions much progress was made on local building projects during the past week and work has been rushed along rapidly toward the completion stage. Contractor W. S. Spencer, who has been engaged during the summer in the erection of the Norton Memorial gym at the Norwich Free Academy, has the work practically completed for the opening of school in September. Only minor work on the interior and some of the grading about the building is to be done before it will be ready for occupation.

The Providence building concern that has the contract for the new County home on the Norwich-Groton road has the work well along. The staging about the building was removed during the past week and the work is mostly confined to the interior and to the sun-porches in the rear of the building. The school building and the children's cottage have been completed. Considerable grading remains to be done and this will be started within a short time to have it completed before the cold weather sets in.

At Montville, the new building for Pappas Bros. being erected by Contractor P. F. Sweeney is fast nearing completion. The exterior work has been completed with the exception of the plate glass fronts in the various stores. The interior work is well along and it is expected that the building will be turned over to the owners in a short time.

During the past week there were seven building permits issued by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft for new construction work within the city limits. Included in the permits is one for a new dwelling on Geer avenue to be erected by John Senetski. The permits are as follows:

To John Leirich, to erect a one-car frame garage at 201 Rockwell street for himself. The garage, which will have a cement foundation and floor, will be 12x20 feet. The estimated cost is $200.

To Mrs. John J. Parsons, to alter present frame building at 3 Peck street, into a one-car garage. The estimated cost is $75.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney, to alter and extend the present brick building at 204 Franklin street, owned by Ralph Devito. A new front with plate glass show windows will be put in. The new front will be extended four feet. The estimated cost is $1,000.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney, to build a one-story addition to the present dwelling owned by Henry F. Bamber at 130 Platt avenue. The addition will be 3x16 feet with brick and stone foundation and wood superstructure. The roof will be covered with composition shingles and the exterior will be finished in clapboards. The interior will be in plaster and hard wood.

To Joseph Praczkowski, to alter the present store on Central avenue. A partition will be put in dividing the present store into two parts. The estimated cost is $25.

To Ralph DeNicolo, to build a one-car frame garage at 33 Pratt street for himself. The garage will be 11x20 feet and will have a concrete floor and foundation. The estimated cost is $100.

To John Seneski, to build a two-story cottage house, 24x26 feet, at 58 Geer avenue. The house will have a cement foundation and will be constructed according to modern lines. The exterior will be in clapboards and shingles while the interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster. The estimated cost is $3,000.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were seven sales or real estate as compared to 16 sales for the corresponding week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $40,225 and $28,670.

There were three sales of real estate in New London during the past week, a decrease of five sales as compared with the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $36,785 and $19,000.

NEW LONDON

Ideal weather conditions prevailing, building operations about the city went forward at a brisk pace during the past week. The weather was particularly well suited to concrete and masonry work and fine progress was reported on several big jobs in this respect.

Insofar as the building contractors are concerned it is an ill wind that blows no one any good and the lack of rain during the past six weeks resulted in practically all jobs in the city being ahead of schedule. Aside from the time involved the absence of postponements of work because of the weather has kept the costs of construction down to a minimum with a subsequent saving of overhead that is well appreciated.

Work on the walls and new smoke stack of a new boiled house, being built for the Connecticut College for Women at the site of the oil boiler house, is nearing completion this week. The boiler house is 44 by 68 feet, one story high of brick, steel and stone construction. The estimated cost is $40,000.

A new gasoline service station being erected for J. Racine at Bank and Squire streets has been enclosed. The structure is of tile and concrete construction. Previous to the starting of work on the station it was necessary to do considerable excavating into the side hill where the site is located and a large retaining wall of stone was built on the north and east sides of the property.

16,000,000 HOMES IMPROPERLY HEATED

Despite the fact that Americans are the most "heating conscious" of all people and invest annually more than $500,00,000 in heating and ventilating equipment, there are still 16,000,000 of the 23,000,000 dwellings in the United States that are inadequately heated, according to the Heating and Piping Contractors National association.

Inadequate heat, according to the standards of the Heating and Piping Contractors' association, is heat which is not clean, not evenly distributed to all rooms in the house, uneconomical and wasteful of fuel, and not dependable at all times and in all sorts of temperature ranges.

Radiator heating, which brings a temperate, even heat to all rooms regardless of wind velocities is the ideal heating, in the opinion of the members of the Heating and Piping Contractors' National association.

Radiator heating is the only kind of heating which permits the radiators to be placed under the windows or near the doors where the cold air enters the house. Thus, a room equipped with radiators has no cold drafts which endanger health.

Many thousands of the approximately 16,000,000 dwellings not equipped with radiator heating could not be modernized by the installation of hot water heating, steam heating, vapor or vacuum heating. Modernizing of the heating equipment adds more to the value of the house than the cost of the improvement, heating contractors assert.

COLORFUL STENCILS BEAUTIFY GARAGES

The sleek, low-slung automobile that we see today is a far cry from the high, windshieldless affair that the early 20th century produced, and the 1930 garage is equally an improvement over the makeshift home that was provided for the 1905 "horseless carriage."

Its doors particularly may give the garage individuality. Stencil designs may be used to form a border or to decorate the center of a panel. The designs may also introduced a note of color as they did for one attractive house with a buff colored body and a brown trim. The stenciled motifs were finished in burnt orange and dull blue, a color combination which stood out effectively on the buff-colored doors.

Striping also makes an excellent finish for the garage door that is suitable for decoration. Narrow bands of the color used for the trim or the roof of the house may be placed around the panels. Where narrow boards are used for the doors a delightful two-tone effect is created by painting the boards alternating colors, such as gray and dark green, tan and brown or beige and maroon.

If the garage doors are at the front of the house, or in a position at all conspicuous, the decorative touch will dispel the affects of a broad, uninteresting wall space that garage doors sometimes produce.

CLEAN RADIATORS MEAN MORE HEAT

The radiator should not be overlooked in the annual cleaning of the house. Special radiator brushes can be obtained which will slip easily between the tubes. The newer radiators with narrow columns and thin tubes are easier to clean than the older kinds because there is more room between the units.

Many experienced housewives find they can save some work by placing a damp newspaper over and under the radiators while they are being cleaned.

In the showrooms of radiator manufacturers where the radiators are kept scrupulously clean, the following procedure is employed:

The radiator is washed and allowed to dry. A coat of paint is applied as a "primer." This is followed by two coats of enamel to match whatever decorative scheme the showroom may have.

Enamel will give the radiator a smooth surface which may then be kept clean with little effort by wiping the radiator with a chamois skin.

Only a clean radiator can be an efficient radiator because a radiator does its work by heating the air which passes over its tubes. A smooth surface enables the air to pass over the radiator more freely. The air, in a way, "wipes" heat from the radiator.

Radiators should be cleaned before the heat is turned on for the first time in the fall in order to prevent the summer's accumulation of dust from being circulated in the air as the radiator warms up.

ENGINEER'S ADVICE SAVES FUEL COSTS

If you are planning to build or modernize your home this fall, a bit of advice from a competent heating engineer may save you considerable expense on your fuel bill next winter. With the eye of a "stylist" he can tell at a glance what your house can and cannot "wear" in the way of heating plants if maximum operating economy is to be expected. As between hot water and steam, the formerly usually gives the best service in small houses. Hot water will remain in the radiator some time after the fire is banked, thus assuring longer heat at lower cost. For a large home steam has certain advantages. Where there are many radiators involving a large heating surface, steam is more efficient because it rises slowly as water does.

The cost of an engineer's appraisal may be returned many times over in operating economy and increased heating comfort.

INFILTRATION OF AIR PREVENTED BY STORM SASH

Statisticians declare that the crevices around the edges of a window of average size let in as much cold air during winter months as a hole in the pane four inches square. Anyone who has been compelled to struggle along with the handicap of a broken window until a glazier could get around to fix it certainly knows what that means. While many of us who have made the most of an unsatisfactory situation are in a position to know that windows without storm sash most assuredly let in a surprising amount of cold air. This is true particularly in these days when it is all but impossible to get hold of putty which will stay put for much more than a single season.

It is just as well to ponder these things at this season of the year, for with cold weather but one or two jumps ahead there will be plenty of chilly air knocking for admission around unprotected windows before so very long. For the benefit of those who may not know it, the principal value of storm sash is not to provide a double thickness of glass between inside and outside air, but rather to provide a considerable area of dead air between the inside and outside windows. Dead air provides almost perfect insulation and storm sash makes possible a material amount of it in each window, especially when the inside sash is equipped with a good standard type of weather stripping. Such weather stripping costs something, it is true, but, like doors, windows, bathtubs and heater plants, it can be classified as permanent equipment. T[illegible] removes much of the ob[illegible] on a relatively high [illegible] cost. Distribute this cost over several seasons, then try to compute what it will render you in increased cold weather comfort, and the cost becomes an almost negligible factor.

One reason why this subject is broached at this particular time is the fact that within a very few weeks quite a few people are going to make up their minds suddenly that they must have their home equipped with storm sash and weather stripping. And that will mean one of these "peak loads" for the men who provide such equipment and install it. Right now most of them are marking time, which is exactly the right season for the forehanded individual to get his home fully equipped for the winter season. He can have his choice of the best men available, and it is possible, too, that he may reap the advantage of a slightly shaded price.

MODERN METHODS CONTROL FIRE

Modern construction methods have made it possible to guard effectively against serious fire losses. Among the many means of fire prevention are the use of masonry and metal lath and plaster galls, asbestos or slate shingles for roofs to guard the home from neighboring fires, automatic electric fire alarms, and concrete floors over the basement, which are the simplest means of preventing the spread of basement fires through the house.

WHO OWNS THE TREES?

A property owner may have a sentimental interest in the trees along the street or highway which may abut his property, but be quite doubtful about his rights concerning them. In quoting the decisions handed down by certain judges, The American Home says the owner has a tangible right in such trees. One instance to which reference is made concerns the reckless and unnecessary lopping of shade trees by a corporation engaged in operating electric current wires under a city ordinance. In this case the property owner filed suit for the damage to the trees, and the trial court rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff, saying that slight injury to trees may be necessary and reasonable, but wanton mutilation is not excusable.

FALSE ECONOMY

The plumbing in a house is vital. The builder or buyer who contemplates skimping on plumbing is making a gross error. The health of the family depends on the efficient functioning of the plumbing system. When remodeling a home or purchasing a house already built, look after the plumbing. Have the entire system examined thoroughly.

ATTRACTIVE NEW HOME OF C. D. GREENMAN

Another attractive dwelling has been erected on McKinley avenue extension, a part of the city that is rapidly developing into one of the most attractive residential sections of the city. The building, pictured above, is the new home of Charles D. Greenman, and was built by Contractor Patrick F. Sweeney. The house is practically complete with the exception of painting.

It is a two-story house of colonial design and is 26x35 feet, containing six rooms, two baths and a breakfast nook. The house presents a very attractive appearance from the street with its wide colonial clapboards and 18-inch stained shingled roof. There is a very pretty colonial porch in the front with brick steps and floor. At the south end is a wide porch which may be converted into a sun-porch if desired.

The interior is conveniently arranged with a large living room to the right of the colonial entrance. This living room extends along the entire southern side of the house. There is an attractive fire place at one end of the room and there are large windows giving ample lighting during the day. The dining room is to the left of the reception hall and is very pretty with its built-in china cabinets with circular tops. The reception hall is large and from it leads an open staircase with birch balusters and rail.

The kitchen is very conveniently arranged with built-in features including ironing board and closets. Off the kitchen is a breakfast nook. The kitchen is very prettily decorated in green.

On the second floor are the master bedroom and two guests chambers very conveniently arranged. The bathroom is in green tile with handsome sunken fixtures. The lavatory on the first floor corresponds to the general design of the bath. In the attic is a large cedar-lined closet for the storage of furs and woolens.

The house is finished with oak floors throughout and the walls are of hard finish plaster. The wood trim is painted to correspond to the general color scheme of the rooms.

CONNECTICUT BUILDING SLUMPED IN JULY

Building permits issued by cities and towns in Connecticut during the month of July fell off perceptibly as compared with the figures of June, according to the monthly survey conducted through the office of E. L. Taylor, industrial commissioner of the New Haven railroad. The decline amounted to approximately two million dollars among the twenty-two communities reported individually in the railroad survey.

Only five of the twenty-two cities and towns reported increases in building permits over June. They were Middletown, New London, Norwalk, West Hartford and West Haven. As compared with their building permit totals of July 1929, only five communities enjoyed gains. These were Danbury, New London, Norwich, Torrington and West Hartford.

West Hartford leads the list in building permit totals for the month with a figure of $681,254. Greenwich and New Haven followed in second and third places, respectively.

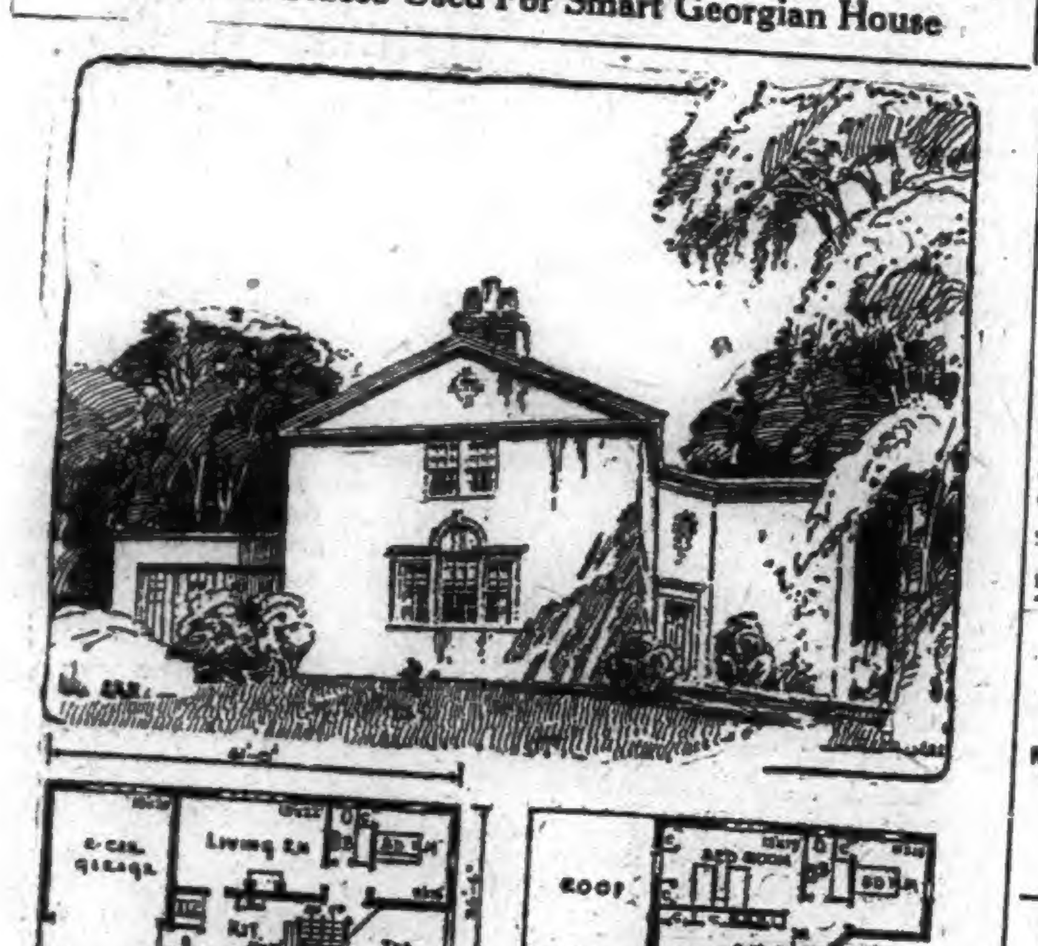
WALLPAPER VERSATILE

Few materials approach the versatility of wallpaper for decorative purposes, dull, poorly lighted rooms can be brightened up through its use. To the room for which it is intended it gives color and life for those who have to live in it. Then on blue, rainy mornings when one is inclined to be out of sorts a cheery and pleasant wall finish chases away dull feelings.

GIANT PANSIES

If you want giant pansies, from 3 to 3 1-2 inches in diameter, you must plant that kind of seed, says the August issue of The American Home. No matter what good care you give to pansy plants raised from ordinary seed, they will not be giants. One of the best strains, called Canadian prize, was developed in Canada and is the result of conscientious selection. For giant pansies next year, sow the seed in August in a flat sheltered frame and when large enough, transplant a foot apart. The soil should be well drained and contain some thoroughly rotted manure or other complete fertilizer.

Brick Or Stucco Used For Smart Georgian House



Characteristic dignity of the Georgian style is found in this house.

An outstanding feature is the "Palladian window," whose graceful center arch gives distinction to a comparatively small and inexpensive home.

The entrance, too, is unusual and adds to a general appearance of stateliness.

Common or Harvard brick, either plain or white-washed or painted white, are suitable for construction of the exterior. Some cost may be saved, however, by building with stucco on metal lath, may be obtained.

The plan also is unusual in the placing of the kitchen at the front. Thus the more secluded side of the house is given over to the living rooms, making for privacy and a fuller enjoyment of a rear garden.

Combining the living room and dining room into one is favored by many housekeepers nowadays, especially when an attractive dining alcove can be made in connection with the kitchen.

A two-car garage at the side is a convenience desired by many families, and it incidentally adds to the length of the house with a most desired effect.

Landscaping such a smart-appearing house as this is relatively easy, for fewer plants are required where there is beauty in the building line itself.

Vines on the large wall spaces, with a few flowery trees, such as dogwoods or apples, at the corners, are ample.

In most average sized communities this house may be built at a figure somewhere between $10,000 and $12,000, although costs naturally vary in different parts of the country.

A DOLLAR THAT BUYS MORE THAN THE AVERAGE

THE dollar you invest in fire insurance returns far more than you realize. Of course it buys indemnity from financial loss if misfortune overtakes you, but it provides so much more that it ranks as one of the most effective dollars you spend.

From the viewpoint of indemnity alone, Stock Fire Insurance is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its average cost has consistently declined for the last twenty years.

Research — Engineering — Other Services

However, Stock Fire Insurance as transacted by the more than 250 company members of the National Board of Fire Underwriters offers much more than indemnity.

For good measure it provides a research and engineering service to make life and property safer—with great laboratories to test the fire safety of materials and devices.

It teaches better building practices—furnishes a service for the detection and investigation of arson—another for the improvement of community fire defenses—conducts many general fire prevention activities—and sponsors other voluntary measures, all of which have contributed to the reduction of the fire waste and the lowering of the average cost of fire insurance.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE effectually safeguards the home, factory, store, public institution and other forms of property. It supplies an element of certainty to business.

The more than 150 billion dollars which Stock Fire Insurance companies have at risk in the protection of burnable property in this country is indispensable to the stabilization of our credit structure.

Palace Theatre

Judging from the enthusiastic comments heard on all sides almost everybody in Norwich who likes movies has been to see "Raffles" at the Palace theater. Those who haven't yet attended this show, can't avoid hearing about it, for it is a topic the whole town is talking about. "Raffles" is a handsome Englishman, a graduate of one of the most exclusive schools—cultured, educated, perfectly polished and possessed of great strength and quick wits. In fact if it weren't for his quick wits, he wouldn't have a cent. But he is one of the most accomplished safe crackers in the world. When he wants a valuable diamond necklace or a priceless bracelet, he opens the jeweler's safe with his long, slim, practiced fingers, and leaves his card, signed "The Amateur Cracksman." The police scour the country for him. They comb London, looking for this master burglar, but never once do they suspect the tall, top-hatted, well-dressed A. J. Raffles. Then Raffles makes a blunder and the game is up, or very nearly up. Come and see what happens to him when Scotland Yard gets after him in earnest. Ronald Colman is cast in the part of Raffles, while Kay Francis, the accomplished vamp, plays across from him. "Recaptured Love" and "Rough Romance" are to be shown in a double feature bill at the Palace starting Thursday. Here is a program that is a program. More will be told about it tomorrow.

Belle Bennett and John Halliday at the Palace Tuesday

Tomorrow night is Red Arrow Auction. Don't miss this, as it is the last chance to spend your Red Arrow money.

Broadway Theatre

Both singing and acting lie very close to the heart of Bernice Claire, who has the feminine lead with Joe E. Brown in "Top Speed," which closes its local engagement at the Broadway today.

Miss Claire, who is only twenty-two years old, won her first laurels on the stage in "The Desert Song." Then First National Pictures called her to California and gave her her first screen opportunity in "No, No, Nanette," a singing and dancing role. In "Top Speed" Miss Claire has a chance to combine her talents, as her role demands both singing and acting. The acting is in the vein of light comedy, for which her gift has became well known during the past season.

Besides Miss Claire and Joe E. Brown, the featured cast of "Top Speed" includes Jack Whiting, Laura Lee, Frank McHugh and a distinguished array of lesser lights.

Most of the slips occur after the cup has been to the lips.

Red Arrow Auction

With the 13th Red Arrow Auction, to be held at the Palace theater on Wednesday evening, August 27, the Red Arrow Club of Norwich is culminating a series of auctions whereby the 15 merchants associated in the Red Arrow club have given away more than $30,000.00 of merchandise and cash to the people patronizing the Red Arrow stores. The auctions were held monthly for the last 13 months by the 'close bid' method. But the final auction will be open to all bidders and is expected to be the most exciting and interesting of the series. The articles at open auction next Wednesday number 128, and consist of a great variety of valuable merchandise.

The auction arrangements are in charge of George Powers and Mrs. Powers, who will be assisted by Miss Agnes L. White and Miss Helen Barry, secretaries of the Red Arrow club. They will supervise a personnel of 20 men and women who will help to expedite the auction.

Elks' Fair Willimantic

Much hustling and bustling is to be found at Elks' park on Pleasant street where next Thursday night the twelfth annual Elks' County fair, conducted by Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, will begin a four-day run closing Labor day night. On that night fair gifts consisting of seven automobiles and 18 cash awards will be given away.

Adhering strongly to the slogan of "Bigger and Better" the Elks are sparing no effort or money in giving the public those delightful new features that have served so well in past years as an admission office attraction. Tom Clyde Overholtz of South Coventry, who has had many years of experience in the theatrical line, has given valuable service in arranging a program of vaudeville acts reputed to be the very best in the out-of-door field this season. The vaudeville headliners alone are expected to surpass anything ever attempted here.

As an additional attraction the Elks' County fair has formed a "hook-up" with Gold Star Post, No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the big air meet to be staged by the latter organization at Brown's field, on upper Ash street. The meet is scheduled for Saturday, Sunday and Labor day and the diversified program of aeronautics calls for something doing at practically all hours of the day. There will be air parades in which many ships will participate, parachute jumps, dead-stick landings and all manner of stunt flying. Each day's program will close with a grand spectacle of stunts over Elks' park from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

The committee consists of: Paul L. Moran, chairman, Maurice S. Leonard, Thomas J. Donovan, Nelson A. Daniels, Roy W. Downer, Edgar W. Jacobs, John L. Regan, Ralph H. Gibson and Arthur Roy.

Compensation Agreement.

The following compensation agreement was filed Monday in the office of the superior court in this city: Arthur Jackson and company, Groton, employer and Bernard K. Tuttle, 50, Groton, employe; dislocated finger on right hand.

THRIFTY WOMEN SEE VALUE OF CANNING FRUIT THIS SUMMER

Never Before Has Sugar Been so Low in Price and Fruit is Plentiful

A glance at the overflowing fruit markets and then at the low price of sugar proves conclusively that 1930 is the year to put up fruit. Of course the more that is canned the bigger the financial gain, but even a few jars of preserves and glasses of jelly stored away will help cut food bills next winter.

Pickles and relishes made of cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage and watermelon rind are also economical to put up. Their spicy tart-sweet goodness is most welcome when meats and fish are served.

Canned fruit has a place in the balanced diet. Most of them are rich in vitamins. For children, canned fruit is an ideal breakfast dish or a fitting dessert.

Beyond a doubt, the housewife who puts up plenty of fruit this summer will find that its consumption next winter will help keep her family well and save her money. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

GIRL OF 7 STRANDED IN NEW LONDON IS CARED FOR AT PHYSICIAN'S HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 25—Stranded in New London and among strangers is the predicament of Arletti Pajira, seven year old New York girl. She arrived in New London Sunday anticipating that her mother who is visiting in this vicinity would meet her. The parent did not do so and as a result the child is now at the home of Dr. J. Charles Satti, Huntington street, to whose home the girl was taken last night by a relative of the physician. The girl reached New London on the train that arrived here at 1:11 o'clock and when the mother was not on the platform the child went to the waiting room. When the mother was not there the girl waited long and patiently. After a wait of several hours employes in the station called the attention of the child's long wait to railroad special agents. The girl was questioned and when her story was related and after a wait of nearly 10 hours, the child was taken to the physician's home.

Tank Blown Down.

A large water storage tank at the Oswegathcie house, Waterford, was blown down Sunday and was completely demolished.

LEROY BUDDINGTON HELD—PATIENT WHO STOLE ENGINE

Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 25—Leroy Buddington, Groton, was presented in the Groton town court today charged with assault and upon boys of tender years. He was held for trial at the next criminal term of the superior court and in default of a surety on his bond of $5,000, was committed to jail. There is a second charge of a like nature pending against Buddington: he was arrested two months ago and held for trial, but was released on bail. Buddington recently perpetrated outrages on four boys and when his acts were revealed to their parents, complaint was made to the state police and Officers John Smith and Arthur Whitmarsh arrested Buddington. Buddington at one time was a patient at Norwich State hospital. While there he watched his opportunity and running to where the fire apparatus was stored, started the engine and drove away with it. The truck was speeded over the military highway to Groton at a terrific rate. Disregarding all rules of the road, the truck continued through Groton. A state police officer who was awaiting the arrival of Buddington gave chase to the fire truck, but did not overtake it until Mystic was reached, when the officer jumped from his car to the truck, compelling Buddington to bring the fire apparatus to a stop.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan R. Linsley are spending a few days in New York.

Motorists Pinched at Week-end.

The state police made numerous arrests over the week-end, all for violations of the state motor vehicle law. Henry W. Strout, 28 Hope street, was arrested in Waterford by State Police Officer Donald Brown, charged with reckless driving and will be tried in Waterford town court. Andrew Palentar, Mystic, was driving in Mystic when the auto was hit by a car driven by Albert Christensen, Roselle, N. Y. Officers Peter Busch and Eric Swenson investigated the crash and arrested Christensen on a charge of reckless driving. He will explain in Groton town court. MARY HABAREK'S STOCK INCLUDED WHISKEY AND MALT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 25—Mrs. Mary Habarek, 30 Winthrop street, was arrested this afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law. In default of a surety on her bond of $1,000 the woman was locked up and will be in court tomorrow. Mrs. Habarek was arrested when Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Henry Hick went to the house and a quantity of whiskey and malt was seized, as evidence of the nature of the business being conducted by Mrs. Habarek.

Tried To Jump His Bond.

Nicholas Halika, Main street clerk, did not present himself in court and his bond of $50 was declared forfeited. Louis Elfenbein was surety on the bond and this afternoon the bondsman sought and found Halikas with the result that he was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray. Halikas was released upon providing a surety on a bond of $500 and will be in court tomorrow.

Nathan Smith, of Houston, Texas, formerly of New London, is visiting relatives in this city.

Desk Sergeant Frank T. Howard resumed his duties at police headquarters tonight after having been ill at his home on Whittlesey street for several weeks.

Westerly Girl Missing.

The New London police today were requested to make a search for Elizabeth Mahoney, 13, of Westerly, large for her age, who disappeared in this city Sunday. The girl had been in Hartford visiting relatives and left for this city on the bus at 6:20. She was accompanied to the bus by her uncle and is known to have reached New London for the driver remembers the girl alighting on State street. That was the last seen of her for the girl did not continue to Westerly. When she failed to return home this morning her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mahoney came to New London and requested aid in obtaining information that might lead to the whereabouts of the daughter. The girl is described as being about five feet, five inches in height, weighs about 135 pounds, has brown eyes and brown bobbed hair. When the girl disappeared she wore a blue silk dress with white dots, light colored coat with red figure and a tam o'shanter.

Taxi Drivers Scrap.

Edward Dray, 62 Douglass street, was in the police court this morning charged with breach of the peace in striking John Ficarra. The case was continued to Wednesday next and Dray furnished a surety on his bond of $250. Dray and Ficarra are taxicab operators employed by the Lyceum Union Taxicab company. Last sight the drivers engaged in a quarrel in the office of the company, which terminated when Dray delivered several blows to Ficarra's head and face. Dray was arrested by Patrolman Braxton Hill.

JOHN COLLEAR PAYS FINE OF $100 WITH COSTS

John Collear, U. S. submarine base and residing at 78 Washington street, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. Collear, his wife and two friends were returning from Norwich Saturday night and Collear, who was driving had been drinking. When the automobile reached a point on the New London-Norwich highway, just south of Gallows lane, an driven by Raymond Yerrington, Taftville and with a young woman as a passenger, approached from the opposite direction for Yerrington and his company were bound home, after having visited several hours in New London. Just as the cars were about to pass, Collear lost control of the steering wheel, for the auto side-swiped Yerrington's and then climbed a steep embankment and crashed against a wall. The car was completely wrecked, being towed to a garage, but the occupants escaped injury other than sustaining minor bruises and contusions. Yerrington's auto was damaged, but it was not rendered unserviceable. Collear was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray.

MRS. VISCIONE GOES FREE—EVIDENCE NOT SUFFICIENT

Mrs. Augusta Viscione, wife of John Viscione, 7 Richards street, was charged with violation of the liquor law as a result of a raid upon her residence. She pleaded not guilty, and because of the flimsy evidence in possession of Prosecutor Max Boyer that official recommended a nolle, which was ordered. Residents of the street recently made two complaints to the police that the Visciones were selling liquor. Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Dennis Murphy, Louis Tooker, Louis Wheeler and Automobile Patrol Officers Elwood Bailey and Thomas Cavanaugh went to the residence and as they entered, the officers assert that Mrs. Viscione threw a quantity of liquor that had been in a pitcher in a toilet. The search of the house, however, revealed that there was a small quantity of home-brew beer, about five cases. The beer, it was claimed, was for the consumption of members of the Viscione family and as no evidence of actual sale was obtained, the nolle was granted.

Dominico Cedio, 39, of 30 Denison avenue, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Cedio was arrested Sunday night by State Police Officer John Smith.

Bernard Inderdohen, Willow street, Mystic, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving without a license and was fined $10 and costs.

Leonard Hargrove, New York, was charged with driving without either license or registration and passing an automatic danger signal, corner of Main street and Crystal avenue. He was given suspension of judgment. Hargrove was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman John Clifford.

Matthew Fyalls, U. S. Coast Guard, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving while his license is suspended. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs.

But one case of intoxication was tried. A youth who was found intoxicated Saturday night was fined $5 and costs.

Samuel Sherry, Hartford, charged with violation of the city's traffic laws, failed to appear and his bond of $5 was declared forfeited. He was arrested at Ocean Beach Sunday when his auto blocked a fire hydrant.

George Piercy, Boston, was charged with parking his automobile longer than 30 minutes on State street Sunday and as he, also failed to present himself in court, his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

A Buick automobile owned by Thomas L. Lucy, Mago Point, Waterford, which was stolen on Huntington street Saturday night while the owner was at a theatre, was recovered today when the police found the car abandoned on the Thames River highway bridge and at the approach to the state pier. It is believed that the auto was stolen by sailors and abandoned after a ride had been concluded.

Fines For Gamblers.

The raid Sunday afternoon when six officers swooped down on a gang of crap shooters in Bates' woods, off Jefferson avenue, resulted in James Sullivan, 8 Grand street; Joseph Gillis, 94 Williams street; Herman Schuman, 41 Spring street; James Vedatto, 285 Montauk avenue; John Walker, 73 Phillips street; Frank Campagna, 10 Hobron street; Tony Mariano, 796 Bank street; Joseph Ferrigno, 10 Jefferson avenue, and Leo Hutchins, 444 Montauk avenue, being presented on gaming charges and each was fined $5 and costs. The youths have made a practice to go to the woods Sunday afternoons and gamble. Recently complaint was received by the police and when it was known that the gang was at its weekly gambling late in the afternoon, the raid was staged.

RANDEAU'S STRANGE STUNTS BLAMED ON SPEAKEASY STUFF

Joseph Randeau, sailor, a member of the crew of U. S. S. Oglala, was in the police court this morning charged with unlawful entry and was fined $100 and costs.

Randeau was given shore liberty Friday night and he went to a speakeasy on Shaw street where he consumed much liquor. During the early hours of Saturday morning, Randeau wandered to West street, where he evidently thought a parked automobile was his boat, for the bluejacket entered the car and disrobed except for his underwear. About 5 o'clock, Randeau left the auto, in his scanty attire. He went to the residence of Lieut. Douglas Gidding, U. S. N., at 43 West street where he discovered a window open. Randeau climbed through the opening and entered a room where he turned on a light. About the same time Mrs. Gidding arose and observing a light in an adjoining room entered to find Randeau standing in his near-baby clothes. Mrs. Gidding screamed and her cry awoke her husband, who seized a .45 calibre revolver and covering Randeau with the weapon, summoned the police. Sergeant John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer Arthur Feeley responded and arrested the sailor.

Gamblers Penalized.

More than a score of youthful gamblers were tried as a result of two raids Saturday night and Sunday. In all cases excepting three, the young men were fined.

George Sabagh, charged with conducting a gambling resort on the top floor of the building, 11 Bank street, was fined $100 and costs. BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

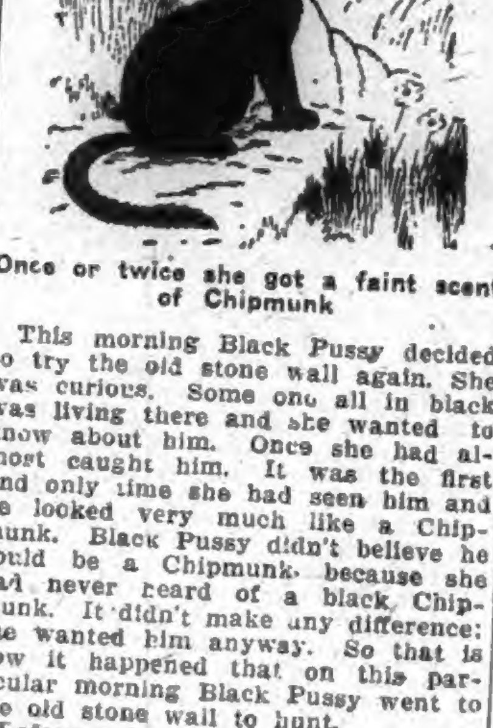
What Reddy's Mistake Was

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

To act, not knowing what you do,
Chagrin will often bring to you.
—Reddy Fox.

Black Pussy the Cat is very black indeed. There isn't a white hair in her coat. She lives at Farmer Brown's. She is well cared for. She has all she can eat and more. She never has to go hungry at all. Nevertheless, Black Pussy goes hunting every day. You see, the love of hunting is in her, as it is in most cats. She doesn't hunt because she is hungry. Oh, no! This isn't it at all. She hunts because she loves to hunt. She likes the excitement. Sometimes Black Pussy hunted in the Old Orchard; sometimes she went down the Long Lane to the Green Meadows; once in a while she hunted along the edge of the Green Forest. But she didn't like the Green Forest so well.



Once or twice she got a faint scent of Chipmunk

This morning Black Pussy decided to try the old stone wall again. She was curious. Some one all in black was living there and she wanted to know about him. Once she had almost caught him. It was the first and only time she had seen him and he looked very much like a Chipmunk. Black Pussy didn't believe he could be a Chipmunk, because she had never heard of a black Chipmunk. It didn't make any difference; she wanted him anyway. So that is how it happened that on this particular morning Black Pussy went to the old stone wall to hunt.

Before going to the old stone wall, Black Pussy went down through the Old Orchard and finally came to the stone wall at the end nearest the Green Forest. She saw no signs of Striped Chipmunk, or of Impy the black Chipmunk; but that didn't discourage her at all. You know, Black Pussy is another one of those patient people. She long ago learned that often patient watching and waiting is rewarded. So she isn't disappointed if she doesn't see right away what she has started out to hunt. She moved along on the side of the old wall nearest the Old Orchard, stopping to look into and smell of all the holes between the stones. Once or twice she got a faint scent of Chipmunk. It was just enough to excite her a little, but she knew that it was old.

By and by Black Pussy sat down at a point where a big stone had fallen out of the old wall. Scrapper the Kingbird was making a fuss over in the Old Orchard and Black Pussy sat with her back to the wall, looking into the Old Orchard to see what the fuss was about. Now, you know that, no matter how still Black Pussy herself may be, the tip of her tail is apt to keep moving, especially if she is interested or excited. It was so now. Her tail lay in such a way that when she straightened the end of it out it could be seen between the stones of the old wall from the other side. She straightened it out and curled it back. Then she straightened it out again, without really knowing what she was doing.

Something happened right then and there. Black Pussy gave a yell of fright. Something had seized the end of her tail. It let go instantly and Black Pussy whirled about with every hair standing on end, as she hissed and snarled. Through the little gap in the wall made by the fallen stone she stared into the startled face of Reddy Fox. It was a question which one was the most surprised. You see, Reddy had made a mistake. He had seen the end of Black Pussy's tail without really seeing her and had seized it thinking it was Impy the black Chipmunk. So it was a question which was the more surprised and which was the more angry, Black Pussy or Reddy Fox.

BUS AND AUTO COLLIDED; 28 PERSONS WERE INJURED

OXFORD, England, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A big sight-seeing bus filled with American tourists visiting the city and university collided with a small automobile at the town of Bicester today and then crashed into a stone wall. Twenty-eight persons were injured.

Mrs. Fanny McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Dickinson, Orlinda Hall and John White were taken to the Oxford hospital. Their addresses were not immediately available, nor was the extent of their injuries known.

OLD-FASHIONED FLOORING IS RETURNING TO FAVOR

The rejuvenation of old houses, and the increasing interest in modern homes of early European derivation, has brought into much favor the wide plank floor. When of soft wood, such floors are often painted, but the hardwoods—particularly oak—are usually treated to develop the full beauty of the grain and the rich color which time and wax alone formerly gave to old floors of this type.

A few years ago wide plank floors were either impractical, if solid wood was used, or quite expensive if laminated, or built-up, planks were employed to eliminate warping. The chemical treatment used on parquetry floors largely solves the problem of wide plank floors of solid wood.

Such floors gain interest by using dovetail keys to hold together the edges of adjoining planks, with plugs—sometimes of contrasting color—to cover the countersunk screw heads which hold the planks down to the underfloor.

The mayor of Eastlake, Mich., intends to reduce the tax burden of the 500 persons in his village by raising funds through community dances.

POETRY

To a Caty-Did

In a branch of willow hid
Sings the evening Caty-did;
From the lofty locust bough
Feeding on a drop of dew,
In her suit of green arrayed
Hear her singing in the shade—
Caty-did, Caty-did, Caty-did!

While upon a leaf you tread
Or repose your little head
On your sheet of shadows laid,
All the day you nothing said:
Half the night your cheery tongue
Revelled out its little song—
Nothing else but Caty-did!

From your lodging on the leaf
Did you utter joy or grief?
Did you only mean to say
I have had my summer's day
And am passing, soon, away
To the grave of Caty-did;
Poor unhappy Caty-did!

But you would have uttered more
Had you known of nature's power!
From the world when you retreat,
And a leaf's your winding sheet,
Long before your spirit fled,
Who can tell but nature said—
Live again, my Caty-did!
Live, and chatter Caty-did.

Tell me, what did Caty do?
Did she mean to trouble you?
Why was Caty not forbid
To trouble little Caty-did?
Wrong, indeed, at you to fling,
Hurting no one while you sing—
Caty-did, Caty-did, Caty-did!

Why continue to complain?
Caty tells me she again
Will not give you plague or pain;
Caty says you may be hid,
Caty will not go to bed
While you sing us Caty-did—
Caty-did, Caty-did, Caty-did!

But, while singing, you forgot
To tell us what did Caty not;
Caty did not think of cold,
Flocks retiring to the fold,
Winter with his wrinkles old,
Winter that yourself foretold
When you gave us Caty-did.

Stay serenely on your nest;
Caty now will do her best,
All she can to make you blest;
But you want no human aid—
Nature, when she formed you said
"Independent you are made,
My dear little Caty-did:
Soon yourself must disappear
With the verdure of the year."
And to go, we know not where
With your song of Caty-did.

—Philip Freneau

Havens And High Seas

Havens or high seas!
Choose which you please,
Land-bounded comfort,
Contentment and ease,
Fire on hearthstone,
Wind in the trees,
A hand at home-coming,
Would you have these?
Or do you still long
For nights that are gone,
Wind in the rigging,
Red sun at dawn,
Where blue touches blue,
And the limitless view
Is pregnant with longing—
Do these call to you?
Heavens or high seas,
Cyclone or breeze,
Whichever you choose,
You will never have ease!

—E. Leslie Spaulding, in the Chicago Tribune.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

DREDGER TEMPORARILY WITHDRAWN FROM THAMES RIVER PROJECT FOR REPAIRS

Work on the dredging of the channel in the Thames river was halted a week ago, it developed Monday, when it became necessary to withdraw the dredging plant temporarily for repairs. It is expected that operations will be resumed in two or three weeks time. The nature of the repair work on the dredger was not ascertained.

Following the disappearance of the dredger from the scene of operations about a week ago there was some speculation as to the reason for the halting of the work, and inquiry Monday resulted in a statement by Major Taylor of the United States Army Engineering office, in Providence, that the dredging was held up while repairs are being made to the dredging plant. The dredger is owned by Morris and Cummings of New York, who were awarded the contract by the government. The contract calls for the deepening of the channel to 18 feet from Allyn's Point to the local harbor. At the time the dredger was withdrawn for repairs, it was at work opposite the plant of the American Thermos Bottle Co. It is understood that there is still considerably over 200,000 cubic yards of river bottom to be removed.

Miss Oatman became a semi-finalist by disposing of Miss Mary Fine of Scranton, Pa. 6-0, 6-1, in the quarter final round. In the second round of play Miss Oatman defeated Miss Dorothy Phelps of Rockville, 6-3, 6-1, and Miss Fine eliminated Miss Kitty Arnold of Eastern Point, 6-1, 6-3.

WITHDRAWS FROM SUPERVISION OF STATE EDUCATION BOARD

The school children of Old Lyme are to be given a unique educational opportunity by reason of a recent action of the Old Lyme school board in withdrawing from the supervision of the state board of education and entering into an arrangement with the Yale department of education. Under this the schools in Old Lyme will have the benefit of the general guidance of the experts in elementary education of the staff of the university. This is probably the only rural school system in the country to be connected with a university and the work at Old Lyme will be watched with interest not only by the people of Old Lyme but by educators throughout the country. Although the Yale authorities will be acting in a supervisory capacity, the school will be operated as heretofore by the town school committee, which is elected by the legal voters of the town, and the ultimate approval or disapproval of the whole plan rests with the electorate.

The Center school will be under the direction of a supervising principal who will be the administrative officer of the school and who will be responsible for the work in the seventh and eighth grades

One day last week a motorist coming down Washington street headed toward the city, at Harland's corner, crashed into the extreme end of the rustic stone wall which fronts the big lot at the residence of Miss Elizabeth Huntington. The report was given out that the driver tried to make the corner into Town street, but was traveling at such speed that he shot directly across the street at this point and severely bumped the wall, pushing a good portion of the wall, which is constructed of cobble stones and cement, away from the main wall. After having his car righted, he drove off with the front wheels wobbling. The sedan barely escaped hitting a pole of the gas and electric company.

DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE AGAINST EDWARD KEARNS

The case of Edward Kearns of Riverside, Occum, charged with drunken driving, evading responsibility and driving machine without a license, was continued to Thursday, when it was called in the city court Monday morning. The charge of driving while intoxicated was preferred against Kearns during the court session as the result of testimony given by Constable Louis A. Paquette of Taftville, who investigated the accident. The continuance was granted so that two material witnesses can be summoned in. Kearns was arrested by Sergeant Matthew Delaney when the accused came into police headquarters early Monday morning to report the accident.

According to the testimony given by Kearns, a machine owned by Louis Barton of R. F. D. No. 8, Norwich, has been left in his care since Memorial day. He is unable to drive, but secures a licensed operator to take him riding at least twice a week. Saturday he had Ralph Hunt of Norwich avenue, Taftville, drive for him, in and about Norwich. They were returning home early Sunday morning, when Kearns suggested that they go to Norwich and have some lunch, but about that time one of the tires on the machine went flat.

While Hunt was investigating the flat tire, according to Kearns, he asked the accused for the flashlight in the rear seat. The car was then in neutral and the engine running. In reaching for the flashlight Kearns' leg accidentally struck the shift handle, he claims throwing the car into gear. Kearns who claims he does not know how to operate a car, tried to stop it and in stepping on the accelerator, caused the car to shoot forward. The wheels on the right side of the car scraped along the stone curbing for a distance of about 200 feet, before the auto shot onto the highway.

Continuing on up Providence street for about 1,000 feet the machine crashed into a telegraph pole and a cornerstone, before it came to a stop on the lawn of the Sacred Heart rectory. Kearns was slightly injured and taken to his home

When Constable Paquette learned that Kearns was driving the car at the time of the collision he went to his home and questioned him, with the result, it is alleged, that the accused remarked that he did not know anything about the accident. "I must have been drunk," he is credited with saying. Kearns denied in court that he made this statement, and said that he could secure two witnesses who would bear him out. When it was learned that one of the witnesses lives in Saybrook and the other in Massachusetts, the case was continued.

In his testimony Hunt confirmed Kearns' statement concerning the circumstances surrounding the accident and also stated that the accused was not under the influence of liquor at the time of the crash.

GERMAN PLANE ALIGHTED OFF THE BATTERY, 2.45 P.M.

Von Gronau Circled the Flying Boat Over Lower Manhattan Before Landing—Official Welcoming Party Was Off the Statue of Liberty, Where the Seaplane Was Expected to Land—Von Gronau and His Crew Were Taken Ashore in a Patrol Boat—After Telling Reporters That He Had "Accomplished the Dream of His Life," Vice Gronau Returned to the Plane and Took Off to Hangar in the East River.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Achieving an ambition of long standing, Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau landed in the harbor, at 2:45 E. S. T., today, completing an eight-day flight from Germany during which he and his three companions flew over the icy wastes of Iceland and Greenland.

"I can hardly believe it is true," he said. "All my life as a pilot I have dreamed of sometime landing in this wonderful harbor. We had rather a struggle with storm and rain and fog over vast icy areas but we came through all right."

Captain Von Gronau said he had not decided how he and his companions would return, but if they flew home it would not be by the same northern route, for no arrangements have been made for fuel depots. They will stay here for several days at least and hope to visit the National Air Races at Chicago.

The arrival in the harbor was spectacular. The decorated city tug Macom had set out with a welcoming committee to extend the city's greeting off the statue of liberty. Police and private planes circled above and police launches kept the thickening afternoon harbor traffic orderly. And then suddenly the big flying boat, gray green as the sea, flashed out from over the skyscrapers and swung in a wide circle over the statue of liberty.

Apparently not seeing the Macom, or not realizing what it was, Captain Von Gronau brought his rebuilt old veteran of the air down to a smooth landing just off the Battery sea-wall and threw a rope to a police launch. When the returning Macom got to it the plane was prosaically anchored as the harbor traffic went by, barges and scows and ferries.

The flying boat was not the only ship from a European port to arrive today. As the plane from Germany lay at anchor off the Battery, the great Majestic of the Cunard line steamed up the bay inbound from Cherbourg and Southampton. For a moment they were close together, a picture of modern transportation.

When the Macom docked the German fliers transferred to a police launch and went ashore, leaving their plane squatting on the water against the background of the towering city. A large crowd cheered as the fliers came ashore and were escorted to the office of the marine police.

There was a brief interview, Captain Von Gronau acting as spokesman for his companions, Edward Zimmer, Franz Hack and Fritz Albrecht, who were less familiar with English and who showed their pleasure by grinning at the reporters and waving to the crowds.

Then they went back to their plane and flew it over Manhattan to a police hangar on the East river, where it will be overhauled. It is an old plane, having been used five years ago in the Arctic by the late Roald Amundsen. The next year Captain Frank Courtney of England started a flight to America in it but was forced down at sea.

Captain Von Gronau said he did not announce he was planning a flight across the Atlantic when he took off from the Isle of Sylt in the North sea a week ago yesterday because he was not sure himself just how far he was going to be able to go.

"I thought it was best," he said, "just to start out and see how it went for a while."

The German crew followed a long northerly course, by way of the Faroes, Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, and Nova Scotia, leaving Halifax this morning for New York. The route was about 4,000 nautical miles and the flying time was 47 hours.

Captain Von Gronau, standing on the sea-wall, looked out at his old ship riding easily on the swells and smiled with pride.

"Not so many years from now," he predicted, "a plane from Europe will be landing in this harbor every day."

THREE BANKERS NAMED FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Three bankers were named today at the white house conference as a subcommittee to draft suggestions on needs and methods of handling drought relief.

Those named were Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago; Nicholas Dosker, vice-president of the Louisville Trust Co., and Morton Prentis, president of the First National bank, Maltimore.

Secretary Hyde, chairman of the national drought committee, announced after the conference that the agriculture department, farm board, federal farm loan board and the federal reserve board had been asked for reports as to what each of those agencies could do toward drought relief.

The sub-committee, together with the various federal agencies, was asked to report to a meeting of all of the banking representatives of drought states to be held at the agriculture department tomorrow morning.

LEFT DISABLED STEAMER IN TOW OF CUTTER MENDOTA

NEW LONDON, Aug 26.—(AP)—The cutter Champlain, returning from Europe with coast guard cadets from the annual summer cruise, tonight notified coast guard headquarters here that it had left the Export Steamship company's steamer Empress in tow of the cutter Mendota and expected to arrive here tomorrow morning.

Disabled at sea last week, the Empress was taken in tow by the Champlain and proceeded toward New York, with the Mendota also carrying coast guard cadets, standing by.

The Champlain reported tonight that its fuel was running low. After refueling here and discharging the cadets, it said it planned to relieve the Mendota of Empress, so that the former may return here with the other cadets. The Champlain will then proceed to New York with the steamer in tow.

The Champlain reported the position of the Mendota and the Empress as latitude 40 degrees 28 minutes, north and longitude 57 degrees, 47 minutes west.

MOVE TO COLLECT $27,000 BOND OF GASTONIA CONVICTS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The state moved today to claim the $27,000 bond of seven men convicted of second degree murder of O. F Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police.

The names of the seven leaders in the strike at Gastonia last year, were called in Mecklenburg superior court following receipt of the supreme court's decision denying them a new trial. None responded.

Presiding Judge Walter Moore then ordered a capias issued for them and directed that their bondsmen be notified to appear at the next term of court, set for September 22, to show cause why the bonds should not be forfeited. SHANGHAI, Aug. 26—(AP)— Foreign women and children were fleeing from Changsha, Hunan province capital, for Hankow today, because of the increasing menace of 5,000 communists approaching the city with the evident intention of attempting to recapture it.

With no protection except a weakened garrison of provincial troops of doubtful loyalty at Changsha, it was felt to be imperative to evacuate as many foreigners as possible to avoid the possibility of an attack such as hordes of communists recently made on the city, when foreign property was looted and burned.

President Chiang Kai-Shek has ordered 20,000 troops detached from his army in Shantung province, where government troops are attempting to suppress a northern revolt, and sent to Hunan province to punish the reds.

Rum Runner Was Shot During Chase

Three Were Captured in Liquor Laden Speedboat Off Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—(AP) — Three alleged rum runners were captured aboard a liquor-laden speedboat off Newport early today during a chase in which one man was shot and wounded. They will be arraigned in federal court here probably tomorrow.

A fourth member of the crew, who is known as "Chippa" Munson, of Fall River, Mass., is under guard at a Newport hospital. He was severely wounded in the chest by a bullet fired by the crew of coast guard patrol boat 134 in an effort to halt the flight of the smuggling craft.

Following the capture, which was made off Prudence Island shortly after 2 a. m., the wounded man was taken to the Fort Adams hospital for first aid treatment, and was later transferred to the Newport hospital. Another alleged rum runner, slightly wounded in one finger, refused medical aid and was brought to shore under guard with the rest of the crew.

Since the shooting occurred in waters under the jurisdiction of the coast guard officials at the New London base, the captured boat was first taken to that port. Later the craft was taken to Providence pending the arraignment of her crew.

A stubborn silence as to the activities of the Mardelle was maintained by Munson when he was questioned by officials who visited his bedside in the hospital. Beyond giving his name ad stating that he was the engineer of the speedboat, he refused to answer any queries.

Coast guard officers said the boat was one of the most elaborate ever captured in this vicinity. She was powered with three Liberty motors and the hull was constructed of mahogany throughout.

To give emphasis to the impression that she was a simple pleasure yacht, the crew were all arrayed in neat uniforms and yachting caps.

The chase and the subsequent shooting occurred in the same general vicinity as the "Black Duck" case, which resulted in the deaths of three rum runners last winter when a coast guard boat raked the deck of the smuggling craft with machine gun fire. The Black Duck has since been converted to coast guard use.

HIGHER CATTLE PRICES IN THE NEXT 12 MONTHS

WASHINGTON, Aug 26.—(AP)—The agriculture department said today the prospects favored a "material advance in cattle prices in the next 12 months."

A report issued through the bureau of agricultural economics said market supplies of cattle during the next five or six months probably would be about the same as a year ago, but the supplies during the first half of 1931 were expected to be smaller than in 1930.

Demand for stockers and feeders this fall will not equal that of last year, and for that reason slaughter is likely to be somewhat greater, the report said.

"Prospects favor a continuation of low imports of both live cattle and calves and of fresh and frozen beef and veal," it added. "Consumer demand for beef probably will improve somewhat in the next six months with the advent of cooler weather, especially if there is an improvement in industrial activities. Prospects favor a material advance in cattle prices in the next 12 months."

The ship now cannot be launched until the flood tides in September. An investigation of the accident was undertaken by port authorities at the request of the ministry of marine.

Thursday and Friday of last week when the wind did blow, the four defender candidates, Yankee, Enterprise, Weetamoe, and Whirlwind, did not race because the selection committee felt it had learned all it needed to know about their performance in heavy weather. FACTIONS ARE CONTENDING FOR GOVERNMENT OF PERU

General Ponce Heads Provisional Government in Lima—Colonel Cerro, Leader of the Original Revolt in Arequipa, Contends That Any Government Formed Must Be With His Sanction—Leaders of Factions Are to Negotiate in Lima Today—Former President Leguia Must Face Trial For "Misdeeds" in the Eleven Years He Ruled Peru.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Former President Augusto B. Leguia, who yesterday went aboard a cruiser after a revolt had forced his resignation and apparently thought he was going to Panama, now must face trial for his "misdeeds" in the 11 years he ruled Peru under a dictatorship.

The former president embarked on the cruiser Almirante Grau at Callao, port of Lima, early yesterday morning and the boat pulled out at 6 a. m.

How far it went or whether it anchored just outside the harbor could not be definitely learned, but apparently the warship did not go a great distance because the provisional government announced officially today that the boat had "surrendered." This means, it is understood, that Leguia will be returned here for trial.

News of the "surrender" was published in La Prensa, the official newspaper. It said officers of the Almirante Grau did not recognize the military junta but decided to abide by the national movement following an ultimatum sent them by the junta "in view of their obstinate attitude."

This latest development is credited to both students of Lima and to Lieutenant Colonel Luis Sanchez Cerro, who led the original revolt at Arequipa last Friday.

Sanchez Cerro wirelessed the commander of the Almirante Grau that he must deliver up the former president and intimated that the provisional government in Lima had been installed through a plot of Leguia.

At about the same time General Manuel Maria Ponce, head of the Lima military junta, or provisional government, yielded to the demands of students that the ex-president be prosecuted, and said the former official would be returned for trial.

Thus the brief revolt which unseated the 67-year-old dictator has developed two factions contending for rule of the country. Sanchez Cerro controls Arequipa and other large departments to the southward and holds that any government formed must be with his sanction.

The Lima group has asked Sanchez Cerro to join it as minister of war and intends to send negotiators southward by airplane, but there is some doubt that the Arequipa leader will fall in with the capital faction, since he contends that it was appointed by Leguia before he resigned.

General Ponce and his military committee took control of the government early Monday morning after a wild and exciting night in which few residents of Lima slept. The first event was the resignation of the Leguia cabinet Sunday. That night the president designated General Pedro Pablo Martinez to form a new government, but was told by a group of young officers that his choice was unsatisfactory.

Then the president named General Fernando Sarmiento premier and chose a group of ministers. He began swearing them in shortly after midnight but again was interrupted, and this time a conference led to demands for his resignation. He complied, and General Ponce formed a government immediately afterward. Leguia took refuge on the cruiser. He was accompanied to the dock by members of his family, who later took shelter at the American legation.

COL. CERRO TO NEGOTIATE WITH GEN. PONCE TODAY

LEGUIA HELD PRISONER BY THE MILITARY JUNTA

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Ex-President Augusto B. Leguia today was held a prisoner by the military junta that took over power in Lima after his resignation. He was surrendered at 4 a. m. by the officers of the cruiser Almirante Grau, on which he yesterday took refuge with the intention of seeking safety abroad.

According to an official statement, the Almirante Grau left her anchorage near San Lorenzo Island at about 1 a. m. The officers intended to land the ex-president at some foreign port.

The cruiser steamed out about 12 mils. Then a wireless from the junta was received threatening the officers with court martial if they did not return within 48 hours.

The cruiser put back to Callao harbor, wirelessing that she would surrender.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.— (AP)— Ten pickets, seven men and three women, were arrested today as an estimated 3,000 workers in the children's dress industry went on strike in an effort to secure higher wages and a five-day week.

LON CHANEY DIES OF COMPLICATION OF DISEASES

LOS ANGELES, Aug 26.—(AP)—Lon Chaney, the actor whose "thousand faces" were known wherever a motion picture unfolded upon a screen, wore his last mask today—in death.

The artist whose heroic pantomine won the applause of millions in "The Miracle Man" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," died at a hospital here last night from complications of pneumonia, a throat affliction and anemia.

Blood transfusions were resorted to in the ten-day battle to save his life. Yesterday, he took his first nourishment in three days and hope was renewed as he regained some of his waning strength. At midnight a lung hemorrhage occurred suddenly and he died.

Those close to Chaney—and they were few in his 47 years of life—were with him as the curtain fell. They were his son, Creighton, and his wife, Hazel Hastings Chaney, whom he married 22 years ago.

Chaney, ironically, was born on All Fools' day, 1883, in Colorado Springs, Colo. His parents were deaf mutes. To this circumstance has been attributed much of his peculiar ability as a mimic.

By the slow steps of stage property boy, stage hand, song and dance man in a benefit show at 16, wandering "ham" actor, and then film extra, Chaney climbed into the movies as a slapstick comedian in 1912. His first screen credit was two years later, when Universal Pictures gave him a leading role in "Hell Morgan's Girls."

As "The Frog" in the Miracle Man, Chaney's unrivalled talents in grotesque characterization brought him the recognition of the world.

PENO HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT ON MODIFIED CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 26.—At the session of police court this morning a charge of attempt to rape against Antonio Peno of 57 Union street, formerly of Bridgeport, was modified to one of breaking and entering. Probable cause was found by Judge Frank H. Foss and Peno bound over to the next criminal term of superior court under bonds of $1,000. Peno pleaded not guilty to the original and also to the modified charge. Police Officers Ralph Burchnall and William Hurley, who investigated the case, testified that the man, employed on the road construction job in Mansfield, crawled through a window of the apartment at 63 Union street and got into bed with a 13-year-old girl. When the girl screamed he fled and was arrested in his own room. Peno denied that he had climbed through the window in question and also denied ownership of a union suit identified as having been worn by the man who entered the apartment.

In drawing plans for financing the state encampment to be held in this city next June, the joint committees of Gold Star post No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and its auxiliary, will stage a series of whists beginning next month and continuing until the middle of December.

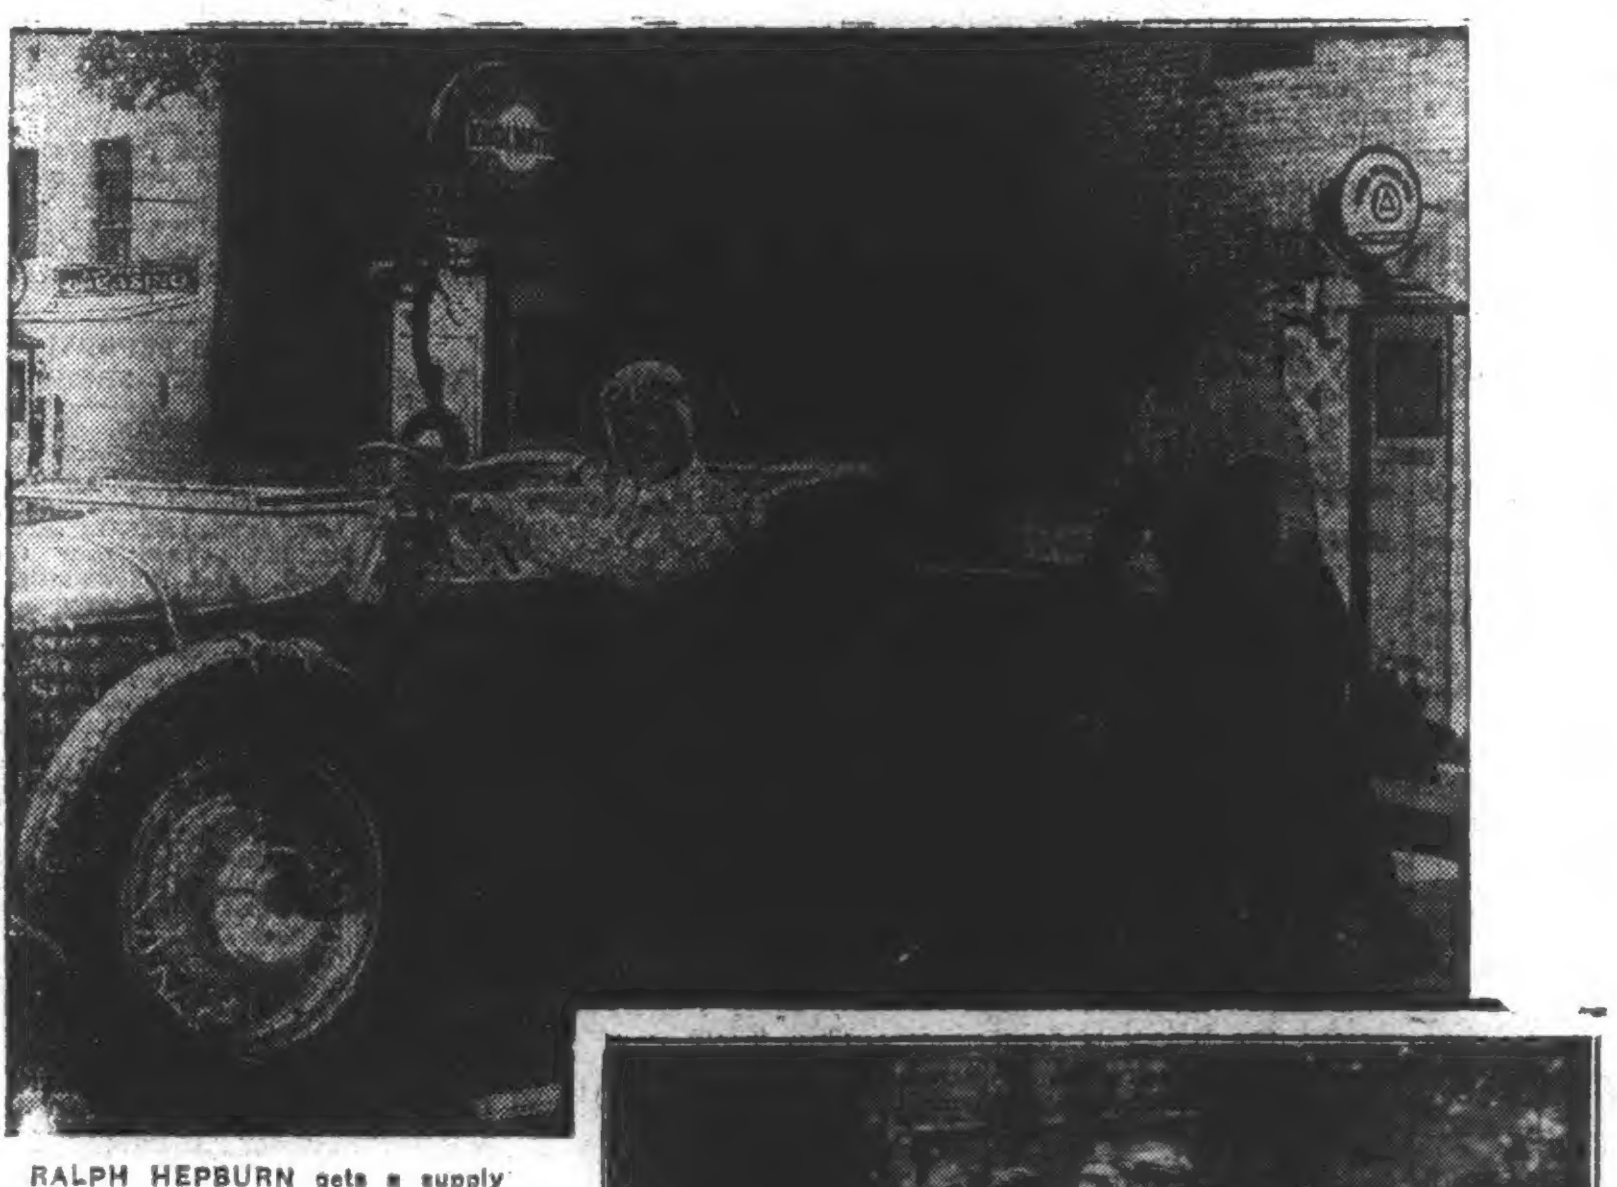
KOOLMOTOR

GASOLENE AND OIL



RALPH HEPBURN gets a supply of Koolmotor Gasolene for his Free Wheeling Studebaker.

(Bulletin August 23, 1930)

Jail Hill, otherwise School street, turning onto Cedar street, long famous as Norwich's best known test hill, Saturday was the scene of a public hill-climbing demonstrating, staged by a Studebaker Free Wheeling President Eight stock roadster, powered with Cities Service Koolmotor fuel.

Witnessed by Norwich officials, newspaper men and citizens, several trial trips were successfully completed. First trip with two people—second trip with three—third trip with four and finally with five full grown passengers whose human weight totalled 835 pounds, successfully negotiated the steep hill with its right angle turn and passed easily over top entirely in high gear.

DEMONSTRATING THE KOOLMOTOR GASOLENE IN NORWICH

TALK about speed, power and stamina! Onlookers were thrilled at the sensational hill climbing ability displayed by the new Free Wheeling Studebaker in the demonstration given by Ralph Hepburn, noted racing driver.

Although it was a tough assignment, Hepburn was sure of his car. He knew he must be equally sure of his gasolene and oil.

It is a tribute to the high quality of Koolmotor Gasolene and Oil that these products were selected. But greater than that was the spectacular success of the demonstration and Hepburn's enthusiasm over the performance of these products. In fact, Hepburn himself said: "Boy, what a combination for power!"

Koolmotor Gasolene, the original high test, anti-knock green gasolene, is clean, alert, powerful — the thoroughbred of motor fuels. Koolmotor Oil is rich, sturdy, full-bodied — famous for its ability to withstand searing heat.

To be first up a hill—first along the straightaway—first away when the light turns to green—always insist on these tried and proved products—Koolmotor Gasolene and Oil

DANIELSON

FIVE BUILDINGS IN PLAINFIELD ARE BURNED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 26—The entire row of business blocks and residences on the state highway between Wauregan and Plainfield in the east side of the village of Plainfield, were threatened with destruction at noon today, when a fire of undetermined origin broke out in a tool shed on the property of George Pember and reduced two sheds, two garages and a large barn to ashes, before it was finally brought under control. The fire was the worst and most spectacular the Lawton mill village has experienced in quite some time.

Discovered at approximately 11:45 a. m., the fire served to attract crowds equal to the entire populace of the community. Adelor Larocque a farm hand in the employ of Mr. Pember discovered columns of dense smoke escaping from the hay filled tool shed, as he was leaving the farm to go to his home for the mid-day meal. He gave the alarm, but before organized help reached the scene, the flames had gained such headway that the adjoining shed, the Pember garage and barn had been enveloped by the fire and it was beginning to eat into the large garage and salesroom of the Star garage owned by Charles Lavallee of Plainfield. An L-shaped wing of the garage, together with a large number of used cars stored in the building were later saved.

Smoke ascended high into the skies and was visible from Danielson. At noon a call for help was sent to Danielson and after a "33" call was rung in, members of the Captain Put engine company responded under the direction of Chief A. P. Woodward, made the 12 mile run in fast time and gave valuable assistance to firemen from Jewett City, Plainfield, Wauregan, Central Village and Moosup.

Seven streams of water forced by high pressure checked the onslaught of the fire in all directions. Firemen and citizens assisted Lavalle in saving office equipment and other property. What loss the garage proprietor sustained is total, since it was reported that his business was without insurance protection. Mr. Pember said that his property was partially covered with insurance. An estimate on the loss incurred was placed at $18,000 to $20,000.

Plainfield firemen promptly started to fight the blaze from the shed, which was a mass of flames. Hose lines were laid from a hydrant across the road. With the arrival of fire apparatus from neighboring communities, additional streams were played on the fire from various angles, in order to save the Pember house and buildings adjoining, which were being scorched by the terrific heat of the flames. Fate had its hand in the fighting of the fire and aided the firefighters, by absenting winds which would have caused havoc, had the slightest breeze prevailed.

An investigation by newspapermen, started after Lavallee, the garage owner refused to comment on the fire in any way, drew from one bystander a statement to the effect that two boys were seen rushing out of the tool shed a few minutes before smoke clouds were seen escaping from the building. This theory of boys and matches, was the only one advanced.

Besides the destruction of the five buildings, the burning of several automobiles, and the destruction of a wood sawing outfit, seven tons of hay and a large amount of farming implements in the Pember structures were credited to the fire.

After an hour's work, only the studded outline of the Pember barn and the charred frame of the garage salesroom remained standing. The rest was a total loss, only the basement walls remaining. However it was reported that no time will be lost in restoring the garage, in order that business might be resumed at an early date.

Danielson's firemen returned to their quarters here shortly before one o'clock.

An error occurred in this column this morning when it was stated that Alfred J. Bousquet, automobile accessory dealer in Plainfield, was the driver of the car which was in collision with another Plainfield auto, driven by Alfred Baldwin on July 22, that resulted in Elizabeth Marsden of Plainfield, instituting a damage suit for $2,000 against Mr. Bousquet. Mr. Bousquet was the owner of the vehicle, but at the time of the accident it was being operated by George Colombe of Plainfield, an employe of the defendant. The suit was instituted in superior court in Putnam this week by the Marsden woman who seeks to recover damages.

A fine of $1 and costs was imposed on Joseph Mazarelli of Brooklyn, when found guilty on a charge of fishing with a line having more than two baited hooks. Mazarelli was presented in town court before Deputy Judge Francis, by County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels of Plainfield who arrested the man Saturday evening. Mazarelli drew the small fine after the magistrate took into consideration the fact that he is the father of a large family and is without means of steady employment at present.

Justice A. R. Scranton, Jr., of South Woodstock, imposed a fine of $1 and costs of $12.60 today upon R. L. Dixon of New York city, who was arrested Sunday when found to be angling in Crystal lake in Eastford, without possessing a license. Warden Daniels ordered the man into court.

Anthony Chilkott of Eastford was summoned to appear in court in Eastford today when he was found hunting in the woods near Eastford last Sunday by Deputy Game Warden Barlow of Eastford. Chilkott's arrest followed after he was unable to produce a license.

Mrs. W. W. Tufts of Toronto, Canada, is visiting this week with A. F. Wood of Mechanics street.

Miss Helen Cohen, of New York city, a former summer resident of Danielson, was a visitor here today.

The "33" alarm of fire received at the Central fire station here today, was the first call the local fire-fighters have had in a number of weeks.

State officers of Danielson barracks were in Putnam today examining brakes and other equipment of automobiles there.

A coincidence is the fact that registration number "726" in the states of Vermont, Maine and Connecticut appears on automobiles of a Dodge make. Mr. Davis has seen the cars of the other New England states, which bear marker numbers that correspond with those on his own car.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward, who has been ill for a number of weeks, expects to enter a Hartford hospital at an early date, to undergo an operation.

Operations are presently underway for the enlargement of the parochial school of St. James' church on lower Main street. The sudden increase in the number of students attending the convent school, has necessitated that additional facilities be obtained.

Dr. and Mrs. Warren A. Tanner and son, Warren, Jr., have returned from a motor tour of several weeks' duration, of Northern New England.

Announcement has been received from the headquarters of the National League of Women Voters of the appointment of Miss Elizabeth P. SIX LINES OF HOSE SUBDUE FIRE STARTING AT PEMBER'S

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Aug. 26.—One of the most disastrous fires in years broke out here about noon Tuesday. George Pember and three men were working in the lot a short distance from the barn when one of them saw flames breaking through the roof of a shed. The fire spread quickly to the barns and the Star garage nearby. There was time only to get a few cars out. Seven fire companies responded to calls for help, the Plainfield Fire Co. No. 1, Inc., the Lawton mills, with one each from Central Village, Moosup, Wauregan, Danielson and Jewett City. Six lines of hose were laid. The front section of the garage and building nearby on both sides were saved. The last line of water was turned off at 5:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith and family were at Charlston beach Sunday.

PUTNAM

NURSES' HOME FUND NOW TOTALS NEARLY $12,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 26—Mrs. A. A. Vonsiatsky, general chairman of the drive for funds for the nurses' home of the Day Kimball hospital stated tonight that the fund at the end of the eighth week of the drive has nearly reached the mark of $12,000. While she was unable to state definitely the exact amount, she intimated that the total amount on hand at the present time is considerably more than $10,000.

During the past two weeks a number of benefits have been held in surrounding communities and returns will be made by the various committee captains at a meeting of the drive workers to be held on Wednesday.

Both the committee in charge of the drive and officials at the hospital are elated over the results of the campaign, which is still in its infancy. Three big events are scheduled for the hospital home fund in September. The outstanding attraction, will be the boxing bouts to be held in Danielson, where Al Singer and Benny Leonard will appear together with other luminaries of the boxing profession: the dance to be held at Wildwood park and the benefit performance of the Providence Art players in the comedy drama "Box and Cox," which was staged a few weeks ago before a large audience in Brooklyn. The performance was so well received, that Mrs. Vonsiatsky has secured the players to appear in a repetition of their work at the Thompson town hall next month.

The Putnam high school athletic field, with the exception of a few minor depressions in the center, is in shape for use of the school football eleven, which will begin its training period early next month. The field is now one of the best of its type anywhere in the state. During the summer months a heavy growth of clover helped the recently re-surfaced portions of the field to harden. The tall grass has been cut and during the past few weeks, additional mowings made, giving the gridiron and baseball diamond all the grass finery of the adjoining high school lawn.

An additional continuance of one week, was granted today to the state, and defense counsel represented in the Noga and Kremizen liquor case, which developed three weeks ago with a state police liquor raid, staged at the Colonial Beacon filling station in Grosvenordale. The case was scheduled to have been tried on Saturday, August 23, in justice court in North Grosvenordale. The defense at that time petitioned for a continuance until Tuesday, August 26. This was granted, and this morning it was announced that an additional adjournment to the September date would be made tonight.

Walter Kremizen and Edward Noga, proprietors of the filling station are the young men under arrest. One of the youths is charged with theft of a quantity of liquor evidence, which the state police claim was stolen from their automobile on the night of the raid. This allegation is cited in the warrant of arrest, which was presented when the two were arraigned in court three weeks ago.

Burton D. Taintor of Baltic, was arrested this afternoon by State Trooper L. F. Carmody of Danielson barracks and Officer Benoni Durand of the local police, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Police found Taintor at a residence on Farrows street, where he apparently had gone to sleep off the intoxicant, which had caused him to drive his car through a series of acrobatic feats on the state highway between Putnam and Phoenixville. A complaint, concerning the strange acting car was registered with the state police early this afternoon. A search of the highway was made by the officers, but the driver was successful in eluding capture when he left the state road at Pomfret station and headed in toward Pomfret Landing. Arriving on the state road again at the foot of hospital hill, Taintor realized the risk he was driving under, and he abandoned his car in the yard of the Allard home on Pomfret street, called a taxi-cab and went to the house on Farrows street, where he was harbored by friends. Officer Durand on duty in the business section, remembered having seen the intoxicated passenger in the cab. Checking up on the driver, information as to where the occupant of the vehicle was taken, was obtained. A visit to the house, revealed the guest and resulted in his arrest. He will appear in police court Wednesday morning.

A large number of local automobile owners had their cars examined for defective brakes and equipment this morning, when a cordon of state officers from Danielson barracks opened an inspection station at the scale house on Mechanics street. During the course of the forenoon every car that passed the point was subjected to rigid inspection. One arrest was made and the driver of the truck will appear in police court Wednesday morning. Cars bearing the tags marked, "Inspected and Approved" are exempt from inspection.

A death in Longbranch, N. J., Friday, was that of Miss Catherine Lynough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lynough of Pomfret. Miss Lynough was 32 years of age and her death followed a brief illness. The body has been shipped to Putnam, where arrangements for burial will be made.

Cards have been received here from Sergt. A. J. Sponcey of the local police, and Mrs. Sponcey, who are vacationing in Rigaud, Quebec.

A meeting of the town committees aiding in the drive for funds for the nurses' home of the Day Kimball hospital, will meet with Mrs. A. A. Vonsiatsky, general chairman, at the Russian Bear tea room in Thompson, Wednesday noon.

JEWETT CITY

LOCAL FIRE APPARATUS STOOD OUT BIG AT PLAINFIELD

Boroughites who were able to go to Plainfield Tuesday afternoon to the fire in LaVallee's garage and a nearby barn, were certainly proud of the Jewett City pumper and the firemen who responded to the call for help. Warden Jodoin gave permission to render aid, and the new pumper, driven by Theodore Boule, excited general admiration for its efficiency and appearance. Fire Chief Fields and Fire Marshal G. H. Prior, Assistant Mose Loranger and a number of Jewett City firemen worked with a will and rendered valuable assistance.

THE GERMAN FLIERS

Once more this country, and New York in particular, has an opportunity to welcome European aviators, trans-Atlantic fliers who have safely negotiated the long crossing though not this time in a non-stop flight.

Captain Von Gronau and his crew have made their flight by a series of hops, setting out on their trip without any definite objective in view but being encouraged by their successful progress to keep on until they reached New York. Their accomplishment is none the less praiseworthy because it was kept quiet. Rather does it appear that they were concerned more with some real attainment in aviation than in the publicity which features so many of the proposed and uncompleted ocean flights.

The course they followed differs slightly from that which was taken by the American fliers in their trip around the world. They departed from continental Europe and made use of the Farroe Islands, Iceland, Greenland and Labrador as stopping places during their trip, employed a seaplane and had the satisfaction of making the trip without accident and with no serious difficulty until the fog along the North American coast was encountered. It was over a similar course that aviators earlier in the year were forced to turn back.

That their accomplishment should be looked upon with special interest by the Canadians is not at all surprising. Others may regard the Newfoundland-Ireland route as better but the route to the north provides those stopping places which are regarded as furnishing greater protection to the fliers, and particularly so when making the westerly flight. Whether the northern route, already being studied by scientists, results in the establishment of a trans-Atlantic air service between Montreal and points in Europe, it is a route which has insured safety to all those who have attempted to use it for a westward crossing, while too many of those who have attempted the crossing by the other route have never been heard from. It is a route, however, which would have a summer rather than a winter appeal.

PERU CHANGES LEADERS

Certain republics in the western hemisphere have their own way of making changes in their governments. If and when a certain crowd makes up its mind that the head of the government has been there long enough, and it can interest the army, a revolution does the trick. Sometimes it is accompanied by bloodshed and at other times it is successfully accomplished with little disturbance. The experience in Peru indicates what happens in a bloodless revolt

In the crowding of President Leguia out of office and forcing him to flee the country, there are certain charges made which reflect unfavorably upon the man who has been at the head of that government so long. Making such charges and proving them are entirely different, but the fact that President Leguia fled indicates that he understood the strength that had been marshalled against him and realized that he could no longer command the backing that had been his in the past.

Nevertheless, the fact that he had been president of Peru for 11 years makes it evident that he must have been an unusual man. Certainly he has made a record for himself during that time and, likewise, for Peru. President Leguia is a man of modern ideas and he has been doing his best to put them into operation in Peru. He has been able to influence much foreign capital to participate in the development that Peru needed. He has brought about the modernizing of Lima, its buildings have been reconstructed, a better school system established, better roads constructed and in many ways he has worked to make his country progressive.

Furthermore, it cannot be overlooked that it was during his regime that the long-standing quarrel between Chile and Peru was settled. That in itself meant much, but less thought was given to the accomplishments under Leguia than possibly to the expense involved in connection therewith. The result is that Leguia had to go and he, as well as others, fully realizes that he left the office in much the same way that he took it, by a coup d'etat. Peru has reason to wonder whether his successor will be able to do as much as Leguia did for that country.

SHUTTING OFF IMMIGRATION

Unemployment doesn't concern this country alone. Canada is feeling the effects of it and it hasn't been slow to realize that its situation can be helped by the putting up of the immigration bars.

Canada is a great country which can stand much development. Under normal conditions it welcomes a desirable class of immigrants. It can use them to good advantage on its farms and it makes interesting offers to those in the British Isles, for instance, who have suffered from lack of employment. To have them settle upon its farm land has been the object of the Canadian government, but there are times when Canada can take immigrants to advantage and there are times when it cannot.

Because of the number without employment Canada has announced that there will be no immigration permitted from continental Europe under prevailing conditions. That means that Canada is going to take care of its own. If there is work to be had it should go to those already in the country who need it. If immigration is to go on unrestricted there will be no help given to the unemployment situation. Rather it will grow worse instead of better, as long as those from other countries are willing to come in and take their chance of finding something to do and a place to live.

It is recognized, of course, that there is a difference in the standard of living of many who come from other countries and those who are born in this country or have long been citizens. But whether there is or not, Canada recognizes that it has a problem on its hands to do the best it can for those within its boundaries, and its action in restricting immigration when so many are out of work indicates that it is its purpose to take care of its own first.

There is nothing in such a policy to which serious objection can be raised. It is, in fact, only what might reasonably be expected under the circumstances, and Canadians have reasons for appreciating it.

TARIFF COMMISSION HEAD

By the appointment of Henry P. Fletcher to the chairmanship of the tariff commission, President Hoover has named a man who is widely known not only in the United States but in many other countries.

President Hoover has experienced difficulty in getting those he wanted to take the job. It is no secret that Mr. Fletcher was not the first one approached by the president in seeking a chairman. This doesn't mean that he had not previously recognized the ability of Mr. Fletcher. Rather does it seem that he might have preferred to keep him within call for diplomatic service whenever needed instead of establishing him in the work of directing the tariff commission.

That Mr. Fletcher possesses the ability to handle the tariff job is not questioned. He has made such wonderful success in diplomatic jobs that his appointment to the tariff commission has won instant recognition on the part of other countries. They feel confident that he will give an excellent account of himself in that office but without realizing perhaps the difficulties which any man faces who is placed therein.

It is to be expected that whoever is named to the tariff commission will do his best to see that the tariff situation is properly met. Because Mr. Fletcher has been a high tariff man, or comes from the state of Pennsylvania, doesn't mean that he isn't big enough to meet fairly and judicially any protest that is brought before the commission. That there will be confidence in his ability to do so is generally believed. His appointment is made during the recess of congress but subject to confirmation by the senate and, even though that body has been disposed to pick all appointments to pieces, the standing and record of Mr. Fletcher is such that there should be no question of ratification.

HIDING THE KEY

Getting enough keys to supply the household so that all may enter when they desire, regardless as to whether anyone else is at home, is not a very difficult task. Somehow there are reasons for believing that it is much more generally resorted to than in some other days, and yet there are experiences which go to show that the old habit of having but one key still prevails. This means, of course, that when everyone is out and the family is not together the key must be put where it can be obtained by the one who returns first. That means some handy place that will be as accessible to burglars and robbers as to members of the household, some place which those desiring to loot the house might guess or even see the person hiding the key go when secreting it.

Everyone knows where he is inclined to hide a key. It has been quite a common practice. As a matter of fact, it wasn't really hidden, though it might have been temporarily put out of sight. Anyone with a little thought could quickly bring to mind a half dozen places where a key could be hung or placed which would be quickly accessible to those having a right to it, but in all such instances it would be quite as easy for the crook to make just as good guesses.

There are those who maintain that the most plausible place for hiding the key is the safest. They have faith that nothing will happen, that no one will suspect the fact that the key is hidden, but with those watching every opportunity for robbing it cannot be overlooked that it is much cheaper and better to fit out all the household with keys than to take the chances of hiding one and thereby providing the crook with added facilities for his work.

SUE COLLET'S SECRET.

Supper was over, but Mr. and Mrs. Jan Collet lingered over the coffee talking.

"I've a job to do," announced Jan, "a drawing for one of the men at the office, which means $50 for us. I have to get it well under way tonight, but I want to go to the barber first."

"All right," agreed Sue. "By the time you come back I'll have the dishes done and be ready to go over to Mrs. Page's. Meeting of the club tonight, you know."

"Righto!" said Jan. He pushed his chair back from the table and kissed Sue perfunctorily before he took his hat and was gone. For a few minutes Sue sat, musing. Ten years since they were married. Here they were living in a cosy enough home, Jan earning a comfortable salary as a commercial artist. He had his art, she had her clubs. Together they had books and the theater. It was a peaceful, uneventful life, and so far Sue had enjoyed it. Now she found herself beginning to wish something would happen to break the monotony of it.

The thought kept running through her head as she did the dishes. She and Jan loved each other, certainly. And all their friends were the same type—placid, loving married couples. She piled the dishes back on the shelves and wondered about the order she must phone the store in the morning. Her pencil—but where was her pencil?

She looked about the cupboard in vain. Well, Jan always had plenty in his brief case. She picked it up from the table in the hall and felt about in its depths for a pencil. Nothing there except a few brushes. Impatiently she pulled out a group of papers and on top lay a portrait with a tiny pink envelope attached.

Something about it made Sue feel uncomfortable and suspicious. It was addressed to Mr. Jan Collet. That was all. Probably had been delivered to him by messenger or inclosed in another envelope. She wondered. And the portrait! Feeling guilty, but unable to endure the curiosity, she lifted the cover.

A black-eyed girl laughed up at her. Dark, wavy hair rippled away from her face—a long, slim hand partially covered an otherwise bare shoulder. It was autographed, "Lovingly, Perdita!" And the autograph was in the same penmanship as that on the little pink envelope. Sue snatched it open.

A curl of red-brown hair and a few lines: "Here is the strand of my hair you have been wanting. Do hope it inspires you. Perdita Lang."

Sue sat down abruptly. Jan, her Jan whom she had always taken for granted, loved another woman. A laughing, brazen woman named Perdita! And she had just been thinking how dull her life was. She had happiness and didn't realize it. Didn't appreciate it! She slipped the contents back into the brief case and replaced it on the table.

Later, when Jan returned and found her ready to go to the club meeting, Sue gave him no reason to suspect the half-hour of misery she had just gone through. During the evening she chatted amiably with her friends, made arrangements for next month's meeting and all the while wondered vaguely what she would do. Would she leave Jan to Perdita or would she fight to win him back? Should she tell him she knew about it? Her head began to ache. Oh, why couldn't her life have continued peacefully!

When she came home Jan called from his studio:

"Hello, Honey! This job is coming along fine I could finish it in two more hours, so I think I'll keep right on. You run along to bed, though. Come, give a good-night kiss to me and say if you like this or not before you go."

Reluctantly Sue entered the studio. Jan's back was toward the door, propped up prominently on his desk was the photo of Perdita. Sudden anger passed like a wave over Sue and left her trembling She took a quick step forward. Without turning from his work Jan was saying:

"This is a water color of Ted Lang's daughter, the dancer, you know. He is going to give this to her mother for a gift. Sent me the photo and a lock of hair to work from. Looks pretty good, doesn't it?"

"Jan, it's beautiful!" Sue sighed and he mistook her relief for ecstasy. Wasn't it wonderful having a wife who appreciated your work like that!

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug 26—In the light of Nebraska's primary results, it seems now that even had a second George W. Norris managed to stick on the ticket, it would not have beaten George W. Norris of McCook, veteran irregular, out of the nomination.

It hardly could have confused as many as 25,000 Norris supporters as to which man they were voting for. And the veteran had upward of that for his plurality.

That Nebraska contest was in many ways the most interesting pre-election battle.

Only the huge size of Dwight Morrow's victory in the New Jersey G. O. P. senatorial contest coupled with the fact that Morrow was a right-out-loud wet made it of equal national political importance.

The Morrow-for-president talk was post facto and looked to some remote date, politically speaking, after the Hoover epoch.

Important to Norris

For George Norris himself, with ten years in the house and going on 18 in the senate of continuous Washington service behind him, probably the primary victory was far more important than the actual election results will be in November.

Running against former Senator Gilbert Hitchcock, democrat, none of the questions of party regularity that gave so much zest to the primary fight will be in issue.

It's reasonable to suppose that Norris would find himself much more in harmony with the views and votes of Hitchcock in the senate than he possibly could with those of a "regular" republican from his own state.

More than once, Norris has indicated a desire to terminate his public service; but never by turning tail in the political fight centering about him. Some Washington observers have thought Nebraska's regulars have made a mistake in strategy. Norris has invariably taken up the gages of battle they threw down

Had they just kept quiet and not challenged him early and often to renewed combats, a good many folks here think Norris might have retired voluntarily some years ago.

His Battle Won

In any event, even should he suffer defeat in November, Norris probably would not feel nearly as keenly about it as he would have felt over a primary defeat.

For the 14th successive time he has vindicated his party irregularity by the votes of his party fellows in Nebraska.

If anti-Norris republicans should throw their support to Hitchcock in the election and beat Norris by going irregular in their turn, it could not be a matter of very grave concern to the veteran.

Unless the bystander misreads Norris utterly, it is the support of his fellow Nebraska republicans of his course in congress that counts with him, not merely retention of his senate job.

And if that is true, what happens in November would be secondary in the Norris view.

His battle is already won.

YOUR HEALTH

STOMACH PHOTOGRAPHY AND ITS VALUE

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)
By Joseph Colt Bloodgood, M.D., Baltimore

In 1913 I reviewed every recorded lesion that we had observed in the stomach in the surgical pathological laboratory of the Johns Hopkins hospital during a period of twenty-four years. In that period there were but three patients living whose cancers had been successfully removed from the stomach, and this represents but ten per cent of the successful resections of the stomach. That is, 90 per cent survived the operation, but died later of the disease because the cancer cells had migrated beyond the stomach to inaccessible places. In more than 70 per cent of cases the cancer of the stomach had passed the stage of any possible removal, these patients had known for some time that they had "indigestion" and persistent indigestion, which was only temporarily relieved by any treatment.

The evidence which has accumulated since then, and the development of the X-rays as a diagnostic instrument of precision, have entirely changed the hopelessness of cancer of the stomach. We have no evidence, as yet, that every adult should have an X-ray photograph of his stomach, but I am quite confident that if a portion of the money expended on photography of the face were employed for photography of the stomach, every individual would get value for his money.

There are two things for every individual to know: First, pay attention to indigestion or any discomfort within the abdomen; second, have an X-ray examination.

The principle established here for the stomach applies to all viscera within the abdomen. X-rays will usually find stones in the gall-bladder, kidneys, ureter or urinary bladder. When one swallows bismuth, the X-rays will show the outlines of the viscera from the esophagus to the rectum, and any local lesion like an ulcer, which is not yet a cancer but may be cancer, or a wart that ultimately always become cancer, or the cancer itself, will make in the picture a definite defect called a filling defect.

Very rarely will a careful X-ray study overlook or omit a serious local lesion. We have therefore accomplished exact diagnosis. Surgery, safe and sure, has been established for years. The next road to progress, therefore, in the cure of cancer of the stomach and bowels, is to teach the public the importance of early and regular X-ray examination.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

Well-Balanced Thrift Program Essential to Personal Progress

"What percentage of my income should I pay for rent?" This letter recently came to the writer from a reader of this department and it suggests an interesting problem.

Of course, the question of what part of one's income should be budgeted for rent, food, clothing, recreation, charity, education, travel, savings and other items depends on the circumstances of the individual. Many economists have stated that 20 per cent of the family income is about what should be paid for rent. In many cases, however, it is necessary to pay more than this while with others the 20 per cent estimate is much too high. It is not possible to fix an arbitrary schedule that would suit all cases.

The practice of real thrift involves judgment, initiative and enterprise as well as economy. We should study our own problems with the thought ever in mind that thrift does not mean just saving money but that it means to thrive in every sense of the word. To be truly thrifty is to be progressive—to keep step with the marching feet of modern life.

Those who expect to succeed in thrift should first of all map out some definite plan. Your income should be budgeted so that you will always be living within your means and saving a little money. We often hear the expression that such and such a person is "property poor." Others burden themselves with too much insurance while others do not have enough of that splendid form of investment.

The American Society for Thrift will be glad to mail to any of the readers of this column a free copy of its household budget and if requested will offer helpful suggestions or information to those who are endeavoring to plan a well-balanced thrift program for themselves. Letters may simply be addressed to the Society at 9 East 46th street, New York City.

There are, no doubt, many who are seriously desirous of cultivating habits of thrift but there are obstacles which seem to be in the way and quite often a word of suggestion will prove very helpful.

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Stand Back of Judges and Law.

Mr. Editor: In your issues of August 20th and 21st the correspondents from New London and Putnam tell of the trials of people that have broken the law pertaining to the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States. That is, these people were convicted of selling beer and liquor.

The names of these people were nearly all foreign, indicating to "the man on the street" that they were taking advantage of their liberty (?) in this land of the free to do as they please. I think Judge M. H. Geissler did well to sentence those that came before him as the pleading of Attorney Miron must have been very hard to resist. We know that the well trained mind of Judge Daniel M. Cronin, cannot be turned aside by the pleading of any attorney, as the judge will not allow his sympathies to run away with his judgment.

Is there only one way to reach these lawbreakers? If there is only one way, let us who know the law and mean to abide by it, stand back of the judges and uphold them in their condemnation of these men and women who do not wish to keep the law.

CHILD TRAINING

Full of Life

Sarah E. McCahey

It wasn't until Mr. and Mrs. Dunn saw that their little boy was not growing as strong as they would like, that they decided to rent for the summer season one of the row of white bungalows that faced the shore at Hampton Beach.

Naturally, the first thing Mrs. Dunn did, on her arrival there, was to look around to see who her neighbors were. As the hours passed she saw enough to perturb her. Next door lived four rugged children, burned brown by the sun; all day long they played on the beach in their bathing suits, which they did not remove until evening. She watched her linen-clad Bobby walking carefully in his bare feet towards the water, carrying a shiny new pail and shovel. The sun-browned children spied her son.

"Look who's going to Sunday school." one shouted.

They drew near and gazed curiously from the boy to his mother. They, too had the privilege of scrutinizing their new neighbors. Afterwards they noticed the train of cars on the porch, also the futuristic wooden duck, the like of which never was seen in the animal kingdom, and calling out, "We've got something better than those," they grabbed up long shiny lengths of seaweed and raced along the beach trailing them over the sand.

Shells? They had them by the quart. They decorated their sand houses with them, buried them, put glass over them, covered them with more sand and charged each other more shells for a dig and a look to find the treasure.

When Bobby's dad came home he took his small son into the water with him for a dip, but the child was afraid and screamed loudly. Finally his mother had to take him into the house, comfort him and put him to bed

Another day came and went and still another. Mrs. Dunn was getting worried. The "little gang of roughs," as she mentally called the children next door were having the time of their lives watching Bobby's attempts at play—when they weren't too busy doing something else—and making fun of him. But finally, one day when they were going too far, they were silenced by a word from their mother, and Mrs. Dunn looked gratefully at her.

"Put his bathing suit on and send him over, Mrs. Dunn," the other mother said kindly. Mrs. Dunn obediently went into the house, put Bobby's suit on him and sent him over.

"Stand still and put your foot there," they cried as Bobby drew near. It was near a sand pile and they all squatted down and piled a tapering mound of sand over his foot.

"You're in the village now!" they yelled, and Bobby squatted with them as they dotted his sandhouse with shells. He was too busy to notice the little waves that crept up now and again to touch him—little waves that were getting him ready for the big ones.

"And I thought them rough," said Mrs Dunn to herself as she gazed with misty eyes at her young son's initiation, "but they're only full of life."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The United States Finishing Co., Norwich

In June 1899 a group of men under the leadership of William W. Dunnell organized The United States Finishing company under the laws of New Jersey to combine under one management the Dunnell Manufacturing company of Pawtucket, the Norwich Bleaching, Dyeing and Printing company and the Reid and Barry company of Passaic, N. J.

The success of this enterprise encouraged expansion and two years later saw the Sterling Dyeing and Bleaching company added, followed by the Silver Spring Bleaching and Dyeing company in 1903. The company was re-incorporated under the laws of Connecticut in 1904. Still expanding it acquired control of the Queen Dyeing company and the C. P. Darling box shop of Providence in 1909.

In 1913 the Passaic branch was closed down, and auctioned off within two years, and not until ten years later was more property acquired. Then in 1923, due to the growth of the textile industry in the south, the company bought and remodelled the plant of the Blue Spring Bleaching and Dyeing company at Cedartown, Georgia. In 1929 the company acquired control of the Hartsville Print & Dye Works at Hartsville, S. C., and in 1930 took over the packing box plant of the United Box & Lumber company of Rochester, N. H.

The personal side of the company is divided into two distinct regimes, the founders and the present management.

When Mr. Dunnell retired in 1900, Joseph G. Wright of Passaic, then general manager, succeeded him as president, holding both offices until 1913 He was assisted at that time by Charles Bard as vice-president, and from 1904 by Franklin S. Jerome as treasurer. In that year Edward M. Childs was elected assistant treasurer, which office he still holds. Other prominent organizers were Hugh H. Osgood and J. Hunt Smith of Norwich, the former vice president until 1901 the latter the first treasurer and then secretary from 1904 to 1909.

A reorganization of the company took place in 1913. Henry B. Thompson, formerly treasurer of the Joseph Bancroft Sons company of Wilmington Delaware, and well known to the finishing industry was elected president and treasurer. From then on the company grew until today it stands the leader of its kind.

Associated with him at the start was Harry M. Horton in the capacity of assistant to the president, and who was elected a vice-president in 1917.

Others of the new management were Albert S. Bard, formerly secretary and now company counsel and our present secretary, Grant A. McClatchie and our treasurer, Andrew C. Imbrie, both of whom were elected to their present positions in 1916. John J. Baugher, vice-president, was elected in 1923 succeeding James G. Clark who had held that office since 1917. Henry B. Thompson, Jr. was elected vice president in the year 1928 to succeed Harry M. Horton resigned.

Recent years have seen many improvements in working conditions, and in a growth of family spirit within the organization. Group insurance was established throughout the company in 1917. Mutual Benefit associations are now in operation at our Rhode Island and Georgia plants. Organized safety work became a company policy in 1920, and the next year saw the first of our plant hospitals installed at Silver Spring, the other plants soon following the example.

Seven finishing plants and two box shops are united through a New York executive and sales office. Here also the purchasing of supplies is centered.

In addition, the company maintains at Providence a central accounting office a central research laboratory and a central engineering department.

These 31 years have seen The United States Finishing company develop from a group of specialty plants into a well knit organization equipped to produce every known finish for cotton rayon and celanese fabrics. About 3,500 people are employed and the combined finishing plants have a capacity of 250,000,000 yards of cloth per year.

Being interesting often depends upon who your audience is.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets
Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

Fruit buyers may expect better varieties of apples, peaches and pears from Connecticut farms in the near future. Growers predict that supplies of Gravenstein apples, Bartlett pears, Hiley Belle and other kinds of peaches will soon be liberal. All of these have made their appearance upon our local markets but the supply is expected to increase this week.

Compared with other years prices have averaged substantially lower for most fruits on sale up to date and with heavy crops in prospect for most later varieties it is expected that buyers will continue to enjoy the advantages of low prices.

The vegetable supply appears to be at its peak. Offerings of most products continued liberal during the week and prices remained at, or close to, the bottom. Tomatoes and sweet corn made few price changes with liberal supplies. Lima and shell beans were adequate, but string beans were light and firm.

LARGE ENTERING CLASS AT AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Aug. 26.—Although the list of students who will be admitted to the entering class of Connecticut Agricultural college this fall is not yet complete, present indications are that these students will have a higher scholastic rating than that of any class entering previously. This class will be larger than any other class ever to enter the state college with the possible exception of the class of 1930 which entered in the fall of 1926 with a membership of 210. This announcement was made here at the college today by Registrar Marjorie Smith, who stated that 180 freshmen have been admitted to date to the class of 1934. While this number may be expected to increase before Sept. 1, it was pointed out that on Sept. 1, 1929, the number of students who had been admitted to the class of 1933 had at that time reached only 163.

DAILY ATTENDANCE AT PLAY CENTERS WAS 1,200

The attendance at the playgrounds for the year is in excess of that for 1929, according to an announcement by Superintendent Earl E. Brigham, on the closing day of the playground season, Tuesday afternoon. The average daily attendance at the play centers is given as 1,200, an increase of about 100 over the preceding year. The work of removing and storing the equipment at the grounds will be done by the instructors during the remainder of the week.

It was announced that the total attending the baseball contests in the City league is set at 75,000, with an average daily attendance of 1,500.

WORK OF WIDENING BROAD STREET HALF COMPLETED BY STREET DEPT.

A gang of men in the employ of the street department under the direction of Street Commissioner Herbert B. Wightman are engaged in widening Broad street, at the head of Grove street, for a distance of about 100 feet, and when the work is completed they will have eliminated a dangerous curve. The annual city meeting, in June, appropriated the sum of $3,000 for the project which is about half finished.

The work consists of widening the street at the corner from 10 to 15 feet by cutting down the high banking and erecting a new retaining wal, which is considerably lower than the one which is being torn down. The property owners have given the city all the land that is needed in the improvement with the understanding that the stone wall and front steps be put in as good condition as when the work started.

Another force of men is working on the laying of a sewer in Avery street. This is almost completed, as the ditch has been dug and the pipes are being laid. Difficulties were met in this work as considerable ledge had to be blasted and removed. Two thousand dollars was appropriated for this work by the city meeting in June.

These two projects are being done in addition to the regular work of the department, consisting of patching up streets, etc.

One job that was recently finished by the department was the Bath street improvement. This called for the cutting back of the street where it was narrow, the raising of the gutters where they were low and the lowering of the crown of the street where it was high. A cement gutter was laid at the north end and the street was oiled.

Chairman Maurice Looby of the public works department announced Tuesday evening that all of the work of the department will be done this year within the appropriations.

POMFRET WOMAN CHAIRMAN IMMIGRATION COMMITTEE

Announcement has been received from the headquarters of the National League of Women Voters of the appointment of Miss Elizabeth P. Andrew of Pomfret and Hartford as chairman of the National League's Special committee on Immigration Problems. Miss Andrews, who succeeds Mrs. Kenneth F. Rich of Chicago, Ill., in the chairmanship of the immigration committee, has been chairman of the Connecticut league's committee on this subject for several years. She is well known in the state as a speaker on immigration and naturalization problems.

At the tenth anniversary convention of the National League of Women Voters, held last April in Louisville, Ky., Miss Andrews was acting chairman of the immigration committee and as such conducted a demonstration of a naturalization hearing which was one of the features of the first day of the convention.

The committee on immigration, being a comparatively new committee of the League of Women Voters, is not working for the support of any measures as yet. However, at the Louisville convention the committee took the opportunity to state its accord with the committee on the legal status of women which recommended for support the removal of discriminations against women in the federal immigration and naturalization laws; and with the committee on education which recommended for support in matters of state legislation systematic education for adults, including illiterates and foreign born, through public school extension classes with English the basic language.

Pleasant street. The ladies have supplied the men after their work with daintily prepared meals. At the board meeting Monday night plans were suggested by trustees and deacons by which the work might be carried on to the finish.

DISCUSSES SANITATION OF WAYSIDE EATING PLACES

With regard to the sanitation of wayside eating places, the weekly bulletin, issued by the state department of health says:

With the rapid increase of the "riding public" the problem of eating safely enroute is more and more difficult. Wayside eating places have sprung up like mushrooms, and while these are inspected by local and state health authorities the traveling public can do much to raise the standard of such places.

The public can demand that the water supply be from a public system or a safe private source; that drinking cups be of the single service kind or scrupulously clean, which means far more than rinsing in questionable wash water; can refuse to eat food left uncovered and so exposed to dirt and flies and contamination of people handling it.

The state sanitary code has regulations governing the sanitation of public eating places. The public has an important share in enforcing these rules.

KILLED BY MACHINE WHILE CROSSING STREET

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 26—Maurice Turcotte, 81, of 321 Jackson street, father of Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte of the same address was almost instantly killed when struck by a Ford roadster driven by Joseph Tregelo, 21, of 6 Springdale avenue, Meriden, a short distance from the Turcotte home on Jackson street, about 8:30 o'clock tonight.

The elderly man had been making one of his frequent evening visits to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Paquette, of Carey street. He was rushed to the hospital in the car which caused his death but was dead upon arrival there. A superficial examination by Dr. A. J. Girouard, disclosed that death was probably caused from a fracture of the spine. Several ribs were broken, there was a severe laceration on the upper left part of the scalp, a fracture of the right arm, lacerations on the right leg and back and possible internal injuries.

In the absence of Medical Examiner Louis I. Mason, who is away on his vacation, Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson ordered the body removed to the Martineau-Bacon undertaking parlors where he will view it Wednesday morning. At police headquarters Tregelo was held under bonds.

The car he was operating is the property of Henry Smith, also of Meriden.

Tregelo is employed on the state road construction job between this city and Storrs. At the time of the accident he was accompanied by Miss Fleurette Asselin of Crescent street, this city and they were on their way to get water at the Park spring on upper Jackson street. In a statement to Capt. Frank McLean the young man said that he did not see Mr. Turcotte crossing Jackson street, but that he stopped his car within about five feet and immediately picked the dying man up and rushed him to St. Joseph's hospital.

An eye-witness, William Laramie, who saw the accident from the veranda of his home, a short distance north of Carey street, said that the man, when struck, was pushed along several feet. The accident was investigated by Officers William Hurley and Peter Marrotte.

The deceased was born in the Province of Quebec, Canada, in July 1849. He resided in Pawtucket, R. I., for many years coming to this city with his son, eight years ago. Besides his son and daughter, Mrs. Paquette, he also leaves two other daughters residing in Pawtucket.

STORRS HENS SHOW DECLINE IN EGG PRODUCTION

A production of 3,611 eggs for the 42nd week shows a decline over the previous week of 759 eggs. However, it is an increase over the production for the same period a year ago. There is also more of a struggle between the two leading pens, namely the birds owned by Toivonen Leghorn Farm of Girard, Penn., and Edward N. Larrabee of Peterboro, N. H., as they are running more close together than the Reds and Leghorns did last year. It simply means that the leading Leghorn pen has got to keep agoing for the remaining nine weeks, as it is possible for the birds owned by Larrabee to pass the record of the Pennsylvania pen.

A pen owned by R. C. Cobb of Littleton, Mass., the leading pen of Barred Rocks in the contest, took the week with a production of 55 eggs. Close on their heels came a pen of White Leghorns owned by L. W. Steelman, Lansdale, Penn., and a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Edward N. Larrabee of Peterboro, N. H., with a lay of 54 eggs. Third honors for the week is equally divided between a pen of Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and two White Leghorn pens. The Barred Rocks are owned by Spring Brook Poultry Farm, Wethersfield, Conn.; the Reds by West Neck Farm, Huntington, N. Y.; the Leghorns by the man who won the contest last year, namely J. H. Hanson of Corvallis, Oregon; and Peetoocee Poultry Plant, Telford, Penn. All these pens came through with a production of 53 eggs. A pen of Australorps owned by Leslie A. Allen of Pittsford, Vt., was fourth place with a lay of 52 eggs.

For the 42nd week, the 140 Barred Rocks had quite a margin over all other breeds as far as per cent production goes. The White Leghorns were second, Australorps third, White Wyandottes fourth, Rhode Island Reds fifth, and White Rocks last. The pen of White Leghorns owned by Hanson's Leghorn Farm, of Corvallis, Oregon, has once more shown their ability to continue laying heavily during the latter part of the contest. At this same period last year, Hanson's pen was 81 eggs behind the leading pen in the contest. This week Hanson's pen jumped into third place, thus relegating the pen owned by Hollywood Poultry Farm to fourth place. At this writing Hanson's pen is 243 eggs behind the leading pen in the contest, which is owned by Toivonen Leghorn Farm of Girard, Penn.

BOOTS GREENE PITCHES CITIZENS TO PENNANT IN CITY LEAGUE; WEST STARS

Hail the champions. Over 4,000 fans, the largest number ever to gather at the Academy campus for a City league game, saw the Polish Citizens crowned as the baseball champions of the city of Norwich last night. These same 4,000 or more fans witnessed a baseball catastrophe.

The once mighty Thermos Bottle club, which since the loss of its catcher, Enos Eccleston, five weeks ago, has been gradually cracking and crumbling, split wide open and sustained its worst defeat of the year, in fact one of the most decisive lacings that has been handed to any club in the past ten weeks.

The 1930 chapter of local baseball history will show a 11 to 0 defeat but those who witnessed the calamity will always be remembered that they were trailing by 14 runs when the heroic efforts of Hank Morin prevented further suffering. For the benefit of the few who did not witness the game, Morin called the game in the early fifth after the Citizens had scored three runs. As a result the score reverted to the last full inning and at that time the official score sheet registered 11 to 0. What might have happened had not Hank stepped in is good for speculation.

Getting right down to the terms of the red blooded baseball fans the Bottlers played "rotten" baseball and deserved the fate that overcame them.

On the other hand the newly crowned champs were spectacular. Behind the steady pitching of Boots Greene they played brilliant ball, taking advantage of every little break. Afield their performance was perfect and on the offense—well—only poor old Mike Nickerson knows. Charging with the fury of a tropical storm the Cit hitters battered Mike's offerings to the many corners of the lot. In the four official innings they clubbed out 10 hits and in the make believe session they had added three more when Hank intervened.

Five of the ten hits were extra base clouts, two of them homers by Tony West and Pete Finn.

The few Citizens who did not hit safely were given free passage by members of the Thermos infield. There were five official errors in the four innings and as many more slips which cannot be registered on the score card. In addition, the Bottlers had erred three more times in the fifth before, once again, Hank stepped in.

Boots Greene, who during the past few days has been mentioned by many as a prospect for this all-star team business, earned his berth if such a thing is possible. The former Junior league star had the Hastedt-Driscoll combine actually helpless. He allowed but three scattered hits and whiffed five. During the entire game but 13 men batted and not a one of them got into the second base regions.

The leader of the Polish drive was Tony West, who in addition to his homer got a double and a single in three licks. Leo Jarvis and his brother Lloyd were next best with two apiece. The score:

Italians Vs. Royals Tonight

The Italians and Royals, both of whom have finished their regular schedule of games, are billed for duty at the campus tonight. Although the outcome will have no bearing on the league standing there is little doubt but that both clubs will give everything they have and that the affair will be one of the best of the year.

Then again, the entire proceeds from the game will be used by the league board of governors to purchase trophies for the members of the league all-star team, which will be announced at the City league banquet next Tuesday night.

As announced, the governors are selecting those whom, in their opinion, have shown the best this year and these boys are to be honored with berths on the mythical club. So as to make the honor worth while a suitable token is to be awarded the fortunate players.

Tonight's game should develop into one of the most stirring pitching duels of the year, inasmuch as two of the league's most effective hurlers will oppose each other. Lefty Lucier will work from the Italian rubber and good old Tommy Simcox will make his farewell appearance of the year in the Royal box.

FANS GET INVITATION TO ATTEND BANQUET

During the game between the Cits and Thermos last night Ed Connelly, the league's official announcer, extended to the fans an invitation to attend the City league banquet which is to be held at the Norwich inn next Tuesday evening. He made mention of the fact that tickets would be provided any who desired them at actual cost, $2 per plate. The league governors announced after the game that tickets may be secured at the Smoke Shop, Alling Rubber Co., Swanton's Smoke shop at Greeneville or at The Bulletin office.

CARSTAIRS MYSTERY BOAT SHOWS EXCEPTIONAL SPEED

DETROIT, Aug. 26—(AP)—Honors in today's tryouts preliminary to the Harmsworth trophy race Saturday and Sunday all went to the challenger, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs.

Her Estelle V, one of the two boats upon which she is depending to capture the symbol of boat racing supremacy for England hopped over the five mile course with the grace of a gull, never a miss in the mystery engine which is supposed to have 100 miles an hour stored in its capable cylinders. Bert Hawker was driving.

There was no official announcement of the speed attained in the try-out, but Orlin Johnson, Gar Wood's mechanic, who watched the trial with the trophy holder, estimated it at 75 miles an hour. He and Wood were much impressed with the performance given by the challenger's boat and inspected the craft later in its boat house. They asked many questions, most of which drew the answer that the power plant was released by the British air ministry for the race with the understanding that details would be held inviolate.

Brousseau Beats Beasley.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 26—(AP)—Phil Brousseau, of Waterbury, defeated Jack Beasley, New Haven Negro tonight in the feature amateur bout at the White City stadium. Brousseau weighed 162 pounds, and Beasley 162.

AMATEURS SHOW PLENTY OF ACTION AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 26.—There need be no reservation about recording that tonight's card of bouts at the North street arena was the finest ever staged at an amateur show in Danielson. Right down through the list of eight fights every one clicked and the large crowd was in an uproar throughout the entire show. It was great. There was action from bell to bell in every go.

Russell Martin, 156 1-2 lbs., Webster, lost his first decision tonight in his several appearances in Danielson, to Patsy Flynn, 156 lbs., of Worcester. This was a slashing, tearing affair, with two killing hitters taking shots at each other and a knockout imminent every second. Both weathered the storm, but at the end of the three rounds in what rated the star bout of the evening Flynn won the decision.

Charles Goulet, 18 lbs., Putnam, duplicated his feat of a week ago in defeating Young Plasse, 126 lbs., of Webster, in a very fast and even bout, but that was crammed full of action. It went the three round limit.

Kid Tourney, 111 lbs., Webster, won a close decision over Patsy Long, of the same weight, Worcester. This bout was packed full of thrills and was very close.

Staging a comeback after three years of absence from the ring, Gene Billings, 151 lbs., Goodyear, won in spectacular manner from George Vigeant, 154 lbs., Webster. Billings still packs a terrific wallop and he had Vigeant, a very good fighter, out on his feet, after two min. 30 sec., of the second round, when Referee Billy Taylor, of Hartford, stopped the fight. Incidentally Billings took a count of nine in the first round after a smart mixup in which Vigeant had the edge.

Ray Landry, 123 lbs., Danielson, won a decision over Kid Stone, 123 lbs., Webster, and Kid Brouillard, 103 lbs., Danielson, beat Paul Jones, 104 lbs., Worcester.

Norman Lasch, 103 lbs., Danielson, lost a decision to Kid Jackson, same weight, Goodyear, in a very close bout.

Anselm Bernier, 126 lbs., Danielson, put up a great battle against Mike Prescott, 128 lbs., Worcester, and won a well earned decision at the end of three rounds.

It was announced that the next crowd of bouts at the arena will be staged Tuesday evening of next week.

POWERMEN NOSE OUT TEXTILERS IN LEAGUE GAME

The Eastern Conn. Power Co. defeated the Textilers by a score of 3 to 2 in their June 17 postponed game at the Gair diamond at Uncasville, Tuesday evening. Both pitchers performed wonderful work on the mound. Pete Moroskey of the Powermen fanned eight men and allowed only four hits in the five innings while Ski of the Textilers fanned five men and he also allowed only four hits. Tucker of the Powermen was the leading sticker with a double and a single while Awezec of the losers had two singles. Score:

PLAINFIELD DROPS CLOSE GAME TO WAUREGAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Aug. 26—Plainfield was defeated by Wauregan, 3 to 1, here tonight in an Eastern Connecticut Twilight league game. All of Wauregan's runs came through Plainfield errors. Plainfield's only tally came in the first on a single by Mercier and Dissinger's double to left.

SIMMONS TAKES LEAD IN AMER. LEAGUE BATTING

Al Simmons again was the only big six batter to get into action in yesterday's incomplete major league schedule, and the Philadelphian profited greatly by the afternoon's work. Simmons hit two singles, a triple and his 31st home run of the season in five times at bat and lifted his average five points, enough to take first place in the American league batting race and second in the big six away from Lou Gehrig by a small fraction of a percentage point. Simmons has a mark of .3964 while Gehrig's is .3957.

Scaling Challenge

Sports Editor: Will you please print this friendly request and challenge. For several years I have been scaling my dogs at the dog shows in and about the state of Conn. Many times my dogs have scaled against the Chase Cliff dogs of your city, but seldom to the satisfaction of many of my followers. It seems to us that the Chase Cliff dogs have been trying to evade us for the last year.

The last time we met at Hartford the Chase Cliff dog Brunolf and my dog Cherie jumped to a tie for first place. I now have developed a new jumper that we believe can defeat Brunolf.

Since I have heard that there is to be a scaling meet at Norwich fair grounds on Labor day I am very anxious for permission to compete. And we beg that Chase Cliff will not try to dodge us this time.

Yours for a jumping good time,
CHARLES E. GOODRICH.

Godfrey Kayoes DeKuh.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26—(AP)—George Godfrey, Leiperville, Pa., Negro knocked out Arthur DeKuh, young Brooklyn heavyweight, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten round bout at Taylor Bowl here tonight

Congratulations, Polish Citizens.

Without a doubt the best team of the City league won the title. They played hard baseball throughout the season and displayed mighty fine sportsmanship.

Here's hoping they come through with the New London county Twilight title in their coming series with Kaceys, winners of the New London title.

The credit for the splendid work of the club goes to no one player but to all as a team for it was teamwork that brought them through to the top. Of course, as on all teams, there were a few outstanding figures among them being Boots Greene with his brilliant pitching and Tony West with his long distance clouting.

In our All-Star selection of yesterday the name of Billy Hall was inadvertantly omitted from the selection. Billy Hall was originally nominated for an outfield berth.

Another thing that we forgot was the naming of a captain for this All Star team. At a sidewalk meeting last night with Luke Riley, Bert Lucas, George Gorman, and Rollo Harris in attendance it was voted to have Jim McCaffery act as captain.

TWO EXTRA HOLE MATCHES FEATURE WOMEN'S GOLF

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26—(AP)—Two extra hole matches, the defeat of a favored player and the steady march onward of the defending champion, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, were recorded today in first round matches of the 28th annual women's western golf tournament over the Hillcrest Country club course.

Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, a member of the women's team which played in Great Britain this year, was forced to the nineteenth hole to win from Mrs. R. I. Bullard, Springfield, Ill. Miss Helen MacMorran, Chicago, and Mrs. Clay Cary, Dallas, battled 23 holes before Miss MacMorran's eagle 3 bested Mrs. Cary's par 5 to win the match.

Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., star and also a member of the American team against Great Britain, three-putted too many greens and lost to the steady stroking of the youthful Chicago girl, Florence Beebe. The score was 5 and 4.

Winning the last four holes of her match with Miss Louise Adams, Indianapolis, Mrs. Hill advanced to the second round 5 and 4. But the Indianapolis player cut Mrs. Hill's early 4 up advantage to one hole before the Kansas city woman and tournament medalist with a remarkable 75, steadied to shoot one under par and end the match on the 14th green.

Mrs. Hill tomorrow will meet Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago, western medal play champion, who eliminated Mrs. H. D. Raymond, Chicago, 4 and 3 in the first round.

NEW CHAMPS TO PLAY SERIES WITH NEW LONDON

Among the 4,000 or more spectators who jammed their way onto the Academy campus last night for the Cit-Thermos game was an official delegation from the Kacey team, baseball champions of New London.

The New London men issued a challenge before the game to the title winner and later, after the Cits clinched the pennant, went directly to the winners bench and hurled a defy at the newly crowned champs. The manager of the Citizens gobbled up the challenge and arrangements were immediately made for a five game series.

LEGION TEAM TO PLAY WAUREGAN ON SATURDAY

The American Legion Seniors of Taftville are to play the Wauregan Independents Saturday at the Providence street grounds, Taftville. The Legion team has lost only one game this season, this to the Shyma club, and have beaten this team in another game. The Wauregan club will furnish plenty of opposition on Saturday. The game will start at 3:15.

TURNER WINS NEW ENGLAND P.G.A. TITLE WITH 72-HOLE CARD OF 281

HARTFORD, Aug. 26.—(AP)— Teddy Turner, North Adams, Mass., professional, won the N. E. P. G. A. championship at the Wampanoag Country club today, posting a 72-hole total of 281. A provisional fifth place went to Henry Cuici, of Mill River, who won a "sudden death" hole playoff from Arthur Gusa, of Point Judith and George Easton, of Warwick, R. I. PAUL HAVILAND, PROMINENT STATE GOLFER, IS DEAD

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 26—(AP)—Paul G. Haviland, 1929 New England amateur golf champion, Connecticut state champion in 1928, and participant in numerous national and sectional tournaments, died tonight in Bridgeport hospital, of complications after an operation. He was 25 years old.

He was captain of the Yale golf team in 1926, and advanced to one of the closing rounds of the national amateur tournament the same year.

Considered to be one of the promising amateur golf players of the country, Paul Haviland first gained fame in 1927, when he led the Yale university golf team through its most successful season and then qualified for the national amateur tournament. He was also runner-up in the intercollegiate tournament.

Last year, after being defeated by Ken Reid, of Farmington, in a 37-hole match for the state championship, he won the New England amateur championship at the Wampanoag Country club at Hartford, defeating Brad Oxnard, of Metacomet, N. Y., in the 36 hole final match. In the same year he was runner-up in both the metropolitan amateur championship and at the Shenecossett invitation tournament at New London.

Haviland won the state championship in 1928, defeating Frank Ross, of Hartford, at the Woodway Country club in Stamford.

He was the son of Pauline S. and the late William T. Haviland, former clerk of the superior court of Fairfield county. He attended the public schools of the city and later the Hotchkiss school at Lakeville, from where he was graduated in 1923. He was graduated from Yale in 1927.

TWO HOMERS IN EIGHTH GIVE ATHLETICS VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26—(AP)—An eighth inning rally which netted four runs three of them on successive homers by Mickey Cochrane and Al Simmons—gave the Athletics a 10 to 9 victory over Washington in a slugfest today and increased their lead the 7 1-2 games.

After giving away five runs in the first inning, the A's staged an uphill struggle which finally ended the Senators' bid to make a real race out of the American league pennant parade. The Athletics went into the eighth trailing, 6-9. Summa started with a single and Cochrane clouted a home run. Simmons followed with another to tie the score. A walk to Foxx, Miller's single, Dykes' sacrifice and an intentional pass to Boley filled the sacks and Eric McNair, pinch hitting for Shores, drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

The champions used five pitchers and among them they allowed 16 hits. George Earnshaw, making his third start in four days, failed to last through the first inning. Shores, the fourth hurler, got credit for the victory, although Bob Grove's brilliant work in the final inning was necessary to hold the margin. Bump Hadley started on the mound for Washington but became wild in the fourth and was removed in favor of Ad Liska, who was charged with the defeat. Brown finished the game. Score:

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 26—The Danielson soccer football team has organized for the season and are ready to book games with any fast team in the state. The Danielson kickers went through two and a half hours practice at the Paco field, Sunday afternoon, and those who saw them in action said that they sure knew their onions. Danielson will be represented by some of the fastest players out of the junior leagues at Providence and Taunton.

The lineup consists of the following men: Red Pansera, Kelly Croce, Lee Ricci, formerly of Victoria mills, holder of the Taunton Industrial league cup for eight years; Frank Musereell, Carlow Musereell, Anthony, Scungio, formerly of Ferri's Spa; Joe Vitalo, of Providence Independents, holder of the Kensular cup in 1928, Buster Lis, formerly of Goodyear; Pasco Martinelli and Jack Croce, both of last year's Providence Goldbugs.

Jack Croce is to be coach and field manager. Manager DeForrest plans to open up at Danielson as soon as the baseball season ends. Any clubs desiring games with the Danielson team, may do so by writing Manager George DeForrest, Danielson inn, Danielson, Conn., or Tel. Danielson 398. Manager DeForrest would like to enter his team in the Eastern Connecticut league.

He has handled many sports ventures for the fans of Danielson and is now to give them a game they have not seen for quite some time.

SENSATIONAL TENNIS IS EXPECTED IN TODAY'S MATCHES

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26—(AP)—The lull that precedes tennis storms prevailed here at Longwood today, when the second round matches of the national men's doubles championship, were played for the benefit of seven of the eight seeded American teams and the top-ranked British entry.

It was a great day for the favorites and the last such day that half of them will enjoy in this championship play for seeded teams will vie in all of tomorrow's third rounders and more than one sensational upset is needed to reduce the field to the semi-final stage.

The dent to the seeded list was unavoidable because the draw entangled two favored teams in the second round. Wilbur Coen, Jr., Kansas City, and Harrison Coggeshall, Des Moines, ranked sixth, played unsteady tennis and bowed to the top ranked Britishers, J. S. Olliff and F. J. Perry, the only foreign team to continue in the tourney, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Another seeded team had trouble. Sydney Wood and Frank X. Shields, New York youngsters, who were placed seventh on the preferred list, just managed to edge out two crafty veterans, E. W. Feibleman, New York, and J. B. Fenno, Boston, in a five setter, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. The youngsters had to play a postponed first round match this morning and they were a bit tired when they took the court to face Feibleman and Fenno.

George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the defending champions, overcame Barry Wood, Harvard's great all round athlete, and his college mate, Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., 6-2, 6-3, 9-7, and the second seeded team, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the American Davis cup doubles team and Wimbledon champions, advanced by eliminating Lieut. G. W. Smith and Lieut. R. M. Watt, Jr., the U. S. navy entry, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

FISK RUBBER TEAM TO PLAY IDEALS ON SUNDAY

Arrangements were made last evening for a game Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin field between the Fisk Rubber team, champions of the Jewett City Twilight league, and the Ideals of the Norwich City league. The Fisk team will be composed of the stars of the Jewett City loop while the Ideals will be strengthened in certain places.

Gallagher Outpoints Lamar.

BOSTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C., heavyweight gained his first decision over Henry Lamar, his hometown rival, here tonight in the Boston Garden's feature 10 round bout at Braves' field. These battlers were meeting for the third time and they knew each other's style so well that neither was able to get much of a lead in any round. Gallagher weighed 205 and Lamar 186 1-2.

WILSON BREAKS NATIONAL LEAGUE HOMER RECORD

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Hack Wilson, the stocky slugger who covers center field for the Cubs, smashed the home run hitting record of the National today by hitting his forty-fourth circuit blow of the year to climax Chicago's 7 to 5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The homer, made off Larry French in the seventh inning, exceeded by one the record set by the youthful Chuck Klein of Philadelphia in the final game of the 1929 season. It also put Wilson on even terms with Babe Ruth in the struggle for 1930 home run honors.

Husky Hack also singled and hit a sacrifice fly to drive in four of the Cub tallies. The single was made with the bases full in the fifth inning, driving in two of the five runs the Cubs scored in that frame to settle the game. Except for that one bad inning, French and Sheriff Blake had a close mound struggle. Blake allowed twelve hits to nine but was effective in the pinches. Lloyd Waner hit a homer for Pittsburgh.

The victory put the Cubs 5 1-2 games ahead of the New York Giants, who were idle today.

CARDS REMAIN IN RACE BY TROUNCING REDS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals stayed in the National league race today by outpunching the Cincinnati Reds 3 to 1, but they had to stave off a ninth inning rally.

Wild Bill Hallahan held the Reds to four hits for eight innings and his mates scored twice in the eighth to give him his first lead. Heilmann and Crawford singled to start the ninth and Hallahan contributed a wild pitch but Heilmann was forced on Gooch's sacrifice. Stripp struck out and Walker filed. Score:

CHESTNUT BURR SHOWS HEELS TO GOSHEN FIELD

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 26—(AP)—Chestnut Burr, owned by Frank C. Niles of Kansas City and driven by Walter Britenfield, trotted home ahead of Charlotte Hanover, owned by the Hanover Shoe Farm and driven by Thomas Berry, in the two year old stake as the feature of the second days' program at the Grand Circuit meeting at Good Time park today.

The finishes were close in each heat. Calumet Butler, driven by Dick McMahon gave the strongest battle. The favorite, Hanover, finished third in the first heat but a break in the last heat placed him sixth.

Brietenfield turned in a double victory with the Niles-owned three year old pacer, Cold-Cash, which easily won the three heats of the Bradford stake from a field of four starters.

The 2:10 trot was an interesting affair, John L. Dodge, amateur reinsman of Lexington, Ky., winning with Hollyrood Harrod, although nosed out in the final heat by Hollyrood Dick, an even money favorite.

Walter R. Cox finished second in each heat with Athlone Guy, owned by Sanford S. Small of Atlantic, Mass. The three heats between Dodge, Cox and Bunch entries were the hottest contested on the Grand Circuit tracks this season and the fastest time of the season was made.

Eliminate, owned by the amateur reinsman, W. J. McDonald of Boston and driven by Harry Stokes, won the open class trot from a field of six starters.

SEVERAL FINES HANDED OUT IN STONINGTON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Aug. 26.—Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck had a number of offenders against Connecticut motor vehicle laws before him in the Tuesday session of Stonington town court held in the town court room.

On request of Prosecutor H. P. Hammacher, the reckless auto operation case against Edward A. Begley, 80 Webster street, Middleboro, Mass. so charged on Aug. 9th, on the Boston Post road, was nolled on the payment of $25, following a previous continuation.

Thurston A. Rider, Bradford road, Westerly, charged with the operation of an auto on Aug. 8th without a license when apprehended by State Police Officer Swanson, had his case continued one week with a notice to be sent for his court appearance at that time.

Alfred R. Cook, 17, of Poquonock Bridge, for whom the court appointed Dr. James H. Weeks guardian ad litem, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding on the Mystic bridge. The Mystic officer, William H. Noyes, reported him as very angry and abusive when apprehended after he had passed him at the Mystic post office. On the prosecutor's recommendation of a minimum fine he was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs which totalled $22.95, on which he was given a month to make payment.

Truman E. Brown, 164 Hick street, Brooklyn, N. Y., charged with a violation of motor traffic laws, who failed to make a court appearance, had his case called by Clerk Martin and on recommendation of the prosecutor his cash bond of $25 was declared forfeited to the state.

Barney Sherman, of Pleasant street, Roxbury, Mass., also had his case called for traffic law violations and his $25 bond was declared forfeited.

Rev. John W. Franklin, 658 Shawmut avenue, Boston, Mass., who was apprehended for driving without a license, failed court appearance and his $25 cash bond was called and declared forfeited.

Florence Watts, aged 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ridley Watts, of Spencecliffe, Westerly road, Watch Hill, of 88 Madison avenue, Morristown, N. J., was before the court for recklessly driving a Lasalle roadster on the morning of Aug. 26th, on the Boston Post road. Her companion in the auto at the time, present in court, Herman Gad of Long Island, was named as her guardian ad litem, and a plea of guilty was entered.

Connecticut State Police Officer Clair Hoxie, of the Groton barracks, was on the Stonington courthouse steps as the auto of the defendant was observed by him passing the town hall at an excessive rate of speed and he testified that he started in pursuit with a chase that lasted four miles. He said at times on the road to New London that his speedometer showed 45, 50, 60 and 65 miles per hour and that on straight-of-ways he was up as high as 83 miles and overtook Miss Watts near Brown's filling station at Mystic. He did not sight the fleeing car until after passing Capt. Jimmy's inn, and on the down grade just beyond, at 65 miles per hour he could not gain on the car ahead. The excessive rate of speed was continued around curves to the extent that it was reckless driving.

Herman Gad testified that it was due to him that Miss Watts, who he said was a careful driver, had driven at such a fast rate of speed. They had left Watch Hill about 8:15 a. m. and there was a delay on leaving due to heavy fog and that he had to be on Long Island to open a house. They were endeavoring to reach the 9:30 ferry from New London to Montauk Point.

Miss Watts was found guilty and a fine of $25 and costs, which totalled $37.45, was imposed by Judge Wilcox and paid, whereupon another start was made to get the boat at New London.

Jesse Oliver, 22, of 5 South street, Stonington, who had been apprehended by State Police Officer Peter P. Busch for reckless driving on the Boston Post road, entered a plea of guilty. The officer testified that following an automobile crash at Vargas corner he had arrived to investigate and found the drivers of two cars, the second auto being a Nash coach of Philip Pellicci, of New York, engaged in an argument and debate on the amount of damage, the damage being excessive. This one witness was called all the way from New York to be present as a witness in the case and now at the court session agreements had been reached on damage payments. The defendant admitted that he was late in going to work in the Rossie Velvet mill in Mystic and had cut the corner. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs which totalled $58.95.

Ralph C. Bugbee, 43, of Montville, Conn., pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding on the Boston Post road, and had gotten into difficulties at the corner of Elm and Cutler streets, Stonington, not knowing which way to turn. He said on his trip that day he had been to Putnam, Greeneville and Pawtuxet, R. I., and was returning from a stop at Rocky Point. He said if a police officer whom he came near running down had blown his whistle for him to stop he had not heard it. Judge Wilcox imposed a fine of $10 which he remitted with the payment of $12.95 for costs.

Fred Moelh, charged with impeding traffic to New London on Aug. 9th, with several court continuances, had his case nolled upon the payment of $12.95, costs. He was involved in a mix-up of three autos at Capt. Jimmy's inn.

Daniel E. Converse had his case continued to Sept. 9th.

Robert H. McCullough, of Larchmount, N. Y., charged with reckless auto driving, had his case continued to Sept. 2nd.

Miss Ann Walsh, of Springfield, Mass., has returned to her home, after being the guest the past week in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mitchell have left Westerly for Springfield, Mass., to return with household furniture to take up their residence in a Main street apartment in Danielson, this winter. Mr. Mitchell will be the athletic director at the Killingly high school.

Thomas Aquinas Connor, of Long Island City, N. Y., and son of Francis Connor of New York, and a New York police officer, was united in marriage last Saturday to Mrs. Melusena (Rich) Griffin, daughter of the late Daniel Rich, of Astoria, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Judge Oliver H. Williams, justice of the third district court.

The state library department, Herbert O. Brigham, librarian, is compiling records and data on the Westerly fire district, incorporated in May, 1870; Watch Hill fire district, incorporated in January, 1901, and the Pleasant View fire district, incorporated in 1915 with name changed to Micquamicut fire district in 1929.

On Tuesday morning, largely attended funeral services for Mrs. Catherine (McNally) O'Toole, lifelong resident of Potter Hill, were held at 8:30 o'clock from her late home on River street in that village. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Fr. Boissoneau, S. M.

The third curio is an Indian bow, owned by a Sioux Indian, June 24, 1876, who shot an arrow into the leg of G. H. Marsdale who with his revolver shot the Indian and took all his equipment. Science Has Solved The Laxative Problem

Banish Constipation this easy way.

All you need is a little box of pleasant-tasting pieces of chewing gum, called "Feen-a-mint"—the modern chewing gum laxative. For Feen-a-mint has solved the laxative problem in millions of homes. The secret of Feen-a-mint's success is uniform "internal distribution" which scientists now know is essential to real efficiency in any laxative.

Because you chew Feen-a-mint it is effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. For the effectives of a laxative is not so much dependent upon the quantity swallowed as upon the thoroughness of its distribution throughout the alimentary tract.

While you chew this delicious bit of gum the tasteless laxative it contains is gradually released and mixed with the saliva. Thus it is carried to the intestinal tract smoothly, evenly without shock to the system or the distressing after-effects so common with old-fashioned laxatives. Each particle of the laxative in Feen-a-mint works with utmost efficiency, gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to resume the activity so necessary for healthful elimination.

The action of Feen-a-mint is thorough, gentle, dependable. With the proper dosage, it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.

CRIES IN SLEEP? MAYBE IT'S WORMS

If your boy or girl cries out in the night, tosses about constantly or has frightened dreams—beware of worms. They are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, cross[illegible] breath, loss of appeti[illegible] weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

LONG LIST OF SHARES CLOSED 2 TO 6 POINTS HIGHER IN MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Stock market bulls at last found something they could sink their teeth into, in today's industrial news, and share prices registered the best gains in nearly a fortnight, U. S. Steel common reaching the highest price since the June slump.

The market was a wishy washy affair until toward mid-day, when vigorous pool operations in some of the amusements and specialties influenced extensive short covering. The list had already made substantial progress when financial news tickers reported late in the session that U. S. Steel had stepped up ingot production from 62 to 66 per cent of capacity.

A long list of shares closed 2 to 6 points higher. The price index of 90 representative shares gained nearly 2 1-2 points. Trading quickened substantially in the last hour, but total sales of 1,746,950 shares were only 146,720 above yesterday's turnover.

The estimated increase in steel mill output was the first emphatic upturn since the resumption of activity after the mid-year inventory shutdown. Freight car loadings as reported for the second week of the month also showed a gain over the previous week. There was still a feeling in conservative quarters, however, that autumn improvement in business would be moderate.

Rumors current recently that a statistical advisory service was about to issue a bullish broadside materialized in the form of a few conservative buying recommendations suggesting that clients place about one-fifth of their funds.

The motion picture stocks were helped by dismissal of the Warner Brothers receivership petition, although the dismissal was based merely on the technical contention that the bill of complaint had not been properly verified and sworn to by the plaintiff. Coincident with publication of the mid-year balance sheet of Fox Film, showing that the company was once more in a strong position, aggressive market sponsorship appeared for the stock as well as for Loew's.

The advance embraced most groups, although the rails improved only moderately, motors made little or no headway, and the farm implement, copper and oils shares, after sagging early in the day, did not show any decided comeback. U. S. Steel sold up 4 points to 171 1-4, and closed at the top. Columbian Carbon and Case gained about six points and Byers, Eastman, Worthington Pump, and Westinghouse Electric, about 4. Shares closing 2 to more than 3 higher, included North American, Fox, Loew's, General Theatres Equipment, Warner Brothers, Air Reduction, Atchison, American Telephone, American Can, Electric Power and Light, Corn Products, McKeesport Tin Plate, Corn Products, New York Central and Southern Railway.

Calumet and Arizona, which a year ago was paying dividends at the rate of $2 quarterly, announced after the close that the 50 cent quarterly dividend, to which the rate has been reduced, would not be paid. The stock however, closed only a point lower. Michigan Steel lost nearly 5 and Union Pacific, 3 points.

Commodities were irregular. Cotton futures rallied about $1.50 a bale, and sugar futures gained 4 to 7 points as result of news of plans to stabilize the industry. Wheat, however, lost 1 1-4 to 1 3-4 cents a bushel, reflecting increased world visible supply, and corn sagged 1-2 to 7-8 of a cent.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease, notably the Latin Americans. Sterling cables also sagged 1-16 to $4.86 15-16. The French franc, however, held around the gold point, and further shipments of the metal to Paris are expected.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Wheat and corn went down grade in price most of the time today, although corn scored a sharp transient rally. For the first time this season, December delivery of corn brought a premium over December delivery of wheat. Good harvest weather both in Canada and Europe, together with continuing doubt as to whether the Canadian growers pool would be compelled to hedge its wheat holdings this season did much to press values here down.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy at the day's bottom level, 1 1-4a1 3-4c bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed nervous, 3-8a1 1-8c down, oats 1-2a1c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to an equal gain.

Provisions held firm, influenced by upturns in the value of hogs.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Moving within a narrow range, curb stocks closed steady to firm today in sympathy with the trend of equity issues on the big board. Total sales aggregated only 327,800 shares.

During the day sentiment showed some improvement after an uncertain opening and although many stocks failed to move forward until the final hour an upward trend was maintained.

In the active list of utility shares Electric Bond and Share continued in its role of leader, advancing 2 1-4 points. American Foreign Power warrants and United Light and Power A were other strong stocks. On a small turnover, American Commonwealth B, American Public Utility and Utility Power and Light, made good gains.

Commonwealth Edison, infrequently traded, dropped more than 7 points to 285. Brazilian Traction reached a new low off 1 3-4.

Speculative activity in Appalachian was influenced by its large program of expansion and more profitable operations of the concerns subsidiaries. The stock closed up 1-2 at 10 1-2. Duquesne Gas, Memphis and Lone Star ruled firm.

Support in late afternoon helped some of the industrials, notably Driver Harris, Dresser A, Technicolor which showed moderate gains. Mead Johnson sagged but rallied to close even with the previous final. Atlantic and Pacific lost 8 1-2 and A. O. Smith, 6 3-4 in odd lot transactions.

Western Express was a weak spot in the aviation group which together with motor stocks were little changed.

In a thin market, Western Express dropped 2 5-8. Detroit Aircraft was active and firm at 4 1-4. Fox Theatres A. was well bought on in sympathy with the strength of Fox Film; Translux was firm.

Decline of petroleum shares on Monday was checked and at the close today leading issues were steady to firm. Houston gained 1 point and Standard of Indiana, 3-8. Cities Service was in demand and advanced 1-4.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—The United States Steel corporation's ingot production for last week was at 66 per cent of rated capacity, an increase of 4 per cent over production in the preceding week, Dow, Jones and company reports. The rate for independent companies was placed at nearly 57 per cent compared with a shade above 48 per cent in the previous week.

J. S. Tew, president of B. F. Goodrich and company, said today that the company's production schedule calls for 21 full working days in September, which represents practically no change from the August schedule. He said that reports that Goodrich will close its factory three weeks next month "have no foundation."

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(P)—For the fourth successive week, the price level of bonds was lifted to a new high today as measured by the averages, principally on the strength of utility issues which experienced a wide demand from savings banks and other institutional sources. The volume of trading was the largest in three weeks.

Despite the prospect of some firming of money rates the latter part of the week coincident with holiday currency requirements, time money rates were pared today, and some dealers reported commercial paper rates at the lowest figure in seven years. Call money held at 2 per cent. The easing of credit stimulated the demand among institutions for investment bonds, the low open market rates discouraging the employment of funds there. Investment holdings of federal reserve member banks now total $6,846,000,000, the highest figure since the system was established.

Somewhat paradoxical was the easy trend of treasury issues which usually are the first to reflect changes in the money market. Treasury 3 3-4s were heavily sold, and lost about 1-4 of a point. Other treasury issues sagged. Liberties were steady.

In the foreign section, the feature was heaviness of Latin American issues which were unsettled by the continued decline of Peruvian bonds, all of which rested on new bottoms at the close.

The increased inquiry for utility obligations proved beneficial to an extensive list. American Foreign Power 5s, Brooklyn Union Gas 5s, and American Telephone debenture 5s were the most active, with the two first named reaching new highs for the year.

Public Service Electric and Gas 4 1-2s, Ohio Public Service 7s, North American Edison 5s, New York Telephone 4 1-2s, Hudson County Gas 5s, California Gas and Electric 5s, were other bonds to register new peaks.

With the volume of trading greatly expanded buying of some railroad bonds was the best in weeks, with the heaviest activity in Cleveland Union Terminal 4 1-2s, Great Northern 4 1-2s, Erie 5s of 1975, Missouri Pacific general 4s, New Haven refunding 4 1-2s, St. Louis, San Francisco 4 1-2s, Reading company 4 1-2s, all of which made good gains, several to new 1930 peaks. Western Maryland 4s was one of the most active, selling off 3-8 at the close. Many other high grade carrier liens climbed higher, with about a dozen or more reaching new high levels for the year.

Convertible and warrant bonds turned upward, the improvement coincident with the bullish sentiment in the stock market. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s, rallied 1 1-2 points from its low. Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s, moved up 1 point. Utilities Power and Light 5s, with warrants were strong. Railroad convertibles which are less sensitive to the trend of stocks, held firm.

Offering will be made tomorrow of $7,620,000 Allegheny County, Pennsylvania 4 1-4 per cent bonds, priced to yield from 3.75 to 3.90 per cent.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Playmate

I haven't got a dog, an' I haven't got a cat,
But I've got a little piggie that is wiggle'y and fat,
And when a feller's livin' away from other boys
It's fun to have a piggie that makes a funny noise,
A jolly little piggie that is black as he can be,
To play around the ranch-house an' be a friend to me.

It's awful far to neighbors', an' you bet that I would feel
Most terribully lonesome if it wasn't for his squeal,
If it wasn't for my piggie that is lots of fun to tease,
An' see him kick an' wriggle when you hold him up an' squeeze;
But if anybody hurted him you bet I'd raise a wail,
'Cause I love my little piggie from his nosey to his tail.

They say when little piggies gets farther on in life
They sells 'em to the butcher, an' he sticks 'em with a knife,
But not MY little piggie, 'cause I'll find a way somehow
To keep him just exactly like the way you see him now.
An' when they come to get him they will look at him an' say:
"Aw, he's a little piggie; let him run around an' play!"
—Berton Braley, in Farm and Home.

Do Something for Somebody, Quick!

Are you almost disgusted with life, little man?
I'll tell you a wonderful trick
That will bring you contentment, if anything can—
Do something for somebody, quick.

Are you awfully tired with play, little girl?
Weary, discouraged and sick?
I'll tell you the loveliest game in the world—
Do something for somebody, quick.

The Katydid

A green little sprite in a flowery hedge,
A green little sprite is he.
Who hides in the haw in the lane's dim edge
And sings to the stars and me.
His fiddle is shrill, his fiddle is low.
A harp where the roses nod;
A harp amid the petaled snow
That falls from the fingers of God.

I lean in the wind, I lean and hear
A chant I've loved for long;
It comes from the darkness, quavering, clear,
The katydid's evening song.
He knows my heart; he sings of years
Whose laughter has lilted away.
His music ebbs to the spell of tears,
Then bursts to a mellow lay.

A great moon hangs above the wheat,
An early red, red moon;
The honeysuckle sprays are sweet—
Ah, sweeter than at noon.
I follow a trail in a wild-rose lane
With half its blossoms hid;
I listen to an old-time strain
Of a thrumming katydid.
—Leslie Clare Manchester.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

One of the many birds that come to eastern Connecticut for the summer is the goldfinch, which is the very last of our birds to nest, and has a long season of sweet idleness. He awaits the perfection of thistledown, which is used by his mate for interior decoration, before settling down to domesticity. It is July or August before a goldfinch couple think of taking life seriously. Meantime, through all the spring and early summer, during the prolonged courtship of the male, we have a chance to get acquainted with this merriest of birds whose songs are broadcast daily over the fields That gay garb of his and that gay song mark him wherever he goes. Besides the "Per-chic-o-ree" call he has several notes so like a canary's that many call him "wild canary." His true nicknames, however, are "thistle bird" and "lettuce bird." When he is serenading his lady, this lively fellow gets a little mad with joy and then his ecstatic song ranks with that of our best bird vocalists.

But if goldfinches wait until most other birds have finished with their domestic duties and have young well grown or perhaps a second brood on the way, they make up for their delay by building a charming nest, one of the loveliest pieces of bird architecture that we ever see. Mrs. Goldfinch is the creator of this; her gypsy gallant looks on, cheering her with his most delightful and tender songs as she works. Her building materials are bits of green mosses, leaves, shreds of bark and dried grasses, with, of course, the fluffiest, softest and whitest of thistledown for the nestlings to rest upon.

Although exquisitely dainty, this nest is staunchly built and will even hold water like a real cup. When the mother bird has laid from four to six bluish-white eggs in it the singing gallant takes his turn at work. He goes foraging for his brooding mate and he does it with a fine show of affection, singing conversationally as he hands her delectable seeds or succulent insects. Sometimes, instead of in a tree or bush, the goldfinch builds in a tall, branching thistle plant, handy to the seed supply. But as soon as the youngsters are ready to try their wings away goes the whole family on another gypsying expedition. Not long after this you begin to wonder what has become of the roving bands of goldfinches and decide that they have probably migrated with other summer birds But this is not always the case; they often stay with us all winter or migrate but a short distance southward.

The reason why we do not recognize the fact that they are still with us is that the molting season has changed the dress of the male to a dingy, sparrow-like garb and that both sexes now look alike. Only as long as he has a lady to court does the gypsy bird wear his gorgeous gold garments with the black cap, wings and coat tails. We shall not see him in his wedding suit until another year has rolled around. But even in old clothes we are glad to have the goldfinches with us. These lovers of seeds do us a vast service by reducing the weed crops and insect pests. During the nesting season they dispose of quantities of grasshoppers, beetles, caterpillars and the like, and so are among the farmers' best friends.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Picking Huckleberries

Dear Uncle Jed: It had been decided that if Sunday was pleasant we would go berrying. Sunday arrived and the golden sun shone brightly from a sky clear as crystal.

Early in the afternoon my sisters and I started out with a lunch and pails for the berries. We took to the woods and followed a narrow path for some distance. Soon we stopped for there before our eyes were bushes heavily laden with delicious looking berries. We at once set about to pick with a will, filling our pails with large berries. After picking for quite a space of time we began to get tired and hungry. Looking around for a little while we found a ledge which was made shady by big overhanging trees. After making ourselves comfortable we unpacked the appetizing lunch which we had brought. Chatting and eating at the same time, we had a very merry time. Sandwiches, cake and other good things to eat soon disappeared as if by magic. After our hunger had been satisfied, we lounged around in the shade for a time. Soon, however, we were picking again and before we knew it our pails were filled

We started home and although hot and tired we were happy to know that we had secured so many berries. The next day we were rewarded with delicious pies and cake.

RUTH HUGGARD, Age 14.
Norwich.

Saves Bird's Life

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide Awakes and I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading it. One day as I was on my way home from school my eyes rested on my cat, who was quietly watching a bird. The bird was a robin and had a very brilliant colored stomach. I kept my eyes on the cat and knew that he was going to take the bird's life.

My first thought was to find some means of rescue, but to no avail. Then I thought of my coat and before the cat knew it I had thrown the coat over the bird. After chasing the cat away I let the bird fly away.

I hope all the Wide Awakes are kind to animals.

Mops Was Drowned

Dear Uncle Jed: Margaret Collier was a little girl of eight years, who left Southampton, England, and went aboard the Titanic.

Margaret and her mother were sleeping when the Titanic struck the iceberg. Margaret's father awoke them and told them to hurry up and come upon deck. Not wanting to disturb her doll, Mops, Margaret left her in bed, thinking she could get her later.

But when Margaret came on deck Margaret's father put Margaret and her mother hastily in a lifeboat. Margaret cried for Mops, but her father would not let her get the doll.

When at length the Carpathia came, Margaret's mother was half-frozen.

When they at least reached New York, a doctor there pitied them so much that he took them into his own home until their relatives should send for them.

While Margaret's mother was sick and mourning for her husband, the story came out about Mops, who Margaret had not forgotten

Little girls all over the country sent Margaret some of their dolls; even rag dolls were sent to her. But Margaret said she would rather have Mops than all the others.

A Visit To The Country

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl eight years old and thought I would like to write a letter to you. I will tell you about my vacation in the country this summer.

I was away all summer and had a fine time. There were eleven cows and two little calves and I used to drive them home every night. There were also two horses named Dan and Dick. They would take grass from my hand. There were lots of bees, too, and some pretty little chickens. I fed them at night and got the eggs.

I used to have lots of fun with the cat and dog. The cat's name was Pete and the dog's Buster.

I liked to watch the four pigs. They lived in a big pen filled with mud.

While up there I went huckleberrying lots of times and got my pail full.

There were lots of bees, too. They hung, just like a cone on a pine tree. One of the men cut the branch and shook it into a hive.

The men mowed the hay, and I had a ride on the load up through the lots.

I think this is all now Maybe later I will write again.

A Beautiful Dream.

Dear Uncle Jed—It was a fine spring morning. As I had been away the night before, I felt restless and nervous. About 4 o'clock I awoke. The beautiful songs of birds rang from hill to hill. My ear was busy listening. For a good while I couldn't go to sleep, because of such lovely music.

The next thing I do not know. Whether I went to sleep, I am quite uncertain; but, any way, I thought two birds were at my window.

One said, "What kind folks live in this house!"

"Yes; the best is the little girl. She threw some crumbs to me. I just love her."

"Let's give her a song of love"

"Yes; let's."

And such a song you never heard in all your life. Even the worms and insects were surprised. But in the midst of their song there was a bang-bang. The singing ceased, and I found myself on the floor.

I really wondered whether it was a dream or not, and hurried to the window. But no bird was there, not even on a tree close by; and I did not hear a bird once as I stood looking. Was it a dream? It must have been.

The Lion's Share.

Dear Uncle Jed: Once a lion went a-hunting with a fox, a jackal and a wolf. They hunted and they hunted. At last they came upon a stag and soon took his life. Then came the question how the four should divide the prey. The lion was judge.

"Quarter me this stag," roared the lion. The other animals did as he directed and very soon the four quarters of the stag were laid before the lion. Then he gave judgment as follows:

"The first quarter is for me, because I am the king of beasts; the second is mine, because I am the judge; another comes to me for my part in the chase; and, as for the fourth quarter, well I should like to see which one of you will dare to lay a paw upon it!"

Then the others all slunk away and left the king of beasts to enjoy his share alone.

"We might have known it," said the wolf. "The strong take all, and the greedy leave none."

Lives On Farm.

Dear Uncle Jed: I live on a farm in Canterbury near the Brooklyn line. I am eight years old.

We have a farm which consists of about a hundred acres of land. It is very pleasant. There are many large trees on it. We have two pigs, two dogs, two horses, two barns and several fowls.

There were two large maple trees in front of our house. One of them blew over the other day. It did not break any windows. Our neighbors said it made a loud noise.

Once upon a time a minister went to visit his neighbor in his village. The man he went to visit had a small boy who was just beginning to talk When the minister came in he took off his hat and sat down in the rocking chair. As they were talking the little boy looked at the minister and asked: "What have you done with your hair?"

The minister told him he left it in a box in New York city.

Then the little boy asked him why he didn't go there and get it.

This was a question he could not answer.

Impy Leaves Home

By Thornton W. Burgess

Try not to keep the young at home;
'Tis natural for them to roam.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy the black chipmunk was beginning to get uneasy. He didn't know what was the matter with him. He was just discontented. That was what was the matter — he was discontented. There would be times when he would sit on the old stone wall and just look and look and look off in the direction of the green forest and dream daydreams.

"What are you looking at?" asked his father, Striped Chipmunk, when he discovered Impy in the midst of one of these daydreams.

"Nothing; nothing at all," replied Impy. "I was wishing I was somewhere else."

"Where else?" demanded Striped Chipmunk.

"I don't know," replied Impy. "That's the trouble. I just get so wishing and wishing and don't know why I am wishing or what I am wishing."

"I know what the matter is with you," replied Striped Chipmunk.

"What?" demanded Impy.

"You want to go out into the great world. You want to get away from home," replied Striped Chipmunk. "I was going to speak to you about this.

"Nothing at all," replied Impy

It is time you went out into the great world and made a home for yourself. Everybody has to do this. It is high time that you and your brothers and sisters should be thinking about homes of your own."

"I guess that must be it," said Impy "but I don't know where to go."

"Neither did I know where to go when I left home," replied Striped Chipmunk. "I just went, that was all. I just went adventuring Then I met your mother and we settled down."

"You mean that you just started out without knowing where you were going?" asked Impy.

Striped Chipmunk nodded. "Of course," said he. "There wouldn't be any fun in going if you knew just where you were going. Go out and see the great world, and when you have seen enough of it settle down. You'll see all you want of it in a very short time You want to be ready to settle down in time to lay up a store of food for the winter."

"I thought I heard you say once that we chipmunks sleep in the winter," said Impy.

"So we do," replied Striped Chipmunk. "We sleep most of the winter, but every now and then we wake up long enough to eat something, and then we want it right handy. You are young, my son, and you have much to learn. When summer passes there comes a season of plenty. There are nuts and seeds to be had for the gathering. All members of the squirrel family are thrifty and make storehouses and fill them, or else hide things where they know they can get them when they need them. It is a good thing to have plenty of food on hand at the end of winter. Yes, sir, a well filled storehouse is a good thing then. You see, it is not easy to find enough to eat when you come out in the spring."

Striped Chipmunk glanced at Impy. He was sitting with that far-away look in his eyes. If he had heard what his father had been saying he made no sign that he had. Suddenly he got to his feet, stretched, looked at Striped Chipmunk and said "Good-bye."

"Where are you going?" demanded Striped Chipmunk.

"Out into the great world," replied Impy, and whisked away along the top of the old stone wall toward the green forest. So it was that Impy left home.

SEEKING WHEREABOUTS OF GANGSTER DIAMOND

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(P)—The mystery of the whereabouts of John T. "Legs" Diamond, gangland leader, today puzzled police who are searching for a missing Catskills roadhouse keeper and at the same time trying to solve the significance of a gangland arsenal seized here Sunday.

The blood-stained automobile of Harry Weston, the hotel keeper, who has been missing since last Friday, was found in a garage here yesterday. The armament cache seizure was accompanied by the arrest of three men and a woman.

Cables to the master of the liner Baltic, inquiring whether Diamond was aboard, went unanswered today. The gangster, who is at liberty on $15,000 bail on a two-year-old narcotic charge, was reported to have sailed Saturday for Europe Meanwhile up state police suspected he was in hiding in the Catskills and pressed the search there.

Police also notified authorities in Queenstown, Ireland; Cherbourg, France, and Liverpool England, at which ports the Baltic docks, to watch for Diamond. Commissioner Mulrooney said he had not asked the gangster's arrest but only wanted his movements followed.

Family quarrels wouldn't be so bad if other families kept out of them.

SHUTTING OFF WATER AT NEW LONDON BRINGS MANY SLOW-PAYS TO TIME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26—The department of public works, water division, started yesterday shutting water off at premises where the water bill for the last half of the year has not been paid. As a result there has been a rush at the office of the water board in the municipal building the past two days for the purpose of making payment. At Ocean Beach more than a score of property owners had failed to pay the tax and all kinds of excuses were offered for failure to make payment, even to some of the owners of the properties denying that they held title in the residence However, when the water service was discontinued, the remonstrants went to the municipal building and paid the tax.

Cases To Be Tried Today.

Tomorrow in the police court, several continued cases are scheduled for trial. One of the cases is that of John McElhaney, 9 Pearl street, who will be charged with violation of the liquor law. He was arrested a week ago when a series of raids were made by the police and his case is the final one to be disposed of. McElhaney will be charged on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and illegal possession. Another case to be tried is that of Ignacio Fadrequilla, North Bank street, Filipino, who will be charged with breach of the peace. Fadrequilla and Mel Patricia, also of North Bank street, gambled in a private residence on that street on the night of August 12, the game lasting about 24 hours. When playing was concluded, Patricia had lost practically all his money and claims that Fadrequilla had cheated, for it is claimed that when the latter arose from his seat cards fell from his person. A fight followed and Patricia emerged from the battle with a lacerated arm, the wounds having been inflected by a knife in the hand of Fadrequilla. Patricia but recently was discharged at the Mitchell ward of the Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Fadrequilla is under arrest at the United States Coast Guard academy and will be delivered to the civil authorities tomorrow. A third case is that of Edward L. Dray, 29, of 62 Douglass street, employed as a taxi driver, who is charged with breach of the peace. Dray and another driver, John Ficarra, engaged in a dispute on State street several nights ago and the former struck Ficarre several blows on the head and face. A fourth case is that of Ruby C. Mayo, sailor and residing at 36 Franklin street, who will be charged with breach of the peace. Mayo went to his home on the night of August 12 and quarreled with his wife. He has been at liberty on bail since the marital dispute.

LAW DEALS WITH TAXI MEN FOR PROMOTION OF VICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26—The state police, Groton barracks, today started a drive to house clean among the taxi drivers of this city and before the work of the officers has been concluded there will be several less public service cars being operated about the streets. The drive is against drivers known to use their automobiles for purposes of immorality, transport liquor and solicit liquor buyers and men who desire female companionship. The drivers are aware of the existence of houses of immorality, also know where liquor can be obtained. Seeking customers for either is not a difficult task and some drivers are reputed to obtain a livlihood by their illegal methods. As a result of the apparent growth of these forms of business among the taxicab drivers the clean-up was ordered. Today Charles Parmalee, of Groton, who drives a cab in this city, was the first operator to feel the axe, for the police took charge of Parmalee's markers, which prevents him from driving the car. The police are determined to confiscate the markers of all drivers who have a court record for any illegal purposes and there are at least two, if not three other drivers who will be put out of business through the activity of the officers.

PATROLMAN SHEEHAN APPEALS FROM FINE OF $50 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26—Patrolman Patrick Sheehan, who has been under suspension on charges of breach of the peace as a result of his attack upon Leland Flanagan and Frank Storey, sailors stationed at the submarine base, last Wednesday night, was tried in the police court today. Because of the exhaustive testimony, although few took the stand and told their version of the fight between the officer and Flanagan, the trial occupied the greater part of three hours. Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer conducted the state's side of the case and Attorney Morris Lubchansky defended the accused officer. Judge Daniel M. Cronin found the officer guilty as charged and fined him $50 and costs. Through counsel, Sheehan, filed notice of appeal and the case will be tried at the next criminal term of the court of common pleas. Sheehan's suspension will stand until the case is concluded. In the meantime there is a possibility of City Manager Holt giving Sheehan a hearing for that official indicated the possibility in a letter to Captain Charles A. Pinney Friday last.

Sheehan testified to having reported off duty at 11:20 o'clock on the night of the assault. He was passing through Main street in civilian attire on his way home. Near the corner of John street and proceeding in the opposite direction were Flanagan and Storey. Nearby were four women. The officer said that he heard one of the sailors apply an insulting remark as the bluejackets passed the women and for that reason Sheehan remonstrated with Flanagan and Story When he became the object of a verbal tirade, Sheehan admitted hitting both Flanagan and Storey, but did not attempt to arrest them.

Ellery Stamion and James Paul, witnesses for the accused, corroborated the story related by Sheehan in part.

Flanagan and Storey gave practically the same testimony. They declared that they were walking southerly on Main street about midnight when Sheehan, whom they did not know was a police officer, approached from the opposite direction. Just as they were passing the sailors believed that Sheehan made a remark and Storey inquired as to the nature of it. Sheehan quickly struck at both Flanagan and Storey and then pulled a blackjack and started wielding it. Storey received several blows on the face and head and Flanagan retreated but returned to the site of the trouble. Sheehan had made known his identity by revealing his badge, but he did not place the sailors under arrest. Flanagan and Storey returned to the base where they related their experience to their superior officer and the next day the sailors went to police headquarters and lodged their complaint. Sheehan was suspended and Friday when he was arrested and presented in court the case was continued until today.

The arguments in the case consumed about an hour. During his half hour of summarizing the acts of Sheehan, Prosecuting Attorney Boyer said that Sheehan had not been justified in his attack upon the sailors, stating that the officer exceeded his authority and also should have arrested Flanagan and Storey, inasmuch as the officer had deemed their conduct such as to beat them with his fists and blackjack. The prosecutor also made it clear that he did not believe the testimony that the fight was the result of insulting and obscene remarks being made to women and he declared that he did not believe that any women entered into the cause of the fight for had such been the case the officer would have ascertained their identity and that they would have been witnesses for the accused today.

WOMAN WHO MADE HOOCH GETS $300 WITH COSTS OF COURT

Two women were in the police court today, each charged with violation of the liquor law, but only one was found guilty. One of the alleged law breakers, was Mrs. Mary Habarek, 30 Winthrop street, and she pleaded not guilty. There was no testimony to establish a conviction and the woman was found not guilty. The other woman was Mrs. Stella Stefanski, 28 Winthrop street, but in her case there was no doubt as to her guilt. She was fined $200 and costs on a charge of manufacturing and $100 and costs on a charge of illegal possession.

The prosecution of the women came about under rather unusual circumstances. Information was given the police yesterday that the Habarek woman was dispensing liquor to favored customers and on that information, Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Henry Hick arrested her. Later and at night and after Mrs. Habarek had been unable to obtain a surety on her bond of $1,000, a raiding force in charge of Sergeant John Courtney went to the house, and a search warrant having been issued, conducted the search for evidence. They were not successful in finding liquor, which fact was the principal cause of her being found not guilty. However, when the officers went to the rear of the house, children of Mrs. Stefanski were observed running from the building to a shed with receptacles in their hands. Sensing that an attempt was being made to hide evidence which the officers sought in the house, the raiders entered the Stefanski home and found a quantity of liquor and a still in operation. These were seized as evidence and proof of the fact that Mrs. Stefanski was dispensing booze, so the court wasted but little time adjudging the woman guilty and imposing the penalty.

The cases of Nicholas Halikas, Main street, and Adam Malinowski, who were in court yesterday charged with frequenting a gambling resort at 11 Bank street and which was raided last Saturday night, were reopened. Halikas, was liberated shortly after his arrest when Louis Elfenbein qualified on a bond of $50. He did not present himself in court Monday, so the bondsman delivered Halikas at police headquarters and surrendered as bondsman. As a result, before Halikas could be freed again he was compelled to obtain a surety on a bond of $500. This he did in Peter Woirotis. Today Halikas was fined the same as were the other frequenters the day before, $10 and costs. In the case of Malinowski it was explained that the young man is a minor and he had gone to the gambling room seeking a friend with whom he had an engagement and went there when informed that his friend would be found in the card room. Execution of the penalty imposed yesterday was then suspended.

Harold Smith, an ice pedlar charged with driving without a license, was fined $10 and costs. Smith borrowed an automobile of a friend late yesterday afternoon and he did not return it he promised for he drove to New Britain. When Smith was observed in the car on Bank street about 1 o'clock this morning he was questioned by Automobile Officer Arthur Feeley. It was then disclosed that Smith did not have a license and the driver was arrested.

Mary Zebroski was charged with breach of the peace as a result of engaging in a quarrel with a supposed friend yesterday. She pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

A man, an old offender, was charged with intoxication, having been arrested last night on North Bank street by Patrolman Frank Philopena. The accused was sentenced to 20 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

At Lawrence-Memorial hospital today she was reported very slightly improved, although on the danger list. The girl was hit when she attempted to run across the highway at a time when the auto was passing.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Joseph Renzoni, 212 Shaw street, also ordered suspended the right to drive of Charles L. Helman, 750 Main street.

Robbed House of $17.

The residence of Capt. L. R. Brown, 2; Sherman street, was entered by a thief last evening for when Mr. and Mrs. Brown returned there after being absent about an hour and a half, they discovered the robbery. The police were notified and Automobile Patrol Officer and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin discovered that entrance was effected by removing a screen from an open window. The plunder the thief obtained was $17.

Aaron Shapiro, 187 Shaw street and Rebecca Eidelman, Hartford, were arrested Sunday by State Police Officer William E. MacKenzie charged with failing to grant right of way. The drivers were arrested in Colchester as a result of their automobiles colliding, although the damage to either auto was not great. Martin F. Payne, Springfield, Mass., was arrested in Selem charged with reckless driving. Vivian G. Plumb, Terryville, and Alice Totten, State Farm for Women, Niantic, were arrested on a charge of failing to grant right of way. The drivers were operating their automobiles near the driveway and gate at the farm when they collided. Neither car sustained damage of serious consequence.

New London Taxpayers' league advisory board and the candidates whom the organization has endorsed for office as members of the city council, held a meeting last night at which all of the candidates, E. Frank Morgan, Edward Prentis, Jr., Ray Smith and Edwin Cruise were present. Plans were formulated for the elections next month.

NO CLUE TO THE MISSING LITTLE KENNETH SWANSON

COLEBROOK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The fruitless search through woods and swamps for a trace of little Kenneth Swanson, two and a half years old of Barre, Vt., boy, missing since Sunday from his grandfather's farm here, continued today until darkness halted the efforts of the more than 300 searchers. The result was the same as on Sunday and Monday. No single additional clue to the boy's whereabouts has been learned since he failed to respond to his mother's summons to dinner Sunday noon.

The parents of the boy, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanson, police and volunteer searchers had hoped that Prince, yellow and white collie which disappeared together with the boy and which returned to the farmhouse early today, might be able to put them on the trail of his small companion. But Prince showed no inclination to leave home and remained the one disinterested party in a community that teemed with anxiety over the boy's fate.

FRANCE ABSOLVED FOR FLOW OF GOLD TO PARIS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)— With the French franc exchange rate still hovering around the point at which it is profitable to ship montetary gold from New York to Paris, where some $70,000,000 worth of the metal has gone in recent weeks, J. Henry Schroder & Co., bankers, of London and New York, today issued an analysis of the flow of gold to Paris, absolving France of political motives.

The flow of gold from London to Paris has been much larger than that from New York to Paris, and has tended to embarrass the Bank of England, while New York has much gold to spare.

The drain of gold to France can be explained, states the review, without imputing unworthy motives to the Bank of France or the French treasury adding that the flow is largely due to defects in the French banking system.

Frank Spitzel of New Britain, proprietor of a gambling club in the Strand theatre building, Plainville, which was raided by state and local police, "took the rap" yesterday morning when he paid $390.10 in fines assessed against himself and 50 frequenters.

SHUTTING OFF WATER AT NEW LONDON BRINGS MANY SLOW-PAYS TO TIME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26—The department of public works, water division, started yesterday shutting water off at premises where the water bill for the last half of the year has not been paid. As a result there has been a rush at the office of the water board in the municipal building the past two days for the purpose of making payment. At Ocean Beach more than a score of property owners had failed to pay the tax and all kinds of excuses were offered for failure to make payment, even to some of the owners of the properties denying that they held title in the residence. However, when the water service was discontinued, the remonstrants went to the municipal building and paid the tax.

Cases To Be Tried Today.

Tomorrow in the police court, several continued cases are scheduled for trial. One of the cases is that of John McElhaney, 9 Pearl street, who will be charged with violation of the liquor law. He was arrested a week ago when a series of raids were made by the police and his case is the final one to be disposed of. McElhaney will be charged on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and illegal possession. Another case to be tried is that of Ternacio Fadrequilla, North Bank street, Filipino, who will be charged with breach of the peace. Fadrequilla and Mel Patricia, also of North Bank street, gambled in a private residence on that street on the night of August 12, the game lasting about 24 hours. When playing was concluded, Patricia had lost practically all his money and claims that Fadrequilla had cheated, for it is claimed that when the latter arose from his seat cards fell from his person. A fight followed and Patricia emerged from the battle with a lacerated arm, the wounds having been inflected by a knife in the hand of Fadrequilla. Patricia but recently was discharged at the Mitchell ward of the Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Fadrequilla is under arrest at the United States Coast Guard academy and will be delivered to the civil authorities tomorrow. A third case is that of Edward L. Dray, 29, of 62 Douglass street, employed as a taxi driver, who is charged with breach of the peace. Dray and another driver, John Ficarra, engaged in a dispute on State street several nights ago and the former struck Ficarre several blows on the head and face. A fourth case is that of Ruby C. Mayo, sailor and residing at 36 Franklin street, who will be charged with breach of the peace. Mayo went to his home on the night of August 12 and quarreled with his wife. He has been at liberty on bail since the marital dispute.

LAW DEALS WITH TAXI MEN FOR PROMOTION OF VICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26—The state police, Groton barracks, today started a drive to house clean among the taxi drivers of this city and before the work of the officers has been concluded there will be several less public service cars being operated about the streets. The drive is against drivers known to use their automobiles for purposes of immorality, transport liquor and solicit liquor buyers and men who desire female companionship. The drivers are aware of the existence of houses of immorality, also know where liquor can be obtained. Seeking customers for either is not a difficult task and some drivers are reputed to obtain a livlihood by their illegal methods. As a result of the apparent growth of these forms of business among the taxicab drivers the clean-up was ordered. Today Charles Parmalee, of Groton, who drives a cab in this city, was the first operator to feel the axe, for the police took charge of Parmalee's markers, which prevents him from driving the car. The police are determined to confiscate the markers of all drivers who have a court record for any illegal purposes and there are at least two, if not three other drivers who will be put out of business through the activity of the officers.

Miss Margaret V. Giblin, of Providence, is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy, 177 Willetts avenue.

Judge Harry Field, formerly of New London, now of Northampton, Mass., is spending a few days renewing acquaintance in New London. Judge Field's father, Rev. Thomas P. Field, was formerly pastor of the First Church of Christ, holding the pastorate 60 years ago.

PATROLMAN SHEEHAN APPEALS FROM FINE OF $50 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 26—Patrolman Patrick Sheehan, who has been under suspension on charges of breach of the peace as a result of his attack upon Leland Flanagan and Frank Storey, sailors stationed at the submarine base, last Wednesday night, was tried in the police court today. Because of the exhaustive testimony, although few took the stand and told their version of the fight between the officer and Flanagan, the trial occupied the greater part of three hours. Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer conducted the state's side of the case and Attorney Morris Lubchansky defended the accused officer. Judge Daniel M. Cronin found the officer guilty as charged and fined him $50 and costs. Through counsel, Sheehan, filed notice of appeal and the case will be tried at the next criminal term of the court of common pleas. Sheehan's suspension will stand until the case is concluded. In the meantime there is a possibility of City Manager Holt giving Sheehan a hearing for that official indicated the possibility in a letter to Captain Charles A. Pinney Friday last.

Sheehan testified to having reported off duty at 11:20 o'clock on the night of the assault. He was passing through Main street in civilian attire on his way home. Near the corner of John street and proceeding in the opposite direction were Flanagan and Storey. Nearby were four women. The officer said that he heard one of the sailors apply an insulting remark as the bluejackets passed the women and for that reason Sheehan remonstrated with Flanagan and Story. When he became the object of a verbal tirade, Sheehan admitted hitting both Flanagan and Storey, but did not attempt to arrest them.

Ellery Stamion and James Paul, witnesses for the accused, corroborated the story related by Sheehan in part.

Flanagan and Storey gave practically the same testimony. They declared that they were walking southerly on Main street about midnight when Sheehan, whom they did not know was a police officer, approached from the opposite direction. Just as they were passing the sailors believed that Sheehan made a remark and Storey inquired as to the nature of it. Sheehan quickly struck at both Flanagan and Storey and then pulled a blackjack and started wielding it. Storey received several blows on the face and head and Flanagan retreated but returned to the site of the trouble. Sheehan had made known his identity by revealing his badge, but he did not place the sailors under arrest. Flanagan and Storey returned to the base where they related their experience to their superior officer and the next day the sailors went to police headquarters and lodged their complaint. Sheehan was suspended and Friday when he was arrested and presented in court the case was continued until today.

The arguments in the case consumed about an hour. During his half hour of summarizing the acts of Sheehan, Prosecuting Attorney Boyer said that Sheehan had not been justified in his attack upon the sailors, stating that the officer exceeded his authority and also should have arrested Flanagan and Storey, inasmuch as the officer had deemed their conduct such as to beat them with his fists and blackjack. The prosecutor also made it clear that he did not believe the testimony that the fight was the result of insulting and obscene remarks being made to women and he declared that he did not believe that any women entered into the cause of the fight for had such been the case the officer would have ascertained their identity and that they would have been witnesses for the accused today.

WOMAN WHO MADE HOOCH GETS $300 WITH COSTS OF COURT

Two women were in the police court today, each charged with violation of the liquor law, but only one was found guilty. One of the alleged law breakers, was Mrs. Mary Habarek, 30 Winthrop street, and she pleaded not guilty. There was no testimony to establish a conviction and the woman was found not guilty. The other woman was Mrs. Stella Stefanski, 28 Winthrop street, but in her case there was no doubt as to her guilt. She was fined $200 and costs on a charge of manufacturing and $100 and costs on a charge of illegal possession.

The prosecution of the women came about under rather unusual circumstances. Information was given the police yesterday that the Habarek woman was dispensing liquor to favored customers and on that information, Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Henry Hick arrested her. Later and at night and after Mrs. Habarek had been unable to obtain a surety on her bond of $1,000, a raiding force in charge of Sergeant John Courtney went to the house, and a search warrant having been issued, conducted the search for evidence. They were not successful in finding liquor, which fact was the principal cause of her being found not guilty. However, when the officers went to the rear of the house, children of Mrs. Stefanski were observed running from the building to a shed with receptacles in their hands. Sensing that an attempt was being made to hide evidence which the officers sought in the house, the raiders entered the Stefanski home and found a quantity of liquor and a still in operation. These were seized as evidence and proof of the fact that Mrs. Stefanski was dispensing booze, so the court wasted but little time adjudging the woman guilty and imposing the penalty.

The cases of Nicholas Halikas, Main street, and Adam Malinowski, who were in court yesterday charged with frequenting a gambling resort at 11 Bank street and which was raided last Saturday night, were reopened. Halikas, was liberated shortly after his arrest when Louis Elfenbein qualified on a bond of $50. He did not present himself in court Monday, so the bondsman delivered Halikas at police headquarters and surrendered as bondsman. As a result, before Halikas could be freed again he was compelled to obtain a surety on a bond of $500. This he did in Peter Wolrotis. Today Halikas was fined the same as were the other frequenters the day before, $10 and costs. In the case of Malinowski it was explained that the young man is a minor and he had gone to the gambling room seeking a friend with whom he had an engagement and went there when informed that his friend would be found in the card room. Execution of the penalty imposed yesterday was then suspended.

Harold Smith, an ice pedlar charged with driving without a license, was fined $10 and costs. Smith borrowed an automobile of a friend late yesterday afternoon and he did not return as he promised for he drove to New Britain. When Smith was observed in the car on Bank street about 1 o'clock this morning he was questioned by Automobile Officer Arthur Feeley. It was then disclosed that Smith did not have a license and the driver was arrested.

Mary Zebroski was charged with breach of the peace as a result of engaging in a quarrel with a supposed friend yesterday. She pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

A man, an old offender, was charged with intoxication, having been arrested last night on North Bank street by Patrolman Frank Philopena. The accused was sentenced to 20 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

FUNERAL.

Anthony Bolczak.

The funeral of Anthony Bolczak, of Winthrop street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter and St. Paul church, a mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Fr. Mikelaczewski. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Charlotte Cooper, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooper, members of a band of gypsies, who are encamped in a field on the Hartford turnpike in Waterford, sustained a fractured skull Sunday being struck by an automobile driven by Forest Mayes, Springfield, Mass. At Lawrence-Memorial hospital today she was reported very slightly improved, although on the danger list. The girl was hit when she attempted to run across the highway at a time when the auto was passing.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Joseph Renzoni, 212 Shaw street, also ordered suspended the right to drive of Charles L. Heiman, 750 Main street.

Robbed House of $17.

The residence of Capt. L. R. Brown, 2; Sherman street, was entered by a thief last evening for when Mr. and Mrs. Brown returned there after being absent about an hour and a half, they discovered the robbery. The police were notified and Automobile Patrol Officer and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin discovered that entrance was effected by removing a screen from an open window. The plunder the thief obtained was $17.

Aaron Shapiro, 187 Shaw street and Rebecca Eidelman, Hartford, were arrested Sunday by State Police Officer William E. MacKenzie charged with failing to grant right of way. The drivers were arrested in Colchester as a result of their automobiles colliding, although the damage to either auto was not great. Martin F. Payne, Springfield, Mass., was arrested in Salem charged with reckless driving. Vivian G. Plumb, Terryville, and Alice Totten, State Farm for Women, Niantic, were arrested on a charge of failing to grant right of way. The drivers were operating their automobiles near the driveway and gate at the farm when they collided. Neither car sustained damage of serious consequence.

New London Taxpayers' league advisory board and the candidates whom the organization has endorsed for office as members of the city council, held a meeting last night at which all of the candidates, E. Frank Morgan, Edward Prentis, Jr., Ray Smith and Edwin Cruise were present. Plans were formulated for the elections next month.

Dutremble, 17-year-old Uncasville youth, was arrested Tuesday evening by State Trooper Clarence Hoxie of the Groton barracks and Police Officer Howard Lamphere of Montville on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, also operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license. This is the second time that this youth has been in the clutches of the law this month. He was before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church Aug. 14 on a charge of breaking and entering the restaurant conducted by the Robert Gair Co., at their plant at Uncasville, and had his case nolled on payment of the costs of court. He was put under six months' probation when the youth's father reimbursed the Gair Co. for the amount taken.

NO CLUE TO THE MISSING LITTLE KENNETH SWANSON

COLEBROOK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The fruitless search through woods and swamps for a trace of little Kenneth Swanson, two and a half years old Barre, Vt., boy, missing since Sunday from his grandfather's farm here, continued today until darkness halted the efforts of the more than 300 searchers. The result was the same as on Sunday and Monday. No single additional clue to the boy's whereabouts has been learned since he failed to respond to his mother's summons to dinner Sunday noon.

The parents of the boy, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanson, police and volunteer searchers had hoped that Prince, yellow and white collie which disappeared together with the boy and which returned to the farmhouse early today, might be able to put them on the trail of his small companion. But Prince showed no inclination to leave home and remained the one disinterested party in a community that teemed with anxiety over the boy's fate.

FRANCE ABSOLVED FOR FLOW OF GOLD TO PARIS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)— With the French franc exchange rate still hovering around the point at which it is profitable to ship montetary gold from New York to Paris, where some $70,000,000 worth of the metal has gone in recent weeks, J. Henry Schroder & Co., bankers, of London and New York, today issued an analysis of the flow of gold to Paris, absolving France of political motives.

The flow of gold from London to Paris has been much larger than that from New York to Paris, and has tended to embarrass the Bank of England, while New York has much gold to spare.

The drain of gold to France can be explained, states the review, without imputing unworthy motives to the Bank of France or the French treasury adding that the flow is largely due to defects in the French banking system.

Frank Spitzel of New Britain, proprietor of a gambling club in the Strand theatre building, Plainville, which was raided by state and local police, "took the rap" yesterday morning when he paid $390.10 in fines assessed against himself and 50 frequenters.

GREENEVILLE

LAWRENCE QUINN SAVES BOY FROM DROWNING

The boys of Greeneville were receiving quite a lot of enjoyment lately in making rafts out of old boards and riding them in the Shetucket river in the rear of the Atlantic Carton factory off North Main street. At times there are as many as a dozen of these floating rafts in the river at once. This dangerous pastime nearly cost one of the boys his life, but owing to the bravery of Lawrence Quinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn of Central avenue he was saved. The boy, Walter, son of Rev. Lesniak, pastor of the St. Nicholas Orthodox church, was floating his raft when suddenly it went under the water. The boy who is eleven years old, not knowing the depth of the water in the channel, which is nearly 25 feet deep, and being unable to swim, became excited and called for help. Out of a large number of boys young Quinn was the only one that had the courage to go in after him, clothes and all. The Russian boy had gone down twice and was going down the third time when Quinn reached him and brought him to shore. It was found out that Quinn has only been a swimmer for the past month, learning to swim at the Y. M. C. A. pool in this city. This put a scare in some of the younger boys for since then the number of rafts have been very few. The river is very deceiving to the youngsters for in some of the places thre are large holes in the channel, the water being as deep as 25 to 35 feet. The majority of the boys are unable to swim.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Flynn, Miss Marjorie Flynn, Elmer J. Flynn, Jr., Lois Flynn, Donald Flynn and Miss Eunice Brehant, Mr. and Mrs. John Oaks of Jewett City, Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Richards spent Sunday at Rocky Point and Roger Williams park.

Mrs. Albert Free has returned to her home after spending a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Sears on Prospect street.

George Swanton who is employed in the office of the United States Finishing company at Providence, is spending a week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanton on North Main street.

Big Game Thursday

The game between the Greeneville playground seniors and the Old Timers scheduled to be played last evening at the play ground centre was postponed until Thursday evening, owing to the Thermos-Cits game. The old timers did not want to miss the game, so if the weather will permit, the two teams will clash Thursday night. This will give the old timers a break for it will give them a chance to get in a little practice to take some of the kinks out of their athletic muscles. Without fail many have promised their manager, Billy Bowen, to be on deck at 6:30 to give an exhibition of the old pastime, in which in years gone by they had made quite a name for themselves. Some of the players performed in the Norwich-Taftville league while others played with Engine Company No. 2. The lineup for the Old Timers: Quinn c; Nicky Nealon p; Edward Gleason 1b; James Daley 2b; Thomas Ryan 3b; W. H. Bowen ss; Scotty Powers lf; Patrick Shahan cf; Joseph Donavan rf. A large crowd is expected to witness the game between youth and old age of the Third Ward.

POETRY

Sunday Outing

The blatant, harsh, pre-dawn alarm;
  The numbed, reluctant waking;
The unappreciated charm
  Of day in splendor breaking;
The progeny untimely roused,
  And consequently snarling;
The sudden wrath, the hasty slap—
  "Did Daddy hurt you, darling?"

The start, the graveled road, the dust;
  The briefly vocal tire;
The stop; the jack all clogged with rust;
  The morning sun, like fire,
The spare-rack key that will not fit;
  The "spare" devoid of air;
The patch, the pump, the hour's work;
  The wild desire to swear . . .

The picnic grounds, the games, the lunch,
  The bug-strewn napery;
The broken thermos-jug; the flies;
  The ants 'twixt food and knee;
The earnest chigger at his work;
  The sunburn—pain past measure;
The welcome dusk, and home at last!
  Ye gods!—and this is pleasure!

—R. B., in Kansas City Star

The Wild Honeysuckle

Fair flower, that dost so comely grow,
  Hid in this silent, dull retreat,
Untouched thy honied blossoms blow,
  Unseen thy little branches meet;
    No roving foot shall crush thee here,
    No busy hand provoke a tear.

By Nature's self in white arrayed,
  She bade thee shun the vulgar eye,
And planted here the guardian shade,
  And sent soft waters murmuring by;
    Thus quietly thy summer goes,
    Thy days declining to repose.

Smit with those charms, that must decay,
  I grieve to see your future doom;
They died—nor were those flowers more gay,
  The flowers that did in Eden bloom!
    Unpitying frosts and Autumn's power
    Shall leave no vestige of this flower.

From morning suns and evening dews
  At first thy little being came;
If nothing once, you nothing lose,
  For when you die you are the same;
    The space between is but an hour,
    The frail frustration of a flower.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Were the questions hard?"

"No, they were easy. The answers bothered me."—Hoof Prints.

Dave—Did you forget that you owe me money?

Ham—Not yet. Please give me time.

"Where did you get those big, tender sympathetic eyes?" she cooed.

"Oh," replied the sailor, "they came with my face."—Our Navy.

Imaginative Soldier—"Just think—man has learned to fly like a bird!"

Stolid Ditto—"Yeh—but he can't sit on a barbed-wire fence"—Army and Navy Journal.

Clerk—Will one collar be enough madam?

Old Woman (indignant)—Well, such foolishness! Do you think I've got more than one husband?—Detroit News.

Mamma—Edward, why are you racing up and down the hall that way?

Edward—I'm practicing so papa can't catch me.

Mamma—Why don't you want your father to catch you?

Edward—'Cause he told me not to let him catch me near the circus grounds tomorrow.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A school teacher had written on the blackboard the sentence: "The toast was drank in silence," and turning to the class, asked if anyone could point out an error in it.

Instantly one boy put up his hand, and, going to the board, wrote the correction: "The toast was ate in silence."—Catholic Opinion.

It was on a Massachusetts avenue car that a buxom woman was standing in the aisle hanging to a strap. In front of her sat a rather cantankerous-looking man, apparently absorbed in a newspaper. The car stopped suddenly and she trod sharply on his foot. He looked up over the top of his paper with anything but a happy expression.

"Madame," he said, "will you please get off my foot?"

"Put your foot where it belongs," she replied shortly.

"Don't tempt me," he countered.—Voo Doo.

COLONEL CERRO DISPLACES PERUVIAN MILITARY JUNTA

Junta Decided to Resign in View of the Support Given Cerro —It Was Reported That the Military School and Other Army Units Had Declared They Would Obey Only Sanches Cerro as Their Supreme Chief.

LIMA, Aug. 27—(AP)—Lieutenant-Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, a 41-year-old soldier who bears wounds from two previous Peruvian revolutions and has battled the riffs of Abd-Elkrim in Morocco, came to Lima tonight to take over the government of the republic and was welcomed with an ovation such as likely no other man in Peru ever heard.

The man who touched off at Arequipa last Friday the spark which started the revolution ending the Augusto B. Leguia regime arrived at 5:05 o'clock this afternoon (same time e. s. t.) landing from a Fawcett line airplane at the Country club while thousands of hands clapped endlessly.

Masses of Peruvians shouted "long live Sanchez Cerro" when this slim man, meek looking but with an undeniable fire in hi seye, left the cabin of the plane.

The enthusiasm became even more frenzied when Sanchez Cerro crossed the central thoroughfare of the city, Giron De La Union street, where thousands stood bare-headed and shouted incessantly "long live Sances Cerro."

Women leaned from balconies and rained flowers over the man who is hailed as the savior of Peru, while the bells of the churches pealed and thousands sang the national hymn.

Ever since the start of the revolt in Arequipa last week, Sanchez Cerro who is known as a brilliant soldier, has played an important role in the ousting of President Leguia. It was his dissatisfaction with the new cabinet selected by the president that led to the resignation of President Leguia and his flight aboard the Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau.

Meanwhile, former President Leguia facing trial for the alleged misdeeds of his eleven years of rule, was held aboard the Almirante Grau at Callao waiting for definite action by the authorities in Lima.

The former president's health broke down under the strain of his sudden overthrow and detention aboard the cruiser but today was said to have improved somewhat. Last night it was reported that a priest had hurried abroad the vessel in order to administer the sacraments.

STATES MUST BEAR MAJOR BURDEN OF DROUGHT RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(AP)—Primary responsibility for drought relief was placed upon the affected states today by their banking representatives.

In reporting the major part of the burden was for the states, the bankers recommended that existing federal agencies which can lend aid be utilized to the fullest extent. They also detailed the help government agencies can give.

"We appreciate that these suggestions," the bankers reported, "do not offer that full measure of relief, which, unfortunately seems to be anticipated in many quarters nor perhaps will such a program fully meet the emergency that exists."

They added that the summary given included, however, all legal means of assistance now available.

Formation of agricultural credit corporations to operate as intermediaries between the farmers and the intermediate credit banks was urged where ever necessary.

Extension of existing agricultural credit corporations and of existing cooperative marketing associations also was recommended in a report to Secretary Hyde, chairman of the National Drought Relief committee, for transmission to President Hoover.

Existing cooperative marketing associations were advised to avail themselves of "the liberal financial assistance which is offered by the federal farm board."

With the report went a summary outlining the limits of governmental agencies as defined by law to grant credit or render financial aid in the drought emergency.

NHABIATNTS TO EVACUATE BLEAK ST. KILDA ISLAND

GLASGOW, Scotland, Aug. 27—(AP)—The sloop "Hairbell" commissioned to evacuate 35 inhabitants of St. Kilda Island, off the west coast, will arrive at the island tomorrow.

Hundreds of sheep on the island, wild and agile as mountain goats, will have to be left behind. They have taken refuge in the rocky fastnesses and refuse to show themselves.

The Earl of Cassalis, owner of St. Kilda, said he never again would permit settlement of the bleak little island. The inhabitants will be transferred to the mainland. The authorities are endeavoring to make the evacuation as quiet as possible to spare the feelings of the islanders. And it is for that reason the exact date of evacuation has been kept secret.

Eighty years ago St. Kildans numbered more than 100. Today there are 35. They consist of eight able-bodied men, five wives, six widows, two aged men, one old woman, two girls, eight children of school age and three children of under school age. Some of them have been on the mainland before, but for those who have not, life holds many surprises. St. Kilda is not only without trains and motorcars; it is without trees, without cats, without horses, withouts rabbits, without rats.

WIND TOO LIGHT FOR CUP DEFENDER YACHTS

NEWPORT R. I., Aug. 27.—(AP)—After the four candidates for the defense of the America's cup had almost drifted before the lightest of northeasterly breezes for more than three hours today, the selection committee was forced to call off the two scheduled match races. The boats had started shortly before noon and a few minutes before 3 o'clock they had coasted less than 12 miles of the course. It then became apparent that none of the fleet could finish within the five and a half hour time limit.

Today was the fifth straight day that the cup candidates were unable to race because of lack of air or because the committee was unwilling to have them race because of too much [illegible].

Shamrock V was out ghosting around the bay again today, stretching her canvas and tuning up for the approaching international contest.

BROOKS EXONERATED FOR STEAMSHIP DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The record of Captain Archie H. Brooks, master of the steamer Fairfax which rammed and sank the oil tanker Pinthis in Massachusetts bay last June, was cleared today of responsibility for the disaster which cost 50 lives.

Captain Brooks was exonerated of blame in a report prepared by the steamboat inspection board at Norfolk, Va., which investigated charges filed against him after the collision.

The report, made public by Dickerson N. Hoover, head of the commerce department's steamboat inspection service, said a thorough examination of 34 witnesses had failed to establish evidence substantiating the accusations and that the case was closed.

CANADIAN DORY SEIZED WITH $220,000 LIQUOR CARGO

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Loaded to the gunwales with first rate liquor and malt valued at $220,000 the trim Canadian sea dory Nova V was brought into the harbor today by the coast guard boat Cardigan, after her capture yesterday within the 12-mile limit off Shinnecock, L. I.

Captain William Waulbach and his crew of nine will be arraigned on charges of smuggling. The task of discharging of the cargo began at once.

The Nova V, a motor driven craft valued at $50,000, and capable of doing 22 knots, was overhauled by the patrol boat after a chase of half a mile during which one round of shot was fired. The Cardigan played her searchlight on the fugitive during the pursuit, showing in bold relief the load of whiskey, gin and malt above decks. It consisted of 1500 cases of liquor and 200 kegs of malt.

A difficult legal problem was foreseen by customs officials in the statement of counsel for the prisoners that his clients had committed no crime because they were outside the three-mile limit, had not had contact with the shore and had not transferred their cargo to another vessel. The captain insisted he was en route to Bermuda and lost his bearings.

MARDELLE RUM-RUNNER HELD FOR TRIAL SEPT. 16

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 27—(AP)—Three members of the crew of the Mardelle, rum-runner raked by coast guard machine gun fire and captured yesterday in lower Narragansett bay, pleaded not guilty before U. S. Commissioner Matteson here today to charges of smuggling liquor into the waters of the United States.

They were: Eugene R. Chapman, Fairhaven, Mass.; John Atwell and James A. Baker, both of Fall River, Mass. The fourth member of the crew, Chips Munson, of Fall River, is in Newport hospital with a dangerous lung wound caused by one of the machine gun slugs.

The three arraigned furnished $3,000 bail each for trial September 16.

The Mardelle, with its $20,000 cargo of liquor, was tied up at the state pier this morning after being towed here from New London, Conn. She had been splintered in several places by machine gun bullets.

OLD COVENTRY, ENG., MAYOR MIGHT VISIT COVENTRY, CONN.

COVENTRY, Aug. 27.— (AP) —The mayor of Old Coventry, England, may soon visit the town of Coventry, in Connecticut which was named after the English city. Mayor Fred Lee, of Old Coventry, recently wrote a letter to "the mayor of Coventry or first citizen" expressing a desire to visit the Connecticut town. The letter was delivered to Dr. W. L. Higgins, first selectman of the town and secretary of the state who immediately replied, asking about the English mayor's plans, and is now awaiting a letter from Mr. Lee.

Mayor Lee, of Old Coventry, had written that he was sailing with a party of English mayors to attend an exposition in Toronto, Canada, expecting to arrive in Quebec, August 17. The English mayors planned to go to Boston, Mass., after their engagements in Canada. Their visit to Connecticut in any event would not be made until after September 15.

PEIPING REPORTED UNDER MARTIAL LAW

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Kuo Min News Agency announced tonight that Peiping, former capital of China and now the stronghold of the northern rebel alliance, was placed under the martial law today following the bombardment of the city by four government airplanes.

The agency, which represents the Chinese nationalist government in the United States, said the planes did considerable damage and, contrary to previous reports, asserted that the populace was panic stricken. The lack of anti-aircraft guns enabled the planes to drop their bombs in leisurely fashion.

SEERVAL CASES SUNSTROKE CAUSED BY HEAT IN PARIS

PARIS, Aug. 27—(AP)—A heat wave holding France in its grip for the last three days has caused several cases of sunstroke most of them mild.

Today's temperature was 93.2 fahrenheit, the hottest day on record this year.

Among the victims of sunstroke was Etienne Clementel the venerable statesman who has held numerous ministries in the French government. He was reported recovering from the attack which was not severe. None of the victims died.

YACHT ENTERPRISE CHOSEN TO DEFEND THE AMERICAN CUP

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Enterprise was chosen tonight to defend the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock V, in the races off her next month by the cup committee.

The Enterprise, skippered by Harold S. Vanderbilt, was chosen by the racing committee of the New York Yacht club after only two races of the official trials had been held off here. The announcement came as a surprise and was not made until after the skippers and after guards of all four contenders for the privilege of defending the America's cup had been notified.

The unsuccessful candidates were: Yankee, sailed by Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the nation's navy; Weetamoe, the Morgan-Nichols boat, and Whirlwind, Thorne-Hammond entry.

COAST GUARD CREW TRIED TO LOCATE SINKING VESSEL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27—(AP)—A Coast Guard life boat crew returned empty handed tonight after an all-day search for the 65-foot schooner Francis T. of Halifax, reported sinking off this city.

Three sailors, who said they were from the schooner landed exhausted on the beach this morning pleading for aid for the vessel which they declared they left adrift 16 miles at sea with four men aboard. Coast Guards here believed the schooner may have sunk or drifted toward Cape May. The Cape May base has taken up the search.

The sailors said they rowed 16 hours in a dory. When they came in sight of land it capsized and they swam two and one half hours to shore. The three who said they were John Lerrie, 24, Freeman Banbury, 24; and Clarence Atkinson, 27, all of Halifax, Nova Scotia, were detained for investigation.

The schooner, bound from Halifax to Bermuda, ran into a severe storm a week ago and sprang a leak, the sailors said. All hands took to the pumps and kept them going until yesterday, when the captain ordered the three men to go ashore for help.

23 PERSONS OVERCOME BY CHLORINE GAS IN DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Aug 27—(AP)—Twenty-three persons, including 13 firemen, were overcome by chlorine gas today when a leaky tank car valve permitted a yellow cloud 15 feet high to drift into the plant of the Denver Fire Clay company. Three of the victims were dismissed after hospital examination but the others were believed in serious condition.

More than 100 workers escaped the gas by fleeing into the street. Firemen were called and were overcome as soon as they entered the building, as they were not equipped with gas masks.

Condition of all of those in hospitals could not be determined immediately. Physicians said they were subject to pneumonia.

The tank car from which the gas escaped contained 16 tons of liquid chlorine. The valve from which the gas escaped finally was closed by J. W. Gibbs, a plant employe, who donned a mask.

The car of chlorine was to be unloaded at the plant.

700 VETS MARCHED IN GRAND ARMY PARADE

CINCINNATI, Ohio. Aug. 27—(AP)—Union Veterans of the Civil War shook the years from their shoulders today and marched 700 strong in the 65th annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Their steps slow, feeble and shortened to half the 30 inches they used when they strode down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington before General Grant on their first review in 1865. The veterans required 90 minutes to traverse the mile long line of march but they did it like soldiers.

Only about half their total strength of 1,500 men found it impossible to march as they had done in past years and made the trip in automobiles.

As they turned "eyes down" toward the reviewing stand where stood their commander-in-chief, Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Mass., and Lieutenant-Colonel Ulysses S. Grant, III, of Washington, grandson of the man who led them at Fort Donaldson, Shiloh, Richmond and Appomattox, the high spot of the 64th encampment was over for most of them.

WAS TOLD TO GET EVERY BOOTLEGGER HE COULD

SEATTLE, Wash., ug. 27—(AP)—Matthew Ryan, former customs agent assigned to prohibition work, today testified in the Puget Sound liquor conspiracy case that William M. Whitney, former assistant prohibition administrator, one of the defendants, had told him "to get every bootlegger he could."

Later he said Whitney had made one exception, asking him not to visit Whidby Island, as the prohibition unit was building up a conspiracy case there. Other ex-government officials, charged with bribery and conspiracy to violate prohibition laws include Roy C. Lyle, former prohibition administrator Clifford T. McKinley, former assistant United States attorney, and R. L. Fryant and Earl Corwin, former dry agents.

FIRE IN LEATHER SHOP OF FAIRFIELD COUNTY JAIL

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Firemen were called from the private alarm box at the Fairfield county jail, where it was said that a fire had broken out in the main cell block.

Later reports said the fire was in the upper part of the leather shop, which adjoins the cell block.

After half an hour, the fire was pronounced under control.

Uncovering Iniquity Of Chicago Politics

Rhorer now is representing Zuta's cousin, Colonel Iks Ginsburg, in action concerning the murdered gangster's estate.

12 JUDGES AND CLERKS OF ELECTION INDICTED

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.— (AP) —Twelve judges and clerks of election in the 42nd ward in the last April primary were reported named late today in true bills voted by the grand jury and charging conspiracy to violate the election laws.

The grand jury dashed its action, according to reports at the state's attorney's office, on the testimony of witnesses that votes cast in favor of Wallace F. Kirk, candidate for state senator, were changed in favor of Senator John T. Joyce who died last week.

Senator Joyce had charged that men from the state's attorney's office threatened voters in the 42nd ward. Joyce died before a second meeting of the grand jury at which he was to have testified.

MUNICIPAL GRAFT AND CORRUPTION IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—An appeal for the aid of the citizenry in stamping out municipal graft and corruption was made by Mayor Walker today to a group of 200 business and civic leaders summoned by him to city hall.

The mayor said he had been told petty graft was general and declared the only way to attack the practice was through complaints by citizens who have evidence of individual acts of bribery. Requesting such evidence be brought to him immediately, the mayor promised to "run the complaints down and run the men who are guilty out of the service and out of the city."

Several city officials, including some judicial officers, have resigned under fire in recent months and the state now is investigating charges that Magistrate George F. Ewald, now resigned, paid $10,000 for his appointment in 1927.

Many complaints of other alleged irregularities in magistrates courts have been received by Attorney General Ward since he opened his inquiry into the Ewald case last week. However, Thomas Penny, Jr., his assistant, said today the attorney general would not ask for wider powers to enable him to investigate the complaints, many of which he said, are "hearsay and gossip."

ROLPH LEADING IN CALIFORNIA PRIMARY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A close contest for the republican nomination for governor, with Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, clinging to a sizeable lead over Governor C. C. Young, held principal interest tonight as returns from yesterday's primary neared completion.

Returns from 9,089 precincts out of the state's 10,283 gave Rolph 344,214, Young 316,371, and Buron Fitts, Los Angeles district attorney, 260025. Early today Rolph had a lead of about 40,000 over Young, which was whittled down nearly to 20,000 at midday. On additional returns later San Francisco's picturesque mayor virtually regained the earlier loss.

AUTOS IN COLLISION ON BERLIN TURNPIKE

MERIDEN, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Two persons were injured this afternoon in a head-on collision on the Berlin turnpike. A New Britain car in which Deputy Sheriff Martin W. Horwitz and Attorney Harry Ginsberg, chairman of the republican town committee, were passengers, was struck by a New York car as the latter cut out of line. A woman whom Mr. Ginsberg said was Mary Jones, of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, was rendered unconscious and later taken to a Hartford hospital, he said. Horwitz was painfully injured but Ginsberg was able to continue on to Meriden.

BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER SAND LADEN TRUCK

PORTLAND, Conn., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Thomas Graham, 6, was crushed to death underneath a sand laden five-ton truck today while playing with several other boys near his home.

Irving E. Ingraham, 31, driver of the truck, was ordered held in $1,500 bonds by Coroner L. A. Smith, on a charge of homicide with a motor vehicle. He is employed by the Butler Sand and Gravel company, of this town.

Witnesses said the boy ran from the sidewalk directly in the pathway of the truck.

Two Fatalities At Chicago Air Meet

[illegible] and Spectator Killed When Plane Crashed While Going 125 Miles an Hour.

CURTISS-REYNOLDS AIRPORT, Chicago, Aug. 27.—(AP) —A racing navy plane, drumming a thunder of speed, plunged its pilot to flaming death, killed an onlooker, and jeopardized the lives of horror-stricken hundreds of spectators at the national air races today.

The dead are Lieut. J. P. Deshazo, of Montevallo, Alabama, and Louis Weiner, a Chicago concessionaire. Seven spectators were injured, none seriously.

Turning the last pylon with 16 navy planes in a 50-mile speed race, Deshazo's plane, hurtling 125 miles an hour, veered crazily as the flier attempted a barrel roll, crashed and burst into flames. He was 100 feet from the ground, and the plane fell a short distance from the south bleachers.

Weiner was struck by the plane which dropped in front of his concession stand. Most of the injured were struck by flying missiles when the gasoline tank of the plane exploded. Others were splattered with burning oil.

As the roar of speed changed to a requiem of death, the bleacher spectators scrambled in terrified haste from the stands. Many leaped to safety under the falling shadow of the plane. J. R. McCory, of Chicago, and his wife fell to their knees as the racer swooped down over them and crashed twenty feet away. They were burned by the shower of hot oil.

It will never be known, but many aviators believed Deshazo went to his death because he maneuvered his plane to prevent striking the bleachers head-on and causing a tragedy of major proportions.

His comrades, took to the air in formation after the crash, with a blank file between the dipping ships, in a gesture of farewell. Silent crowds read in the act a tribute to heroic action.

Deshazo was one of the best known stunt fliers of the navy. He was a member of the 1929 battle fleet stunting trio and again this year was a member of a navy team known as the "Unholy Three."

A parachute saved his life in September, 1929, when his plane failed him on the coast.

There have been two other accidents at this year's races, but today saw the first fatalities.

After the charred remnants of Deshazo's plane were carted away, the races went on with all their usual flashing speed.

BLUENOSE TO COMPETE WITH GLOUCESTER SHIPS

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Capt. Angus J. Walters, who arrived here today, announced that the international championship schooner "Bluenose" will compete this fall with her rivals from Gloucester, Mass.

He said he had been in touch with the Gloucester committee arranging for races in connection with the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers and arrangements had been completed for a series of three races off that port in October. They will be exhibition races for the Sir Thomas Lipton cup.

The contests will be held Oct. 9, 11, and 13. It is expected the opponent of the Bluenose will be the Gertrude Thebamaud, a new contender for championship honors. Cap. Walters said he expected there would be a race off Halifax later in the season for the international championship, now held by the Bluenose.

STILL SEARCHING FOR LITTLE KENNETH SWANSON

COLEBROOK, Aug. 27.—(AP)— The heavily wooded rolling hills and marshes of Litchfield county today again closely guarded any secrets that may hide of the fate of Kenneth Swanson, two and a half year old Barre, Vt., youngster who vanished from his grandfather's farm here Sunday noon and has not been seen since.

Police and an army of volunteer searchers, numbering more than 300, returned with darkness tonight only to report utter failure in their fourth day's determined effort to wrest some clue to the boy's whereabouts from silent woods and hills.

Seventy-five New Haven Boy Scouts came from their camp on Lake Wonksunkmonk today to join state and Winsted police and the villagers in the hunt, but their efforts too were unavailing.

RESIGNS AS GOVERNOR OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

In Accepting the Resignation of Roy A. Young, President Hoover Paid a High Tribute to His Service—Mr. Young is to Accept the More Remunerative Position of Governor of the Federal Bank of Boston.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Roy A. Young, governor of the federal reserve board for the last three years, has resigned to accept the more remunerative position of governor of the federal reserve bank of Boston.

In accepting the resignation, effective Sept. 1, President Hoover said today he realized Mr. Young had made a great sacrifice by remaining on the board, paid high tribute to his service, and added it would be difficult to find a successor.

The governor submitted his resignation yesterday. In his letter to the president he said he had been considering for some time acceptance of a higher salaried position in the private banking world, but had postponed resigning while the nation's credit conditions were disturbed.

"Now, however," he said, "it is clearly evident that the credit structure of the country is in an easy and exceptionally strong position."

Governor Young will leave a position paying $12,000 a year to accept at least twice that salary. He will fill the vacancy at Boston caused by the death last April of P. G. Harding, who also was governor of the reserve board before going to the Boston institution.

Although only 48 years old Young has had a distinguished career in the financial world. He was born at Marquette, Michigan, and at the age of 37 was governor of the federal reserve bank at Minneapolis.

COLCHESTER

WOMEN AFTER SCRIMMAGE GET LIGHT FINE AND WARNING

One of the liveliest court sessions in Colchester in many years was held Tuesday evening in the Hayward fire house when two cases were disposed of by Judge Charles F. Brown and prosecutor John M. Riley, before a crowded gallery. Three summer boarders at the Berman farm, formerly the Patten place on the Parum road, who were arrested about noon-time Tuesday, on a breach of peace charge by Constable Rogers, after the trio, Mrs. Eva Stronfeld, Miss Esther Stein and her sister, Mrs. Mollie Kirtsman, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., had engaged in a free-for-all fight in the kitchen of the Berman home. The trouble started with an argument between the Stronfeld and Stein women. They soon came to blows and Mrs. Stein's sister, Mrs. Kirtsman joined them. As the three were rolling about on the floor, kicking and punching one another, Mrs. Kirtsman's husband arrived and attempted to act as peacemaker. In so doing he was likewise knocked about over the floor by the excited women. Mrs. Berman entered in the meantime and pleaded with them to stop but to no avail. During the melee, a young son of one of the women gladiators came in with two rocks which he threw at Mr. Kirtsman who was said to be kicking the boy's mother. A milk can cover was one of the weapons used by the half-crazed women and when cross-examined by Prosecutor Riley Mrs. Kirtsman, an elderly woman, submitted a large handful of hair which she said Mrs. Stronfeld, a buxom young matron, had pulled from her head. Mrs. Kirtsman pulled her hair aside to display the large bare spot from which the hair had been removed. All three of the women as well as Mr. Kirtsman claimed serious bruises and wounds from the fight, but when questioned by Judge Brown they all stated that they had not yet secured medical attention as they wished to go to the hospital in Brooklyn for treatment.

The stories told by the different accused were somewhat conflicting and it was with considerable difficulty that the women were prevented from renewing their hair-pulling tactics during the court session. Constables Rogers and Foote were called on to quiet the spectators and protect those who were testifying from the interference of the excited defendants. After listening patiently to the evidence which consumed over an hour Judge Brown declared all three women equally guilty of breach of the peace and fined each $1 and costs, a total of $12 apiece, which was paid. In imposing the fine, the judge warned the women that the next offense would bring a stiffer fine. He also praised Mr. Kirtsman for his commendable act in entering the fray to help his feeble wife, in spite of which he received a bad beating from the half-crazed women as they tumbled him about the kitchen floor. He modestly partially disrobed to exhibit his injuries to the court and although the feminine accused offered to do likewise, Judge Brown dryly remarked that the court would not require such a procedure.

The second case of the evening was that of State vs. the New London-Mohegan Dairy Co. of New London and Mrs. Rebecca Eidleman, of Hartford. The hearing was the aftermath of an accident on Keeney's flats on the New London-Colchester road, Sunday morning, when a new Dodge sedan, Conn. No. 125034, owned and driven by Mrs. Eidleman collided with the Mohegan Dairy milk truck, operated by Aaron Shapiro, of New London. Both cars were headed south and the Hartford machine is said to have crowded the truck off the road in attempting to pass. The machines were damaged considerably. Constables Rogers and State Trooper W. E. McKenzie were the arresting officers. Attorney Morris Lubchansky, of New London, was counsel for the Dairy Co., and Attorney George Cutler, of Hartford, defended the Hartford driver. Judge Brown nolled the charge of failure to grant the right of way against the New London firm and nolled the similar charge against the Hartford party, on payment of costs of $11.9[illegible]

VISITOR FROM BUFFALO CHAMPION CORN EATER

A young fellow named Horace Cann came from Buffalo to see his cousin, Walter Willis, for a short visit and sure enjoyed the salt water and the swimming. Young Willis has a garden and raises some nice sweet corn. His cousin came from a place where sweet corn never was heard of; but he liked it, all right. Smiling Willis went out in his garden and picked 38 ears of corn for dinner. The cook put on the water, meaning to give the stranger a real treat of corn. Meanwhile Young Cann said, "I bet you I can put away 30 ears!" Walter gave out a war cry and said, "Get the bird cage, Mother" putting up $10 that it couldn't be done. His money was covered quick like a horse race and a real eating contest started. Dinner was ready and the battle was on. The corn was piled high like cord wood. Taking his time Horace grabbed the Spring ave. corn. One by one he was putting the ears away. The corn raiser sat at his left, looking at the big shot from the city eat the corn. He could see his 10-spot going fast for the city sheik was on his 25th ear, with only five more to go. Gee! How he could eat corn! When his cousin Willis saw him pick up ear No 30 and start gnawing it, Walter got up from the table and gave the money to him and said with a feeble smile, "What kind of a stomach have you? Must be cement or cast iron!" Happy, Mr. Cann put away 31 ears in 50 minutes and for good luck drank a bottle of Moxie. He is the champion corn eater of Noank and will take on all comers for fun money, marbles or a steamboat to a doughnut. The thing he needs is a corn field, if he keeps on eating that way. He claims never did he taste such corn so sweet. "I could eat it until the cows come home!" If a corn eating race takes place it will have to be done in the next week for corn is going by. Walter Willis is his manager.

Farmer Willis has the honor in raising the longest ear of corn in this part of North America; it was 15 inches long—almost made a cane for him. He had it on exhibition for a few days then he gave it to a party that was going back to Canada, to show how long corn grows in Connecticut. He could have sold it for $2 but had rather keep it until a party came along that wanted it and was some pleased to receive the big ear. Hundreds came and viewed his corn garden that has been the talk of the village for a long while. It is Willis' hobby raising corn. He sure likes it great. Some day he will be champion corn-raiser of Connecticut.

As the day was hot while they were sitting under a tree, Horace and Walter thought they would take a swim to cool off. So over to Crane's dock they went to enjoy an afternoon's swim. Reaching the dock it was the first time the city fellow from Buffalo saw that part of Noank.

Smiling Cann said he could stay under water for two minutes but Corn-raiser Willis would not believe him. Overboard both went and under water Horace went to stay under the two minutes and Leon Harris happened to be there so he kept time on the city fellow and the watch read four minutes and he was still under. He came on top of the water in six minutes. "Gee! You have some wind!" "There is a trick in that. I learned it when I was in the navy from a fellow who came from Japan. When you are under water keep blowing and you will still have wind left! That is the trick!"

Both swimmers enjoyed the afternoon and got cooled off and Leon Harris told him he was ready for the next corn race.

JEWETT CITY

SETTING NEW LIGHT POLE SETS TONGUES TO WAGGING

As a part of the necessary preparation for the establishment of the proposed new white way on Main street, the borough linemen erected a 25-foot pole in the sidewalk in front of the residence of a man and his wife. The man said it was fine, couldn't be helped, and he wanted to get the tree trimmed anyway as it overhung the street. The woman decided it was perfectly all right, as it is to be painted green, thus matching the foliage as well as the color scheme of her kitchen decorations. During the first hour five women and 11 men were reckoned among the passers-by. The first man got off the Providence bus. A little unsteady on his pins, the pole was the first support in sight, and he hugged it like a long-lost brother. The next, a woman, patted the pole, looked up to see how high it was, and passed on. The next man struck a match on it, lighted his pipe, and seemed glad it was there. No. 4 kicked it, remarking, "Why the H— didn't they get some iron ones?" No. 5 informed the house owner that it took $1,000 from the value of his property. The second woman declared it a case for "suit against the town." A man allowed that they were certainly doing things now-a-days. The next woman, almost in tears, told the lady of the house, "I wouldn't let 'em put up no such great stick in front of me!" Man No. 6 ejaculated, "Well, we suttinly got to come tew it!" Gent No. 7 cussed the borough, the men who put up the pole and everything else in sight. The fifth woman simply said, "Oh, my!" Two men, passing together, thought it was O. K. and in line with the many other local improvements. The last man said it was all right if it didn't fall over and kill somebody. Then came a boy who tried to shin it. When up about six feet he got a sliver in his leg and gave it up. During the hour seven dogs passed by, all of which seemed to be of the same opinion.

MISS ALBERTINE RECEIVES HOSPITAL TREATMENT

Her mother, who was at the hospital, could be given no definite promises from the surgeon as to what the final results would be.

Over 2,000 Tons of Steel Used

With the swinging into place of the last of the 70-foot girders at the Tadpole state bridge, over 2,000 tons of steel have been used in the Quinebaug and Tadpole bridges, which includes the new overhead at the railroad. The Boston Bridge Co. brought their own derrick on their own car which by a system of cogs was able to move on the railroad tracks independent of a locomotive. The ten odd thousand tie bolts to be used at Tadpole are to be handled by two expert riveters from Boston, who are classed as suspension acrobats.

The big German seaplane, en route from Halifax to New York, passed over the borough shortly after noon Tuesday. Many who saw it could easily make out the two long pontoons swinging underneath. The Southern Cross, a few weeks ago, on the same air line voyage, also passed directly over Jewett City. One local sky gazer Tuesday, when he saw no landing gear on the German plane, didn't see how the pilot dared the overland trip, forgetting for the moment that there was Tadpole pond.

Contractor E. E. Gilbert and the M. A. Gammino Co., are putting in over 10,000 square feet of granolithic sidewalk along the new state highway. About half this amount is replacement work, done by the state where the change of grades made the removal of the old walks necessary. In the work being now done by J. H. Tracy, A. A. Young, Jr., John Fitzgerald and E. H. Hiscox, the cement will replace gravel and is completed at the expense of the property owners.

Loaning Engine Humane

If any criticized Warden E. J. Jodoin in allowing the big Jewett City pumper to go to Plainfield Tuesday to give aid during a threatening fire his policy was as sound as it was humane. The borough fire department has in commission a chemical truck which, with the hose it carries and the 125-pound hydrant pressure, is efficient in any ordinary blaze. The action of the warden and local firemen is in accordance with the lend-a-hand policy once so finely expressed here by Howard L. Stanton, former Norwich chief. During an address in Jewett City, before the freemen and firemen, he said and promised that in case of a fire in the borough which seemed to be getting the upper hand, he stood ready to have an engine here in 20 minutes. That would be accompanied by a company of smoke-eaters ready to go anywhere at any time to lend a hand. Jewett City firemen, who believed every word the Norwich chief said, are rated, from chief to pipemen, in just that lend-a-hand class.

TARIFF COMMISSION WORK

In about three weeks the federal tariff commission will get busy with the task of digging into those tariff duties which the senate asked to have investigated. The makeup of the commission has not as yet been completed, President Hoover having appointed thus far only Chairman Fletcher and Thomas W. Page, a widely known economist and a former commission member. Other reappointments and possibly some new appointments are anticipated.

It is fully understood that it is no path of roses that is faced by the tariff commission. It must go carefully into all rates over which there is a protest and where it is believed an injustice exists, get all the details bearing upon the article and make their recommendations in keeping with their authority. In all the cases a division of opinion can be expected from those who appear before the board, and it is perfectly evident that they are going to encounter plenty of instances where opinions will differ over what action should be taken.

Nevertheless, with the commission authorizing the investigation of 35 articles and getting busy on a job which will require much time but which should be finished as quickly as possible, it is proceeding before the full board is known and before the senate has acted upon the nominations. There is evidence, however, that they are alive to their duties and it is to be hoped that the commission will be able to show that it is a real asset in connection with tariff-making.

The president has stressed the importance of the flexible tariff. It was one of the things he asked of congress. He believes that through the work of the tariff commission and the facts that it is able to bring out that it will be possible to make such alterations in the tariff as to overcome any real injustices that exist and to correct any mistakes that have been made. Furthermore, it will make it possible to keep the tariff in accord with changed conditions. Thus, even though the commission has not been confirmed, it is entirely possible that it will make such a record in tariff work before congress assembles that confirmation will be a foregone conclusion.

A NEEDED PREVENTIVE

Charges that were made against Captain Brooks of the steamer Fairfax which struck and sunk the tanker Pinthis have not been proved. It was only possible to get the story from those on the Fairfax, inasmuch as all on the Pinthis were lost, but inasmuch as the charges have not been supported by evidence the responsibility for the collision will have to be blamed upon the fog.

Now that it has been decided that the captain of the Fairfax was not negligent and was not sending his ship along at too rapid a rate, considering the conditions, it is time to see what can be done about the prevention of other collisions and sinking of the same character.

Here was a case where north and south-bound steamship traffic along the Massachusetts coast was using the same lane. Under favorable conditions there would be no danger in such a practice, but when fog blankets the coast and makes it impossible to see any great distance ahead, the collision of the two ships makes it evident that there is real danger involved. That being so recognized, the importance of establishing separate lanes for traffic in the different directions deserves consideration. Whether anyone was to blame for the collision, there is nothing to stand in the way of taking preventive measures that will eliminate the probability of such a crash being repeated.

It is unfortunate that the collision had to occur, costing the lives of 50 persons and the loss of the tanker, before the necessity of taking preventive action was realized. But, that being the case, no more time should be required now before establishing new regulations, separating the vessels going in opposite directions and giving a greater degree of certainty that navigation along the Massachusetts coast can be maintained during heavy fog without causing vessels to crash.

Coastwise traffic during the fog faces many uncertainties. They are big and bad enough without having ships going in the opposite direction use the same channel when there is plenty of opportunity for keeping them widely separated.

POUGHKEEPSIE'S NEW BRIDGE

Poughkeepsie has been greatly elated this week, and justly so, over the opening of the new highway bridge across the Hudson at that city. It is a structure costing nearly $6,000,000, built by the state and of sufficient importance, in the belief of the Poughkeepsie Evening Star, for a special edition highly creditable both to the city and the paper.

This new bridge provides a quicker means of crossing the Hudson than by ferry and it has come in response to the growing demand for better facilities. Strange as it may seem, this has been erected at the point where the ferryboat Governor Winthrop, which was put out of business between New London and Groton, had been in commission for a number of years.

New bridges at points where great engineering tasks are involved are rapidly increasing in number in response to the ever-increasing highway traffic. Those in motor vehicles do not take kindly to delays. They want to be on their way and they are cognizant of the fact that bridges are of great assistance to them and that the tolls are invariably in keeping with the accommodation.

The new Hudson bridge is a toll structure, but Chairman Troy of the Dutchess County Automobile club is already out with a statement to the effect that the toll charge of 80 cents per car with driver and ten cents additional for each passenger is too high. He believes that it will prevent as great a use of the bridge as would be the case with a lower toll.

That the state of New York should seek to get the cost of construction from the users of it is in keeping with the policy adopted by other states in regard to such structures. It has been done so often that the motorists are getting used to it, and if only enough traffic can be enticed it doesn't take long to collect the construction cost. But bridges must be had and it is certain that they would not exist in many places except that reimbursement for the expense was gained through tolls.

MANDATED RESPONSIBILITIES

It is not a pleasant or an easy task that confronts a country taking a mandate to govern new territory, and especially is that true when there are factions therein which are constantly causing trouble.

Under such conditions it means the controlling country must govern with a firm hand and must be alert to prevent all possible friction or keep it at a low ebb. This country knew full well what it was doing when it refused to take a mandate in the near east. The British have come to understand what it means, if they did not know in advance.

The mandate commission of the league of nations has been wrestling with the situation in Palestine, where the British are in control but where a serious clash occurred between the Arabs and the Jews, and it makes known in its findings that the British are not without blame. The commission doesn't find that the British actually fomented the trouble, but it attaches blame to the fact that they did not give heed to the impending trouble in time to prevent it.

No one will maintain that the situation there was such that adjustment was the easiest thing. As a matter of fact, the situation was a difficult one, but that fact was one reason for devoting all possible attention to finding the right way out of it. Even the British know that the demands of the respective sides were such as to make adjustments hard but that didn't justify ignoring them to such an extent that they were taken by surprise at the outbreak. It should have been possible for the warning conditions to have so placed the British on their guard that they would have recognized the growth of ill feeling and the preparations for the outbreak.

It was, perhaps, a situation that could be better understood on looking backward than could be seen ahead, but it all serves to illustrate the burdens that go with holding a mandate.

ON WASHINGTON'S ANNIVERSARY

As you may have realized, Feb. 22, 1932, will mark the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. It is an unusual anniversary of one of the great men of this country which is bound to be observed by an extraordinary celebration, a celebration which may by no means be confined to the particular day.

Already certain plans are well underway for a special memorial on the occasion and it is the suggestion of the American Tree association that 10,000,000 trees be planted in Washington's honor. That will not be a very difficult job, but it would be an excellent method of giving recognition to the bicentennial of his birth.

Aside from suggesting the setting out of such trees, the association believes that the work should be carried on at such times as are fitting for tree planting. It understands that in a large part of the country there would be slight opportunity for setting out trees on the 22nd of February in any year. It would be possible to do this tree planting in anticipation of the anniversary and have the worthy memorial completed by the time the 200th anniversary arrives and that is what the association is recommending, which means that the various sections of the country would select the most favorable period for such work.

There isn't a city but what could participate in such a programme with keen interest. The desirability of having Washington elms, or other trees, as memorials should result in a general response to the appeal, even to refusing to stop when the 10,000,000 trees have been planted.

A BLUE HORSE AND BUGGY.

"Marry a man from the country? I'd just as soon drive a blue horse and buggy down the boulevard," Ogda stuffed a felt hat with tissue paper and put it into the hat box she was in the process of packing.

"Oh, Ogda, I can see the headlines now," said Mary, leaning back on the lounge. "'Ogda Mills Marries Country Youth. Lad from the farm at last wins heart of the most popular member of Chicago's younger set.'"

"Not while the sun shines in the sky," Ogda gave the contents of her suitcase a vicious punch. "It's too horrible even to talk about. And anyway, I think you might say something to cheer me up on an occasion like this."

Ogda's Aunt Berta, who lived on a farm, periodically pressed her city relatives with invitations to enjoy the blessings of the outdoors with her.

"And just because I am the youngest they always make me go," Ogda protested. This summer the biennial invitation from "Longacre" had been issued. All probable excuses were tendered and found wanting, so Ogda again became the unwilling sacrifice.

It was the morning of her departure and Mary was helping her pack.

"Poor dear Ogda is going to the country," she teased, her black eyes dancing. "she's going to get big and healthy on fresh milk and eggs, and then she's going to fall in love with a nice, rosy country lad."

"Be quiet, Mary. I don't think you're a bit funny. Here I am having to go off to that forsaken place where there's nothing more amusing than crickets and cross-eyed cows—just to save the family name, and instead of sympathizing with me you just rub it in. Judas, you failed me in my hour of trouble," she ended with a dramatic flourish that she never could quite resist.

"Well, you know I haven't that deeper understanding you crave, because I'm crazy about the cows and crickets. I'd even like to try to milk a cow. I bet I could, too. You see—" Mary, who also had her dramatic moments, had slipped off the lounge and was enacting the rural scene. "I'd get one of the strong farmer boys to hold her tail while I, the blushing milkhand, approached with my milk stool—I've seen them in the opera.

"Presently I would tell the stalwart lad to release the tail so the cow could again start chasing flies and I would return to the house while he longingly watched my little blue frock grow dim in the distance. Isn't that a perfectly lovely picture?"

"Oh, Mary, I'll go out to Aunt Berta's and sit and talk to her for three weeks and then, the family name vindicated, come back to civilization. Picture me chatting merrily about the crops and Guernsey chickens or pigs or whatever they are. It's sickening!"

"Yes, but little Ogda won't think so when a fine buxom backbone of our country makes her fall for him."

That was all last June and now the two girls are again together.

"Anyway, it is funny, Ogda. I don't mean to rub it in, but I can't help enjoying it. You know what you said: 'I don't care how ugly he is, just so he's from the city and a blond.' You must admit saying that a hundred times. And now Clint, the old cute thing, is not only from the country but he isn't even a blond.

"Well, his hair's sandy, anyhow." Ogda clutched at the outposts of truth. "And Mary, I didn't want to fall in love with Clint, but he's just so sweet, isn't he?

"You see, Aunt Berta had him over to dinner so I couldn't help meeting him, and then, oh, I don't know, but the country began to seem sort of different. He wanted to work in the city and then all of a sudden I wanted—but I'm not going to tell you."

"Ogda Mills, you haven't a secret from me?"

"Yep, and I'm going to keep it."

"Why, Ogda, we've always shared secrets."

"You'd laugh."

"I'll promise not to."

"Well, I've persuaded Clint to buy a farm and we're going to live on it."

"Ogda, what did I tell you—a buxom youth hath his way. Time to drive the blue horse and buggy down the boulevard.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

THE MODERN CONCEPTION OF BILIOUSNESS

By Douglas VanderHoof, M.D., Richmond, Virginia.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Strange as it may seem, practically no mention is made of the word "biliousness" in any of the modern text books on medicine.

What, then, is biliousness? Is it a disease and is it associated in some way with disturbed liver function?

Biliousness is not a disease, it has no essential connection with the liver or bile ducts, but is a term used by the sick individual to describe a group of symptoms characterized chiefly by headache, dizziness, coated tongue, "indigestion" with or without vomiting of bile, constipation and general malaise.

In the majority of cases, the person who feels "bilious" is suffering from a toxemia, or poisoning, which may be a transient phenomenon or a chronic state. The boy who smokes his first cigar presents a typical picture of very acute biliousness but we call it nicotine poisoning. Chronic focal infections in various parts of the body, such as about the roots of the teeth, in the tonsils and nasal sinuses, in the lungs, gall-bladder or kidneys, give rise to toxic absorption that frequently masquerades under the term "biliousness". Local ear affections, with disturbance of the equilibrium sense in the semicircular canals cause a good deal of dizziness which is often misinterpreted. A seasick individual looks and feels extremely "bilious" but we now know that the motions of the ship have affected the sensitive equilibrium apparatus in the internal ears with most unpleasant consequences. Sufferers from migraine often attribute their periodic sick headaches to biliousness. Chronic infectious diseases, such as tuberculosis and syphilis, give rise to various toxic symptoms and are not infrequently treated for supposed hepatic insufficiency until proper examination by the family physician reveals the true nature of the malady.

Modern research has demonstrated that the liver is not primarily concerned with the regular action of the bowels and has also shown that purgative drugs have very little effect upon the liver. Laxatives and cathartics have a very proper place in medicine, not as the "liver pills" or "liver tonics" of the patent medicine advertisements, but as intestinal irritants that compel the bowels to evacuate their contents.

A great variety of conditions, ranging from nervous headaches to cancer of the stomach, will be complacently considered as "biliousness" by many gullible people but eventually it will become generally understood that the person who complains of "biliousness" has a condition which requires proper examinations and study by the family physician, and that ninety-nine times out of one hundred the cause of the symptoms will be found in some part of the body other than the liver.

BAYER

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—The fuss stirred up by former President Coolidge's published remarks about lack of adequate American-built motors for Zeppelin type aircraft serves to recall the very special interest he always seemed to take as president in aviation developments.

Not that he posed as being technically informed on the subject. It seemed rather that he had a degree of "air-mindedness," as the saying goes.

Air Report

In the midst of the aviation controversy that raged about the devoted head of "Colonel" Billy Mitchell and incidentally, served to pry Dwight Morrow out of the bank business eventually to get him into politics, a curious "report" on aviation cropped up at the white house.

It indicated that some sort of a study had been made with which the army, navy and commerce department air sharps had little to do.

Ultimately word got about that the late General Lord, then budget director, had prepared it.

That was about the time thoughts of requiring the army and navy to work out programs of progressively reduced annual budgets for the fighting services were circulating in budget circles.

The aviation paper finally got to the public under white house auspices at any rate. What its influence, if any might have been on subsequent events is not clear.

The Morrow aviation board was named by the president during that period to still the Mitchell row, and the five year air expansion programs for army and navy followed.

Expensive, Too

If Mr. Coolidge at one time hoped to cut national defense costs by depending more heavily on the air arms, probably he got over that feeling as time went along. Aviation defense also is costly.

But the Bystander always noted in Mr. Coolidge an odd interest in aviation although he has never been in the air so far as can be recalled.

It showed on occasions like welcoming home the army world flyers, greeting the Los Angeles on its arrival from Germany or the many other times that called President Coolidge to air fields. He would pry and poke about available aircraft in a boyishly interested way.

There were many who believed—and still believe—that aviation had taken a special grip on the Coolidge imagination. It was like his dressing up in cowboy outfit and his unexpected knack with a shot gun.

Anyhow, there has been little until recently to encourage American development of gas-bag aviation.

The army dropped big dirigibles in Secretary Weeks' time.

The navy never built one before except the ill-fated Shenandoah.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

THE WATERBURY PAPER BOX CO., WATERBURY

The Waterbury Paper Box company is an outgrowth of the old R. E. Hitchcock company and A. C. Northrop company founded in 1875. In 1901 the present company was formed by Harry H. Heminway and Wm. H. Beers and moved into a new brick building on South Leonard street, Waterbury.

Since that time the company has shown a steady growth, two additions having been made to the original building and the force increased to about 300. The products manufactured include powder and perfume boxes for the cosmetic industry, silverware and cutlery boxes, brush, comb and mirror sets and Stokes & Smith machine box for hardware, silk, etc.

Sensing the fact that the package helps to sell the merchandise, a designing department has been inaugurated which is constantly working on new packing ideas. Branch sales offices are now maintained in Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit, San Francisco and New York. An offshoot of the business is The Heminway Press which has grown to be one of the leading printers of Connecticut. Catalogs, colored folders, direct mail advertising are the specialties handled by this concern.

The present officers are: Harry H. Heminway, president; Merrit Heminway, vice-president; Bartow L. Heminway, secretary and treasurer.

Stories That Recall Others

Real Lump

It was the day after the family picnic, with its usual array of tempting viands and father was not feeling too well.

"I know I shouldn't have eaten that potato salad," he regretted. "It feels just like a rock in my stomach.

"No, daddy," spoke up little Jean, "I don't think it was the potato salad. It must have been the brick ice cream."

Sisterly

Freddy had been at camp almost two weeks when the family went to visit him. The first thing his little sister offered by way of greeting him was, "Well, have you learned any manners yet."

All married men are great inventors of excuses.

PLAYGROUND CHILDREN HELD ANNUAL OUTING

Nearly 1,700 children and adults participated in the annual playground outing held at Ocean beach. A line of 30 buses, trucks and private cars moved from the starting point at Burnham square at 10 o'clock and proceeded slowly through the city streets, which were startled by the sustained cheers and shouts of the various playground delegations. The crowd arrived at the beach at 11 o'clock.

The Rotary club boys' band accompanied the children, and while the nine different playground units were assembled near the Elk's home, rendered several selections. The local police, together with several members of the Elks, including Selectman William S. Murray, aided Chairman William J. Fitzgerald of the commission in preserving order during the process of organization.

The police on duty at the Elks home included Sergeant Myron O. Morgan, and Officers John Carroll, Edward Burns and Clifford Crary.

Several members of the state police from the Groton barracks rode ahead of the fleet of buses and escorted them to the outskirts of New London where they were relieved by the New London police who gave the Norwich party the right of way to the beach.

Bathhouses had been previously engaged by Chairman Fitzgerald and upon the arrival at the beach were soon filled to capacity. During the early part of the day aquatic sports were indulged in and were supervised by Instructor John Greene and the several beach life guards.

At two o'clock the Rotary band which had returned from a visit to Seaside sanatorium at Niantic, rendered another pleasing concert for an hour, after which the trophies and pennants donated annually by local citizens were presented to the play leaders who led their charges successfully in the various athletic fields of endeavor. Chairman Fitzgerald made the presentation address, in which he reminded the children of their duty of gratitude and love for the city of Norwich which had made the day's outing possible.

The trophies presented and playgrounds receiving them are as follows:

Waters trophy for swimming and diving, Lake street.

Shortly before the departure from the beach of the Norwich visitors 1,500 packages of pop corn were distributed among the children, which served as an attraction to them for a prompt return to their buses. The fleet of cars left the beach at 5:30 o'clock and arrived in the city at 6:30 o'clock without an accident to mar the day's pleasure. Two of the town school nurses and a physician from Uncas-on-Thames were present at the outing in case of emergency.

GAVE REMARKABLE EXHIBITION OF MEMORY

What a little concentration and association of ideas can do to improve the memory was graphically demonstrated by Charles D. Harris, of New York city, at the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. In illustrating how, if one applies oneself, one can remember faces and names, Mr. Harris, after meeting the members of the club individually before the meeting, called each man by name and in some cases mentioned his business. To further demonstrate his idea Mr. Harris turned his back to his audience and then called each name and told where each was seated at the various tables.

Another demonstration of memory was the assigning of numbers to the members of the club and telling each to travel from one city in the United States to another. Then as the numbers were called again he correctly told each where he was bound. In concluding his demonstration he rapidly recalled the names of the leading hotels in cities that were named by the Rotarians.

At the business session of the meeting Dr. R. R. Agnew presided and Eben Learned was the song leader. Only matters of a routine nature were discussed.

LOCAL POLICE ON WATCH FOR GUNMEN

Word was received Wednesday evening by Capt. Thomas Murphy of the local police from the Groton barracks that two men riding in a New York machine, Reg. No. V19, held up a man in Watertown, Conn. According to an Associated Press dispatch from Waterbury, the man held up was Paul Judd, a vegetable and fruit peddler from Wallingford. He was robbed of his day's collections, amounting to $65, at the point of a gun.

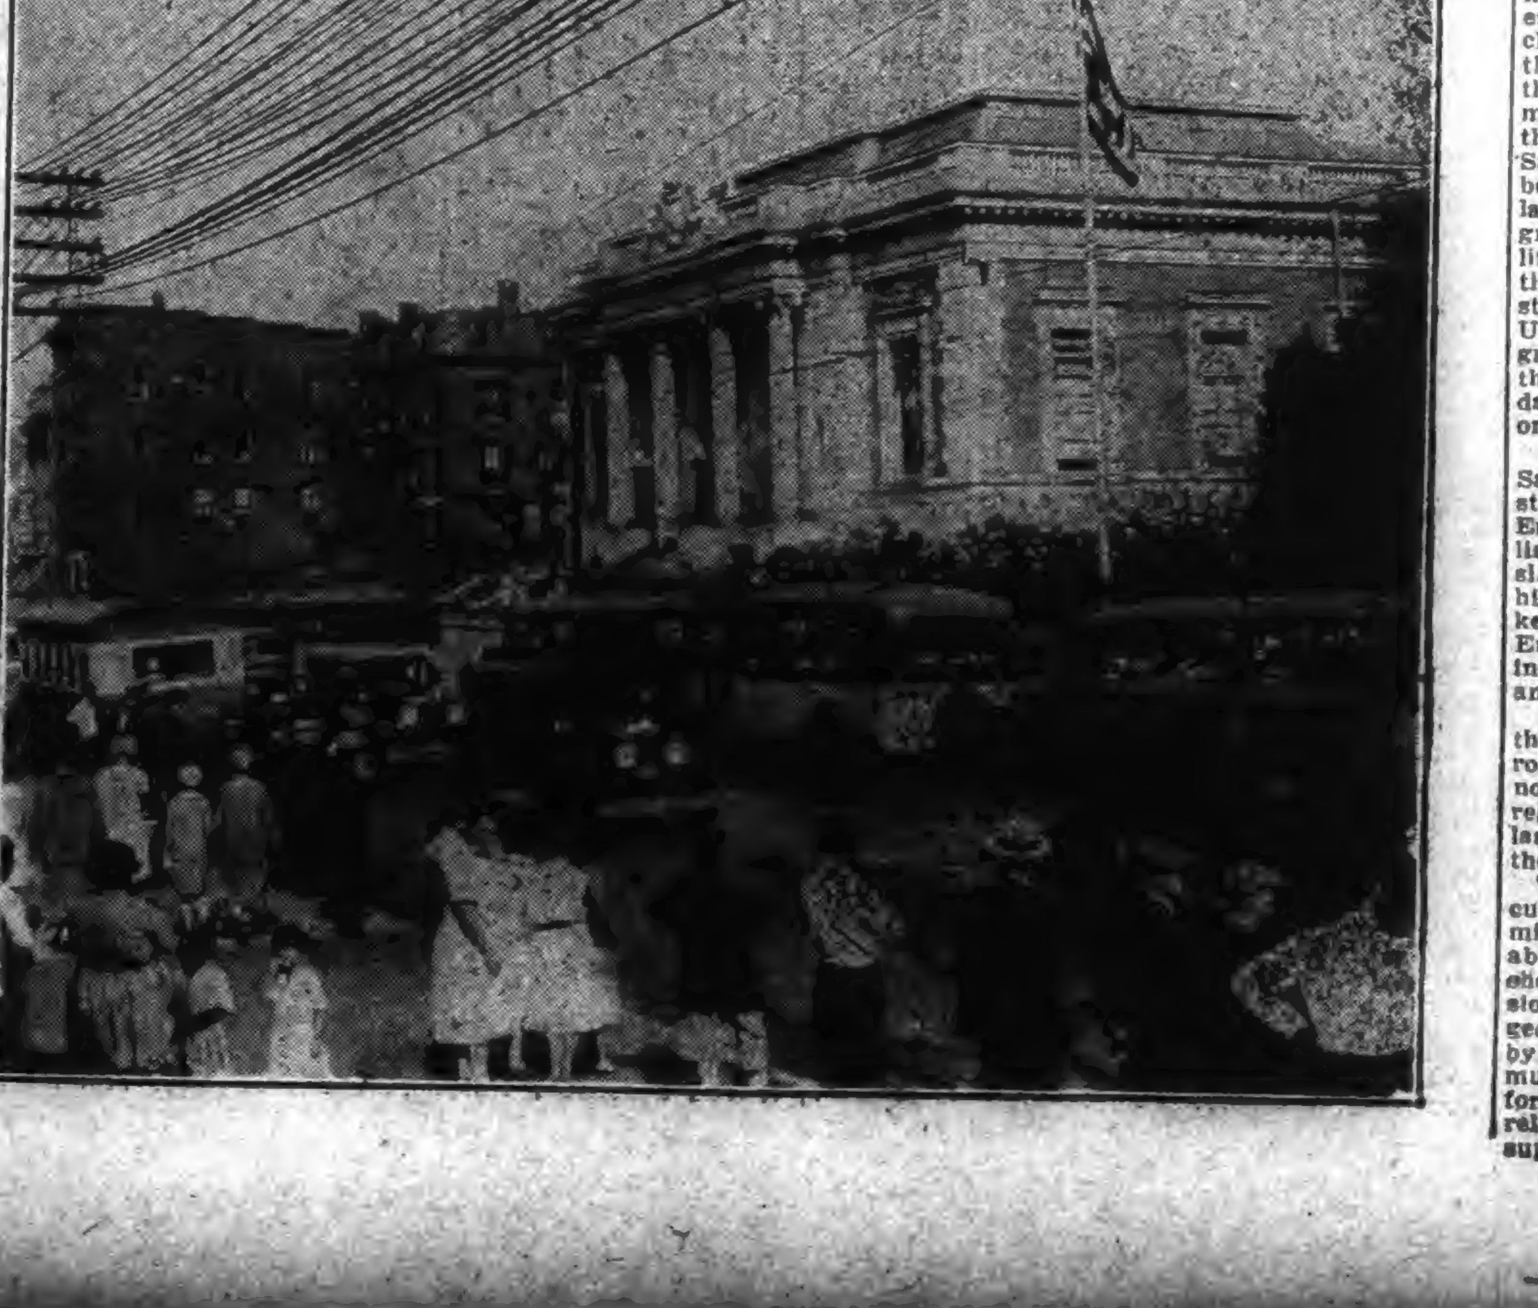
PLAYGROUND CHILDREN ASSEMBLING FOR OCEAN BEACH OUTING



GIRLS TO HOLD FINAL CAMP MEETING FRIDAY

As was previously announced last week during a business meeting of the Girl Scouts at Camp Sacajawea, Mohegan park, plans were made for an outing to Ocean Beach on Thursday. At 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning the girls met at the Auditorium hotel where they were divided into four groups, under the supervision of Miss Catherine Sullivan, Mrs. Frank Grieve, Miss Catherine Dutton and Miss Virginia Freeman. The girls boarded the Nelseco, equipped with bathing suits and basket lunches. At New London, a trolley was taken to the beach. Although the day was far from hot the Scouts lost no time in donning their suits and heading for the beach, where most of the day was spent. The trip home on the boat was equally as pleasant as the one down.

Tuesday of this week the usual camp schedule was followed and much time was taken to discuss the closing meeting of the camp to be held this week Friday, at Fort Shantok. The girls are to meet at the square at 3 o'clock from where they will take the 3:15 o'clock trolley to Fort Shantok. Each scout is to take a basket lunch and her share of marshmallows for a roast which will be held later. Various types of games have been planned and keen competition is foreseen, as there are to be prizes for the winners. Each of the four patrols will present a stunt or two. There has been considerable secrecy about the preparations for these presentations. At dusk a campfire meeting will be held when the songs which the girls have been learning will close the camp season. All Girl Scouts and their parents are expected to attend.

Mr. Bill started the library with a gift of $1,000 and 500 volumes.

Reporting on the finances of the association, the treasurer, Billings T. Avery of Ledyard, who has been serving in this capacity for the past 23 years, enumerated the resources, as follows: Funds in the bank, comprising the Henry Bill fund and the Billings T. Avery, Jr., memorial fund, and accumulated interest on stocks and bonds, $9,395.84; also 30 shares of New Haven railroad stock, one New London Gas and Electric bond and one Delaware & Hudson railroad bond. The expenditures for the year for books, magazines and other incidentals amounted to $709.30 and the income totaled $780.90, this coming from the town of Ledyard and from the library fund.

The meeting then proceeded to the choice of officers for the ensuing year, with the following result: President, William I. Allyn, Ledyard; first vice-president, Charles A. Gray, Ledyard; second vice-president, Joseph A. Clark, Ledyard; treasurer, Billings T. Avery, Ledyard; secretary, Frederick W. Burton, Ledyard; librarian, Mrs. Billings T. Avery, Ledyard.

Trustees: Messrs. Allyn, Avery, Gray, Clark and Burton, Everett Gallup, Earl B. Geer, Samuel E. Holdridge, Joseph E. Holdridge, Billings F. S. Crandall and Andrew M. Avery, all of Ledyard, Jacob Gallup and Charles S. Hewitt, both of Norwich, and Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City.

Executive committee: Messrs. Allyn, Avery, Gray, Clark and Burton, all of Ledyard.

Book committee: Messrs. Burton, Avery and Clark, all of Ledyard, Mrs. Frederick Bill of Groton and Mrs Kelly of Groton.

A resolution in memory of Rev. William F. White, late of Saybrook, who died during the year, was adopted by the trustees and a copy was ordered inscribed in the reports. The resolution was presented by Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City.

After the business session the gathering adjourned to the Ledyard Congregational church for the public exercises, which were opened by the president of the association, Mr. Allyn, who called upon Rev. Edward P. Kelly, the pastor, for the welcoming address. The prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Goodenough of Jewett City, former pastor of the church, after which two delightful vocal selections, My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice (from Samson and Delilah) by C. Saint-Saens and Caum as the Night by Carl Bohn, were rendered by Mrs. Edward Calvert, who later in the programme gave My Love of Londonderry (Old Londonderry Air) by Helen Knox.

Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, D.D., pastor of Park Congregational church, was the guest speaker of the day and gave an exceptionally interesting address, the gist of which was upon the backgrounds and traditions which inspired the founding of such an organization as the Bill Library association. He spoke as follows:

The people of Ledyard now in residence and those who formerly lived here with friends from far and wide welcome the opportunity afforded by the tradition of the Bill Library dinner to gather in this grove and renew old friendships recalling the past and bringing to mind the influences which have made our common inheritance worthful and significant.

We learn the value of the new by comparison with the old. Change is everywhere about us but there are the changeless factors of human instinct and capacity that work in all countries and in every environment. The influences that push us and the influences that lure us are more largely the same than at first appear.

The Township of Ledyard carries with it a past, much of which has been lost and forgotten never to be recovered. Bits of its history may be gathered up by dint of industry and interest. The Pequot Indians were in possession here when the spread of the early Massachusett settlers brought them into Eastern Connecticut 280 years ago. It was a Massachusetts Winthrop who brought the name of Groton and placed it here. It was about 1700 when the offspring of the early New London settlers came to largely possess these hills and forests. From the first growth of timber here many masts and spars were taken that went far and wide on merchant ships into the seven seas. From these one time stubborn acres came the food that sustained in childhood men and women who went out into the frontiers and extended the Anglo-Saxon mind to the Pacific ocean and beyond. The stamp of the New Englander has been not the least, but the greatest factor in the nation's creative life. Persons, not things, make a nation, and the Yankee personality is still the chief ingredient in the real United States. To a remarkable degree a great nation was incubated on the Atlantic sea-board during the days when Ledyard of historic memory knew its palmiest times.

The Anticedents here are Anglo-Saxon. The region is curiously and strikingly English. All its history is English. Its characteristics are English. The Yankee is an Anglo-Saxon slightly changed by the necessities of his new surroundings. But the Yankee has been always turning back to England for help and reinforcement in the development of our industries, and the nourishment of our culture.

In every Anglo-Saxon civilization the church has always been the taproot of vitality, and it is the natural, normal, and inevitable fact in this region that the centres of life and lasting influence are all found to be those that inhere in the church.

The Anglo-Saxon is not only incurably religious, he is also a determined thinker, he means to be reasonable, he seeks intelligence and he has shot the world through with the passion for truth. Not only is he in dogged pursuit of intelligence, he is beset by the conviction that religion itself must not stand in the way of his quest for the very wisdom of God. When religion has leaned too heavily upon superstition he has revolted and revised the custom and law to meet the demands of advancing understanding.

It is no accident that Ledyard came to know itself first as an ecclesiastical society. That this Bill Library was first and for many years a part of the church and conducted in the church. That the church was the matrix of all those wholesome and creative influences which made and remade the strongest characters that Ledyard knows in her history.

But some one will say: "How comes it that the church has become so much divided, so vexed by varities of order and practice?" Why did the Church of England take root here in so early a day and set up a rival organization in Ledyard from the very bosom of the established Congregation church?

How came it that the Quakers were early a troublesome left wing in this early Connecticut settlement, and won concessions from conformity? How came it that a Separatist effort rose and won complete religious freedom here in Ledyard and all the region round about? How did it happen that the open-hearted Methodists got footing here and the eager Baptists won a following?

The answer is not far to seek. The Anglo-Saxon is made that way, he believes it is the way of freedom. True, it is often a costly freedom which brings him sometimes to the mourner's bench. But at least he will not violate the best conscience he has and he will follow the best wisdom at his command. Many of these controversies look to us to be strangely trivial as we look back upon them now. But we do well to remember that in them was the major impulse working, which we most highly prize. This impulse to be a person in one's own right and to give oneself fully to what seems good and true, this is not trivial but the essence of manhood. Without it religion is the merest mockery.

We would do well to know better than we do the story of our own religious and cultural inheritance, we can learn much from our past.

Why was Yale college the child of the churches? Why are libraries so good in this part of the country? Why has this Bill foundation been nurtured and maintained so jealously?

Two sets of influences work upon us in this world: 1. The instinctive animal urges that call for preservation, propagation and comfort. 2. The powers of the mind and the heart that play through the imagination and call for courage, ambition and resolution and draw upon good will and moral sanity or goodness.

Left in isolation and driven by drudgery man too quickly returns to the animal level.

Feed his mind, light his imagination with knowledge, challenge his purpose with creative ends to be achieved and he builds into unbelieveable value and worth.

This is the sort of thing Timothy Tuttle did in a remarkable way a century ago.

This is the sort of thing at which your ministers and your lay people are working in this region now. This is why you rejoice in the great aid which your library affords. This is why you are devoted to it and why you eagerly seek to have it widely used, and why you honor its founders and those who labor now for its largest usefulness.

Following benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Goodenough, President Allyn announced that the dinner would be served under the tents set up near the church. A delicious chowder dinner, prepared by the women of the library association and served by the young women of the town, was eaten at 11 long tables. When the inner man was satisfied the gathering visited the library, school and other points of interest, and spent the remainder of the afternoon in a social way, renewing old acquaintances and meeting friends.

STEWED FRESH FRUIT SHOULD BE SERVED IN SUMMER WEATHER

It is a Pleasing Change From Raw Fruit and Often More Wholesome

It is often the tendency in summer to over-indulge in raw fruit. In many cases an upset digestive system can be traced to raw fruit.

However, when the fruit is stewed and sweetened to taste with sugar, there is less danger of digestive disorders. As far as taste appeal is concerned, stewed peaches, apples, berries, plums and pears are most enjoyable when chilled and served for dessert.

In view of the fact that sugar is now at the lowest price it has been in a generation, and since fruit is very abundant, the value of storing away preserves of all kinds for winter use should not be overlooked. Not only is home-canning profitable, but grocers everywhere are offering splendid bargains in preserved fruits, jellies and jams.

Pickles and relishes made of cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage and watermelon rind are also economical to preserve. Their spicy, tart-sweet goodness encourages the consumption of essential foods such as meat, fish and vegetables. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

NEWLY CROWNED CHAMPS MAKE FINAL CITY LEAGUE APPEARANCE TONIGHT

The Polish Citizens, newly crowned baseball champions of the city of Norwich, make their final 1930 City league appearance at the campus tonight when they meet the Ideals in a postponed game.

After this evening the titleholders will devote their future attention to the series with the New London Kaceys for the championship of the county.

Although the Cits have the local honors clinched they are looking to their tilt with the Gasmen in a serious manner. In the two games that the pair has played to date this season each has won one and is anxious to cop off the rubber. In discussing the game one of the champs remarked last night that the Ideals are being given more consideration that the Bottlers were. The Citizens realized that they had the Hastedt-Driscoll combine licked before that hectic affair of Tuesday night started but this feeling does not prevail where Bernard's pets are concerned. True, the Ideals are near the league cellar but they have upset some of the best clubs in the league.

Tony Bernard is certain that his club will take over the champs, in fact he made a rather broad statement regarding the Polish club Wednesday. The league "cut-up" stated that it was a good thing for the Citizens that the Bottlers had a slight case of stage fright when the two came together Tuesday. Asked just what he meant Tony replied, "well, if they did not win Tuesday the Citizens would not have won the City league championship." He insists that his club is better than the champions and that the latter will lose a portion of its thunder tonight.

Regardless of who wins this evening the fans can rest assured that there will be big business at the campus and it will not be "funny business' either.

Bob Shaw will be sent to the Ideal rubber and without doubt Johnny Greene will get the Citizen call.

The league governors last night asked that the fans be reminded once again that if they desire tickets for the City league banquet, which is to be held next Tuesday evening, they may secure the same from the Smoke Shop, Alling Rubber Co., Swanton's Smoke Shop at Greeneville or at the sports departments of The Bulletin and Record.

MISS CARSTAIRS' BOAT HITS SPEED OF 95 M. P. H.

DETROIT, Aug. 27.—(AP)— Barring accident, always a hazard in speedboat racing, and granting that performance in competition measures up to that of the preliminary trials, the Harmsworth trophy races on the Detroit river next Saturday and Monday will furnish the most serious threat Gar Wood has yet faced in his long years of hydroplane supremacy.

Wood first won the plaque which symbolizes the world's hydroplane speed championship off the Isle of Wight, in 1921. Every attempt that has been made since then to take the title from him has failed. In fact, in none of the races since 1921 has a challenger been able to finish, engine trouble and other misfortunes overtaking the invaders.

Now, however, comes again a charming black-haired English girl, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs, to make her third attempt to beat Wood and recapture the trophy. Like other challengers Miss Carstairs was forced out by mishap in her attempt last year and the year before. Profiting by her experience in 1928 and 1929, she has brought two boats to represent Great Britain in the races this year. That Wood regarded the challenge as the most serious yet made was shown when after viewing the two English boats in operation he hastily ordered a new Miss America and had it completed in 10 days. Just how fast the new boat, Miss America IX, can go has not been determined, but neither has the maximum speed of the challenging boats, Estelle IV., and Estelle V., been clocked.

Wood has been striving for a 100-mile an hour boat and says Miss America IX is faster than Miss America VIII., which he claims can do 95 miles an hour on a straightway course.

The two English boats were out for trials on the river today, with Miss Carstairs at the wheel of Estelle IV and Bert Hawker, designer of both challenging boats piloting Estelle V. Although no official timing was done, unofficially it was said Miss Carstairs drove Estelle IV at 95 miles an hour. Hawker did not open up the throttle on Estelle V The latter craft, he said, is not as "seaworthy" as the Estelle IV but "she is much faster miles an hour than the Fourth. If I can hold her on the course and keep her perking I'll have more than enough speed to win."

Miss Carstairs announced today that this year's attempt to lift the trophy would be her last. "I can't afford it," she said. "I don't know what this racing has cost me, but I can't carry on. It's been frightful."

A close friend estimated her motorboat interests had cost her in the neighborhood of $500,000, and the present challenge alone would represent an outlay of "around $150,000."

Wood plans to give Miss America IX., another test tomorrow morning.

Wauregan Indies Have Two Games

Once more the Wauregan Independents will travel to Taftville on Saturday for the second time this season, this time to meet the fast American Legion team. Although they have been defeated in their first appearance by the Shyma club they have showed very good baseball and Manager Deloge has strengthened his team for this coming game and feels very sure of giving the Legionnaires a fight. Stask or Gilbeault is expected to be on the mound with R. Deloge on the receiving end.

Sunday, the Indies go to Jewett City to clash with the H. N. S. team of that city in the second game of the series. The H. N. S. won the first game last Sunday by the score of 7-6 in 10 innings. This coming game is expected to be a hummer as R. Deloge, the Indies regular catcher, will be back in the game with Messier on the mound.

CLOSE MATCHES IN NATIONAL TENNIS DOUBLES PLAY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)— Two sets of champions battled valiantly here today to beat back the furious opposition of ambitious youngsters in the quarter-final round of the men's national doubles tourney on the Longwood turf courts.

For a time it appeared that George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the defending champions, would be swept aside by Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, ambling Californians. Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the Davis cup doubles team, and Wimbledon champions, were pressed almost as hard by two other youths, Sydney Wood and Frank X. Shields, of New York.

Lott and Doeg were trailing two sets to one and four games to one in the fourth when they rallied and smashed the services of each of their rivals to square the match with an 8 to 6 victory. They then battered Vines' service in the fifth game of the last set and galloped on to victory. The match scores were 1-6, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, 6-4.

Van Ryn and Allison dominated the early play against Wood and Shields but suffered a serious let-down. Their errors and failures to keep the ball in play gave the New Yorkers an opportunity to annex the fourth and tying set. Van Ryn rose to great heights in the final, holding his services when the other three players' were broken, and the British champions coasted home to a 3-6, 6-3, 11-9, 3-6, 6-3 victory that put them in the second last bracket for an encounter with Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., the Davis cup team spares, who advanced by defeating Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., in a sparkling quarter-final match by scores of 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

ROBINS COME OUT OF SLUMP TO BEAT GIANTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—(AP)— The Brooklyn Robins came out of a seven game losing streak today to triumph over the Giants, 7 to 2, in the first of their four battles for second place in the National league. The Robins, who had dropped from first place to a precarious third as they dropped 15 out of 18 games before meeting the Giants, reduced New York's margin to a half game by today's triumph.

Jim Elliott pitched a good game for Brooklyn after he was called to the mound in the second inning to replace Bill Clark, who was ejected for arguing with Umpire Jorda over a called ball. Bill Walker opposed him on even terms until the fifth inning, when Johnny Frederick's home run with Elliott on base put the Robins ahead.

The Giants tied the score at 2-2 in the fifth, but dropped behind in the next frame, when the Robins scored two more runs off Hub Pruett. A three run rally in the ninth with Joe Heving as the victim completed the Brooklyn triumph.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—(AP) — The Phils defeated the Braves today in the opening game of a four-game series here, by the score of 9 to 3.

Fred Brickell, the outfielder from the Pittsburgh Pirates, had his home debut in a Philadelphia uniform and made three singles and a double in 5 times at bat.

The Phils batted Socks Seibold, usually, poison to them, out of the box in 7 innings and hit Willie Sherdel for 4 runs in the eighth. Sweetland held the Braves to ten widely scattered hits One of them was a home run by Wally Berger, his 30th of the season.

SLOW GAME AT THE CAMPUS LAST EVENING

Last night's game at the campus was a make-believe affair and judging from the performance that was presented every one concerned did everything possible to make it such. In the terms of the ring, the Royals and Italians were evidently "in there to stay the distance." Both clubs played an indifferent type of ball; as a result the game was loose and uninteresting. The Royals were the worst of the two and as a result the Italians won 8 to 3 in six innings.

As recently announced, the game was not a scheduled one, being thrown in to fill out the week's bill.

Lefty Lucier and Tommy Simcox, the rival hurlers, kept their hits at a fairly low figure but both were hardly as effective as they have been. Each walked four men and Simmy hit one. The Royals collected but four hits off Lucier's delivery while Simcox allowed 7.

Eddie Hamill netted two of the Royals hits and Arico and T. Kegler led the Italian offense with a pair apiece. The score:

A Challenge

The Elks team of the Junior league through the managers issues a challenge to the Thermos club of the City league for a game or a series of games for fun, money or marbles, as Jackie Wilson says.

If the radiancy of the smiles of the 1400 Norwich kiddies who went to Ocean Beach yesterday could be turned into electricity the city would have enough power for a year.

It was a hard-hearted and sour person who didn't get a thrill out of seeing that mob of youngsters grinning from the bus windows as they sped along the highway bound for the beach.

It made one wish that they could turn back the pages of life's book to the first chapter just for a day. It was a glorious sight to see so much happiness crowded into a few short hours.

Of course it wasn't sunshine every minute. A tear or two was shed when a chubby fist met a snubby nose in the scramble for the outside seats in the big buses. And proud was the kiddy who was fortunate enough to sit right up beside the driver.

Then when Johnny found he had forgotten to bring his bathing suit and couldn't go in swimming Johnny's whole day was spoiled until he hit upon the plan of making his undies serve the purpose.

Then here's two little tots sitting on the beach, wiggling their tiny toes under heaps of sand that they have piled on top of them. "Gee, Pee Wee, ain't we havin' a grand time? Didja ever come to the beach before?" Yeah? well this is my first time, too. Gee, doncha wsh you had a billion dollars so's you could come to the beach every day? Say, if I had a billion dollars I'd buy one of those great big houses over there and I'd buy popcorn and ice cream maybe twenty times a day. Well, maybe I couldn't eat it all but if I couldn't I'd give it to some poor little kids like us who don't have nothing."

Hearing just one little conversation like this made one realize what a wonderful work the recreation commission was doing in brightening the lives of these youngsters even for a day.

And for the kiddies I say "Thank you, Mr. Fitzgerald and members of the recreation commission."

ADAMS SCORE BOTH RUNS TO BEAT REDS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27. — (AP) — "Sparky" Adams, substituting for Frankie Frisch at second base for the Cardinals, was poison to the Cincinnati Reds today as St. Louis swept the two-game series with a 2 to 1 victory.

Adams tripled in the first inning, scoring on Crawford's infield out. He walked to start the eighth, went to second on High's sacrifice, to third on Bottomley's grounder to Crawford and scored on Fisher's pop single back of second. Flint Rhem gave out ten hits two more than Eppa Rixey.

RICH HAMBLETONIAN STAKE GOES TO HANOVER'S BERTHA

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—Staging a great comeback in the second and third heats after losing the first mile, Hanover's Bertha, owned by Lawrence B. Shepard of the Hanover Shoe Farm, Hanover, Pa., and driven by Thomas Perry, today won the rich Hambletonian stake, classic of the trotting world, decided over the Good Time park track.

The little brown filly a well backed favorite, by Peter Volo-Miss Bertha Dillon was shut out in the first heat and then came back to win the last two miles, stepping the distance each time in 2:03. Second went to Mrs. Charles F. Adams' Larkspur, of Farmington, Mass, which took the first heat but finished sixth and eighth in the last two, respectively. Guy Day, owned by William Loftus, Los Angeles, Cal., and driven by Walter Cox, was second in the first heat, second in the second mile and fourth in the third, to take third money.

Victory in the classic carried a purse of $35,706.90 for the winner, $10,291.96 for second, and $5,100.98 for third.

NELSON SETS NEW RECORD IN WINNING $10,000 CANADIAN MARATHON SWIM

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 27.—(AP) — Denied the privilege of finishing in the money group last year by the cold waters of Lake Ontario, Marvin Nelson, bronzed young swimmer from Ft. Dodge, Iowa, today came back to conquer the same chilly waters and win the 15-mile Canadian national exhibition marathon swim and $10,000.

After swimming the course, banked by thousands of spectators, in seven hours, 43 minutes, 36 1-5 seconds for a new world's record, Nelson climbed on the finishing flat still as fresh and strong as when he plunged into the lake together with nearly 200 other men and one woman swimmers. Last year he collapsed unconscious with the end only 50 yards away.

In a race, which saw the collapse of George Young, winner of the Catalina Island swim, Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, Mendel Burditt, Eli Radakovich and many other famous swimmers, Nelson overhauled one after another of the leaders finally passing Isador Spondor of Port Colborne, Ont., at the beginning of the eighth and last lap. In the last four miles the Ft. Dodge swimmer overcame Spondor's lead of 250 yards to finish 500 yards ahead of his Canadian rival.

Nelson's gesture of victory, when he lifted both hands high out of the water, brought immediate response from the thousands massed along the lake front. He strolled about the float with little evidence of weariness and was the first to greet Spondor, when he climbed out of the water to win second place and $2,500. Spondor's time was 7:56:53 3-5.

Nearly one-half hour later, William F. Goll of New York, crawled out of the water to take third place in 8:23:53 2-5. Fourth went to George Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., in 8:25:37 2-5. Fifth went to Ernst Vierkoetter, Toronto, while Norman Ross of Chicago was sixth.

The new champion's smiling face lent support to his statement that he had enjoyed the swim immensely. At the same time a score of swimmers were huddled on cots at the temporary hospital two miles away, some writhing with cramps, others half-unconscious—exhausted by their desperate efforts to stay in the race.

The warmest weather in the history of swimming marathons at Toronto had helped the speedy Nelson to forge his way to victory. With the physique of a heavyweight prize fighter and a unique but clean-cut stroke, which begins with a sharp downward movement of the wrists the Iowa boy had plenty of reserve strength.

Pritchard set the pace for six miles but when the Buffalo swimmer collapsed, Spondor went out in front and held the advantage until the grim challenge of Nelson. Turning down the stretch, the two fought a brief battle for supremacy. Spondor who had maintained the maximum of 62 strokes to the minute for mile after mile faltered, as Nelson ploughed his way ahead to win with ease.

Goll, a rank outsider, was affable when he emerged from the water after finishing third and apparently was very much surprised at his success. The only "cold water swimmer" to finish in the money was Vierkoetter, champion of the 1927 "ice-water marathon" when the course was 21 miles long and second last year.

MUCH INTEREST IN LADY ETTA-BLAZE WORTHY RACE

All those present at the Duweh horse races last Memorial day well remember Miss Pendleton's beautiful roan mare, Lady Etta which so spectacularly won both heats from a field of four horses. So it is easy to appreciate with what interest the local horse racing fans are looking forward to the match race on Labor day under Nemrod Grotto auspices, between Miss Pendleton's mare, Lady Etta, and Blaze Worthy, the horse with a racing heart from Chase Cliff. Lady Etta is a young mare of 6 years, having made a creditable mark at Charter Oak park, and who is favorite to win over Blaze Worthy by 4 to 3, owing to the fact that Lady Etta traveled the half mile in a minute flat, one second faster than Blaze Worthy has ever been timed.

However, Blaze Worthy is not without followers as many are banking on his racing heart and past performances against other horses. Although the Worthy horse seems to lack sprinting ability, and is slow in the get-away, yet anything might be expected from a horse so well bred. Blaze Worthy is known as a horse "bred in the purple" and is a full brother to the famous Worthy Tod, who as one of the best loved track the Great Five of Charter Oak park.

STEWART SHUTS OUT TIGERS WITH 5 SCATTERED HITS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27—(AP)—Walter Stewart, holding the Tigers to five scattered hits, blanked the Detroit Tigers 5 to 0 here today to win his 16th game of the season for the Browns. Stewart also did good work with the stick, batting in two runs and scoring once himself, in the series opener.

"Red" Kress, regular shortstop, made his St. Louis debut at third base where he is expected to play next year. Score:

VIC DARR BOXES AT WESTERLY THIS EVENING

At the Stillman avenue arena in Westerly this evening Vic Darr, local favorite, meets Ero Peterson of Worcester in the six round semi-final bout. This bout is creating more interest than any other bout on the card due to the fact that Darr has shown such marked improvement during the past few weeks that local boxing fans are backing the local boy to take Peterson by a knockout. Darr thoroughly flattened Julio Rossi of Westerly a few weeks ago and in doing so put himself right up in the front ranks of the division in this section of the state. Peterson is a far more clever boxer than Rossi but he is not the stiff puncher that the Westerly boy is. Darr is planning to go after Peterson from the first bell.

LEONARD TO TEACH BOXING AT C. C. N. Y.

LYONS PITCHES BRILLIANTLY TO GIVE CHICAGO TWIN VICTORY

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27—(AP)— Ted, Lyons' pitching and savage batting of his teammates gave the Chicago White Sox a twin victory over Cleveland in a double header opening their series today; scores were 14 to 5 and 5 to 4.

The Sox pounded four Cleveland pitchers for 21 hits, which combined with six errors, gave them the first game easily.

Lyons' 20th victory of the season came only after he subdued a threatening rally in the ninth inning of the second game. Only two hits were made off him up to the seventh, when the Indians scored twice. Going into the ninth he had a 5 to 2 lead. Two singles followed by Lyon's peg into center field trying for a second base force out let in one run, and a sacrifice scored annother. Lyons forced J. Sewell to ground out, however, to save the game. Score:

PIRATES SMOTHER CUBS UNDER BARRAGE OF HITS

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—Pie Traynor and his crew of Pittsburgh Pirates threw a devastating barrage of base hits across Wrigley Field today that sounded a whooping defeat for the Cubs.

Smashing the offerings of three Chicago pitchers for 20 hits, the Buccaneers defeated the Cubs, 10 to 8, in the concluding game of their series and enabled the Robins and Cardinals to creep a bit higher in the National league standing. Brooklyn took advantage of the break by whipping the New York Giants while the Cards defeated Cincinnati.

Led by Traynor, who belted out five successive singles, the Pirates led the high flying Cubs all the way. They knocked Charlie Root, one of the Cub pitching aces, from the mound in the first inning with four hits and three runs before a man could be retired. They hammered Jess Petty, former Pirate pitcher who made his first come-back attempt for the Cubs, for 13 more blows and then polished off their attack by nicking Bob Osborn for three more blows, one a home run by Gus Suhr with Bartell on base that finally won the game.

Bartell also hit a homer for Pittsburgh and the other 18 blows were singles. Ervin Brame allowed the Cubs ten hits, most of which came in three rallies for seven of Chicago's runs. The Cubs had homers by Dan Taylor, Hartnett and English, all with none on base, and four doubles.

MRS. BRIDGET M'CUDDEN AIDED IN HER LAST HOURS

Mrs. Bridget McCudden, who returned to her home in Ireland from New London not long ago, ill with tuberculosis, died at the home of her brother, James McCudden, in Castleblaney, Aug. 9, it has been learned. Funeral services for Mrs. McCudden were held the following Monday at St. Patrick's cathedral in Oram. Mrs. McCudden, who was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Conlon, is survived by her parents, her brother, James Conlan and her 14-year old daughter, May McCudden. When Mrs. McCudden was obliged to return home penniless and ill, friends in New London and surrounding places raised a fund of about $600 which she found awaiting her on her return home and which made her last days much happier because she was not a burden on the resources of her family.

The fund was started by Mrs. Blanche Lanman Carr, formerly of Norwich, widow of Admiral Clarence A. Carr, who received several contributions from Norwich to aid the afflicted patient, who could not at that time be received into Norwich State Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

ACCUSED AGREES TO RETURN $350 TO WOMAN

The case of John Kozlowski, 52, of Brooklyn, N. Y., charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, called in the city court Wednesday morning was nolled when the accused promised to reimburse Sophia Swytaski, 55, of New York, the sum of $350. Kozlowski was arrested last Friday by the state police on complaint of the woman, who claimed that the accused induced her to give him the money, after promising to marry her.

According to the testimony in court the couple, both of whom it is said are worth considerable money, met in New York recently and agreed to marry. Kozlowski came to Norwich and purchased a farm near here. The woman claimed that the price paid was $2,500, but the accused claimed the price was $5,000 Kozlowski wanted her to pay half of the purchase price and he would settle for the remainder. The woman refused to pay, but later he secured $350 from her, deposited the money in a local bank and disappeared, it is said.

The Ideal of a Craftsman

In every age men have striven with untiring patience for the achievement of an ideal. The name "STRADIVARIUS" on a violin immortalizes a master craftsman who lived true to his ideals.

Making a cigar of the finest quality was the ideal upon which in 1874, at Manchester, N. H., Roger G. Sullivan—starting with one cigar maker—founded 7-20-4. Today because of its ideal quality, 7-20-4 has grown to the largest hand-made cigar industry in the World.

Quality workmanship and the finest tobaccos are traditional with 7-20-4. The unswerving tenet of its founder—to keep faith with the public—has remained unchanged for over half a century. It is this firm principle which today refuses to alter that method of manufacture which has made 7-20-4 Cigar — FAMOUS FOR ITS CHOICE QUALITY.

Drive a little farther, with confidence, with this DOUBLE-MILEAGE OIL

It pays to be conscientious about changing the oil in your crankcase regularly, pays in motor performance as well as motor life. But it may not always be convenient to change oil at the exact time when the speedometer says you should.

With Penn-Drake oil in your crankcase you can drive a little farther without worry. Long after ordinary oils would be spent, this double-mileage oil retains its body and lubricating value.

This is not a mere competitive claim. Penn-Drake is pure Pennsylvania oil that is refined by an exclusive process that preserves all of the lubricating value of the crude, distilled under vacuum in fifteen seconds where ordinary oils are parboiled for thirty-six hours. That is why it wears longer and stays in the crankcase longer.

Buy it where you see the sign of the first oil well.

Some question was made on the amount paid the first assistant engineer, who stated that he had not received the amount showed on the report. Explanation by Treasurer Whipple said that the payments might have come within the current year and Michael Brown questioned the amount paid to First Assistant Engineer Pasetti and Moderator Stanton announced that there was no payment showing for a corresponding year on the last annual report.

Engineer's Report.

Assistant Engineer George A. McKenzie read the report of the board of engineers for the year ending August 25th, as follows:

The department has responded to 60 alarms of which there were four false alarms; twenty-three telephone calls; eight out of district and twenty-six box calls. The total fire loss is $1,305.

The past year we have connected Avondale with the fire alarm, installing four 1929 boxes and stretching four miles of wire. This was made necessary to connect up Dr. Anderson's hospital.

We also laid our wires underground, to comply with the improvements on Broad street, at a cost of about $1,750. The Avondale job, a mile of wire on Oak street and a half mile on East avenue cost $1,127. The changes were made on account of new poles being set by the South County Public Service company.

We have also connected to our system eleven boxes for the schools; two for the hospitals and one for the United theatre. The district is all connected with the alarm system.

We have now fifty-seven boxes in the district and fourteen private boxes making a total of seventy-one boxes.

We have one hundred and fifty hydrants.

The property of the district is about the same as last year, $183,463.35.

Hose—We have on hand 3,900 feet of hose in good condition.

Motor Apparatus—Seagraves pump in good condition; Ahrens-Fox pump in good condition: Ladder truck in good condition; combination truck in good condition.

Membership—Board of engineers 3 men, R. I. Ones 42 men, Alert H. & L. Co. 42 men, Cyclones No. 2 40 men, fire police 12 men, first aid squad 8 men.

Recommendations—We would recommend the salaries and appropriations for the year ensuing as follows: chief engineer, $700; assistant engineers, $200; treasurer and collector, $250; R. I. Ones, $500; Alert H. & L. Co., $500; Cyclone Engine Co., $500; fire police, $200; first aid squad, $50.

George B. Utter questioned the recommendations of the board of engineers and they were again read.

The bond of the treasurer and collector was voted $3,000 and he was also voted authority to hire money from time to time, if necessary.

Moderator Stanton read the annual tax resolution, as follows:

Resolved and Voted—An assessment to be levied and collected on the real estate and tangible personal property within the district of twenty cents (20c) on each One Hundred Dollars ($100) value.

The the board of assessors shall assess and apportion the tax on the inhabitants and rateable estates in the fire district on the 13th day of February, 1931, at 12 o'clock noon, the same to be certified on or before the 1st day of April, 1931, and the tax to be due and payable between the 15th day of April, 1931, and the 30th day of April, 1931, and until collected thereafter to carry a penalty of 12 per cent per annum.

The tax amount voted was carried without opposition, the announcement being made that the amount was the same as a year ago. In a word of explanation Treasurer Whipple said that the district next year could expect a 30 per cent tax.

Bonner Elected Chief

The meeting then proceeded to fill the vacancy caused by the death of former Chief Engineer George E. Egger. John J. Dunn nominated First Assistant Engineer Robert Bonner and he was elected unanimously by a voice vote.

For the vacancy of first assistant engineer, Mr. Dunn named Second Assistant Engineer George A. McKenzie with a unanimous election.

For the second assistant engineer, Mr. Dunn named Third Assistant Engineer Columbus Pasetti and his election was also unanimous. A contest developed for third assistant engineer with John M. Patton, driver of the Ahrens-Fox pumper of the Cyclone Engine Co., and a past foreman of that company for two years, and Maurice L. Lang was named by Frank A. Sullivan to oppose him. Mr. Patton was named by M. Walter Flynn. Mr. Sullivan said that Lang had been a member of the department for 14 years and was captain of the Ones for seven years. Mr. Sullivan called Mr. Lang to the front of the hall as he stated "so you will not vote for a cat in the bag."

Advocates Paid Department

Under the head of new business, George B. Utter presented the following resolution: "That the member of the general assembly be asked to secure the changes in the charter of the Westerly fire district as recommended by the 'committee on lower insurance rates,' in their report as filed with the town clerk of Westerly. This brought forth a storm of criticism, George A. Dolan asking what the recommendations were, stating that he was frank and would vote against it as he didn't know what they were.

John J. Dunn asked why Westerly fire district officials were ignored and the report filed with the town clerk, asking why they "kicked the members of the company in the face." This was followed by a storm of applause. In reply, Mr. Utter said that the committee on lower insurance was given authority by the town council of Westerly and the selectmen of Stonington. Later, Mr. Utter withdrew this resolution and the following resolution, amended, prevailed: Voted, That a committee of seven members be appointed by the moderator to investigate into the advisability of establishing in this district a paid, regularly-employed quota of firemen for each of the three volunteer companies, to investigate into the advisability of changing the methods of election of the chief and board of engineers; to investigate as to the probable reduction in insurance rates for protection against damage by fire within the district, both with respect to residences and business structures in consequence of such changes; to investigate as to the cost of the operation of a fire department, if part of the membership is paid; to investigate as to probable change of tax rate, in consequence of having a part-paid department; to investigate as to the probable effect on the morale of the volunteer department of a part-paid department and to investigate as to need of additional apparatus for the department. Three of the members of said committee shall be members of the present volunteer fire department, one of said members shall be appointed from the membership-at-large of this fire district and the sum of $300 or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the members of said committee in carrying on the investigations, is provided for. Said committee shall report not later than the fourth Wednesday of January, 1931, and shall deposit its report with the clerk of the district, who shall call for a special meeting of this district to take action on such report, all members of the committee to be taxpayers of the district.

An amendment, offered by Mr. Utter, asking for four of the members to be outside of the companies was declared lost by a voice vote.

Treasurer Everett E. Whipple asked for a vote directing the first district to assume all expense of the accident and funeral of the late Westerly Fire Chief George E. Egger and on motion of Mr. Dunn it was adopted by a rising vote.

Fire alarm whistle No. 46 of the Westerly fire department sounded about 1:45 p. m. Wednesday for a fire on the roof of a barn on the greenhouse grounds of Munro, Inc., off Clark street. The fire was first discovered when the flames were seen curling upward from the shingle roof and the alarm was sounded. Three pieces of fire apparatus with Acting Chief Robert Bonner and force of firemen responded and the booster tanks made short work of the flames before an extensive amount of damage was done. The recall was sounded at 2 p. m. This was the sixty-first alarm for which Westerly firemen have responded for the Westerly fire district fiscal year ending Wednesday night as against fifty-five alarms of a similar period a year ago or a total of six more.

PAPE ASSAILS REPUBLICAN PARTY STATE ORGANIZATION

When you change your oil

Remember TIMES CHANGE

Cars have changed . . . high compression motors, smaller cylinders, faster speeds, more revolutions per minute. And greater strain on your motor calls for tougher, longer-life motor oil. PAN-AM is first to bring it to you. A new triple-refined motor oil . . . new, but already tested for over a million gruelling miles.

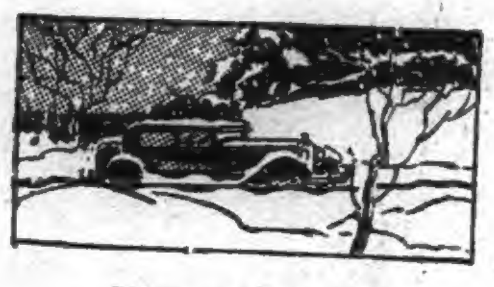
Hundreds of stock cars, lubricated with new PAN-AM motor oils, were driven in extremes of heat and cold. Every test gave proof that PAN-AM is today's motor oil . . . stands up under fire . . . fights heat and friction.

Triple-refining has removed impurities that stiffen up in cold motors. Triple-refining brings you a motor oil that cuts carbon in half and gives you extra mileage for every quart.

Prove it yourself in your motor. Drive to the nearest PAN-AM station today to have your oil changed. And remember times change . . . modern motors make terrific demands on motor oils . . . and PAN-AM keeps pace.

MOTOR PAN-AM OILS

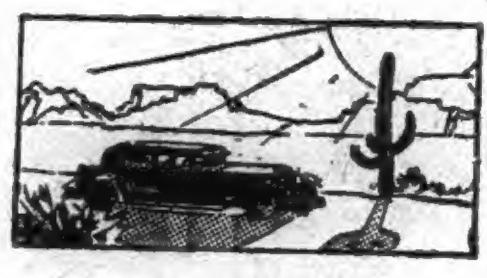
A MILLION MILES OF ROAD TESTS



Through Cold

Down to zero and below. PAN-AM gave instant, smooth lubrication.

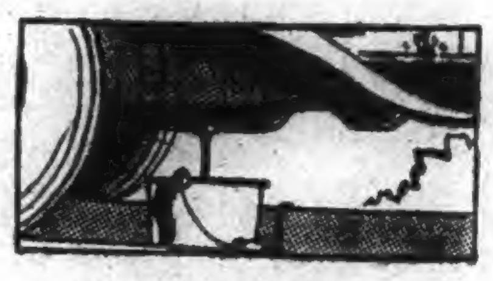
Many motor oils thicken at freezing temperatures. PAN-AM's triple-refining process removes wax-like particles. No matter how cold, PAN-AM motor oil answers, "Ready!"



Through Heat

Test cars driven over scorching roads.

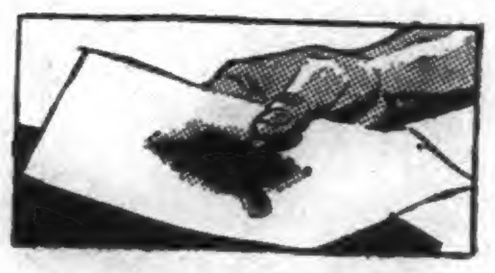
Down in the motor . . . greater heat. Up go the revolutions per minute. Up goes the temperature of every moving part. PAN-AM "stands up under fire" at temperatures far above ordinary motor-heat.



Stands Up

The long grind is over . . . long past the life of ordinary motor oil. Rigid examination showed that PAN-AM kept its full body and color.

PAN-AM motor-tested motor oil stands up like a soldier full of fight . . . and ready to "keep going."



Less Carbon

PAN-AM oils proved, in the motors, that they deposit 50% less carbon, by actual weight, than other high-class motor oils.

PAN-AM means cleaner motors. Less grinding of valves. Smaller repair bills. Longer life for your motor.

GENERAL ADVANCE LITTLE MORE THAN A POINT IN VIGORUS STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Strenuous efforts to extend the rally in share prices caused the largest turnover in a fortnight in today's stock market, but achieved a general advance of only little more than a point.

Vigorous operations for the advance and large scale short covering sent the general list up rapidly during the first hour, but the price movements became irregular and faltering toward mid-day. The price index of 90 shares showed a net gain of 1 3-10 points. Transfers totaled 2,200,190 shares.

The most conspicuous items of the day's news were the weekly steel trade reviews, which did not entirely back upon the optimism instilled by preliminary estimates published the previous day indicating a gain of 3 1-2 per cent in steel mill operating ratios. "Iron Age" placed ingot production for the entire industry at 54 per cent of the theoretical capacity, a gain of only one per cent. "American Metal Market" stated that operations had stepped to around the 56 per cent rate of July, but added that weekly variations "do not seem to be of much significance."

Marked improvement, however, has not been expected in the steel industry until after Labor day.

The weekly petroleum statistics showed a moderate gain in crude output but another large reduction in gasoline stocks. Rumors of probable crude price cuts, however, continue to worry some speculative quarters. F. W. Dodge's statistics on building contracts placed were favorable, the latest week bringing the August daily average above that of July. Railway earnings statements for July, while showing little improvement in gross income, are showing some progress in cutting down operating expenses, and on the whole have been better than expected. Credit conditions were about unchanged, with call money officially at 2 per cent, although a little firmer undertone was reported.

Strong stocks included an assortment of utilities, amusements, merchandising issues, and specialties. Rails were dull. U. S. Steel fluctuated between a gain of a point, and a loss of a point, and closed about steady, off 3-8. Radio finished off 1-8. American Can sold up nearly 2, then lost most of its gain. Shares closing a point or two higher included American Telephone, Atchison, Columbia Graphophone, Delaware and Hudson, Electric Power and Light, American and Foreign Power, International Nickel, McKeesport Tin Plate, Radio-Keith, Remington Rand, Sears Roebuck, Stone and Webster, Union Carbide and Westinghouse Electric. Allied Chemical gained 5, and Safeway, 3.

Sears found several soft spots. Vanadium was sent down five points, but it rallied about 1. International Telephone was depressed more than 2 to within a fraction of its minimum price. Kroger dropped more than 2 to within about two points of its low, on report of first half earnings of only 13 cents a share. Oliver Farm and Bohn Aluminum dropped to new lows, and Celotex was depressed 3. American Rolling Mill and Gillette were also under pressure.

In the commodity markets, cotton closed steady, and raw sugar was a little firmer, but grains were again under pressure. Wheat lost about 1 1-3 cents on reports of large Russian offerings in the European markets, and corn sagged about a cent.

Foreign exchanges were largely steady to firm, but Brazil and Spain again sagged. French francs and sterling were steady.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A syndicate headed by the Guaranty company is expected shortly to offer $36,600,000 New York, Chicago & St. Louis railway 4 1-2 per cent bonds, due in 1978, at 97 3-4.

Wall street was intensely interested today in the announcement that the Chase Securities company and the National City company were jointly making a public offering of $20,192,000 of 4 per cent New York state bonds. This is the first time that the securities affiliates of the Chase National bank and the National City bank have made a joint offering. In fact, they have followed such distinctly separate paths that there have been rumors of ill feeling, particularly since Chase has surpassed National City in size. The Rockefellers, however, are among the dominant interests in both institutions. Some observers were inclined to attribute a rise of $5.75 in City bank stock today to the announcement of the bond issue.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Public utility shares and a few other popular trading issues made the best progress in several sessions on the curb market today. Advance of from 1 to 2 points were registered by some of the more active stocks.

Prices tapered off around mid-day, and business was duller during the afternoon. But most of the market leaders held the largest portion of their advances. The day's total volume of business was 399,300 shares.

Electric Bond & Share, which was heavily traded, advanced 2 points to 3 3-4 and closed 1 1-4 net higher. Electric Power & Light warrants gained 3 points. American & Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, Duke, Hydro-Electric, International Super Power, and Northern States gained a point or more.

Investment and holding company issues developed new life. Goldman Sachs trading which has moved narrowly for some time responded to large-scale buying in the afternoon, to finish 1 7-8 higher. Insull Utility investment gained in demand. Appalachian was traded at its previous price most of the day and closed firm. Lone Star Gas advanced 1 point. United Gas gained 3-8 and Memphis 1-2.

Petroleum stocks fluctuated narrowly. Cities Service was unchanged at the close. Standard of Indiana made a small advance during the morning but closed only steady.

Some wide gains were made by miscellaneous stocks, American Hard Rubber advanced 10 points from its year's low. Great Atlantic & Pacific rose 4. A. O. Smith 5 3-8. Aluminum company 3. Dresser Manufacturing B 2. Crosse & Blackwell 2 7-8. American Cyanamid A, a lightly traded issue, reached a new low, off 7 points. Translux, one of the most active industrials, sagged 7-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Wheat today broke the season's low price record and dragged corn down along. Big receipts of wheat in Canada, together with large arrivals too, at domestic spring wheat centers, did much to destroy the confidence of holders of wheat, and so likewise did word that the Canadian growers' pool was selling wheat future deliveries at Winnipeg. Moreover, export demand for wheat from North America appeared to be virtually at a standstill.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady at almost the day's bottom level, 1 1-4a1 5-8c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2a1 5-8c off, oats 1a1 3-8c down, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 7c advance.

Provisions were steadied by upturns in the value of hogs.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)— The bond market was strong today, and for the second successive day prices reached a new peak for the year as measured by the averages.

Railroad bonds provided the leadership for the advance and there was good buying also of high grade issues in the public utility and industrial sections. Another crop of new 1930 high prices was nurtured by the broad demand. Trading volume was on a par with yesterday and far above the average for August, which had been a quiet month.

Call money held at 2 per cent and time money held unchanged. The spurt in activity was attributed to the better tone of the stock market.

The inquiry for railroad obligations aided both high grade liens and convertibles, with the turnover in the latter the largest in several weeks. Second and third grade rails lagged as they have throughout the present movement.

Large purchases were made of Baltimore and Ohio 4 1-2s, Boston and Maine 5s, Chicago Great Western 4s, St. Paul 5s and adjustment 5s, Chicago and Western Indiana 4s, which reached a new peak, Erie 5s of 1975. Missouri Pacific 5s of 77, New Haven refunding 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania debenture 4 1-2s, St. Louis San Francisco 4 1-2s, and Texas Pacific 5s B.

American and Foreign Power 5s on a large turnover touched a new high and closed firm. American Telephone issues repeated their best figures reached recently. Among industrials, a broad demand developed for United Drug of Delaware 5s and the bond reached a new 1930 high. Inland Steel 4 1-2s, Lorillard 5 1-2s, and International Match 5s, registered new peaks. Fisk Rubber 8s, Wickwire Spencer Steel 7s, and White Sewing Machine 6s sagged.

A wide list of convertible and warrant issues attracted buying today. Warner Brothers 6s advanced 1 3-8 and General Theatres 6s, 1 1-8 in sympathy with strength of amusement issues on the stock market. American Telephone 4 1-2, one of the market leaders, gained 1 1-4 on a small volume. International Telephone 4 1-2s sagged one point.

There was a better inquiry for best grade foreign issues and standard issues showed more improvement than in some time. German 7s were weak. Peruvian bonds turned upward, the first 6s gained 1 1-4, and second 6s, 1 1-2.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Out in the Great World

The Great World calls; the young obey
And taste of freedom for a day.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy the black Chipmunk had said goodbye to his father Striped Chipmunk, and scampered away along the top of the old stone wall towards the Green Forest. He had left home. He had started out to see the Great World. When he reached the end of the old stone wall he paused.

"Which way shall I go now?" said Impy to himself. He looked to the right; he looked to the left; he looked straight ahead. There were too many trees straight ahead. Somehow, he didn't like so many trees. There was a dark and fearsome look to the depth of the Green Forest. Impy decided that he wouldn't go in there. It would be much nicer to go traveling along the edge of the Green Forest. Somehow, now that he had to decide which way to go, he didn't feel as fearless and bold as he had felt at first. Finally he turned to the right. Had he turned to the left, he would have headed towards the Old Pasture. But he didn't know anything about the Great World.

When Impy left the old stone wall, he suddenly felt as if he had left all safety behind him. Always there was a chance to dodge out of sight in the old stone wall. Running along the ground is a very different matter. Impy would scurry along for a few feet, then sit up abruptly and look and listen. Anxiously his eyes would search for something to hide under in case of danger. The farther he went, the less he wanted to see the Great World and the more he wished that he had remained somewhere near the old stone wall. He was too proud to go back. So there was nothing to do but go ahead.

Presently Impy discovered that there was a rail fence with some bushes growing along it. He climbed up on a lower rail. This was better! Somehow, he felt more at home. Presently he climbed up on a top rail. Then he felt very much up in the air indeed. When he reached a post, he hopped up on the top of it and sat there. The Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind ruffled his hair. He suddenly felt carefree and happy.

He had started out to see the Great World

"I must find a place to sleep for the night," said Impy to himself. "There must be a place somewhere around where a little fellow like me can be safe. If I can just find a safe place to spend the night, that is all I ask."

Presently Impy came to a fence-post which looked very much like the other fence-posts that he had seen. It was just by chance that Impy happened to look down and discover midway in the post what looked like a hole. He promptly examined it. It was a hole. He poked his head inside. There was an old nest in there and that was all. It was an old nest that had been built by one of Winsome Bluebird's family, although, of course, Impy didn't know this. Impy curled up in that nest. It made a very fine bed.

"I wonder if anybody lives here," thought Impy. "If nobody lives here, this is just the place for me tonight. I would feel quite safe here. Yes, sir, I would feel quite safe. I do hope that nobody is living here."

Impy popped out and anxiously looked in all directions. No one was about. He ran down on the ground and began to hunt for something to eat. When he had satisfied his appetite, he went back to that post with the hole in it. He didn't enter the hole, but hid where he could watch it. He wanted to make sure that nobody was living there. When the Black Shadows came creeping out late in the afternoon, Impy made up his mind that nobody was living in that hole in the post. He climbed up to it; he sat in the doorway until the first little star came twinkling in the sky. Then Impy curled up in the nest and went to sleep.

MONTVILLE

Camille Holmes, of Uncasville, arrested by State Trooper Clarence Hoxie of Groton barracks, assisted by Police Officer Howard Lamphere of Montville, on a charge of intoxication, was put under $25 bonds by Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church for his appearance in Montville justice court Thursday morning.

Textile vs. Owls

The Textile Mfg. Co. will play the Robert Gair Owls, champions of Montville Industrial Twilight league, at the Gair diamond tonight (Thursday). This makes the fifth time these two teams have met this season, the Owls winning three games and tying one. The last game was rained out in the second inning. Although the outcome of Thursday's game will have no bearing on the league's standing, both teams are expected to play air-tight ball. Manager McInnis of the Owls has picked his pitching ace, Buck Shahan, to toe the slab, with Lawless on the receiving end. Coach Murphy of the Textile will again work his best bet, Ski, with Hrynko as catcher.

Walter Morosky, of Uncasville, met with an accident Tuesday at the Robert Gair plant, Uncasville, when a roll fell on his right foot while he was tiering rolls. He is resting comfortably at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London, where he was taken Wednesday with a possible fracture of his right foot.

FUNERAL
Mrs. Herbert LaPre

Many friends and relatives attended the funeral of Mrs. Herbert LaPre, held from her home on Mohegan Hill, Montville, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Terrence Finnegan from Taftville at St. John's church, Uncasville. Burial was in the family lot at St. Patrick's cemetery, Uncasville, where Rev. Thomas F. Lynch, pastor of St. John's church, read the committal prayers. The bearers were relatives. The floral tributes were exceptionally beautiful. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Dougherty Bros., undertakers, of Taftville.

Oscar E. Church was a business caller in Hartford Wednesday.

Cards have been received here from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark, of Palmertown, who are visiting Montreal.

Harold Murphy and Robert O'Grady, of New London, were guests of William Fingers, of Camp Meow, Lake Oxoboxo, over the week-end.

How the Players Stand

Manager Plouffe's Independents received their fourth setback this year from the St. James team of Danielson, bringing their percentage down to 765, they winning 13 out of their 17 games. Of the leading players, Awezec and Burelle are still tied for home run honors with one apiece. McDermott keeps adding to his runs scored and stolen base honors, having 19 of each. He also leads in three-baggers, collecting two. Caron, Nortosky and Hanson are tied for two-bagger honors, with two apiece. Following are the batting averages:

Name	G.	Ab.	H.	Pct.
Hewitt	1	2	2	1.000
Auwood	4	9	5	.556
Paradise	9	25	11	.440

Shahan retains the pitching honors with nine victories and one defeat to his credit. Cop Lamphere is second credited with four games, without yet suffering defeat.

DANIELSON

STATE POLICE INVESTIGATE ORIGIN OF PLAINFIELD FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 27. — Reports circulated while the fire that swept over several buildings in Plainfield yesterday forenoon with disastrous results, to the effect that the blaze was of incendiary origin, resulted in an investigation into the matter being launched by state officers of the Danielson barracks. State Patrolman R. V. Scranton visited the scene of the fire and questioned property owners concerning the origin of the fire.

The theory of boys and matches, gathered by local newspapermen while not as yet substantiated, has been generally accepted as the direct cause of the blaze. There was no motive for the fire being of incendiary origin, discovered by the state police investigator, it was said today. Mr. Pember, whose property was entirely destroyed, sustained considerable loss since his buildings and farm equipment were covered only by partial fire insurance. Charles Lavallee, owner of the Star garage, which was burned during the fire, suffered a complete loss, as state officers reported this afternoon that no insurance whatever was carried by him.

Joseph Jankowski, of Brooklyn, was fined $1.00 and costs this morning when arraigned before Judge William Francis in town court, on a charge of violating the state fish and game laws. County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels, of Plainfield, appeared against the man and related how he accosted him on Saturday evening, while fishing in a local pond and found him to be using a fish line having more than two baited hooks.

Don't miss the biggest dollar day in the history of Danielson, Saturday, August 30. Study the advertisement in today's Windham County Transcript. On the newsstands this evening.—adv.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill, of Danielson, was in Willimantic today where he viewed the body of Maurice Turcotte of that city, instantly killed Tuesday evening, when struck by an automobile. The coroner also made preparations for an inquest, which is to be conducted into the death of the elderly man.

The weekly drill of the service battery of the 192nd field artillery was held Tuesday evening at the state armory.

Agents of the S. N. E. Telephone company are at present studying the cable system uniting the Danielson and Putnam exchanges, in an effort to lay out a direct wire from the Putnam exchange to the "PBX" switchboard at the state police barracks on North Main street, whereby the telephone system at the barracks will become united with the Putnam exchange. Such a service is already in use with the Willimantic exchange, but the fact that certain wires are already in use between Putnam and a point near Dayville, is delaying the completion of the work.

Continued progress is being made by workmen constructing the Bell telephone company's repeater station, which is being erected on the Brooklyn road. According to contract, the building is supposed to be ready for occupancy some time in September.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the local fire department, with regard to seniority, holds one of the highest positions of any fire official in the state. Chief Woodward is now serving his 9th consecutive year as head of the Danielson fire-fighting organizations and not only that, but as the chief himself puts it, "I've been answering the alarms in Danielson for forty-two years."

Miss Annie Skidington, of Broad street, is in New York city, visiting with friends there. She will return to her home here after Labor Day.

Members of the drive teams for the nurses' home fund of the Day Kimball hospital, from Danielson and Brooklyn, attended a meeting of the general committee, which was held today at the Russian Bear tea room in Thompson.

Passenger trains going north on the Norwich and Worcester branch of the New Haven road each night, leave Bar Harbor and other points in Maine as their destinations. After Labor day, the trains will make return trips, carrying large numbers of summer tourists to their homes in the cities. The expresses make no stops at Danielson.

Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church, will conduct the service of worship Sunday morning and will preach the sermon. The Sunday evening worship of the union service of the Danielson federation of churches will be held this week at 7:30 p. m., at the Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Gaylord will preach and conduct the service.

PUTNAM

LOCAL GOLD STAR MOTHER LEAVES FOR OVERSEAS TRIP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 27.—Putnam's only Gold Star mother, Mrs. Catherine M. Bigley, of East Putnam left this city yesterday morning on the Boston-New York express train, on the first leg of her journey overseas to the battlefields of France, where she will visit the foreign resting place of her son, Joseph Bigley, 19-year-old soldier who was killed in the battle of the Argonne forest on September 16, 1918, while serving with the American Expeditionary forces.

At New York, Mrs. Bigley joined a party of Gold Star mothers from other parts of the country and with them will make the pilgrimage. The group sailed this morning. Joseph Bigley is buried in the American cemetery of the Argonne forest, which is one of the most beautiful memorials to America's war dead.

A small delegation of the women's auxiliary of the Anslem Mayotte post, American Legion, gathered at the station platform to bid Mrs. Bigley farewell and wish her Godspeed. During the informal ceremony, the mother was presented a gold pin, attached to which was a small ribbon of the national colors. The design of the pin is emblematic of the Gold Star mothers. She was also presented with a five-dollar gold piece. As the train left the depot Mrs. Bigley could be seen from the coach waving a small handkerchief. She spoke a few words of appreciation to the members of the Legion group and to neighbors who accompanied her to the train, making a noble but vain effort to conceal her tears, which rolled down her cheeks, as the train drew away.

In the city court this morning, Judge M. H. Geissler found Burton Taintor of Baltic, guilty of a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor and imposed a fine of $100 and costs, which Taintor promptly paid. The Baltic truckman was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Benoni Durand of the local police and was held for State Officer James F. Carmody of the Danielson barracks, preferred the charge against him.

E. Paquin, of School street, was fined $1.00 and costs of court when found guilty of operating a truck equipped with defective brakes. The laundryman was presented in court by State Officer H. Theodore Strand of the Danielson barracks.

The receivership of the Citizens National bank of Woonsocket, R. I., is now being directed by George M. Coffin of Bradley street, for the past six years receiver of the First National bank of this city. Mr. Coffin's appointment to the federal position was made two weeks ago and since then he has been dividing his time between that city and Putnam.

The Rhode Island institution was declared insolvent about two years ago. A former receiver resigned to accept a similar position in Vermont and Mr. Coffin was called on to take charge of the bank's affairs.

Some time ago, Mr. Coffin announced that the old First National bank which has been defunct since 1924, would pay an additional dividend at an early date. He added that the forthcoming setlement would in all probability be the last the creditors would receive.

Peter Blash, Woodstock's motorcycle ace, is back in Brooklyn jail again for another 42-day stretch which he must work out, unless he finds means to settle a $25 account due the South Woodstock justice court which he opened yesterday when found guilty of a charge of operating an unregistered motorcycle. Blash was hailed before Justice A. R. Scranton, Jr., by State Officer Elton T. Nolan of Danielson barracks, who arrested him when he failed to produce a registration certificate for a two wheeled vehicle which he was putting through a series of state highway road tests.

The condition of Mrs. Crystabel Gifford, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Gifford of Ring street, who is a patient at the Huntington Memorial hospital in Boston, was reported today as being unchanged. Her condition yesterday was said to have been extremely critical.

Following a meeting of the general committee in charge of the drive for funds for the nurses' home of the Day Kimball hospital, which was held this noon at the Russian Bear tea room in Thompson, it was announced that fund has increased nearly $2,000 during the past week, the total amount raised at the present nearing the $12,000 mark.

At a quiet ceremony to be performed Sunday in Framingham, Mass., Miss Marie Mundy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mundy of that city, will become the bride of Dr. L. Hector Lucier of New York city, formerly of Putnam and son of Mr. and Mrs F. X. Lucier of Church street. Dr Lucier, who is employed in the optical department of a firm in New York is a graduate of the local high school and of the Rochester School of Optometry.

ECZEMA
Itching Skin

If you want instant relief just apply Peterson's Ointment. The minute this soothing and great healing Ointment touches your inflamed, irritated skin—you obtain blessed comfort. Generally you need only a few applications to completely end this distressing condition.

Always have Peterson's Ointment on hand. Can't beat it for quickly healing chafed, irritated, erupted skin, for eczema and bad cases of pimples and blackheads.

H. A. Daniels, of Hartford, Conn., writes: "For 6 months I was bothered with Eczema—it would itch so I could tear it to pieces. I had lotions and different Ointments which did no good. I saw your ad in the Hartford Times and I went and got a box of Peterson's and in one night it almost disappeared."

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment overcomes Eczema and one 35c box will prove it—all drugstores.

The 1930 tobacco acreage in Kentucky has been estimated at 512,000.

NOW!—New and Greater values

in Goodyear Tires than ever before!

That headline is strictly true.

Two bed-rock reasons make it true.

One reason is, Goodyear Tires are better right now than they have ever been.

The other reason is, rubber is cheap and consequently Goodyear Tires are available at the lowest prices in history.

People are not slow to seize a chance like this.

They are buying Goodyear Tires at an unparalleled rate.

Their preference for Goodyears rests upon definite Goodyear superiorities in both tread and carcass, the two main parts of a tire.

Now is the time to get YOURS

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

You are not asked to believe these statements without proof.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts.

And the great fact certainly is this: More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

That is true of the people who buy new cars.

It is true of people who buy replacement tires from dealers.

It is true of buses which carry passengers—more transcontinental, urban and interurban buses and coaches operate on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

It is true also of trucks—more Goodyear Truck Tires are made and sold than any other kind.

Year after year, throughout the world, the number continually increases. Millions more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Goodyear values are matchlessly high—tire prices are matchlessly low. This is the year to ride on Goodyears—now is the time to get yours.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Boradway Theatre.

"Man Trouble," a Fox Movietone all talking picture, acclaimed one of the outstanding productions of the year, opened its long awaited engagement at the Broadway theatre yesterday.

Based on Ben Ames Williams' thrilling story that was widely read in a magazine of extensive circulation, it was ably adapted for the screen by

George Manker Watters and Marion Orth with dialog by Watters and Edwin Burke. The play details the adventures of a beautiful girl and a romantic minded newspaperman who fall in love, following a meeting of unusual circumstance and who find themselves surrounded by menacing influences from which there seems to be no escape

Dorothy Maskaill, one of the most beautiful girls of the screen, portrays the leading feminine role and Milton Sills, as the owner of a night club, appears as the menace.

Palace Theatre

Today marks the opening of one of the finest double-feature shows in the history of the Palace theatre. "Recaptured Love" with Belle Bennett and a host of stars and "Rough Romance," a story of the great open spaces with George O'Brien and Helen Chandler have been billed together and the double-feature bill will be shown through Saturday of this week.

Admirers of Belle Bennett will find her more charming than ever in "Recaptured Love" and as a young mother who loses her husband's love to a chorus girl and then wins it back again she surprises the audience by stepping from her usual role of the stay-at-home person she has always portrayed.

"Rough Romance" is a picture that no one who is fond of beautiful scenery should miss. The whole company was sent to the Cascade mountains of Washington on beautiful Mount Rainier where the setting of the picture was laid. For three days they were cut off from the outside world by a blizzard and most of the time had to travel on dogsled. Coming Sunday, Constance Bennett in "Common Clay."

Arson squads are to be revived in Oklahoma in an attempt to reduce the number of incendiary fires.

One of these performers does a loop-the-loop to a hand catch with his partner. This phase of their act has been declared by scientists to be the most marvelous achievement of human beings. The remaining acts are of equally high calibre They include the Great Rollo, a high pole equilibrist performing 100 feet in the air; the Sig Franz Troupe doing a bicycle and unicycle ride in which the three women and two men of the act feature much comedy; Reymer Brothers, who stunt on a flimsy perch; The Crystal Trio, a woman and two men showing many new tricks in skating, and Monroe Brothers, tumbling comedy tramps.

The Bellclair Brothers remain for the four days and two afternoons of the fair. The other five acts leave after Saturday night's performance but will be supplemented Labor day by other spectacular performances.

Thursday and Friday nights the Peerless orchestra will play for the dancing and Van's Dance orchestra will fill the bill for the remainder of the run.

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27.—The first indication of an increase in the manufacturing business in New London was evidenced today with the announcement that the Corticelli Silk company would shortly operate its Church street mill to capacity. The mill of the company at Norwich will be closed to business and its silk looms brought to this city and set up in the New London mill. The Norwich looms are operated by electricity and are of modern pattern. They will displace other power looms and make possible the employment of double shift crews if occasion require. The machinery from this mill is being removed to storage.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27.—Boleslaw Habarek, 80 Winthrop street, was arrested today at his home by Patrolman Dennis Murphy on a federal removal warrant, signed by Judge Warren B. Burrows, judge of the United States district court of New Haven county, charged with violation of the prohibition law. Habarek was locked up at police headquarters and will be taken to Providence tomorrow. A United States marshal will come to this city and take charge of the prisoner.

Habarek and Witold Korpacz, the latter of Providence, drove to New London several months ago with a quantity of alcohol, destined for a customer. BLOCK I. BOAT EMPLOYES IN BITTER RIVALRY

The anticipated clash of employes of the two boats plying between New London and Block Island was realized yesterday when an impromptu bout took place between a deck hand on the Nelseco and the Romano's purser. While the battle was of short duration and no damage was done, the purser of the Romano this morning went to police headquarters and requested that he be given protection. As a result two officers went to the approach of the municipal pier, but there was no need of their services. The trouble between the two men is the result of the rivalry of the boat employes to obtain passengers. Yesterday, when the member of the crew of the Nelseco was escorting a passenger to the boat it is claimed the purser of the Romano endeavored to induce the patron to go to the Romano. At that the deck hand seized the purser by the throat and shook him long and vigorously. A patrolman who was nearby put a stop to the hostilities.

Leon Maynard, residing on the Flanders road, East Lyme, was arrested late yesterday by State Police Officers Frederick Johnson and William E. MacKenzie charged with violation of the liquor law, actual sale. He will be given a hearing in the East Lyme justice court Friday. Maynard had been suspected for some time of engaging in the liquor business and recently the services of a stool pigeon were obtained. When the informer reported that he had succeeded in purchasing liquor of Maynard a search warrant was issued and last night the officers went to the house and instituted a thorough search, but failed to find either liquor or beer. As an actual sale was claimed against Maynard he was arrested and held in call of $1,000 for trial.

SCRAP AT WAITER'S DANCE RESULTS IN SLASHING

Negroes residing in New London conducted a dance for the colored waiters at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point last night, in the hall of the Negroes on Hempstead street. As the result of a fight which started, Leon Coakley, a member of the United States Coast Guard, suffered four lacerations and is a patient at the sick bay, state pier, and Charles Wilson, one of the hotel waiters, is a prisoner at the county jail awaiting a hearing in the police court tomorrow, for he could not provide a surety on his bond of $3,000. The dance did not get under way until about 11 o'clock. While the men and women were gliding about the floor about 1:30 a fight started. During the height of the battle, it is claimed that Wilson was one of the combatants and Coakley attempted to separate the battlers. While doing so, Wilson pulled a knife from his pocket and started wielding it with Coakley as his target. Coakley suffered a wound two and one-half inches in length on the right arm, another on the breast and two on the upper part of the back. When the knife-wielder had finished his attack he vanished and Coakley started for police headquarters. En route Coakley came upon Patrolman Michael Dorsey and when the latter was informed of the fight, he accompanied the Negro to police headquarters. There Coakley declared that his assailant was Wilson and a request was made of the state police to arrest him. An officer was sent to the hotel, but Wilson was not there. About 7:30 o'clock Officer Frederick Johnson went to the hotel and finding Wilson at his employment arrested him. He was presented in court and was identified by Coakley as the man who had inflicted the knife wounds. The state was not prepared to proceed with the trial, so Wilson was held a prisoner until tomorrow for the purpose of permitting the examination of several witnesses.

TWO WOMEN INJURED IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Two women were injured today in automobile accidents and both are patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. One is Mrs. Annie Kobelecki, 118 Wilcox street, Fall River, Mass., and the other is Mrs. Frances Goodwin, 98 Stanwood avenue, Roxbury, Mass. Mrs. Kobelecki was driving from the Golden Spur, East Lyme, to New London and when in Waterford one of the tires burst. The car was being driven at a fast rate of speed and with the collapse of the tire and before the woman could bring the car to a stop it skidded badly, then toppled over on its side. Mrs. Kobelecki was taken to the hospital, where her injuries consist of bruises of the head and chest and scratches on the arm and leg.

Mrs. Goodwin was a passenger in the auto being driven by her husband and was en route to Roxbury. When passing through Waterford, Goodwin lost control of the steering wheel temporarily, but long enough for the car to leave the highway and hit a rock. FINE OF $100 AND COSTS GIVEN KNIFE WIELDER

Bernacio Fadriquilla, U. S. coast guard, was in the police court today, charged with breach of the peace in attacking with a knife another Filipino, Mel Patricia, 41 North Bank street, following a fight over a card game, in which Fadriquilla was accused of having cheated. Fadriquilla was fined $100 and costs as there was no doubt as to his guilt.

Fadriquilla and Patricia went to the home of another Filipino on North Bank street on the night of Aug. 10 and the three gambled the entire night. When the card game broke up in the morning and Patricia, who was a loser, observed two aces fall from the person of Fadriquilla, the latter was accused of having cheated. In a short time the Filipinos were fighting. Fadriquilla pulled a knife from his pocket and, making a lunge at Patricia, the blade sank deep into the latter's arm. Patricia was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital by friends. Fadriquilla when arrested was held a prisoner at the U. S. Coast Guard academy until today when, Patricia having been discharged at the hospital, the accused was delivered to the civil authorities.

BONDSMAN LEFT UNEASY BY McELHANEY'S ABSENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27.—John McElhaney, proprietor of a speakeasy at 9 Pearl street, was scheduled to be tried in the police court today on a charge of selling booze, but he failed to show up. His bond of $1,000, which was furnished by Louis Elfenbein at the time of McElhaney's arrest, was not declared forfeited, for the case was continued until tomorrow in order to give McElhaney opportunity to appear in court and save the bond from being forfeited. A search today, however, failed to locate McElhaney, although he is known to have been about the city yesterday and Monday. A visit to the drinking resort by Patrolman Dennis Murphy brought the report that the apartment appeared to have been vacated. McElhaney was arrested a week ago when a series of raids were made by the police and upon information furnished by stool pigeons.

Edward Dray, 62 Douglass street, a public service cab driver, was charged with breach of the peace. He was fined $10 and costs, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Dray and John Ficarra, the latter a driver, and employed by the same company, engaged in a quarrel over the transportation of a passenger Sunday night. When the altercation was most fierce, Dray attacked and severely beat Ficarra, whose injuries have kept him from his employment ever since.

Ruby C. Mayo, chief petty officer, residing at 36 Franklin street, was charged with breach of the peace. The charge was nolled.

Part of Fine Remitted

Lacey Smith, New Haven, temporarily employed as a tailor at Niantic, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs, but $50 of the fine was ordered remitted. Smith was driving his automobile on Franklin street at 1 o'clock this morning and it collided with a car in which were Thomas Caron, 30 Fowler court, and Hugh Shannon, Jr., 88 Connecticut avenue, and two young women companions. Both cars were damaged. When Patrolman Henry Sylvia investigated the accident and Smith was visibly intoxicated, the New Haven driver was arrested.

William T. Kenney, submarine base, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving without having signed his license. He was given suspension of judgment. Kenney was arrested last night by Patrolman Michael Dorsey.

The other cases tried were for intoxication. One man, who was found staggering about the tracks of the New Haven railroad last night by Special Agent Harold Swanson, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended. Two others were allowed their liberty by the same judgment.

A man arrested in Waterford last night by State Police Officer Eric Swanson, charged with intoxication, was today released when it was decided not to prosecute the offender.

SIX CANDIDATES IN THE RACE FOR MAYOR OF DETROIT

DETROIT, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Six qualified candidates remained in the race for mayor of Detroit tonight as the time limit was passed for filing nominating petitions in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the recall five weeks ago of Mayor Charles Bowles.

While candidates may legally withdraw up to 4 p. m. tomorrow, the hopes of some of Bowles' critics to make the race a two-man contest with Bowles administration the principal issue were dashed by developments during the last two days.

Bowles himself has turned aside all suggestions that he retire from the race and repeatedly has denied rumors that he intends to do so. Two other candidates certain to remain in are George Engel, former chairman of the civil service commission, and Frank Murphy, who resigned as a judge of recorder's court in order to make the race. Another candidate, John W. Smith, former mayor, whom Bowles defeated in November, 1929, was represented as willing to quit if opposition to Bowles would be limited to one candidate by his doing so.

Harold H. Emmons, who served as police commissioner for a short time under Bowles, was placed in nomination and then invited the other candidates to a conference looking toward agreement on one man. He received no response and now is expected to remain in the race. The sixth candidate is Charles F. Clippert, member of the board of fire commissioners, whose petitions were filed today. Richard W. Reading, city clerk, was placed in nomination, but withdrew.

Under the recall law the candidate receiving the largest number of votes, regardless of how far that may be from a majority, will be elected mayor.

CHARITABLE ORGANIZATIONS LIABLE TO TAXATION

The more the tax and other officials review the decision of the supreme court in the Canterbury school case the more exempt property seems to be included within the decision which was given in that case, says the New Haven Times. Farwell Knapp, the deputy state tax commissioner, told John L. Gilson in the probate court the other day that it was the opinion of the state tax commissioner that all these charitable institutions from which the state was now trying to collect the inheritance tax on bequests were also undoubtedly liable for city and town taxes.

A review of the law interpreted by the supreme court's decision makes it appear that not only are these charitable organizations liable for city and town taxes, unless specially exempted by statute or by their charter but that the law also includes all scientific, educational, literary, historical, charitable, agricultural, horticultural and cemetery associations which come under that law of exemption.

It is also believed that all religious organizations and all hospital organizations which come under the ruling of the supreme court's decision are also liable for city and town taxation and for the inheritance tax on all bequests to them.

The law of 1929, as it appears in Chapter 24 of the public acts, amends the exemption law and with specific reference to scientific, educational and other societies named above provides that they shall be exempt, provided.

"Any officer, member or employe thereof does not receive or at any future time shall not receive any pecuniary profit from the operation thereof except reasonable compensation for services in the control of its affairs" and provided further that every four years, beginning in 1929, such organization shall submit to the assessors of the city or town in which the property is located, before the last day on which such lists may be submitted, a list of exempted property or the property for which exemption is claimed.

In the general exemption law religious organizations are also mentioned and the same provision is made in reference to the pecuniary profit of any person connected with them.

MONTVILLE MAN SUES FOR $35,000 DAMAGES

Damages totaling $35,000 are asked in two suits brought in the superior court, against Sebastian Silva of New London and the J. P. Frisbie Co., of Hartford by William La Bounty of Montville as the result of an accident in which William La Bounty, Jr., son of the plaintiff was killed and Jeanne La Bounty, daughter of the plaintiff was injured. The fatal accident occurred May 3, last when the two children, William, Jr., and Jeanne, were riding in a coaster cart. As they came out of a driveway which led to the road, the Frisbie truck, operated by Sebastian Silva, of New London, hit them. William, Jr., was killed, while Jeanne received injuries which are alleged to be permanent in effect. For the death of his son, LaBounty asks $10,000 damages, and for the injuries which his daughter suffered, he asks $25,000 damages, claiming negligence on the part of the operator of the truck.

Damages of $5,000 are asked by Carl Victor Freberg, New London, as a result of an automobile accident on April 14, 1930, in a suit against William N. Jennings, 3rd, Scarsdale, N. Y., and William W. Jennings, Jr., of the same place.

Automobiles operated by Freberg and Jennings, 3rd, the latter in an automobile owned by Jennings, Jr., collided on the Hartford-New London turnpike. Freberg claims negligence on the part of Jennings in operating at a reckless speed and in a dense fog without headlights, causing the plaintiff to receive injuries about the head and body and a split lobe of the right ear.

Sues Owner Camp Mystic.

Damages of $25,000 are asked by Mrs Myra D. Selden, for her minor daughter, Marjorie Gelink, of Hadlyme. She is suing Mary L. Jobe Akeley, owner of Camp Mystic, Mystic, for injuries sustained by her daughter. Mrs. Selden claims that her daughter while at Camp Mystic on July 8, 1929, was injured badly by being thrown from the back of a horse while being instructed in horseback riding by a camp counsellor. Mrs. Selden claims her daughter was placed negligently in an advanced class in horseback riding, when the girl, who had never ridden a horse before, should have been in a beginner's class.

Permanent injuries are claimed to result from the girl being thrown in that her left arm received a compound fracture, her back was injured by the horse stepping on it and internal injuries were sustained.

Mrs. Selden, in addition to $25,000 damages, asks for a refund of the $450 camp tuition.

Sues G. and S. Railway.

Willard G. Taylor of Groton brings suit against the Groton and Stonington Traction Co., and Melvin F. Gilleney, an employe of the company asking $7,500 damages, as a result of a collision on the Boston Post road in Groton on February 15, 1930.

The plaintiff was driving a truck owned by Marcus L. Trail, Groton, and his truck collided with a bus operated by Gilleney. Taylor says his elbow was dislocated and sprained, his neck and spine bruised and he suffered contusions and slight fractures of the knee.

Sam Abrams and Annie Rubin of Colchester have brought suit against William Seegar of Hartford asking an injunction to prevent the cutting of timber and also asking $2,000 damages. It is claimed by the plaintiffs that about July 1, 1930, Seegar entered on their land in Colchester and cut down about 100 trees, which he proposes to convert to his own use. They ask for an injunction to prevent further cutting of trees and trespass on their premises, and $2,000 damages.

Another injunction suit is that brought by Genaro Menghi, of New London to prevent Murray Cash, New London, from trespassing on his property, which is known as Menghi street. Menghi claims Cash has been using his (Menghi's) property as a public highway, when Menghi street is not such. Menghi asks nominal trespasses and an injunction and other equitable relief.

Damages of $10,000 are asked by Catherine Daniels of Montville for injuries received in an automobile accident on January 2, 1930, in a suit brought in the superior court against Wilson and company of New London, and Elisha T. Warner, New London.

Miss Daniels was walking along the edge of the New London-Norwich turnpike and was struck by a truck of the Wilson company, operated by Warner. She claims that Warner failed to blow his horn on passing her and was negligent in operating the truck. She suffered a fracture of the left humerus and claims permanent injuries will result.

Damages of $2,500 are asked by Coffey and Co., Inc., New London, in a suit against George H. Miller and Mary Isabelle Miller, New London. Plaintiffs claim Mrs. Miller guaranteed payment of goods sold to Miller and up to now $1,912.79 is owed Coffey and company. They ask the superior court for a judgment for $2,500 to effect payment.

Mabel D. Sande of Groton asks damages of $5,000 from Robert P. McFee, New London, as a result of an automobile accident on July 11, 1930.

She claims McFee was demonstrating a car he wished to trade with her when the automobile turned over, on the Pleasant Valley road, Groton. Mrs. Sande claims McFee was negligent in operating the car. She sustained several broken ribs, injuries to her body and permanent injuries to her legs.

A $4,000 damage suit has been brought by Franklin G. Post, Stonington, against Charles Tifft, Springfield, on the common counts. Post claims non payment of a debt for $3,484.92.

POETRY

The Summer Moon

Her veil of mystic web is caught
In branches of the oak and pine;
Her silver feet with magic fraught
Dance on the stream in mystic line.
A brooding peace of elfin bloom
Is on the world beneath a spell
That charms with fragrance and perfume
The shore, the sea, the clover dell.

If ever love yearned for an hour
Of perfect life, it is when she,
The moon of summer full in flower,
Walks on the carpet of the sea.
All nature, sensing something rare,
Holds breath, and every whispering thing
Is freed from every moment's care,
While beauty ventures on her wing.

The ripples of the tide are rimmed
With glory of her silvery ray,
Antiphonals by fairies hymned
Tell of adventure's long delay.
And then a white sail on the stream
Catches a tip of wandering light
And all men lost in deeps of dream
Voyage in their vision of the night.

Fagged Out

I want to let go,
To drop the whole thing,
The worries, the frets,
The sorrows, the sins.
Just to let myself down
On the bed or the ground—
Anywhere, so it's down—
And let myself go.

And the folks? I don't care
And my business? The same,
Hell and Heaven? Too tired.

I want to forget,
And I don't want to say
What I want to forget,
And I don't want to think,
Just to let down my nerves,
Just to smooth out my brain,
Just to sleep. And that's all.

Please leave me alone
With your pillows and things;
'Tisn't that that I want,
Nor a doctor, nor folks.
I just want to let go.
Oh, I want to let go.

REVOLUTION THREATENING REPUBLIC OF ARGENTINA

The Government Palace in Buenos Aires is Under Heavy Guard—All Military Units in the Capital Area Have Been Confined to Their Barracks—Unrest Caused by Public Feeling Against the Failure of Congress to Get to Work.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 28—(AP)—Dr. Juan De La Campa, minister of justice, was stated by the newspaper La Critica today to have informed President Yrigoyen that there was an immediate possibility of a revolution involving certain political leaders and part of the army.

Replying to this suggestion of an impending revolution in Argentina, the president was reported to have said that he feared no subversive outbreak in the country, at the same time he expressed the belief that he himself might be in danger of an attack.

The president, whose home is being guarded by a strong force of mounted police, arrived at the government palace this afternoon under a heavy guard. It was understood that members of the cabinet met at the palace this morning.

Four or more machine guns are said to have been mounted on the roofs of buildings surrounding the president's home and the palace military guards have been strongly reinforced, machine guns being placed on the roof of their headquarters as additional protection. A mounted police patrol surrounded the palace.

All military units in the capital area were said to have been confined to their barracks. While the capital abounded with rumors, calm prevailed throughout the city and the population apparently was not disturbed by the tense atmosphere in political circles.

The official explanation for the extraordinary police activity in the capital was that it was only a precautionary measure against possible disturbances arising out of a 24-hour strike of the 6,000 employes of the Union Telephone company.

The newspaper La Critica said that Dr. De La Campa had informed the president of the growth of public feeling against the failure of congress to get to work. The president was reported as promising to call an extraordinary session of congression Sept. 8 inasmuch as the term of the regular session expires this week.

The telephone employes' strike, which took out only about one-tenth of the company's workers, failed even to interrupt local service.

Several lines were cut and quickly repaired. An unsuccessful attempt was made to damage an exchange.

Most of the strikers are from the construction department. They held a demonstration in front of the government palace, but otherwise caused no open trouble.

SECOND DAY OF HEARING ON FLORIDA CONSPIRACY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Preliminary hearing for three men charged with conspiracy to procure the assassination of Governor Doyle E. Carlton moved through its second day today with state and defense switching the spotlight in many directions.

Cross-examining Vincent C. Giblin, Miami attorney for Alphone Capone, defense attorneys sought to learn whether Capone had any interest or paid any bribes in gambling or liquor business in Miami. They also asked if Capone had made any statements about Chicago murders.

Giblin has testified he came into the case as an investigator because he heard that if Carlton had been slain the killing was to be laid to Capone men. He said he proposed a $150,000 plan to get control of Miami gambling as a bait to draw out Frank Ralls, one of the defendants.

He denied that Capone had any liquor or gambling dealings in Miami.

The state brought to the stand Secretary of State R. A. Gray and State Treasurer W. V. Knotts, both of whom testified of conferences they attended to discuss the alleged plot with Clem Dolino, former roommate of Ralls, who has testified he first exposed it.

Both state officials testified that, after hearing Dowling's story they were apprehensive for the safety of the governor and advised him to take precautions.

SIX PERSONS INJURED WHEN PLANE MIXED WINGS

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Six persons were injured, some of them critically, when two planes mixed wings during an exhibition at the Iowa State fair this afternoon.

Leo Allen, pilot of one of the planes, was one of the most seriously injured. Physicians said they believed he suffered a fractured skull. The others injured were Harold Waller, 10, of Norwalk, Iowa, probable skull fracture; R. Hall, 29, of Des Moines; J. B. Hayes, of Mitchellville, Iowa; Mrs. Claude Pose, Des Moines, and F. W. Schroder, of Galt, Iowa.

Allen and Cy Younglove were flying with a trio calling themselves the "Sons of Guns."

They started to make a turn and mixed wings. Allen's plane fell near the aircraft tent, but Younglove righted his.

Allen's plane struck the ground about 75 feet from the aircraft tent. It rolled over twice, spectators said, and then crashed through one tent.

The second mishap of the afternoon occurred later in the day when the Curtiss-Wright "Mystery Ship" overturned while landing. Leroy McGrady, the pilot, was bruised, but not seriously injured. He was a companion of Allen and Younglove in their act at the fair.

The planes were piloted by Leo Allen and Cy Young Love who had been stunting before a crowd in the grandstand.

Allen's plane fell, but the other machine did not. Allen is believed to have suffered a fractured skull.

TRIPLE EXECUTION IN SING SING LAST NIGHT

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—In a triple execution in Sing Sing prison tonight, Claud Udwine, 20; William Force, 30, and Jesse Thomas, 20, were electrocuted for their part in the Auburn prison riot last December in which ten lives were lost. They were convicted of responsibility for the death of Henry Sullivan, ring leader of the mutiny.

Thomas, the first to be executed, walked through the door of the death chamber at 11:02 p. m. Force and Udwine followed in quick succession. Udwine, the last to die, was pronounced dead at 11:20.

All three spoke words of reckless bravado, interspersed with profanity, as they went to their deaths. As the executioner fumbled with the head electrodes while placing them on Force, the latter said, "What are you so nervous about, boy? Take it easy; I'm in no hurry."

H., Aug. 28.—(AP)—In spite of vigorous protests by one of its members from Maine, the New England grange lecturers, who are holding their 19th annual conference here, passed a motion today declaring themselves opposed to efforts to repeal the 18th amendment. Support of prohibition and aid in enforcement were also pledged in the motion.

CHARGED WITH ATTACKING AND BEATING A GIRL

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A 25-year-old country club employe, Claude Palgren, was arrested late today in Bedford and charged with attacking Miss Alli Engbert, 17, who said she was beaten with a hammer on a lonely road by a man whose advertisement for a house maid she answered. Palgren denied the charge.

Police said Miss Engbert identified Palgren as her attacker, when he was taken to Northern Westchester hospital, where she is being treated for a fractured skull and lacerations. A state police sergeant and Chief of Police Malette made the arrest at a country club in Bedford.

Palgren was taken to police headquarters for questioning and then set out with police to retrace the ground over which the girl wandered for two days after the alleged attack.

Miss Engbert was taken to the hospital last night after she had collapsed on the doorstep of George H. Covey, publisher, near Katonah.

Shortly after she was taken to the hospital the girl, in one of her conscious moments, told police her assailant gave the name Claude Scott when he applied for a servant at a New York employment agency.

ATTEMPTED JAIL BREAK FOILED AT CAMDEN, N. J.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 28—(AP)—Although no official announcement was made, police expressed the belief that the Camden county grand jury had returned indictments today against three prisoners a few hours after they had been thwarted in an attempted break from the county jail.

Official presentment of the grand jury's findings will not be made until next Tuesday, but the authorities pointed out that the rapid decision in the case indicated that indictments had been found.

The accused prisoners are Stephen McKiernan, also known as Connors; Jack Wiener and William Solinsky. The first two are awaiting trial on charges of holding up a bank runner at Fairview recently and were sent to Camden from Jersey City. Solinsky is charged with larceny.

Sheriff Frank Pine and two inmates of the prison, whose names were not disclosed, were the only witnesses during the twenty minute session of the grand jury.

State police and detectives armed with a machine gun, pistols and tear gas bombs, foiled the attempted break, which was in a special corridor used for prisoners under special guard in the building.

ASKS LAW TO ENFORCE HER ACKNOWLEDGMENT AS MOTHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A 72-year-old woman today asked the law to force two matrons prominent in New York society to acknowledge her as their mother.

Mrs. Elizabeth Archibald secured and order from Supreme Court Justice Untermyer permitting her to serve summons and complaint by publication upon Mrs. Elizabeth Vanderhoef, of the exclusive Sutton Place district here, and Mrs. Carolyn Harriss, of La Bouquet, France. She asks injunctions compelling them to change statements in their marriage licenses regarding their parentage.

Mrs. Archibald alleged her daughters in obtaining licenses to wed gave their father's name as James A. Archibald and their mother's maiden name variously as Elizabeth Case and Elizabeth Russell. She said her maiden name was Elizabeth Walden, that her husband's name was Everett A. Archibald. She further alleged that Mrs. Vanderhoef falsely published in a periodical that Mrs. Archibald was her step-mother.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF MILK INITIATED BY DAIRYMEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)— The presidents of both the Borden Farm Products company and the Sheffield Farms company testified today that the recent cent a quart increase in the price of milk was initiated by the Dairymen's league.

Questioned at the state inquiry into milk prices, they both also said the drought was the underlying reason for the increase.

The Sheffield company buys its milk from 14,000 farmers in the New York milk shed, which comprises New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Maryland. Borden buys from the league.

Leo A. Von Somel, Sheffield president, said his company began paying 37 cents a hundred weight more to the farmers and charging the public a cent a quart more because their farmers demanded it on the score the league was making the increase. The farmers felt they ought to have the increase because the drought had lessened the production of corn and so made cattle feeding more expensive.

Harry Crook, Borden president, said that when he was told the league was planning to raise the price a cent a quart he protested vigorously but to no purpose. He acknowledged that because of drought conditions he thought the farmers ought to be given more but he thought it was a bad time to increase the price to the consumer.

"I opposed the raise because of economic conditions," he said, "and the present depression. I felt such an increase at this time would cause us a severe loss in trade."

SEARCH FOR KENNETH SWANSON AT STANDSTILL

COLEBROOK, Aug. 28—(AP)—The five day intensive search for Kenneth Swanson, two and a half year old Barre, Vt., boy who disappeared from his grandfather's home here Sunday, tonight was at a standstill with the investigators sharply divided as to his fate.

Residents of Colebrook and the surrounding territory who have turned out by the hundreds to aid in finding the missing youngster, were convinced that the wooded, lake dotted hills and swamplands of Litchfield county do not hold the secret of his disappearance. As a result less than a score set out today on the fifth day of the cross country hunt that has been so barren of results. And again they discovered nothing.

State police, on the other hand, scouted the theory of kidnaping advanced by the boy's parents and grandparents. They held to the conviction that the boy would be found—perhaps alive but more likely dead—in the woods or marshes in the vicinity of the farmhouse from which he vanished so completely. They intimated they placed little credence in remarks attributed to Mrs. Theodore Kennette, the grandmother, in which suspicions of an "enemy family" in Barre, Vt., were aired.

A reward of $500 offered by the Winsted Evening Citizen today for information as to the youngster's whereabouts was hoped to spur on the hunt.

PRAISE FOR THE RECORD OF PRESIDENT HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Aug 28.—(AP)—The republican national committee in a statement today said few administrations in recent times have had such a record of promises kept as has that of Herbert Hoover.

In support of the assertion the committee issued a lengthy summary of administration accomplishments as compared to the Kansas City platform. The platform planks were given in one column and in a parallel column was the committee's view of what had been done.

Recalling the president's statement: "Platform promises must not be empty gestures," the compilation said a reduction of income taxes of $60,000,000 for 1930 at Mr Hoover's recommendation was evidence that the party pledge to reduce the "tax burden" wherever possible was being carried out.

Almost every plank in the platform was dealt with in similar fashion.

DEMAND AND SUPPLY IN THE SUGAR INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the conference of American and Cuban sugar producers, said today that definite progress had been made by conferees toward establishment of "equilibrium between demand and supply" in the sugar industry.

"We have encountered no real obstacles," he said, "and our progress has been more than we hoped for."

The conferences will be continued, he said, until a definite agreement has been reached upon the proposal by Cuban interests of a pact calling for curtailment of Cuban and American sugar production during the next five years in an effort to stabilize prices.

"He picked out a nice moment to serve a fellow," the mayor said. "I think it was absolutely discourteous to break into the broadcast of the reception to the German fliers."

OFFICERS ELECTED BY GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28—(AP)—James E. Jewel, born on an Ohio farm in 1847 and now a lawyer, stock breeder and farmer at Ft. Morgan, Iowa, stands tonight where General Ulysses S. Grant stood in 1865—at the head of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Union veterans of the Civil war elected Jewel commander in chief as their 64th encampment drew to a close today. He succeeded Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Mass. His election occurred on the first ballot when Kansas switched from its favorite son, Harding Merrill of Wichita, and Illinois followed suit. Jewel received 243 votes, Merrill 43, Samuel P. Town of Philadelphia, the assistant quartermaster general and custodian, 191; Charles Nason, Portland, Maine, senior vice commander in chief, 14, and Smith Stimmell of argo, Ind, last survivor of Lincoln's mounted body guard, 10.

The new commander enlisted in the 27th Iowa Infantry at the age of 17 and fought at the battles of Nashville and Fort Blakely. He later moved to Colorado, joined the G. A. R. in 1879, served as commander of the department of Colorado and Wyoming in 1921 and 1922 and was unanimously chosen senior vice commander of the National G. A. R., at the Denver encampment in 1928.

Jacob Secrits, of Cincinnati, former commander of the Ohio department of the G. A. R., was elected senior vice commander in chief and Charles H. Lewis, of Pawtucket, R. I., junior vice commander in chief.

HYDROPLANES TUNING UP FOR HARMSWORTHY TROPHY

DETROIT, Aug. 28—(AP)—The three hydroplanes upon which Gar Wood will depend to meet the most formidable challenge yet made against his right to hold the Harmsworth trophy, were given additional tuning up spins on the Detroit river today. Meanwhile scores of watercraft, ranging from the little dinghies that are part of the equipment of a commodore's yacht to the large cruiser type, assembled on the river to open tomorrow a five days regatta.

Tomorrow's card will be devoted entirely to preliminary heats of lesser events, with the first 30-mile race for the Harmsworth trophy set for 5 p. m. Saturday. The second race of the Harmsworth event will be raced Monday afternoon.

Following a somewhat different practice than Gar Wood, the British challenger, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs, has been conserving the motors of her two boats, Estelle IV, and Estelle V. They have been driven at full speed perhaps less than an hour, although there have been numerous tests with their Napier engines throttled down. The tests, however, have been sufficient to show that either of the boats is capable of at least 90 miles an hour.

The preliminary tests were so impressive that Wood, after viewing the challenging boats at Gravenhurst, Ont., came back home and had a new Miss America built and decided also to enter a full team of three boats in the race. They are the Miss Americas V, VIII., and IX.

In the event that the first two Harmsworth races are divided between Great Britain and the United States a third race will be held Tuesday. Tuesday will also see mile trials for new world speed records by the Harmsworth entries.

A second international race, for 5 1-2 liter boats, furnishes the high light of the Sunday program. Races for sailboats, cruisers, various types of outboard motor boats and stock speedboats also are on the five day program.

RADIO STATIONS CALLING THE SEALER BRATVAAG

OSLO, NORWAY, Aug. 28—(AP)—Scandinavian radio stations today began calling the Sealer Bratvaag, Dr. Horn's expedition ship, which has aboard the bodies of Salomon August Andree and his Polar companions, found in the Arctic after thirty-three years.

The calls, taking an emergency form, are directing the little steamer to make all speed to avoid danger to its precious cargo which might make difficult the unfolding to the world of the tragic story of the Andree Polar balloon flight.

Swift storms, with the possibility of disaster to the vessel in the Arctic and the loss forever of the story of Andree's fate as chronicled in the dairy found with the bodies on White Island prompted the Norwegian and Swedish governments and scientists to co-operate in dealing with the situation.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF CRIMINOLOGISTS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 28—(AP)—A heated debate on the question of solitary or mass confinement for prisoners broke out at the international congress of criminologists today.

It followed an address by Dr. Alice Masaryk, daughter of President Masaryk.

Sanford Bates, Massachusetts commissioner of correction, voiced the view that an abnormal character did not benefit unless confined with more normal beings both day and night.

During the protracted debate Belgium and France sided against America, England and Germany. When a vote was taken Belgium had a majority of 76 against 63 in favor of solitary confinement.

Lindberghs Idolized At Chicago Air Meet

Crowds Watched the Famous Couple Instead of the Stunt Fliers.

CURTISS-REYNOLDS AIRPORT, CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh became the center of attraction for 40,000 persons at the National Air races today.

The popular hero and his wife set their black and red low-winged monoplane in the middle of the airport early in the afternoon, coming here via Indianapolis from Columbus, O., where they spent the night. They were met by race officials, and cameramen and escorted to the grandstand by a small automobile parade.

The crowd cheered as the famous couple were taken to a box, and several hundred persons left their good seats to stand in front of the Lindbergh place. Jimmie Doolittle was stunting with his doodle bug, an event which usually keeps all eyes turned skyward, but only the Lindberghs were watching him, the crowd was watching the Lindberghs.

Amateur photographers in droves climbed the railing around the box and pointed cameras at the couple, some staying long enough to expose whole film rolls. Finally, Major R. W. Schroeder, chairman of contests, led the Lindberghs out of the boxes to the chief judge's stand above the press box. There they could see the races without themselves being seen.

Colonel Lindbergh said he was not planning to do any flying in the air races, although he will attend them again tomorrow before hopping off for Detroit. They arrived in time to see Lloyd O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., fly a Waco 10-T open ship 152.05 miles an hour to win a 25-mile race limited to motors of less than 800 cubic inch piston displacement.

A SIMPLE EULOGY AT LON CHANEY'S FUNERAL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Lon Chaney, who started life as a clown and died at the height of his career as one of the screen's most celebrated character actors, was laid to rest today in the Forest Lawn cemetery, Glendale.

The final chapter in the life story of "The man with a thousand faces" reached dramatic heights, perhaps above those in the film stories that made him famous.

The climax of the drama came when Lieutenant-Colonel H. S. Dyar, United States marine corps chaplain, his simple eulogy completed, stepped back from the silver, flower-banked, casket and violin and organ began softly the strains of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh,"—the title and theme song of one of Chaney's most successful pictures.

The active pallbearers were Chaney's closest friends—one, John Jeske, his chauffeur for ten years, was said to have been the actor's most constant companion.

Weeping at the head of the casket in the midst of the marine corps guard of honor, was Sergeant Frank McClouskey, honored for his war exploits with 76 medals. McClouskey, who sells newspapers on Catalina Island, owes his ability to walk to Chaney, who contributed funds for McClouskey's successful operation.

CONFIDENT ROLPH WILL BE ELECTED GOVERNOR OF CAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. —(AP) — Among the receding echoes of California's noisiest of recent gubernatorial primaries, San Franciscans can hear the "plunk" of high heeled boots half way up the steps of the state house at Sacramento.

A townsman toasted for 20 years as an "invincible" candidate, James Rolph, Jr., has taken the big hurdle in the hike from the San Francisco city hall to the governor's office, a trip no one has made since 1887.

The November election is regarded by his supporters as a mere formality, even though the wet and dry issue may bob up to complicate the campaign. He was the only candidate not endorsed by some anti-saloon organization but "what chance is there," his friends ask, "to beat a republican favorite who once received the gratuitous democratic nomination for governor?" particularly, in a state which hasn't chosen a democratic governor since 1894.

ASSURANCE TO INVESTERS IN FED. LAND BANK BONDS

Secretary Mellon in a Letter to Bankers States That the Federal Land Bank System Has Demonstrated Its Fundamental Soundness—That Investors in the Banks' Bonds Should Not Be Disturbed by False or Misleading Information Over the Agricultural Situation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Secretary Mellon in a letter to a group of bankers that has sold Federal Land Bank bonds to the public, states that the Federal Land Bank system has demonstrated its fundamental soundness, and investors in the banks' bonds should not be disturbed by false or misleading information over the agricultural situation.

The letter was written in reference to a report being prepared by the syndicate managers on the banks and their bonds, an advance copy of which was sent to Mr. Mellon. The banking group includes Alexander Brown & Sons, Harris Forbes & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Brown Bros & Co., the National City Co., and the Guaranty Co., as syndicate managers.

Mr. Mellon writes that the report, reviewing the Land Bank situation after 13 years, is appropriate, and "timely in view of the current discussion of adverse agricultural conditions, and also should be helpful to refute much of the misinformation that has been circulated recently with respect to these banks and their securities, and which undoubtedly has misled, and therefore disturbed, some investors."

He explains that the drought situation is temporary and confined to certain circumscribed areas, and the diversity of conditions that exist in the great expanse of the country's territory is an element of strength in the Land banks.

"The Federal Land Banks are permanent institutions, designed to function in good times and bad," he continues, "they constitute a great mutual and co-operative organization that covers the entire country, and each bank, in addition to being primarily liable for its own bonds, is liable, under the conditions stated in the law, for the principal of, and interest on, the farm loan bonds issued by all the other Federal Land Banks.

"These bonds issued by the Federal Land Banks constitute a sound, tax free security, and investors should not be disturbed by false or misleading information. The achievements and service of the system have demonstrated its fundamental soundness and usefulness."

TO TUNE UP ENTERPRISE FOR RACE WITH SHAMROCK V.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28—(AP)—The honor and responsibility of defending the America's cup rested gracefully tonight on the shoulders of Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the Enterprise, which has been selected to meet Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger, for the most famous of all yachting trophies.

Enterprise's three unsuccessful rivals, Yankee, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy; Weetamoe, the Morgan Nichols entry, and Whirlwind, the Thorne-Hammond boat, repaired to boat yards today while Vanderbilt went aboard Enterprise to supervise tuning up on the defender, which he hoped would retain possession of the cup won from England in 1851.

On September 13, he must take her out on the ocean course to meet Shamrock V, and he is going about his task as seriously and intensely as he has ever dealt with the task in hand. Vanderbilt has an enviable reputation as a bridge player. One play, the Vanderbilt convention, was named for him. His opponents long ago learned to know him as a dangerous foe.

ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE OF AGED WOMAN SOUGHT

WATERBURY, Aug. 28--(AP)--Charles Lahg, of New York, has started a civil action in the local superior court to have annulled the marriage of his 77 year old sister, Christina, of this city, to 71 year old James Robertson, also of Waterbury. The brother claims that the sister is incompetent to understand the marriage contract she entered into in Brewster, N. Y., on June 2, six months after the local probate court had named a conservator for her $60,000 estate. The brother also asks the court to rule that the husband by virtue of the purported marriage acquired no property rights to his sister's holdings.

Mrs. Robertson is a member of one of the oldest Waterbury families. She and her husband have retained counsel to fight the action started by the brother. Both say they are satisfied with the wedding which came after a friendship of 40 years.

"If I'd known Germany was listening in," the mayor remarked. "I would have said a few wie gehts and auf weidersehns myself."

The mayor first greeted the fliers inside city hall.

"It's a splendid thing you and your crew have done," he told Captain Von Gronau. "You are welcome. You'll find hundreds of thousands of persons of German extration here who have made the most splendid kind of citizens. You are welcome for what they have done as well as for what you have done."

SUICIDE INDICATED BY PATROLMAN CONNOLLY

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A significant statement attributed to Patrolman Michael T. Connolly, 48 hours before his body, with his hands manacled, was found in Portland harbor August 25, was believed by some investigators today to have indicated the officer premeditated suicide.

Subsequent investigation of his death has been on the theory that Connolly was surprised by rum runners, shackled with his own handcuffs and flung or forced overboard at the point of a gun.

County Attorney Ralph M. Ingalls disclosed today that 48 hours before his body was found, Connolly apparently had bidden farewell to Captain Stephen H. Cady, a brother officer with whom the patrolman felt he was not entirely friendly, according to Ingalls.

This man, Joseph (Legs) Laman, who is serving a 30 to 40 year prison sentence, will not be called, however, until the jurors have completed the first phase of their investigation, which deals with the assassination on July 23 of Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley, radio political commentator.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 28—Favored by ideal weather, the twelfth annual Elks' Country fair opened most auspiciously at Elks' park on Pleasant street here tonight, under management of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks.

The opening exercises consisted of a concert given on Main street at 7 o'clock by the B. P. O. E. band, Charles N. C Wheeler, director. At 7:30 o'clock Exalted Ruler George W. His declaration was the cue for an outburst of activity that sent the first night business of the annual fair booming to a new record. Hundreds at the fair came from far and near, indicating that the fair is an attraction that is reaching out into an ever widening circle. Business was reported as excellent at the booths, stands and rides. Crowds milled through the exhibit sheds where many new features were to be found. The dance hall where the Peerless orchestra presided, was taxed to capacity throughout the evening. Not least among the many outstanding attractions at the fair were the six big vaudeville acts which many did not hesitate to declare the best out of door program ever witnessed here.

S. male quartette, John Pizzo, Walter Bernal, Joseph Perry and Louis Skoczylas, sang We're All Friends. Their harmony was fine, as they proved that playing baseball was not their only accomplishment.

Second to no other part of the program, was the number taken by Joe Gilbert, the new coach, when he gave the boys a few pointers on how to win the four games over the week-end.

The menu: Chicken gambo, roast native chicken with dressing; mashed potatos, baked sweet potatoes, golden Bantam sweet corn on the cob, apple sauce, Parker house rolls, sliced tomatoes, stuffed queen olives, dressed jumbo celery, green apple pie, cake, coffee.

RUMORED FISK MILL SALE COMES FROM WILLIMANTIC

A rumor, originating in Willimantic, says that an oil company is contemplating the purchase of the Fisk Rubber Co. mill plant here, to manufacture tires. Probably some one said they "might" and the next one that they "had," for as far as is known here, now, no such transaction has taken place. However, according to Literary Digest, and several New York newspapers the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, of Pennsylvania, of Louisiana, the Imperial Oil Co. of Canada, and the Beacon Oil Co., which is said to have entered the field experimentally fifteen months ago, are to enter the tire selling field through their service stations. Nowhere in the Literary Digest article, does it mention the manufacture of tires, only the sale of them. In the oil industry those who disapprove such a step hold the opinion that the loss of business in oil and gasoline may result through incurring the animosity of garage operators and other retailers of tires who buy large supplies of petroleum products.

DR. JENNINGS' GOOD MEMORY EXTRA GOOD AT NORWICH

Dr. G. H. Jennings' has a very retentive memory, and recently had an amusing experience. He attended a meeting of the Rotary club in Norwich with his son-in-law, Prof. John Gregg of California. One of the Rotary rules allows a person to be addressed only by the first name, and a prepossessing young man cordially greeted the doctor, saying "I am —— but I don't know you." The doctor replied, "I know you, for I named you. You were there at the time, but you probably do not remember it." As that was in the neighborhood of forty years ago, and it was years since the two had met, "Susie's" astonishment can be imagined.

Both the Riverside Grammar school and parochial school open September eighth.

DANIELSON

D. G. BYERS OF ELMVILLE DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 28.—David G. Byers, for many years a resident of Elmville, died at his home there Wednesday evening. He was in his 67th year. Mr. Byers' death followed a prolonged illness. Previous to his illness, he was associated with the American Woolen company at Elmville, being overseer in the weaving department. For many years, Mr. Byers had been identified with the manufacture of textile products, being an experienced and capable supervisor.

Mr. Byers was a native of Scotland, having been born in Glasgow, the son of David and Mary (Masimdoe) Byers. He joined the textile ranks of industry when a young man, and worked in various cities in New England since coming to America. Fraternally, Mr. Byers held membership in the Franklin lodge, A. F. & A. M., at North Grafton, Mass., and was affiliated with the Royal Arcanum at Webster, Mass.

Surviving him besides his wife are two children. A son, Walter E. Byers, resides in Bridgeport, and daughter, Miss Esther Byers, lives in Elmville. He also leaves a sister and three brothers.

The dollar will come into its own in Danielson Saturday morning, when the merchants of this community will join hands and pave a way that will provide smooth rolling for the greenbacks of Windham county shoppers, expected to invade the business section early in the morning to take advantage of the unusual offerings. All leading merchants of the borough are taking part in the Dollar day, which incidentally comes at a most opportune time, by preceding the week end holiday.

Business houses on Main street were closed this afternoon, in keeping with the weekly half holiday schedule of the clerks. Before another week will have passed, the summer season will have practically ended and in consideration of this fact, the Thursday half holiday will no longer be observed by Danielson merchants. Many employes took advantage of the ideal summer weather prevailing today and immediately after the lunch hour were off for nearby pleasure resorts to spend their leisure hours at golf and other pastimes.

E. R. Hyde, a member of the faculty of the English college at the University of the Philippines in Manila, is at Brooklyn this week visiting with his wife. After a brief holiday here, Mr. and Mrs. Hyde will sail for England where they will spend several weeks in a tour of London and other parts of England and continental Europe. Upon the completion of this journey they will return to Manila, concluding a trip around the world. Mr. Hyde was born in Killingly and is a former resident of this community. His family has long been identified with Danielson, his grandfather having erected the original Dowe building on Main street, which was replaced with the present modern structure in 1927.

Danielson's policy of showing all manners of courtesy to its visitors is winning considerable recognition for the community in general. Through the method of tagging each out of town car with a "Welcome" card, Danielson has left an indelible impression of good fellowship upon the minds of tourists who come from points as far west as the land of the Golden Gate. This week Chief of Police John McFarland, whose name appears upon the bright yellow "park as long as you like tags" has received appreciative letters from New Jersey tourists who were elated with the unusual courtesies extended them during their stay in Danielson. In endorsing the welcome policey, Chief McFarland, while talking to an out of town newspaperman this morning said, "You see it costs us nothing, and the good will of our visitors is the fruit of the policy."

Earnest R. Warren, principal of Killingly high school, has found residences for a number of out-of-borough girls who will begin their secondary education with the re-opening of the high school next week. In commenting on the success of his negotiations with Danielson families in this matter, Mr. Warren said he is especially appreciative of the assistance given him by the local newspapers. Through the hospitality of a number of Danielson people, girls who applied to the principal to aid them in finding school day homes in exchange for a few hours housework, have been enabled to complete their education in a manner less difficult than if forced to make long daily journeys to and from school.

O. V. Chartier, local merchant, is making a satisfactory recovery at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, where he has been a patient for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Nettie Turner, Mrs. Ella Green and the Misses Inez and Alice Whittemore, of Ashford were the guests Wednesday of Mrs. Merle Bell of Danielson.

Wanted—A girl for cooking and housework. For particulars telephone Danielson 427.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Conklin and children, of Providence are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Conklin, of Broad street.

Building committees of the school boards of Killingly and Brooklyn are speeding renovation work in various educational buildings, for the reopening of schools on Tuesday.

Louis B. Gross, superintendent of the Danielson division of the Connecticut company, has returned from a vacation spent in New York state and Canada.

No municipal observance of Labor day on Monday, other than the general suspension of business will take place in Danielson, it was said today. Mid-night dance frolics are being planned for by proprietors of pavilions in this vicinity and theatre managers are preparing special holiday bills. A large number of people will gather at South Killingly where there will be an Old Home day celebration. A similar reunion of friends of residents and former residents will constitute the day's observance for the people of Ekonk.

State police at Danielson barracks have completed their investigation of the disastrous fire which destroyed several buildings in Plainfield Tuesday. Investigators through a compilation of certain data have eliminated the theory that the fire was one of incendiary origin.

PUTNAM

BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS FAIL TO SAVE LIFE OF MISS GIFFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 28.—After blood transfusions failed to stay the progress of her illness, Miss Chrystabel M. Gifford, 45, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gifford, of this city, died early this morning at the Huntington Memorial hospital in Boston, where she had been a patient for the past several days. Miss Gifford, who resided with her mother on Ring street, was widely known in Putnam and was prominent in women's fraternal organizations. Her death this morning, which was caused by pneumonia, came as a distinct shock to her large circle of friends in Putnam and vicinity.

Miss Gifford was taken seriously ill five weeks ago and was transferred from the Day Kimball hospital in this city to the Boston institution for observation. The illness which seized her increased in proportions and a last effort to save her life was attempted yesterday with blood transfusions. They were of no avail, her condition gradually becoming weaker until death occurred this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Miss Gifford was born in East Angus, Quebec, on Feb. 14, 1885. Her early years were spent with her family in Marysville, New Brunswick, Jewett City, Goodyear and Moosup. For the past 26 years, she had been a resident of Putnam, where she had been active in church and fraternal circles. She was a member of the Congregational church and of the church choral society. Fraternally she was affiliated with the Mispah Rebekah lodge, No. 33, of which she was past noble grand, and was a member of the Putnam grange.

Besides her parents, Miss Gifford is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Owen E. Barrett, of Providence; Mrs. Clarence G. Webster, of Willimantic, and Miss Hazel M. Gifford, of Ring street. She also leaves five brothers, Rev. Clarence F. Gifford, of Assonet, Mass., George W., Harry A., James F., and Frank L. Gifford, all of Putnam.

A Washington despatch Wednesday said that agents of the postoffice department will be in Putnam late next month for the purpose of inspecting sites recently proposed for the location of the federal postoffice building intended for this city. Four possible sites have been submitted by Putnam property owners and the site inspections to be made by postoffice inspectors will be to determine what lots are the most desirable from the standpoint of price, location, sanitation and convenience to public utilities. The Putnam postoffice has been before the treasury department for a considerable number of years. Monetary matters have been adjusted to the satisfaction of government officials, funds have been appropriated and the technical details have been transferred to a supervising architect, with the result that everything is in readiness to commence building operations as soon as a suitable site is procured.

Ideal weather conditions prevailing today and a half holiday afforded employes at local stores was incentive for large numbers spending the afternoon at local golf courses and swimming resorts.

Cyril Maude, renowned English actor and creator of the role "Grumpy," who played in the cinema production of the same name, that appeared on the screen at the Bradley theatre today, is the father-in-law of Mrs. John Maude, the former Rosamond Murray, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. Morris Murray of "Gwen Careg" farm at Abington. Mrs. Maude is summering at the country estate of her parents at the present. John Maude, her husband, left Abington recently for his home in England. He will be joined there by Mrs. Maude in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Andrews, of Farrows street, have returned to their home, after a month's tour of eastern Canada and northern New York state.

The primary teacher, Mrs. Ira B. Hurlbutt, also spoke of needs for the playground and of reading material. Program plans were outlined by the president for the meetings to be held the first Tuesday in October, November and December. The care of young children, who come to school by bus, was discussed and it was voted that the association communicate with the public utilities commission in Hartford and ask that a bus stop at the school for the children. Attention was also called to the need of a school warning sign on the Military highway. It was decided to invite the teachers of the Ledyard schools with the parents from the several districts, to the next meeting, October 7th, and to hold the session at the Country club. Mrs. J. Edmund Norman and Mrs. Daniel Crouch were hostesses for this session and served ice cream and cake.

PASSING TRAFFIC LIGHTS

In connection with traffic violations Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel says: "The commonest form of traffic violation in the cities, is not, needless to say, disobedience to an officer. . . . Most offenses occur in connection with signals and signs. Drivers find it easy to stretch the green light into the yellow and to go across. It is very easy not to see a direction sign, unless one wants to see it. Passing a red light deliberately is not uncommon."

It will have to be conceded that there are probably plenty of instances where the passing of a red light is deliberate and it is not improbable that there are needless street hazards created by those drivers who speed up their machines and take wide chances in order to get by on the green light.

There are unquestionably many instances where red lights are passed unknowingly and it would be interesting to know how many drivers can stand up and say they have never passed a red light. Probably they have not done it intentionally, but the practice of scattering signal lights all over the highway, and establishing them far from the point where a driver would ordinarily be looking, creates such confusion for the drivers, especially the strangers, that there is no wonder that signals are not seen and obeyed.

It is safe to say if there were more uniformity in the type of signals and the points for erecting them there would be a great relief to drivers and greater respect for the efforts to control traffic. When a driver enters a city and finds his first traffic signal suspended over the center of the street he naturally expects to find the rest similarly located. If they are tucked away over on a pole on the inside of the sidewalk he can easily go by without out seeing them. Later on he may find that he should have given heed to a small revolving light on a low standard set in the center of the street, though from the heavy traffic he might find it actually impossible to see it. Where a city maintains such a combination of traffic signals the passing of red lights can be attributed as much to the fault of the system as to the contempt of drivers.

In another city traffic signals may be completely different but equally varied. It is something which uniformity can and may some day correct.

STILL DANGEROUS PLAYTHINGS

Although the use of firearms by children has been the cause of many untimely deaths, such weapons continue to figure as dangerous playthings and the list of those killed is constantly being increased.

Two New Jersey boys had a small gauge shot gun with them while they were playing in boats. One of them picked it up, thinking that it had been unloaded, and in some way it was discharged, part of the shot going into the right eye of the other lad and, in the opinion of the physicians, the chances are not good for saving the sight.

This didn't increase the death list, but it means that the youngster must go through life seriously handicapped because of a gross piece of carelessness.

For boys in school to be provided with firearms and permitted to use them at play indicates that parents are basking in the shade of serious possibilities. They may not expect that there will be any casualties, for that would be the last thing they would want, but they must know from the character of the plaything and the too large number of sad experiences in other households that grave danger is involved and that it is expecting much when they rely upon children to charge their minds with the importance of care.

In too many cases it is the failure on the part of the parents to keep firearms out of the reach of young children, and to caution sufficiently the older ones who might be entrusted with firearms for proper purposes, that is responsible for such needless shootings. That they are accidental is readily appreciated, but that doesn't minimize the suffering and sorrow, and it doesn't restore life or eyesight.

"Didn't know it was loaded," is the all too frequent excuse offered in those cases where proper precaution was not taken to keep guns from children or to actually see that they were not loaded. Had the New Jersey lad been so trained that he would not point any gun, loaded or unloaded, at another person, his companion probably would have not been harmed.

CIRCLING THE CITIES

Massachusetts is spending a large sum for the construction of a new highway between Worcester and Boston. It is expected to straighten the highway, eliminate crossings and handle the traffic more satisfactorily. It involves a route which takes it through several communities and thickly settled sections and the suggestion has been advanced by a Worcester citizen that before the work has been advanced too far thought should be given to the opportunity of building around rather than through these communities.

The idea is in keeping with the views of highway engineers these days. It is contrary to the desires of communities as registered a few years ago but cities and small towns today are demanding that such highway construction should skirt rather than pass through them. They have learned by the experience of others and themselves that bringing trunk line traffic through the heart of a city or through villages and thickly settled sections causes disadvantages which should be avoided. That being the case, the time for preventing such conditions is before such construction is undertaken. It is desirable, both from the standpoint of the community and from the expense account of the state.

Experience shows that those who desire to stop in a city will do so, no matter where the main highway is located. Those who want to get to their destination will not stop and, when they are brought into busy centers, they simply add to the congestion and are needlessly confused themselves.

There aren't many communities which are looking for more traffic these days. Rather are they struggling with what they have and trying to reduce it.

Thus the suggestion advanced in Massachusetts would appear to be both timely and to the point. It comes when such a chance can be made without involving new construction and it deals with a matter which it seems probable the communities concerned will be glad to have handled in such a manner. At any rate, now is the time for reaching the decision, instead of waiting until the road is finished. It can be readily anticipated what the effect of the new road is going to be upon traffic over such a route.

PICKING THE DEFENDER

A decision involving much responsibility has been reached by the America's cup committee of the New York Yacht club in selecting Enterprise to defend the cup against Shamrock V. This makes it evident that the international contest is but a short time ahead and brings to a settlement one of the important duties in connection with the race.

In order that the situation might not develop where a yacht built to defend the cup would prove a total failure, or a weak proposition, as it did the year that the old Columbia was quickly put into commission to keep the cup on this side of the Atlantic, it is now the practice to build several yachts as defenders for the purpose of having the best selected as the real defender. It is as the results of the tests which have been made of the four new sloops that the committee has decided on Enterprise.

It is inevitable that opinions will differ as to which yacht ought to be picked, but it is clear that performances should count, and when the committee judges the American entries on that basis it is to be expected that they have selected the best. While some had looked with much favor upon the Yankee, it is the statement of Secretary Adams, who sailed the Yankee in its trials, that a good selection has been made.

What the country will now await is the performance. No one knows what the weatherman is going to provide in the way of wind on the days set for the races, but it is to be hoped that the committee has chosen the defender with such keen regard for its sailing qualities that there will be no question as to the outcome. Naturally, it is desired that the better boat should win, everything considered, but it is also to be expected that the best defender has been picked.

AIR TRANSPORTATION

In his report on commercial aviation, C. M. Young, assistant secretary for aeronautics, directs attention to the fact that there are 100,000 miles of scheduled service flown in this country every 24 hours, which is inclusive of the miles flown by students, technicians, sportsmen and the regular organizations in North American and Latin American service.

This makes it evident that aviation of a commercial nature is expanding and makes it possible for the secretary to believe that 200,000 persons will be carried in the air service next year.

The growth of transportation by air can be seen in all directions. Efforts continue to be made for greater safety and the progress being made in that direction is reflected in actuarial and official reports which show that there is but about one fatal accident on scheduled air lines for 5,000 persons carried, and on short pleasure flights, with licensed pilots in control, the rate is even less.

The need of increasing air safety is fully recognized. Efforts are bent in that direction with due understanding of its importance in getting and keeping people air minded. With better machines, better motors, experienced pilots, rapid strides are being made, even though engineers will not admit that the safety problem has been completely solved. That is a goal toward which progress must be gradual but satisfaction is found in the fact that each year shows advancement and the improvements are resulting in a decrease in the accidents and fatalities. There are still plenty of both, too many, in fact, but demonstrations are constantly being made which give better and better promises for those who fly, as well as for those who are engaged in the business of producing and marketing planes.

AT THE AGE OF FIFTEEN

"Well," Ernestine announced to her mother as she edged into the room where her parent was supposed to be enjoying a Sunday afternoon nap, "Tom certainly is going to be a humorist or a senator in a few years. You think you're headed one way with him and then he just picks you up by the nape of your neck and drops you off the bridge or something. Yes, he was just on the telephone. Just as interested and nice. 'What are you doing next Friday night, Ernie?' he wanted to know in a particularly kind voice, which should have warned me. Of course, I thought it was going to be a date so I counted ten not to sound too eager and then said casually that I guessed I didn't have a single thing to do—and that boy shot right back, 'Well, I've got an awfully good book I can lend you!' That's the latest. But he made up for it the next minute and we're going to the movies and dance afterward at Bette's house."

She smiled ingratiatingly at her parent, who had cocked a suspicious eyebrow at this shower of verbal attention from her child. "I just wanted to know," Ernestine proceeded glibly, "I just thought maybe you'd let me take the car awhile. I can go out and see Corinne for half an hour and then stop in at Emily's and talk over the school club lunch and after that I could go and see Bette and find out if I can be helpful about her dance—"

"Certainly not," her mother stepped in. "You know you may not drive the car unless I'm along, except in great emergencies when it is absolutely necessary."

"I'd like to know what you call necessary," Ernestine protested, with dignity. "It is positively important for me to see Emily about—about—well, it's important only I can't seem to explain to you. Just because I backed into that tree you seem to think I am a child and couldn't handle a machine.

"You needn't advise me to walk if I want to go and see the girls, because this left shoe sort of hurts. Why, of course, they're plenty big enough. They're enormous. The shoe isn't made the right way, that is all. No, indeed, it's lots more comfortable walking on these high heels. It simply makes me ache all over when I have on low heels. I think my foot looks lots smaller in this sort of shoe, anyhow.

"If I could have a new pair of brown suede pumps for next Friday night to go with my new crepe dress—hm?—why, I am not either wanting to buy shoes every other minute! I've had these—why, I've had them just ages, because it was three weeks ago I was down town with the girls and bought them, and they were a bargain, and I should think you'd be pleased to see that I can save money and know a bargain when I see it, instead of stirring up trouble about it. Well, what if I did put them right on and wear them home, and so they couldn't be taken back? My old ones were simply disgraceful.

"Don't you think it would be all right for me to take the car if I promised to keep down to twenty and just crawl along? I sort of expect it from father, but I declare I'm disappointed when you turn hard-hearted. I've always told the girls how understanding you are, you know. Oh, you are, usually, that is. Well, why keep reminding me of the time I got the mixture wrong and the engine caught fire? We put it out, didn't we? That shows I have presence of mind, I guess, but I never get any credit for it.

"If you don't make home attractive for your children they go elsewhere—I read that in a magazine just the other day, and I guess this is the time when I go elsewhere. I'll walk to Corinne's, and if I'm lame from it perhaps they will drive me home."

She stalked from the room and presently there came the sound of the front door slamming. Her mother lay back on her couch and sighed with a tiny wrinkle between her brows. Then suddenly the back door downstairs was banged open and Ernestine tore upstairs.

"Gee!" she called from her room, as she crashed open and shut several dresser drawers in a frantic search for something. "Just as I got out on the front sidewalk who should I see coming but old Jenkins, the choirmaster. I totally forgot that we have to sing that new cantata at 5 o'clock service and are fined if we aren't there. My allowance won't stand any more, so I guess I've got to go on and yodel for an hour if I ever find that book—by!"

"And that's that!" said her mother inelegantly as she lay back again with the worry wrinkles wiped out.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

THE ABSCESSED TOOTH IS THE DANGEROUS ONE

By D. H. Junkin, M.D.,
Idaho Falls, Idaho
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The aching tooth is not always the dangerous tooth. It is quite necessary to seek your dentist when a tooth begins to ache, but don't overlook the possibility that the sleeping tooth may be the one that will cause the most trouble.

Too frequently the patient with the aching tooth will recoil at the idea of having it extracted, and tries to persuade the dentist to relieve the ache by destroying the nerve and filling the root canals.

The ache may cease, but at the bottom of the root, infection starts. Granulation tissue occurs. These granulating tissues contain blood vessels and within their walls grow dangerous bacteria which pour their poison on into the blood stream, frequently producing rheumatism, heart disease, kidney disease, and changes in the very walls of the blood vessels.

If you come to your doctor with swollen ankles, difficulty in breathing, and he insists on X-raying your teeth, don't be surprised just appreciate the logic of such procedure.

If the X-ray reveals abscessed teeth and your physician recommends that you see a dentist and have the infection removed permanently, do not hedge about it and put it off as an uncomfortable procedure. The extraction of teeth today is far from being the most painful thing that could happen to you. Modern methods of extraction are so advanced that the process is one that is finished quickly and quite painlessly. Then too, we do not feel as we used to about reconstruction work in the mouth. The false tooth has become a scientific affair—a thing of beauty. Now it is hard for our friends to distinguish between our own teeth and the ones next to them—the products of the dental laboratory.

So, let us be sensible about the abscessed tooth. Let us rather part with it than run the danger of acquiring a leaky heart valve, rheumatism, and a host of other conditions, simply because we dread the dental forceps and the acquisition of a false tooth or two.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—When you pause to reflect on the geographical origins of the two most prominent Connecticut Yankees in national political life, you get something of a shock.

One, Senator Hiram Bingham, was born in Hawaii. The other, Colonel—or maybe it should sound like Kunnel—John Q. Tilson, the republican majority leader of the house, hails from Tennessee. Which led the Bystander to a survey of this "native son" business.

Some of Each

Time has been when vote seekers paraded neighborhood birth as a primary asset in running for office.

Out in California is a "native son" social organization going frankly by that name. Yet today, while the California delegation to congress boasts a lot of native sons headed by Hiram Johnson, it also includes three Iowans, one from Illinois, one from Utah, one from New York and one from Kentucky.

There may be more "foreign born" California legislators, intra-United States speaking. Not all disclose their birthplace.

Works Both Ways

As a matter of fact, the only indicated all-native-son congressional delegations the Bystander spotted were those of Georgia, Mississippi, Utah, Vermont and Virginia.

Per contra, Colorado's whole six Washingtoneers are outland-born, coming from Pennsylvania, Vermont, Nova Scotia, Ohio, and two from Illinois.

Even South Carolina has one North Carolinian; Alabama has one Tennessean; Arizona's three include one Nevadan; Delaware's three take in one Marylander; Idaho's four come from Illinois, Kansas, Indiana and Ohio; Louisiana has one Texan.

Massachusetts has two Maine men; New Hampshire's four include two from Maine and one Vermonter; South Dakota's five cover three Iowans and one Minnesotan; Washington's seven include three from Indiana, two from Illinois, one from Ohio and one from Arkansas.

West Virginia's eight include a Pennsylvanian, a Canadian and a Virginian; Wisconsin has a Minnesota-born member and Wyoming's three come from Texas, Ireland and Pennsylvania.

Look at New York, with 45. The delegation is topheavy with home talent, yet it includes, so far as place of birth goes, a German, a Britisher, an Irishman, five men from Massachusetts and one each from Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Arizona.

For whatever its worth, Illinois, Ohio and Iowa have supplied most of the roving political talent of the 71st congress. There are 15 Illinois-born men, 14 from Ohio and 10 from Iowa in congress from other states.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Air Travel Creates New Ties

How airplanes are blazing new travel paths between the Americas, rescuing many places from long-time obscurity, and giving a cosmopolitan touch to others, is told in the following bulletin by Frederick Simpich, National Georgraphic society correspondent with the party making an aerial survey from New York to Buenos Aires:

"From New York to Buenos Aires is strung a line of American boys in overalls. Some are seaplane pilots; some are mechanics, with grease guns and wrenches; some are radio operators. There also are agents and ticket sellers, stationed at various ports. For now an air line for mail and passengers ties the two Americas together, and a small army of highly trained men is required to fly and care for the airplanes which operate this long-distance service.

"At our hotel in Para, 27 guests from the United States were registered. All were seaplane employees or air passengers. Already, seaplane patrons and crews have increased business enough in some remote ports, off the main steamship lanes, so that new or remodeled hotels are discussed.

"Flying has brought new types to cities all the way from Havana and San Juan de Porto Rico to Para and Pernambuco. Guests at hotels are accustomed now to seeing a crowd of sun-burned, khaki-clad flying Yankees come trooping in to lunch, just in from a long flight, too hungry to stop to change clothes. In a day the mail-plane pilots make anywhere from 1,200 to 1,500 miles, eating breakfast in Miami and dinner in Haiti, or sleeping one night in Para, Brazil, and the next in Port of Spain, Trinidad. Passengers who ride these planes are up at dawn, and into the air before sunrise. Agents supply each with a lunch, and reading matter is put on the ships. Baggage is limited, but careful choice of light wash clothes and quick work by seaport laundry women afford comfort to travelers.

"Mail flies from Buenos Aires to Miami in 6 1-2 days, and passengers may make this same rapid cruise, though most of them are 'point-to-point' riders.

"Exotic scenes mark many stops. At Fortaleza, Brazil, men, women, nude children, with parrots, monkeys and dogs, cluttered the docks and beaches as we stopped for gas. Circling for pictures, before we landed, we saw pigs and goats run into the houses, as people ran out. Here and there we stopped, for three or four days, to make side trips for we were not flying on regular schedule. To get maps, aerial photos of islands, lakes, river mouths, light-houses and harbors, we halted, gathering such landmark and other data useful to seaplane pilots along this great air path. While working out from Para, for example, the Geographic society's party, flown by Pilot Hawkins, explored the islands of Marajao and Mexiana, in the Amazon delta. From terrain and lakes observed and photographed, it now appears that the Cayenne-Para leg of this long route may be much shortened by flying over these islands, safely, instead of around them as heretofore.

"Wherever we stopped, the pilots are known, just as engineers and brakemen were in the early days of western railroading.

"Besides being skilled flyers, many of these pilots are good linguists, as are also the airplane agents at many ports; for confusion of tongues is met from Havana to the Argentine. We have had Spanish, French, English, Dutch and Portuguese to deal with! And money! Some say it has no home—that it wanders where it can earn the best return. But along this line, jumping from flag to flag, we've found in use dollars, pesos, francs, shillings, Danish money in the Virgin Islands, guilders in Dutch Guiana, francs again in Cayenne, milreis in Brazil.

"In city after city one sees the new ramps, floats and hangars, with shops, extra planes and spare parts. At port after port governors, mayors and distinguished citizens repeatedly expressed their enthusiasm over the coming of seaplane service, making travel and mails so much faster."

HYBRID SUIT STYLE FOR AUTUMN DAYS

PARIS, Aug. 28—(AP)—Scientific dressmaking produces a style hybrid for fall and winter known as the ensemble suit.

It is a one-piece dress with matching short coat reminiscent of tailored suits.

Paris designed ensemble suits to silence the general criticism that suits tend to cut the silhouette and shorten stature.

Sometimes the ensemble suit has a third piece in the form of a long coat. When that happens the coat usually matches in color but not in fabric. Or if the fabric is identical the color contrasts.

Sport and street ensembles are made up in lightweight wool jerseys which are almost indistinguishable from tweed mixtures. Or they are tweed weaves, next to impossible to differentiate from jersey.

Fabric makers have produced a whole new line of jersey-tweeds and wool mixtures and Paris dressmakers all use them.

Short coats of these new jerseys follow closely on the lines of last spring's suits. Many have slightly flared skirts of finger length or shorter.

Others are straight and belted at the normal waistline. The tailored suit coat with belted back is widely shown.

Black and white is shown for all ages and in most fabrics, including jerseys, plain and fancy. Cheviot is much used as well as all types of wool crepe and dull fabrics with deep pile.

Favored colors are green, browns, off blues and reds.

Short coats as well as long ones have fur collars and fur-trimmed sleeves. Flat furs are favored, with caracul, astrakan, galliac, beaver and seal all shown as trim for short coats.

Long haired fur like lynx, raccoon and fox are used on long coats but less frequently than caracul, astrakan and shaved lamb.

Any fool can write poetry, but it takes a wise editor to keep it out of print.

Stories That Recall Others

Family Resemblance

Sharon had a new baby brother. One evening at the dinner table she remarked that he looked very much like her father. The latter, doubtful, but pleased, inquired where Sharon saw a resemblance.

"Well," replied Sharon after thinking a moment, "you're both bald aren't you?"

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by Bureau of Markets
Conn. Dept. of Agriculture

The market was generally liberally supplied with native fruits and vegetables with conditions showing some changes in certain products. The market tone for sweet corn improved over last week with offerings very moderate. Tomatoes were weaker; while fancy selected stock brought as high as 75 cents per basket, most sales were considerably lower. While the general trend in potatoes is a little stronger, the local market appeared slightly weaker with liberal supplies. String bean receipts were light and good quality was generally scarce. Demand was good for limas of quality.

Native apples were liberal with Gravenstein, McIntosh and Wealthys representing the bulk of offerings. Peaches were adequate with good stock selling moderately well, Bartlett pears are begining to appear but as yet are very limited.

Live poultry continues liberal with low prices in evidence. Eggs were holding firm and there was a slightly better demand for live calves.

THAMES ST. MAN FRUSTRATED IN ATTEMPT TO HANG HIMSELF

William Bergeron, 4?, of No. 116 Thames street, was frustrated in an attempt to hang himself shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday evening, at his home. Francis J. Paquette, a neighbor cut the rope which Bergeron had placed around his neck when he started on his unsuccessful attempt at self-destruction.

In response to a telephone call to police headquarters that a man had tried to hang himself on Thames street and had then vowed that he was going to jump into the river, Captain Thomas P. Murphy despatched the patrol wagon and a squad of officers to the Thames street house. The officers found Bergeron at the house and took him in charge.

At police headquarters he readily admitted that he had tried to commit suicide. He explained that he had been drinking this week and had had trouble with his wife. "She wouldn't talk to me," Bergeron told Captain Murphy. "So I said, all right, if she won't talk to me, I'll hang myself," he added. It was then that the man got the rope and started to do away with himself. He was locked up at police headquarters.

MANY FAIL TO UTILIZE TAX SAVING LAW

Owners of timberland upon which trees might be permitted to grow until suitable for lumbering are overlooking a state statute enacted by the legislature last year for their benefit, while out-of-state lumbermen are expressing considerable interest in the same law and urging similar legislation in their own states, State Forester Austin F. Hawes said. While New Hampshire property owners have arranged to have Mr. Hawes go to Keene to explain the law to them, only 14 property owners here have taken advantage of the law which protects them against increases in the valuation of their property because of the increased value of the timber growing upon the property.

The law provides that the state forester may examine any property containing tree growth upon application of its owner, and if, in his opinion, the land is of such character that it would be advantageous to permit its tree growth to remain standing until it is suitable to be cut for lumber, he may certify to this fact and issue a certificate describing the property and the trees upon it. Copies of the certificate are to be filed in the office of the state forester, the tax commissioner, the board of assessors in which the property is located, and one is to be kept by the owner.

After such certification the tree-growth will retain the valuation set upon it at the last completed assessment next prior to the owner's request for certification, although the valuation of the land itself may be increased. Means are provided after subsequent revaluations for an appeal to the tax commissioner if the property owner believes that such land is valued disproportionately to other taxable land, exclusive of tree-growth in the town.

With the value of lumber increasing and likely to increase even more rapidly in the future, owing to the rapidity with which the virgin forests are vanishing, the saving is likely to be considerable in the future, Forester Hawes pointed out, although the immediate saving may be small.

Four property owners have taken advantage of the law in each of two counties, New London and Litchfield, and three property owners in Windham county, while in Hartford, New Haven and Fairfield counties only one property owner in each county has taken advantage of the law.

Forester Hawes said Tuesday that there undoubtedly are many properties which could qualify under the law upon which no application has been made.

Biondi, his brother, Dominick Biondi, and Herman Orlacchio, all of East Hampton, held in connection with the death of Rev. Theodore D. ENGINEERS URGE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF CONNECTICUT

A third attempt to secure a new geological survey of Connecticut will be made by the Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers at the 1931 session of the general assembly, it is indicated by members of the society. The society has twice previously attempted to obtain an appropriation from the state for such a purpose, and in 1929 members appeared before the appropriations committee to point the necessity for such a survey.

The survey would be undertaken by the federal government, but the state would be required to pay half of the expenses of the necessary field parties, it was explained Monday night. In 1929 the society sought an annual appropriation of $50,000 for three years, although it is believed that the survey would not cost quite as much as this sum.

The campaign of the engineers is expected to have additional impetus this year since the farmers of the state are said to be interested in such a survey, coupled with a soil survey of the state. The proposal was discussed at some length by Professor I. G. Davis of the Connecticut Agricultural college in a recent interview outlining the advantages of a survey.

Professor Davis made the statement, which was supported by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, that the untaxed property discovered by such a survey would help to pay the expenses of the work.

"It is no secret to anyone at all acquainted with the taxation situation in Connecticut that there is a considerable amount of property upon which taxes are not at present levied," said Mr. Blodgett "Every revaluation of property brings to light any number of cases of this sort. In the recent revaluation in Middletown dozens of houses were found which were not listed in the tax lists and other revaluations have revealed the same situation. There is no reason to believe that the case is any different in the rural sections of the state, where the difficulties of listing such property without an adequate map are multiplied.

"In modern practice assessors map their districts carefully in making a general revaluation, and for this purpose use the old geological survey map of the state as a basis. The work of the assessors is further complicated by the fact that many deeds read so many acres of land 'more or less' and the only exact method to determine the extent of the property would be through the use of accurate maps."

The present geological survey map of Connecticut was one of the first prepared in the United States of a single state and was completed between 1889 and 1800. It was the second or third such map prepared and according to Henry Robinson Buck, civil engineer, the U. S. geological survey recognized that under the antique methods by which it was prepared it is quite inaccurate, and said that he has been informed that it is "scarcely worth the paper it is printed on."

Under the modern methods of undertaking such a survey an aerial map or mosaic is prepared by U. S. army aviators, and this map is used as a basis for the work of ground survey parties. With planes basing at Mineola, L. I., or Brainard field, it would take but a short time under favorable conditions for such a map to be made.

The mosaic would then be transferred to field sheets used by the field parties, who would proceed to make a plane table survey of the territory, filling in the topography, contours and other essential information.

The aerial survey would result in a considerable saving in time in tracing the course of streams, roads, etc, Mr. Buck explained, since by tracing the paths of these features on the map from the mosaic, what would take a ground party several days to accurately determine could be traced in a few minutes. The present geological survey maps of the state are drawn to a scale of one mile to an inch, but on previous occasions it has been suggested that the new survey should be made on a scale of 2,000 feet to an inch.

Conditions in the state have changed so considerably in the past 40 years that the present geological survey map is too inaccurate for practical purposes, Mr. Buck said Monday night. State highways have been straightened out and new highways built—cities have increased in size and many of the conditions existent at the time of the first survey have been altered since.

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A ten per cent salary decrease for all sales and office employes of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co was declared today by President P W. Litchfield, to "merely parallel the wage adjustment in the factory."

REPORT FARM FEEDS MET CLAIMS LAST YEAR

Feeds compounded commercially and sold for farm animals and poultry last year in Connecticut were found in the main to contain what the dealers claimed for them, it was found in the yearly inspection conducted by the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station. The station recently issued Bulletin 317, the annual report on commercial feeding stuffs, by Dr E. M. Bailey, in charge of the analytical chemistry department.

"Microscopic examinations have revealed no instance of serious adulteration or contamination with weed seeds or other deleterious materials," Dr. Bailey says. "In the main the declarations of ingredients have been substantiated by our examinations."

The station analyzed 947 samples of feeding stuffs and other fodder materials. Official samples came from 146 dealers in 97 towns of the state. Summary shows that of the total number of official samples, 85 per cent met the guaranteed analysis under which they were sold, a gain of seven per cent more than the number that equalled guarantees last year.

Connecticut statute requires that all commercial feeds sold in the state must be registered and examined yearly by the experiment station.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Booth Tarkington, Indiana novelist, is a patient at the Wilmer institute at Johns Hopkins because of his recurrent eye trouble, but hospital officials denied a report that he was in immediate danger of losing his sight.

A report from his summer home at Kennebunkport, Me., was that he was able to distinguish only between light and dark.

Mr. Tarkington has suffered with defective sight for several years. He was a patient at the hospital for several months early in 1929 and in March of that year underwent an operation to save the sight of his right eye which was called by Dr. William H. Wilmer "a remarkable success."

MOTOR LAWS NOT POPULAR WITH PUBLIC

NORWALK, Aug. 28 —(AP)— Robbins B. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles told members of Kiwanis clubs from throughout Connecticut today that motor vehicle laws like prohibition laws are not popular with the public.

The commissioner recommended several changes in the motor vehicle laws as a means of making enforcement stricter and of preventing congestion in courts.

Chief among the suggestions made by Commissioner Stoeckel before the Kiwanis club members, who gathered here for an inter-club meeting, was that the charges of reckless and drunken driving and evading responsibility be segregated from the general class of motor vehicle violations and grouped in a special class. This classification, he pointed out, would tend to emphasize the seriousness of the three charges.

To eliminate court congestion Commissioner Stoeckel recommended that fines for minor violations be sent to the court clerks, making the appearance of a violator in court unnecessary unless the defendant should demand a hearing.

PRESIDENT BOY SCOUT COUNCIL MAKES PLEA FOR NORWICH CAMP

H. D. Larrabee, president of some 700 Boy Scouts and Scout men in Norwich and vicinity, in an interview Thursday about the possibility of a permanent Boy Scout camp site for Norwich, said that he is hopeful that some wealthy citizen of this community will make the camp possible. "During the past year," said Mr. Larrabee, "the service scouting has rendered this city and community and the growth in membership has been far greater than anyone realizes. With the induction of cubbing for boys from nine to 12, we now have a program for boys from nine to 18 inclusive, with opportunities for leadership for men of all ages. This program of scouting gives boys interesting things to do during their leisure hours; it challenges boy's initiative by tests which must be passed; it takes them out-of-doors."

"Scouting has a great deal of hiking and camping in it. Some folks confuse scouting with cadets because of the uniform. Anyone familiar with the program of the Boy Scouts or the Girl Scouts knows that neither are military. Scouting is a world-wide club of boys and girls who are playing the game of self-reliance, of passing tests of manhood and womanhood, of camping and hiking in the out-of-doors."

"Wealthy citizens through the United States have provided camps for the scouts of their communities The initial cost of such a camp is not large. Fifteen to thirty acres of land partly wooded with facilities for swimming is not a large investment to make for six hundred boys. Once the property is owned civic clubs and other friends of boyhood add cabins, give boats, canoes, etc., until the camp becomes a reality

The camp for the scouting program can be compared to the power house for industry. It is almost indispensable today for it gives life and light to the program. It energizes and inspires volunteer leadership."

"Norwich scouts have been handicapped by the absence of a camp. During the past three years we have been renters at the New London camp, interest in camping as evidenced by enrollment of Norwich scouts and visits by adults to the camp, has declined. It is difficult for scoutmasters and scouts to become enthused about a camp in whose operation and control they have no part. Scoutmasters of Norwich at their last meeting went on record as being 100 per cent in favor of a camp for this council."

"During the summer" continued Mr. Larrabee, "we have inspected several possible sites. We have several more to inspect this week. We inspected one site of 60 acres of Connecticut Light & Power Co., land at South Windham which the scouts have used. Unfortunately a railroad goes along the river cutting through the property, which makes the development of this site for a camp hardly feasible."

"We expect to find a site suitable for a camp very soon. We are hoping that some citizen of Norwich will volunteer to purchase the site. There can be no finer memorial to a beloved one than a boy's camp, no more appropriate way of insuring that a name will be remembered for years to come."

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT—

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria have him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging.

Castoria is sold in every drugstore; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

CITIZENS NOSE OUT IDEALS IN BEST GAME OF SEASON; JARVIS ALLOWS NO HITS

Both the Ideals and Citizens scored four runs in the game at the Academy last night and the final score was 2 to 1 in favor of the Cits. Dope that one out if you can.

Here's the inside. At the end of the fifth the count stood 2-1 in favor of the Cits. In their half of the sixth the Ideals tallied three times and went into the lead 4-2. With the field in almost total darkness the champs took their raps and after one had gone out scored twice, making the score 4 all. At this point Morin called the game and as a result the score reverted back to the last full inning of play.

The game was one of the most exciting of the season and was chock full of features. The outstanding, however, was the return of Lloyd Jarvis, hero of bygone days at the N. F. A., to the pitching mound. Although his performance was not perfect Lloyd turned in one of the two no-hit games of the season. The other was registered a week ago against the same Ideals by Butsy Weisgraber of the Smoke Shop in four innings of play.

Despite the fact that he was a bit unsteady at times, Jarvis allowed but 18 men to face him in the five innings of play and during the evening he whiffed five. The three men who did get on base were given free tickets and the only one to score did so because Lloyd's brother Leo made a slip in the opening frame.

As mentioned, the Ideals registered their one and only counting tally in the first inning. After Shorty Smith lined out to Finn, Decelles and Liberty walked. Murphy the next hitter grounded to Cimmy who tossed to Leo Jarvis to force Liberty. After tagging the base Leo heaved into the first base bleachers in an attempt to double Murphy. On the play Decelles went to third and came home on the wild throw.

In the late first Cimmy lifted the first ball that Bob Shaw heaved over the center field fence and knotted the count.

Both sides went runless until the late fifth when the Cits finally broke through. After Gaudette had flied out Labenski hit one at Yerrington and was safe when the latter messed up the play.

In an effort to nip Labenski at first Murphy threw wild and the runner went to second, scoring a moment later on Sydlo's single into right.

Both clubs registered more runs in the sixth, but what's the use of mentioning them, they didn't count.

All of the pitching honors do not belong to Jarvis as Bob Shaw did pretty himself. Bob held the hard-hitting champs to but three hits and inasmuch as the Cits number four .400 hitters in their lineup the feat is well worth mentioning.

Afield, both clubs turned in some nice work but the features were provided by Finn and Lemieux. The Polish third baseman went high into the air in the first to take R. Smith's rap and in the fourth Lemieux backed up against the left field fence to take West's mighty swipe.

PIRATES POUND OUT TWO VICTORIES OVER REDS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28—(AP)—In a hitting mood, the Pittsburgh Pirates drubbed five Cincinnati pitchers for 30 hits today, taking both games of a double header, 16 to 12 and 11 to 2.

Though the Pirates did the winning, Harry Heilmann, of the Reds, was the batting star of the day, hitting two home runs in the opening contest, one in the fifth with the bases full and one in the first inning with one on. A double, also in the first game, gave him a total of seven runs batted in and three scored himself. The first game gave Kremer, of the Pirates, his nineteenth victory of the season, although he was forced to let Spencer finish for him.

BOSTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—Lisenbee held the world champion Athletics to six hits today and the Red Sox won the first game of the series, 2 to 1.

In the last of the seventh, however, the Red Sox scored twice on Webb's single, Miller's double, and an error by Foxx at first on a thrown ball.

CARDINALS BEAT CUBS IN 20-INNING BATTLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)—Andy High's single with Taylor Douthit on second base, as dusk settled over Wrigley Field, this evening, gave the St. Louis Cardinals an 8 to 7, twenty inning victory over the National league champion Cubs.

The battle was the longest fought out in the major leagues this season and brought to a climax a sizable list of over-time games for the Cubs. Four hours and ten minutes of baseball left the members of both teams almost exhausted and even Kiki Cuyler walked in from left field at the finish, breaking his custom of sprinting for the dugout.

With one out in the twentieth, Douthit singled and went to second as Sparky Adams was thrown out. High then caught one of Bob Osborn's pitches for a blazing single to center. Douthit raced home but High was nailed, attempting to stretch his hit into a double.

The Cardinals had the game all won in regulation time until Burleigh Grimes blew up in the seventh when the Cubs scored three times—two runs shy of a tie. Lindsey replaced Grimes in the eighth and three more hits produced the tying runs and sent the game into extra innings.

Pat Malone, seeking his seventeenth victory of the season, was thumped for St. Louis' first five runs. Sunny Jim Bottomley rapped him for a homer in the second, and in the fourth sent a sacrifice fly to Hack Wilson to score Adams, who had doubled and moved to third as High was thrown out. Malone blew in the sixth. He hit Bottomley on the head, but the Card first baseman shook it off and went to first. Malone then hit Fisher and Watkins doubled, scoring Bottomley. Jimmy Wilson singled to send in the last Cardinal runs until the final overtime session.

Each team scored two in the fifteenth, the only really bad spots suffered by Sylvester Johnson, Card hurler, and Osborn who had replaced Nelson in the ninth.

The victory was the Cardinals' ninth in a row and trimmed the Cubs' lead over Brooklyn to five games. It also was the league champions' second straight beating.

ELKS AND ROTARIANS CLASH IN CRUCIAL GAME TONIGHT

Tonight at the Duwell field, the Junior league will resume activities when the Rotary club meeting the Elks in an important contest. The Rotary are tied for the league leadership with the Duwells, while the Elks are not far behind. There remain only three games of the Junior league schedule and all three are between the three pennant contenders, the Rotary, Duwells and Elks. The Rotary besides their game tonight have a postponed game with the Duwells, while the Elks also have a game with the Duwells. It is planned to play the other two games at the Academy Campus the early part of next week, when the winner of the league will be definitely decided. Coming back to tonight's game, both teams need a victory, although a defeat for the Rotary will by no means put them out of the race, a defeat for the Elks, however, will practically eliminate them from the running.

The game will no doubt see Fuller, the Elks star pitted against Caron or Deschamps, stellar Rotary pitchers, and a great battle should be the result.

The game is scheduled to start at 6:15 p. m. and every effort will be made to start at that time.

Attention, Duwell's Jr. Team!

IDEALS-THERMOS CLOSE LEAGUE TONIGHT

Local fandom gets its last bit of twilight ball at the Academy tonight when the Ideals and Thermos Bottlers ring down the curtain on the 1930 City league season. The game will positively be the last league affair of the season since the six clubs in the circuit have completed their schedules.

The season past has been one of the best since twi ball was originated here and the fans have appreciated the fact by turning out in much larger numbers than they ever did before. Inasmuch as tonight's attraction is one of the best of the year there is little doubt but that another record crowd will turn out to bid the league farewell until 1931.

Some will ask, "Why the interest in tonight's game now that the Cits have clinched the pennant." The answer is this—the teams billed to perform this evening have played two tie games this season and there are no two clubs in this city or vicinity who hate each other as the Ideals and Bottlers do.

Further, tonight's game is a play-off of that affair of July 29th. Those with good memories will remember that on the date mentioned the Ideals walked off the Academy campus 4-3 victors over the Hastedt-Driscoll combine. After two weeks of protesting, counter-protesting and what not the league arbitrators ruled the game a 3 all tie and ordered that it be played over.

Despite the fact that they have nothing to gain in the league race, the Bottlers are anxious to win just to prove that they are better than the Ideals. On the other hand Bernard's gang wants to win to show everyone concerned that its victory of the 29th was no fluke.

Mike Nickerson will probably toss them up for the Thermos and without doubt Buck Shahan will toe the rubber for the opposition.

LOCAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD AT NORWICH GOLF CLUB COURTS

On Thursday the announcement was made that the New London county championship tennis tournament would be played at the Norwich Golf club courts instead of at the Roque grounds courts as first planned. The tournament, which is to start at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, will bring into competition one of the fastest fields that has ever taken the courts in this part of the state. Practically the entire eastern part of the state is represented, players from New London, Niantic, Gales Ferry, Willimantic, Baltic and Norwich being entered.

Among the players who are expected to provide the gallery with some brilliant tennis are Billy Werth, city champion, Percy Harwood of Norwich, John Angeles of New London, Eddie Bissell, captain of the Trinity college tennis team, and Wilkenson and Tilney, two East Orange, N. J., stars. The New Jersey pair will compete both in the singles and the doubles.

Entries for the tournament will close this evening and the pairings will be announced in Saturday morning's Bulletin. The entrance fee this year is $1 for the singles and $1.50 a team for the doubles.

Valuable prizes will be awarded to the winners and runners-up in both the singles and doubles competition.

SMOKE SHOP CELEBRATE END OF SEASON WITH BANQUET

Thursday evening at the Thames Tavern at Gales Ferry the Smoke Shop baseball team of the City league celebrated the close of the season with a sumptuous banquet served as only Jim Hayes can serve them. Although the team finished in the cellar position in the league, there was no evidence of depression as the 40 or so players and guests assembled about the banquet table. In good Thames Square English it was "a whale of a party."

Sidney Shabecoff, who lost more money on the Smokers than any three men in the city, was the master of ceremonies, and it goes without saying that Sid kept things going from start to finish. Among the features of the evening was the presentation of a pen and pencil set to the blond-haired manager of the Smokers, Albert Heebner. Apparently greatly overcome by the gift, Manager Heebner found sufficient words to express his appreciation of the gift and in turn complimented the players on their fighting spirit. Among the others who spoke were Artie Coulliard, captain of the club and a veteran of many baseball campaigns; Genie O'Brien, genial proprietor of the Smoke Shop, from which the team takes its name, and Gov. Sullivan, that ever fluent and canny strategist of baseball warfare. And last, but not least, the witty Danny Shea. Danny's knowledge of baseball is nowhere near the equal of his knowledge of golf and he spoke of the advantages of his game over the more plebian sport of baseball. He said that when the members of the Smoke Shop became too old to play baseball, and he feared that time was not far off, they would find a very suitable substitute in the game of golf.

Among the numerous musical features was the singing of French folk songs by Provencher, member of the Smokers. With the prediction of a better team for next year the party adjourned to lay plans for a pennant in 1930.

YALE SEASON TICKETS CALL FOR FIVE GAMES THIS FALL

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 28—(AP)—Purchasers of season books for the Yale football campaign, will get more football for their money this year than they did in 1929.

With the Yale schedule calling for nine games instead of eight for the first time since 1922, tickets for five games instead of four will be included in the season book. The cost of the book will remain the same as last year however, since athletic officials have answered the demand for cheaper football by including for the first time in many years two games on the schedule at which the admission price will be fifty cents. In recent years, the lowest price in the game has been $1.

Harold F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic association, tonight announced that season books will go on sale September 10. The books will contain tickets for the Maine, Maryland, Georgia, Brown, and Alfred games. The Brown encounter will be a reserved seat game, while the Alfred and Maine games will each cost fans 50 cents. The book will also entitle holders to apply for one ticket for the Harvard clash.

In addition to the athletic office, the season books will be on sale at Hartford, Bridgeport and Waterbury as in former years.

Yale's season opens with Maine on September 27. Candidates for the team have been ordered to report on September 15 for the first practice.

Fitchville After Games.

The Fitchville A. C. is without a game for either Sunday or Monday and would like tilts with any fast clubs in this section and especially the Wauregan or Fisk teams. They would like to play at home Sunday and out of town on Labor day. For arrangements call 1865-4 between 7 and 8 o'clock Friday or Saturday evenings.

HUDKINS AND McVEY ARE SUSPENDED IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, so-called Nebraska wildcat and Jack McVey, Negro middleweight, of New York, were suspended indefinitely by the California athletic commission, today for an unsatisfactory bout in Los Angeles, Tuesday night.

Witnesses of the fight described it as disgraceful.

The fighters' purses were forfeited by the state. Hudkins' share amounted to $8,500, while McVey was to have received around $1,250.

The bout was stopped in the ninth round by Referee Jack Kennedy and declared no contest.

ROBINS TAKE SECOND PLACE BY TROUNCING GIANTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins smashed through the Giants defenses in the sixth inning today and made their way into second place by scoring seven runs in that frame for an 8 to 7 victory in the second game of their series. This triumph clinched the season's series for the Robins with 12 victories over the Giants so far and only six defeats.

Dazzy Vance managed to go the route for the Robins although the Giants hit him hard and effectively. He gave nine hits, of which three were home runs. Circuit clouts by Lindstrom, Ott and Jackson accounted for four Giant runs, Jackson's coming in the ninth inning with Ott on base.

Homers also played an important part in the Brooklyn scoring. Mickey Finn hit one with the bases empty in the fifth inning while Glenn Wright ended Hubbell's stay in the box in the sixth when his homer with Herman on base put the Robins ahead for the first time. Donohue failed to halt the Brooklyn rally and Mitchell and Pruett finally were called in to finish the game. Score:

FERRELL WINS HIS 23RD GAME BEATING WHITE SOX

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, young righthander, today ran his victory string for the season to 23 and his consecutive wins to 12 as the Cleveland Indians won a ten to five decision over Chicago White Sox in the third game of the series. Chicago won a double header yesterday.

Ferrell was hit freely at times, allowing a dozen hits, but his mates gave him a five-run lead in the first inning and kept on pecking away at the offerings of Young Ed Walsh, who succeeded Dutch Henry in the opening round, to make the victory certain. Eddie Morgan's 25th home run of the season was among Cleveland's 18 hits.

LOTT-DOEG TEAM DOWNS VETERANS TILDEN AND HUNTER

BROOKLINE, Aug. 28—(AP)—History repeated itself here today when hard-driving George Lott and Johnny Doeg, defending champions in the national doubles tennis tourney, gained the final round by again defeating those wise old veterans, big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, in a sparkling five-set match, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

Tilden used up most of his stamina rushing to Hunter's rescue during the first four sets and when the finale rolled around he was so tired that the champions blasted both of his services and clinched the victory early.

Lott and Doeg must upset Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Davis cup doubles team on Saturday to retain their title for those Wimbledon champions gained the last bracket with a four set victory over another Texas-New Jersey combination, Berkley Bell and Gregory Mangin, by scores of 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

STOCK PRICES FLUCTUATED YESTERDAY WITH VIRTUALLY NO CHANGE AT CLOSE

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The stock market swung about like a weather vane today in a day of frequently shifting but inconsequential tests.

The general price level, as measured by the index of 90 leading shares, ended the day virtually unchanged, the index showing a loss of 1-10 of 1 point. Trading was restricted by the approach of the Labor day week-end closing, and total sales aggregated only 1,437,210 shares.

Several pool operations that have been dormant for a few weeks were renewed in some of the specialty shares. The merchandising shares firmed up, under the leadership of Sears Roebuck, in response to more cheerful trade reports. Most of the pivotal shares were unchanged. While bullish activity was pressed in one handful of shares, bears selected another group to send lower, and the opposing operations showed little interference with each other.

Report of political disorders in Argentina brought further selling into International Telephone, which sagged to a new low under 40, then rallied. Goodyear was depressed about 5 points to the lowest price in two years on announcement of a 10 per cent wage reduction for sales and office employes. It rallied moderately later. Atlantic Coast Line sagged 3 points to the lowest price since 1924.

The day's news was meagre. The weekly brokerage loan tabulation, appearing after the close, showed a reduction of $26,000,000 to another new low since 1927. As this further reduction occurred in a week in which the price index showed a gain of 3 points it was interpreted as indicating that stocks were still passing into strong hands rather than marginal accounts. At $3,102,000,000, brokers' loans were about half the total of a year ago. New York banks placed $58,000,000 in the market, while out-of-town banks and other lenders withdrew more than that, presumably for seasonal commercial purposes, or for investment in fixed income securities providing a better return. The weekly federal reserve conditions statements showed little change. Call money remained plentiful at 2 per cent.

Among the day's strong features Sears Roebuck gained 4 points, and Delaware & Hudson jumped 6 in a small turnover. Such specialties as McKeesport Tin Plate, Cutler Hammer, Mack Truck, Mathieson Alkali and Childs gained 2 to nearly 4, and closed about 2 higher. Shares closing up a point or so included Baldwin, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward and General Electric. U. S. Steel fluctuated over a 2-point range and closed unchanged.

Commodity markets were largely firm and quiet. Wheat closed steady, 1-8 to 1-4 of a cent higher, and corn gained about 1 cent. Raw sugar and coffee were firm. Cotton closed practically unchanged.

The recent firmer tone in foreign exchanges resulted in a shipment of $1,000,000 more in gold to Canada. Sterling cables rallied to $4.87. The Brazilian rate was again weak.

Exchanges and Balances

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Clearing house statement: exchanges $776,000,000; balances $113,000,000.

The gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for the week ended August 27, showed imports of $1,039,000 from Colombia and $52,000 chiefly from other Latin American countries. THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The lassitude that usually precedes holiday periods descended upon the curb market today. Stocks moved listlessly in a narrow range, and were fairly steady at the close.

Gains and losses were of small proportions and about evenly divided. Sales totaled 325,300 shares.

Utility stocks were steady. The weight of offerings fractionally above the previous day checked an early advance in Electric Bond & Share and selling pressure in the last hour forced the stock down to 81 5-8. It closed at 82 1-4, off 3-4. Other active utilities such as American & Foreign Power warrants, American Super Power, Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson, United Gas and United Power & Light were little changed. Brazilian Traction and Hydro Electric securities were strong. In a small turnover American Gas & Electric sagged 2 3-8, and Duke Power rose 4.

Investment and holding company stocks were fairly active. Fluctuating narrowly they closed firm. Goldman Sachs, Insull Utility Investment and United Founders registered small gains. In the petroleum stocks principal changes were mixed, Gulf and Houston yielding more than a point each. Humble moved up 2 1-4.

Texan Oil & Land was very active and advanced 2 points to a new high on the declaration of an extra dividend. Standard Oil of Indiana, International Petroleum and Cities Service were firm. Aviation and motor shares held their ground.

Turnover of industrials that have been among the busiest stocks in previous sessions was small. Technicolor reacted 1 point. Translux was firm. American Cyanamid B sagged 5-8, U. S. Gypsum, A. O. Smith and Agfa Ansco gained a point each.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The forward movement of the bond market which has continued steadily throughout the week, was interrupted today.

An irregular price movement prevailed with prime investment issues steady to firm. A few profited from a strong demand to reach new peaks for the year but the price level as measured by the averages showed some impairment.

The foreign bond list received more attention and such high grade issues as Japan 5 1-2s and Belgian 7s climbed to new peaks for the year. The prospect of political strife in Argentina unsettled the Latin American list.

Selling in the railroad list affected many issues which have progressed in recent sessions but did not extend to standard investment obligations. Central New England 4s, Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s, Nickel Plate 5 1-2s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5s and 4 1-2s, and Oregon Railroad & Navigation 4s reached new highs for the year. Pennsylvania 4 1-2s were very active and firm. Canadian National Railway 4 1-2s, Colorado Southern 4 1-2s, Illinois Central 3 1-2s, M. K. T. adjustments 5s A, Missouri-Pacific refunding 5s A, were among those which sold off.

Utilities were mostly steady to firm. There was heavy trading again in American & Foreign Power 5s, which yielded 1-2, American Telephone debenture 5s sagged 1-4. A feature of the group was the weakness of International Telephone bonds. The debenture 5s reacted 2 1-4; debenture 4 1-2s, 1 1-2 and the convertible 4 1-2s sold off 1-2 after earlier strength.

Kins Co. Elevator 4s and Lorillard 7s reached new peaks. Fisk Rubber 8s reacted 2 1-2. Sugar bonds displayed a better tone. Manati Sugar 7 1-2s rose 2.

Argentine, Brazilian, Bolivian and Uruguayan issues lost ground. Bolivian 7s sagged 4 points, Brazilian 6 1-2s, 1. Argentine governments sold off about 1-2 point each. Peru 6s which have been weak were strong. Mexican governments were active and rose 2 and 3 points each.

Liberty 4th 4 1-2s was the only active government issue and was firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)—Corn values developed notable strength today, and helped to rally the wheat market after wheat had again broken the season's bottom price record. Upturns in corn quotations were associated with a statement from a leading crop authority that the corn trade now has to deal with likelihood of 13 months feeding for livestock instead of a 12 month feeding year. Big receipts of Canadian and domestic spring wheat were largely responsible for the weakness that wheat values displayed throughout the greater part of the day.

Corn closed firm, 5-8 to 3-8c a bushel net higher. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-8c up, oats unchanged to 1-2c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 7c off.

Provisions were easy, influenced by setbacks in the value of hogs.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Directors of the Waldorf System have voted to retire at $11 a share, 10,000 shares of 8 per cent preferred stock, par value $10. This will leave outstanding about 30,000 shares of 8 per cent preferred as the only obligation ahead of 461,810 shares of no par common.

Porter M. Farrell, president of Real Silk Hosiery, said that all plants of the company are running day and night and the business of the company has shown an increase every month this year, as compared with 1929. He said the outlook for the fourth quarter is for a continuance of capacity production.

Wall street reports today said that Colgate-Palm-Olive-Peet company is negotiating for the purchase of Kirkman Soap company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and that acquisition would be partly through Colgate-Palm-Olive-Peet stock and partly through cash, since the Kirkman company has no stock outstanding. Confirmation however, was lacking from Kirkman officials and S. M. Colgate, chairman, was in Chicago.

CITY MANAGER MAY HOLD HEARING IN SHEEHAN CASE

There is a probability that City Manager William A. Holt will order a hearing of Patrolman Patrick Sheehan on charges of violation of the police rules and regulations, next week, in spite of the fact that the officer's case on a charge of breach of the peace, from which emanate the charges contemplated being considered by the city manager, has not been concluded in the courts, although Sheehan was found guilty of the charge in the police court last Tuesday. He, however, filed notice of an appeal and the case will be tried at the next term of the court of common pleas. In the meantime, in the eyes of the law, Sheehan is not guilty, as charged. However, it is known that the city manager contemplates such a course. If the officer is found guilty and disciplined, and the court of common pleas does not sustain the decision of the lower court, it is difficult to comprehend how the city manager has the power to discipline when the case is pending, in view of the fact that the evidence adduced through testimony at the hearing must, of necessity, be based upon the conduct of the officer as contained in the breach of the peace charge. Leland Flanagan and Frank Storey, the sailors, who allege they were beaten without provocation by the police officer, who was off duty, are being held in readiness to testify before the city manager, should that official decide to conduct the hearing before final court action has been taken. In the police court Sheehan was fined $50 and costs.

WOMAN LEAVING BEACH CAR FALLS ON BAD WALK

Mrs. J. H. Hammond of 16 Brewer street was injured this afternoon when she stumbled on a defective sidewalk while alighting from a trolley car at Ocean Beach. The woman, with many others, was leaving the trolley car at the beach terminal. As she stepped to the platform Mrs. Hammond stumbled on a defective curbing, causing her to be thrown to the walk. The fall caused injuries to her arm, leg, back and hip. She was given temporary treatment, then was removed to her home, where she was attended by a physician. Patrolmen William Manice and Joseph Sullivan, who assisted the injured woman, reported the sidewalk defective, inasmuch as about 12 feet of the curb had been demolished and there was a hole about a foot in diameter.

Waterford Vagrancy Case

Sol Chariop, 111 Bank street, reported to the police at 3:30 o'clock this morning that an automobile owned by the Triangle store, State street, had been stolen from its parking place. A request of the state police and the police throughout the state was made to be on the lookout for the auto.

Ferrucio Albiani, 150 Ledyard street, made complaint to the police today that youths were causing damage to a dwelling owned by complainant at 22 Fourth street.

Fred Mitnich, 87 Bank street, complained to the police today that while his automobile was parked in front of 51 Linden street last night a thief removed the side-windshields.

Walter Jackson, of Mystic, was arrested in Groton yesterday, charged with reckless driving and will be presented in the Groton town court Monday next. Jackson was driving through the borough on a motorcycle and with a passenger, when State Officer Hoxie observed the speed of the cycle, which was between 65 and 70 miles an hour. Hoxie gave chase and arrested the cyclist, but not until after a long ride.

The trial of Charles Wilson, colored, employed as a waiter at the Hotel Griswold, charged with assault with intent to kill, in attacking and slashing Leon Coakley, colored and a member of the U. S. coast guard, will not be held until Sept. 1. Today Wilson, who was arraigned in court yesterday and held in bail of $3,000, furnished a surety. Braxton will be given a hearing at the same time as Wilson.

Taken To Providence

Boleslaw Habarek, 30 Winthrop street, arrested at his home yesterday on a federal removal warrant, was taken in charge this forenoon by a U. S. marshal who escorted the prisoner to Providence where he will be presented on a charge of violation of the prohibition law. Habarek's arrest is the result of his being in the company of Witold Korpacz, the latter of Providence, who was arrested here several months ago, while attempting to deliver alcohol, which Korpacz and Habarek are alleged to have transported to New London from Providence. Habarek made his escape when officers sought to arrest the pair, but Korpacz was fined $500 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail.

UTILITIES COMMISSION AFTER P. S. OPERATORS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 28—Although the state public utilities commission has caused but a single registration of a public service operator to be surrendered in New London, it is known that the commission contemplates the compulsory surrender of at least two, if not four other registrations. This week the registration of Charles Parmalee, Groton, who has been operator of a cab in New London several years, was ordered surrendered and the commission is now assembling data and allegations against the other drivers who will suffer the same action as resulted in the calling in of Parmelee's registration. The compulsory surrender of the additional registration of the operators is scheduled for next week, for representatives of the commission are supposed to come here at that time, as a result of a long investigation into the alleged acts of the drivers. The commission is intent on causing the surrender of the registration of all drivers who have a criminal record or who, it is claimed, have used their motor vehicles for purposes of immorality, soliciting passengers for that purpose or using them as means of transporting liquor, or passengers to resorts where liquor is dispensed.

Ernest C. Fuller, submarine base, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Fuller was arrested at 3 o'clock this morning by Patrolman George Bruhns.

Benjamin J. Brighton, Hartford, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to grant right of way, had the charge nolled. Brighton was arrested yesterday by Patrolman George Laboue.

A case of intoxication was tried, but the man was shown leniency, judgment being suspended. He was arrested on North Bank street last evening by Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty.

The New Haven railroad discontinued two passenger trains Tuesday, trains Nos. 5 and 6 because of a lack of patronage. The passengers heretofore being transported by these trains will be accommodated by trains 3 and 4, which operate earlier than the trains discontinued.

McELHANEY PLAYING HORSE WITH LAW AND BONDSMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 28—John McElhaney, proprietor of a speakeasy at 9 Pearl street, who was scheduled to defend two charges of violation of the liquor law, actual sale and illegal possession in the police court yesterday, at which time the case was continued until today because he did not present himself for trial, failed to put in an appearance today. His bond of $1,000 on which Louis Elfenbein is surety, was not declared forfeited for the case was continued to Sept. 4th in order to permit McElhaney to give himself up or the police to apprehend him. McElhaney is known to have been about the streets as late as last Tuesday and at which time he signified his intention of being in court the next day, but he never got there. Since Tuesday night all trace of the speakeasy proprietor has been lost and the apartment where he conducted the liquor business gives every indication of having been vacated. McElhaney was arrested over a week ago when the police made numerous raids on evidence obtained through the energy of imported stool pigeons.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

MODIFIES CORN BORER QUARANTINE.

The secrtary of agriculture has announced an amendment, effective August 30, to the European corn borer quarantine regulations relating to the movement of shelled corn, cut flowers and other restricted articles.

The effect of the amendment, according to the secretary, is to remove the restrictions on the interstate shipment of oat and rye straw, celery and cut flowers or entire plants of cosmos, zinnia, or hollyhock, from the two-generation area of eastern New England. The requirement of certification of cleaned schelled corn and the cleaned seed of broomcorn, sorghums and Sudan grass is also discontinued as to both the one-generation and two-generation areas. Several years experience with restrictions on these plants and plant products indicates that infestation in them is so rare that their movement can hardly be considered to involve danger of spreading the European corn borer.

THE BEES' BUSINESS

An ingenious device at the United States Bee Culture laboratory, Somerset, Md., measures the flight activity of honey bees. It is an instrument about 3 feet tall and 4 inches in diameter, filled with sugar sirup. Small holes at the bottom permit the bees to feed. By a system of floats and weights the rate at which the bees take sirup is recorded electrically on a chart in the office. This information, together with a record of weather conditions at the time of feeding, enables the investigators to determine how much work bees do in different kinds of weather.

HOG RAISING.

Hog raisers in 37 states have produced a total of 4,159 official ton litters since the project was started in Indiana in 1923, according to the United States department of agriculture. Pennsylvania leads the states with a production of 549 litters weighing a ton or more at 180 days of age. Indiana is second with a total of 500 litters, followed by Illinois with 479, Tennessee with 415, Ohio with 336, and Minnesota with 314.

U. S. BREEDING INSECTS TO DESTROY CROP PESTS

In its fight against destructive insects the United States department of agriculture has enlisted the services of an almost invisible insect parasite that produces not only twins but also multiple sets of twins inside the eggs of other insects.

This little parasite, which scientists call Trichogramma minutum, has been bred by the bureau of entomology at the government laboratory in Brownwood, Tex., for two years, and arrangements are now being made to propagate it in the laboratory at Albany, Ga. When the bureau has produced a sufficient quantity of the little parasites, they will be liberated in pecan groves in the south in the hope that they will help control an insect pest known as the nut case-bearer. This parasite is being studied also at Moorestown, N. J., laboratory and propagated in experimental numbers. It is planned to produce it in large quantities, if possible, for liberation in orchards to determine whether it will help in the control of the oriental fruit moth.

Two small wasplike parasites, which lak their eggs in the grub of the fruit moth, are also being propagated at Moorestown for release at the most effective time to parasitize the larva of this pest. The wasp grubs nourish themselves on their hosts and gradually devour them. An attempt will be made soon in the multiplication of one or two parasites which are promising for use against the codling moth, a pest which produces worms in apples. If it can be shown that these beneficial insects can be practically reared in large numbers and liberated in orchards in a way to assist materially in insect control, doubtless work of this character will be undertaken by interested states.

This is not the first time the department of agriculture has bred enemies for insects. Work of this character has been going on for many years. In the case of the gipsy and brown-tail moths, and, more recently, of the European corn borer, many parasites have been imported, propagated and liberated as well as predatory insects, such as the Calosoma beetle, a very valuable ally in the struggle with the gipsy moth.

LEAD ARSENATE CONTROLS BEETLE GRUBS IN LAWNS

Some of the worst grubs which attack the roots of lawn and golf grasses in late summer may be controlled by treating the soil with acid lead arsenate. The poison should be applied broadcast just before seeding new lawns or between April 1 and October 30 on existing lawns.

This treatment was perfected by the United States department of agriculture in its efforts to lessen the damage caused by grubs of the Japanese beetle and other imported pests. The method, however, is effective against some of our native grubs as well, and is recommended by the department for lawns and golf courses.

If possible, the treatment should be given when the grass is planted. Lead arsenate is broadcast over the soil at the rate of 1 1-2 pounds for each 100 square feet of space. Then the soil is disked thoroughly to insure mixing the poison evenly throughout the upper 3 or 4 inches.

Where the grass is already established the lead arsenate may be applied as a top dressing at the rate of one-half pound to each 100 square feet. The poison should be mixed thoroughly with fifteen times its weight of topsoil and applied broadcast. It will be necessary to repeat this job every fall for three years.

HOW TO KEEP LAWNS FROM TURNING BROWN

We are told by physicists that plants do not differ greatly from ourselves insofar as their requirements for life and growth. Like ourselves plants must have the right amount of food, water and warmth. An excess of one of these vital requisites will not compensate for a deficiency of another.

It is explained that water dissolves the plant food in the soil, forming a "soil solution," and that the solution is taken up by plants as needed. The warmer the weather, the greater the consumption of the solution, and growth is proportionate to the amount of food and water consumed by the plant.

With this fact known, we can understand why lawns turn brown and die out during summer. It is invariably due to a deficiency of plant food. Most people are quite generous when it comes to supplying water to their lawns. Liberal applications of water produce an abundant growth so long as the soil's store of plant food lasts, but when it becomes exhausted, growth will cease unless additional plant food is added.

Today there is no reason for allowing grass or any other plants to suffer from lack of food. It is a very easy matter to feed plants regularly—and properly. Modern science has developed a complete scientifically prepared plant food which can be applied right on the surface and soaked into the soil. This plant food is clean, odorless, and pleasant to handle. It can be applied in about the same length of time it would take to water the lawn.

In addition to these desirable physical qualities, this plant food is more effective than any of the old-fashioned make-shifts used in the past, because it contains all of the food elements grass and other plants need in just the right proportions for greatest growth and beauty.

By feeding lawns at intervals of from six to eight weeks, they will retain their rich, green color.

SPEED UP THE CIRCULATION OF WATER IN HEATER

Heating engineers recently have developed methods of speeding up the circulation of the water in a hot water heating system. One method involves the use of a pump which forces a more active circulation of the water. Another method consists of adding to the hot water heating system a pressure tank, a pressure relief valve, and a pressure reducing valve.

The latter system is relatively inexpensive in its installation cost and may be used successfully with an old hot water heating system or with a system that is being installed in a new house.

Here is the way it works: The pressure tank is installed at the highest point in the basement. Before the boiler, the pipes, and the radiators are filled with water, they, of course, are full of air. As the water is turned into the system, the air retreats into the pressure tank. When the system is completely filled, the tank usually is about one third full of water and two thirds full of complessed air. Since water expands when it is heated, its is evident that as the heat in the boiler is increased, the air space in the boiler is lessened and the pressure on the system is increased. This has the effect of accelerating the circulation of the water with the result that the rooms are heated more quickly, the system is more flexible, and less fuel is used.

Furthermore, a higher temperature of the water is possible with the so-called "closed system" which has just been described. Water will boil when heated to 212 degrees under pressure of the atmosphere, as for instance in the case of an "open" system with an expansion tank in the attic. But in the case of a closed system with a pressure greater than atmospheric, the boiling point of the water is raised.

All of this is merely an introduction to the fact that if a house has scant radiation, the closed system will do some extent help overcome this difficulty in that it will enable the home owner to have water at a higher temperature in his radiations.

At the same time there is no lessening of the safety factor because the plant will be equipped with a relief valve which will relieve the boiler pressure when it arrives at a certain point. The valve is adjustable up to 35 pounds. When the maximum pressure has been reached, the valve opens automatically and liberates water until the pressure is lessened to such an extent as to eliminate any chance of breaking the boiler.

The pressure reducing valve is installed in the water supply main and provides for automatic filling of the boiler.

PLUMBING SALES REACH $3,000,000

Despite the fact that 1930 is an off year for the building industry, the American public bought nearly three million plumbing fixtures in the first six months of this year, a tabulation of the various monthly totals compiled by the department of commerce shows.

The fact that sales of bathtubs, lavatories, kitchen sinks, laundry tubs, etc., have held up so well is an indication of the extent to which the American public is modernizing its plumbing by replacing obsolete fixtures with modern fixtures and making provisions in old homes for additional bathroom facilities, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau.

Reports by typical plumbing contractors in various states recently submitted to the bureau show that many plumbers are devoting all of their time to bathroom and kitchen modernizing. Some contractors reported that they had not installed plumbing fixtures in a single new house in the first six months of 1930, but have been kept busy with the installation of additional bathrooms in old houses.

Apparently the public to a greater extent than is commonly realized is taking advantage of favorable commodity prices and the labor situation to enhance the value of many well-located and well-constructed older houses.

It would seem that many home owners are going quietly about the job of modernizing bathrooms and adding millions of dollars to the value of property in cities and smaller towns. From this point of view the present lull in business has its advantages in that it is giving time for the rehabilitation of many properties which the swift march of other years has allowed to fall into decay.

While the majority of home owners are doubtless putting in new bathrooms for their own convenience, there are probably mony others who are utilizing the present favorable opportunity to bring their properties up to date so that they may be quickly sold when the upturn in the real estate market makes its appearance.

The exact total of the shipments of plumbing fixtures as reported to the department of commerce by manufacturers is 2,783,117 for the period from January to June, inclusive. Since plumbing fixtures are made of enameled iron, porcelain and vitreous china, the department of commerce uses these classifications in making up its tabulation of shipments.

CELLAR FIRE A CONSTANT MENACE

Basement fires are a far more serious menace than most property owners realize. Usually started by spontaneous combustion, overheated furnaces, poor wiring and uninsulated heating pipes, these fires gain such headway that almost before one is aware of the fact the fire reaches the upper floors. The very inaccessibility of the basement tends to make them more dangerous, particularly in the older houses.

Perhaps one of the best safeguards against the spread of fire originating in the basement, when there is no concrete floor slab, is the use of plaster on metal lath for the basement ceiling. Tests made in the laboratories of the National Board of Fire Underwriters have proven that metal lath and one inch of cement plaster applied to the under side of the ceiling protects the floor joists of the first floor for more than an hour.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

THE MAJORITY AND THE MINORITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

When Robinson Crusoe found himself cast up on an uninhabited island, with nothing but a shirt and drawers and a deadly fear of being eaten up by wild animals, he felt pretty blue. Next day, when he discovered the wrecked ship close in shore and filled with things to eat and to wear and to defend himself with, things looked rosier.

But, after he had looted the wreck and gathered into his cave what he describes as probably the biggest collection of supplies ever at the disposal of a single man, the blues came back. He was marooned alone on an island far off the track of vessels, with no means of communicating his plight and no hope of being found by chance. So he began to hope again, and to wonder why he should have been picked out from all men for such misfortune.

He didn't have any farm board to help tide him over, nor any chamber of commerce to bolster him up, nor any rotary dinner to put pep into him. But he seems to have had a certain amount of native good sense. And this led him, after a short session with the mulligrubs of despair, to make up a sort of debit and credit account between himself and fate.

He ruled a sheet of paper down the middle and set forth, on one side, all the miseries he was enduring. Then, on the other side, he wrote out with impartial accuracy all the blessings he was endowed with.

When he discovered, as he did the moment he tried to balance the sides, that he had more to be thankful for than to complain about, he decided that it was time to stop snivelling and begin boosting.

We farmers have got the reputation among our fellow-citizens of being constitutional and unceasing grumblers. It's always either too hot or too cold, too wet or too dry. The bugs eat our crops or the hail spoils them. Either the potato yield is so big that we can't sell it for the cost of raising it, or blights and rots destroy it so that we have none to sell. If it isn't one piece of bad luck, it's another. We're in grief all the time, coming and going. A whole lot of us think that we've been picked out by malice and spite to suffer undeservedly. We can't understand why Dives should travel in Rolls-Royces and ocean-going yachts and tri-motored airplanes, while not even a stray dog will ramble out of his way to lick our sores.

Not to put too fine a point on it we're, some of us, inclined rather strongly to self-pity.

Which isn't a wholly admirable state of mind. It's apt to wield a slathering paint brush, loaded with the bluest kind of blue pigment. And blue, while eminently appropriate in the far-off sky, isn't so desirable a shade for the nearby earth.

—I sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be helpful for us to imitate "poor Robin Crusoe", once in a while, and take stock of things as they actually are, not as they look when seen through a maze of "the blues".

Of course, each one has his separate and distinct trouble. No one but the wearer can tell, off hand, where the shoe pinches. You don't know where I feel moved to scratch, nor can I tell what place on you itches. But there are a few general conditions which prevail more or less widely, and in which we all have some share. Without attempting to do any individual's private bookkeeping for him, I'd like to suggest two or three items which most all farmers can put down on the credit side of their balance-sheet.

Consider, first, this matter of unemployment. According to the newspapers and the more leisurely census, there are thousands upon thousands of mechanics and clerks and factory hands, etc., who are out of work and, therefore, deprived of the means of earning a living. Such people depend upon their daily or weekly or monthly wages to buy their groceries and clothes, their fuel and their rent. When the wages stop their buying must also stop. Then begins the terrible race against starvation. Do you, brother farmer, ever stop to think what must be the suffering of a fellow man when he sees the wife and weans slowly starving before his eyes and no way open to him to find the money he is crazy to work for and earn?

Right there is one item which can be set down on the credit side of our account in the blackest ink and the biggest letters. No industrious farmer on an intelligently managed farm is likely to find himself unable to provide an adequate living for those dependent on him. He isn't swamped when the pocket book is empty and the grocer refuses credit. He may not be able to fill them up with porterhouse steak and ice cream, but he can always raise pork and grow beans; usually, also, corn and potatoes and turnips and cabbages. He can, occasionally, trade off some of his surplus pork for a neighbor's surplus corned beef. While pork and beans, corned beef and cabbage are not highly luxurious feasts, at least nobody will starve on them.

The farmer isn't dependent upon somebody else to supply his living for a consideration, he can and usually does grow it, himself. Even when droughts and blights and bugs are most destructive, there is practically always enough left to tide over any ordinary emergency.

Consider next, the fact that the farmer has to meet merely natural conditions. Nature is his ally or his antagonist, as may happen. She may help him or she may bash him over the head. But he has always one assurance, viz.: that she fights fair. She has no pets and no spites. The farmer may not be able to understand her fully. He is certainly unable always to combat her triumphantly, but he can rest confident in one immutable fact, that she isn't going to play mean tricks on him, especially, just to gratify personal malice. She hasn't any particular love for him, nor any individual grudge against him. She drops her rains on the just and the unjust, with impersonal impartiality. She doesn't go out of her way, or lay plots to injure any one of us in particular.

Compare that with the man who works for wages under a boss and a foreman and perhaps an assistant-foreman and an efficiency expert. Any one of them may, for almost any cause, adopt a prejudice against him. In which case nothing that he can do will be just right, and he lives and works day by day under the axe of dismissal, never knowing when it may drop on his head. It is liable to fall, any minute. Then, what to do? What to do? There are a dozen applicants begging for his job. Nor are there any open elsewhere to which he may turn.

The farmer hasn't any boss whom he must bootlick in order to insure having work to do and wages to earn. He hasn't to consider this one's whims or that one's crankinesses or the other one's baseless spite. There is always something for him to do, something that needs doing, something worth while doing. He isn't going to get out of work so long as there is a fence to fix or a roof to patch or a crop to cultivate and harvest. He may not make money enough to have grapefruit from Florida for breakfast, but he can have apples or pears or peaches or melons or berries from his own farm. In a very real and very significant sense, he is independent of panics and market upheavals, so far as his living is concerned. What he shall eat and what he shall drink and wherewithal he shall be clothed is not a matter dependent solely upon the inexplicable whims of an employer, but chiefly upon his own gumption and industry and foresight.

He plays his own game. Admitting that it is played against an invisible and very partially understood opponent, he knows that his opponent plays fair and never violates a rule of the game. She doesn't reverge and never trumps her partner's ace. Nor does she "stack the cards" against anybody. Moreover, if the farmer wins, she pays up promptly and fully.

Isn't it something to know, when you start a game of checkers or casino or auction bridge or farming that you're going to have a square deal and an honest game? Isn't that fact worth setting down on the credit side of the account?

"Better is a dinner of herbs where love is than a stalled ox and hatred therewith," said wise old Solomon.

Better is the simple life shared with hope and confidence, than a big income which is liable to be lopped off any minute.

Better, much better is a tender Rhode Island Red in the pot than a doubtful Bird of Paradise in the jungle.

Better to play safe than to take too big chances.

We farmers aren't likely to win any big pots in our game against Old Step-mother Nature. On the other hand, we aren't likely to lose our shirts and boots. We're reasonably sure of having something left to get home with.

It is a curious and not very attractive trait of human nature that we're none of us apt to be completely satisfied with what we have. According to history, old King Croesus, the richest man in the world—wasn't satisfied. He wanted more, and lost his whole pile grasping after it. One aviator has gone up 40,000 feet into the 80-below-zero upper air. Another one promptly sets out to reach 41,000 feet. Almost anyone can climb Lantern hill. But the Alpinists will never rest till they've got to the top of Everest and Kinchingiunga. Heretofore divers have thought 300 feet as far under the ocean as they could get. Now somebody is planning an uncrushable diving bell in which he can descend 1,000 feet.

And so it goes.

We should not condemn every phase of the "divine discontent" which spurs adventurers on towards making the seemingly impossible feasible.

But when discontent becomes mere grumbling, it's time to consider whether the discontent is inevitable and the grumbling excusable.

If we should stop and strike a balance between our gains and our losses now and then, we might, perhaps, find our lots more endurable than we had supposed.

Why not try it?

POETRY

The Water Lily's Story

When first I woke to life.
Deep down in the river's bed,
I could not breathe for the stifling ooze
And the blackness over my head.
In darkness I longed for the light,
Prisoned, I yearned to be free,
In dreams I pined for the sky and the wind,
For star and bird and tree;
And I said: "I will rise to that upper air
And the life that draweth me."

The twining weeds of the water-world
Reached out and held me fast;
The lithe reeds wove a tangled net
To catch me as I passed;
Though creeping things of mire and mud
Beckoned and bade me stay;
In the treacherous current, swift and strong,
I felt my weak stem away:
But through them, over them, past them all,
I took my upward way.

Till, white, white,
Brimmed with sunshine and steeped in light,
I lifted up
My fragrant cup—
Bloom of the daytime and star of the night—
In rapture I gazed at the heavens blue
And knew that all my dreams were true.
And pure and fair
My white leaves bear.
Never a trace of slime and mold,
And the crawling things of the under-world
Have left no taint on my heart of gold.
In peace I rest
On the river's breast
And living, I love, and, loving, live,
And, breathing deep of that upper air,
My life to the world in sweetness give.
—Annie Johnson Flint, in Youth's Companion.

At Last

The aged Mr. Edison,
Undaunted by the years,
Keeps indefatigably upon
His search, as it appears.
Though disappointments by the score
Have foiled his long pursuit
From Alpha to Omega, for
A rubber substitute.
But yesterday he paused beside
A Cape Cod country way,
Where at a hot-dog stand he spied
The menu for the day;
He paused thereat. He did not crave
The lobsters, beefs, and hams.
But, tempted by the odor, gave
His order for FRIED CLAMS.
But when he tried these fragrant eats,
His keen, expressive eyes
Took on that startled look that Keats
Has called "a wild surmise."
He took three chews, he gave three cheers.
The hills and vales resound—
For finished is the quest of years.
The substitute is found!
—Ted Robinson, in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

IMPY FINDS A WONDERFUL PLACE

By Thornton W. Burgess

'Tis well to put one on his own,
For then he learns to stand alone.
—Old Mother Nature.

When Impy, the black chipmunk, awoke very early in the morning, it took him a few minutes to remember where he was. Instead of being down under the ground, as he always had been every morning before, his bedroom had wooden walls. Finally, it came to him how he had started out to see the great world and how just before dark he had found a nest in a hollow post of the old fence. Impy scrambled up to the hole just above his and looked out. Jolly, round Mr. Sun was just beginning his climb up in the blue, blue sky and there was every promise that the day would be fine. Impy climbed to the top of the post and there very carefully made his toilet. When this was finished, it came to him that he was hungry; so he scampered down to look for something to eat.

"This is the most wonderful place in all the world!" cried Impy

Impy stayed there for two or three days. It was a very nice place. But it didn't quite suit him. It was all right to stay in for a while, but it was no place for a regular home.

"My cousins, Happy Jack and Gray Squirrel and Chatterer the Red Squirrel may like wooden walls, but I don't," said Impy, talking to himself. "I like earth walls better. Yes, sir, I like earth walls better. When I get my real home, it is going to be in the ground, with a nice, long hall leading to it and two or three nice little storehouses opening from the hall. Anyway, I feel safe here and it is a good thing to feel safe."

So Impy used his home in the post to sleep in and rest in and to go exploring from. He felt a great deal easier when he was exploring than he had when he had had no place to run to. So he made little trips off, first this way, then that way, then the other way. From these trips he would return to the post with a hole in it. It was his temporary home.

Now, that old fence was almost as good as a stone wall to run along. One day, when he was feeling unusually bold, Impy ran along it to the very end, or rather to where it turned and thus made a corner. Just beyond was a road. And in that corner, or rather just outside the fence, was a great pile of stones. Impy's eyes twinkled when he saw those stones. There were big stones and little stones. There were places between them to slip down into. Impy stayed so long that it was dark before he thought of going home. Then he was afraid to go home. So he worked his way down between the stones until at last he came to the ground; and there he spent that night. He wasn't real comfortable and he didn't sleep as well as he might have.

In the morning when he had a chance to more thoroughly explore that pile of stones and the country around it, he decided that he had seen all of the great world that he wanted to see.

"This is the most wonderful place in all the great world," cried Impy. "There is everything that a chipmunk could ask for. Already I have discovered that there is plenty to eat. There is a wonderful place to run (he meant the rail fence) and there are all sorts of places to pop in and out of amongst these stones. I am going to make me a home here. When I get it done, I'll have as fine a home as a chipmunk ever had. Now I'm glad I started out to see the great world. It was a very fine place where I was born, but this is finer. I'll get busy at once and get that new home started."

PERU HAS RETURNED TO THE NORMAL STATUS

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 28—(AP)—Peru today apparently had returned to the normal status existing before a revolt last Friday stirred the nation and resulted in the installation of Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro last night as the new head of the government.

Sanchez Cerro, arriving from Arequipa by airplane, succeeded a military junta which on Monday ousted President Augusto B. Leguia, and was sworn in last night as president of the new junta without portfolio, his cabinet, installed at the same time, reads as follows: Secretary of war, Major Alejandro Barco. Secretary of foreign affairs, Col. Ernesto Montagne. Government and police, Major Gustavo Jimenez. Finance and commerce, Col. Ricardo Llona. Public works and industry, Col. Eulogio Castillo. Marine and aviation, Commander Carlos Rotalde.

The new administration today began to reorganize the government, intending to oust those officials who were adherents of the former president, now lying ill aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao.

DECREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending August 27 were announced by the federal reserve board today as $3,102,000,000, representing a decrease of $26,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

HANOVER

Miss Anna Peck, Pembroke '33, who has been spending part of her vacation at Narragansett Pier, R. I., has returned to her home until the opening of college.

Mrs. Robert Eadie, with her two sons, from Boston, has been entertained at the home of her aunt, Miss Margaret Eadie, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Allen and Miss Fannie Allen attended the Inter-denominational Day session at Willimantic Camp meeting Friday.

Miss Margaret Tucker, of Boston, paid a short visit at the home of her father, James Tucker, recently.

Miss Betty Adams was in Stonington for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crofts have been entertaining one of their sons and his family for some time of late.

Charles Rood has been suffering greatly with erysipelas in one side of the face during the past week. It appeared very suddenly after sitting in a strong draft when at Watch Hill early in the week.

Picnic Lunch and Games

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church had a hot dog lunch party at Lee's Park Monday evening. The lunch was preceded by outdoor games on the lawn, and followed by indoor ones in the house, before the breaking up of the gathering.

A number of local people attended Willimantic Camp meeting Sunday.

Both rooms of Hanover schoolhouse are undergoing renovations preparatory to the opening of the term next week Wednesday. Several families having children have moved into the village since the closing of the schools last June, and as none have left it, it looks as though the building would be taxed to capacity. Mrs. Irene Mann and Miss Elsie Freeman will be in charge, as last year, and the children will be welcomed into clean, fresh looking quarters with more nearly adequate blackboards than heretofore and the heating facilities will be such as to require less attention upon the part of the teachers.

Mrs. W. J. Craig, of Danielson, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry B. Hazen, who has been ill during the past week.

YANTIC

Most of the horses that have been rented out to summer camps have been brought into their winter quarters during the past week, as many of the summer camps are closing. It has not been as lively at Nadleson's Spruce Lodge or the Prospect House this summer as it was last season, although many guests have been accommodated.

Mrs. John Proctor and children, John, Ruth, Barbara and Wareham, and Mrs. Frank Stritch and sons, Richard and Robert, of Nutley, N. J., have returned after a month's stay at Lord's Point. Mrs. Stritch is spending the remainder of the month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kilroy.

Mrs. William Kilroy has returned, after a lengthy stay in Colchester with her daughter, Mrs. C. K. Sherman.

At Summer Home

Miss Lucy Ladd, of Manchester, has been spending the past two weeks at her summer home, Elmwood.

Miss Harriett King, of Willimantic, was a recent guest at Elmwood.

Mrs. Frank Lathrop has returned from an extended stay in Kansas.

Miss Mary Meehan has been spending several days at Bluff Point.

Miss Margaret Lyons has returned to Worcester, after spending the greater part of the month here with her sister, Mrs. Frank H. Tracy.

Mrs. Harry Fishbone and son Augustus and Mr. and Mrs. Max Fishbone have returned, after two weeks' stay in New York.

Miss Eva Agranat, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been spending several weeks as the guest of Miss Golda Fishbone.

Jason Kingsley, Jr., of Franklin, is visiting this week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Kingsley.

Mrs. Laskowitz and daughter, Miss Ida Laskowitz, of New York, have been spending the past week with Yantic friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Balsh and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Balsh and daughter, Mary Ann, of Manchester, were guests at Elmwood Sunday.

John Proctor was a recent visitor at Lord's Point.

Raymond V. Congdon, Jr., has returned from a stay of several weeks with relatives in Providence.

Mrs. Anna Johnson has returned from a stay of several days in Manchester with her daughter.

UNDER the non-skid tread of these famous Firestone Tires is a double breaker of two plies of cord fabric anchored in cushion rubber. This special construction absorbs road shocks—protects against punctures and blowouts—provides the foundation for the thick, tough tread with deeper grooves—giving longer non-skid wear.

OTHER makes of tires have only a single breaker of old-fashioned square woven fabric which Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire. Some makes do not have any breaker at all. The Firestone Tire is set apart as an "All Cord Tire".

TWO NEGRO CHILDREN WERE BURNED TO DEATH

Hartford, Aug. 28 (AP)—Two small Negro children were burned to death in the kitchen of their home at 247 Windsor street, this afternoon, at 5 o'clock.

The victims were Elizabeth Randolph, 5, and her young brother, Daniel, 71 months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Randolph.

Left in charge of their 11 years old brother, Nathan, who neglected them to go out and play, the children are thought to have been playing with a box of matches, which exploded, starting the fire. They had apparently been trapped in the room by the flames, which were confined to the kitchen.

Das Unangenehmste Zuerst

Procrastination is a vice to which we all are prone,
The things that we don't want to do we're quite apt to postpone.
They may be quite important, but we somehow find a way
To put off till tomorrow what we ought to do today;
And then—so much our love of ease our sense of duty numbs—
We do not care a copper if tomorrow never comes!

Procrastination is a vice for which there's no excuse;
We may not like some things we have to do, but what's the use!
If we have got to do them, by far the better way
Is to pitch right in and do them—get them off our minds today!
They won't be easier to do some weeks or months ahead,
And in the mean time you will often think of them with dread.

Procrastination is a vice we surely should avoid,
No matter who or what we are, or how we are employed;
For common sense will tell us that it is the easiest way
To do at once the irksome things we ought to do today.
So scan the things you ought to do, decide which is the worst,
And then do, as the Germans say, "the most unpleasant first."

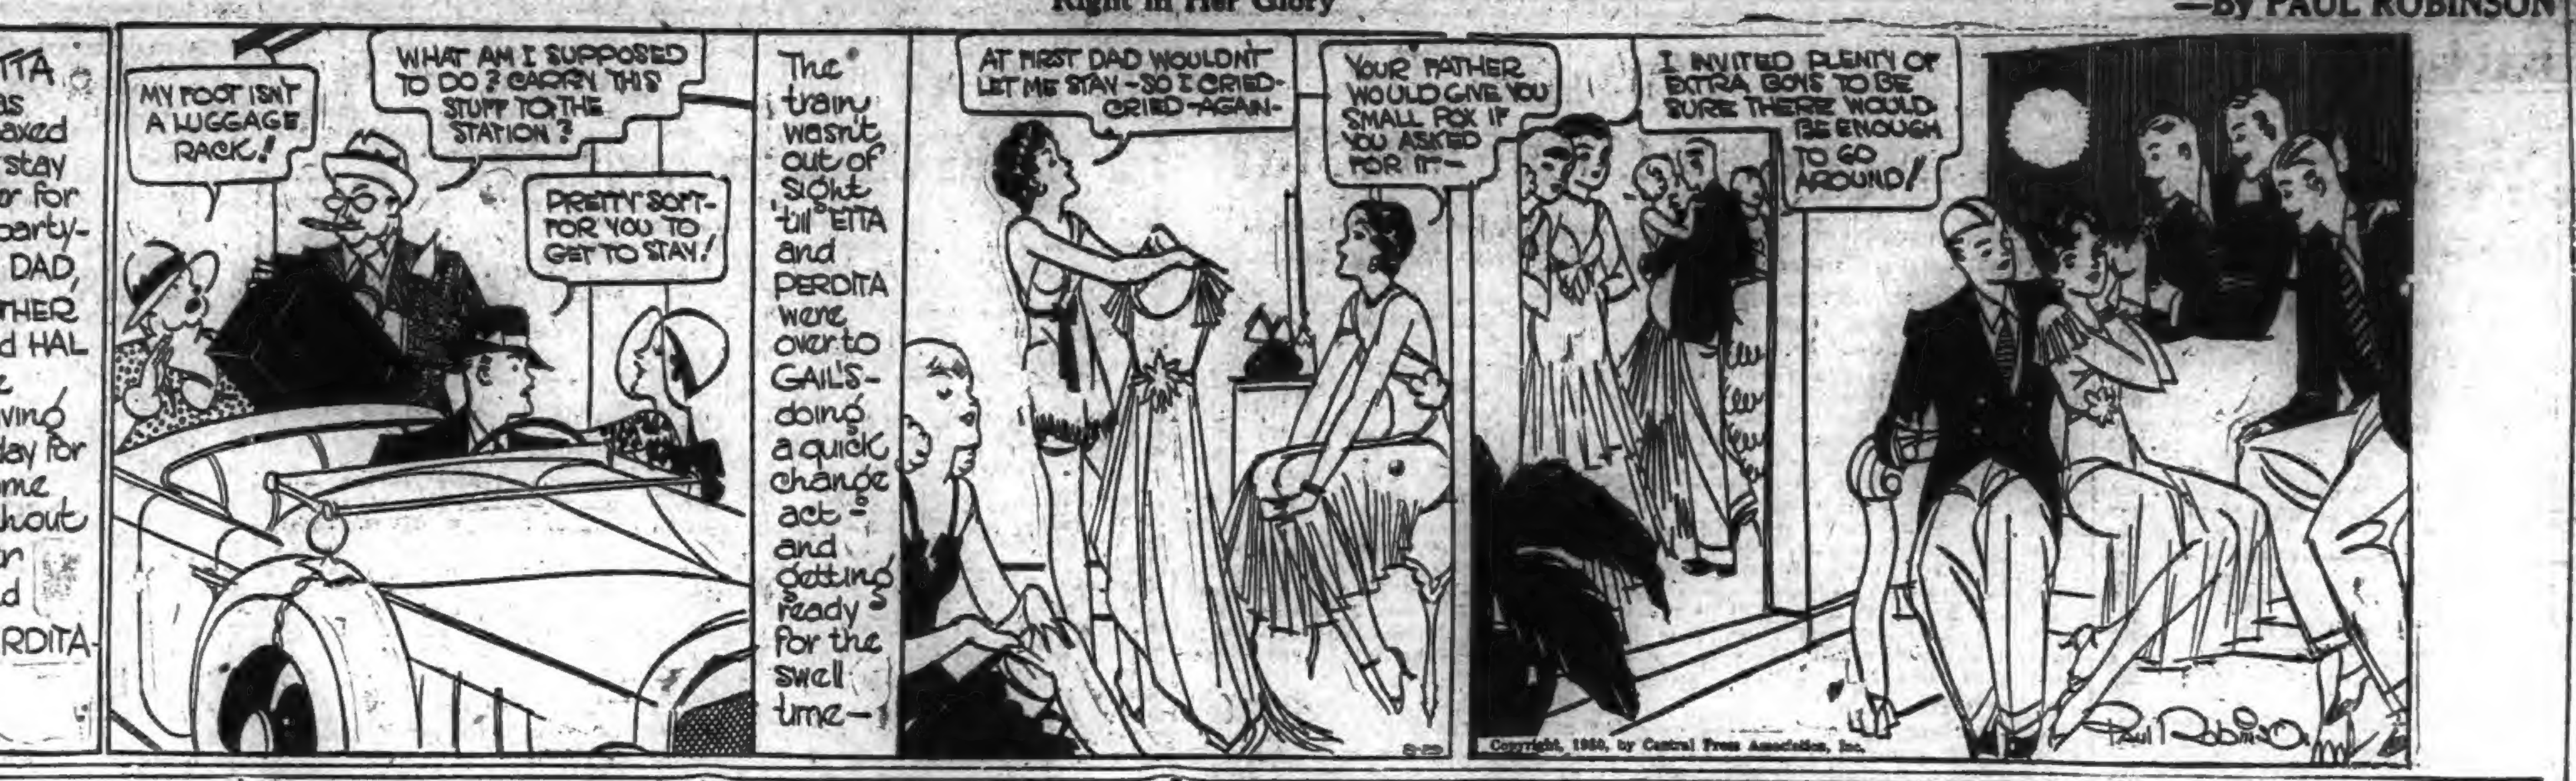
ETTA KETT

Right in Her Glory

—By PAUL ROBINSON



ETTA has coaxed to stay over for a party—so DAD, MOTHER and HAL are leaving today for home without her and PERDITA—
MY FOOT ISN'T A LUGGAGE RACK!
WHAT AM I SUPPOSED TO DO? CARRY THIS STUFF TO THE STATION?
PRETTY SOFT FOR YOU TO GET TO STAY!
The train wasn't out of sight 'till ETTA and PERDITA were over to GAIL'S—doing a quick change act—and getting ready for the swell time—
AT FIRST DAD WOULDN'T LET ME STAY—SO I CRIED—CRIED—AGAIN—
YOUR FATHER WOULD GIVE YOU SMALL POX IF YOU ASKED FOR IT—
I INVITED PLENTY OF EXTRA BOYS TO BE SURE THERE WOULD BE ENOUGH TO GO AROUND!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Belle Bennett, famous and popular screen mother, scores another triumph in "Recaptured Love" now playing at the Palace theatre on the double feature bill also showing "Rough Romance."

John Halliday new to theatre patrons makes his debut in "Recaptured Love" as does Junior Durkin but Dorothy Burgess another member of the cast is well known. "Recaptured Love" is the story of a woman who watches her husband succumb to the wiles of a chorus girl and then sets about to win him back. How she does this is something which every woman who feels that her husband may be of the "falling" should observe.

"Rough Romance" the other feature on this bill is somewhat different from anything seen in the talking pictures. It is the story of the great mountain regions of Washington and the scenery of Mount Rainier where the setting was laid is exquisite.

The story is that of the police search for the murdered of an old trapper. George O'Brien, the fugitive and suspect gives them a merry chase to halt the flight.

This double-feature will be shown at the Palace for the last times today and tomorrow. On Sunday the Palace will present Constance Bennett and a large cast of stars in "Common Clay" which answers the question: Does one slip make a woman bad?

Broadway Theatre

Dorothy Mackaill, beautiful and talented screen actress, who portrays the leading feminine role in "Man Trouble," current attraction at Warner's Broadway theatre, likes to take long walks into the country and dabble among strange plants and geological specimens. She is a student of both botany and geology.

Milton Sills, one of the most popular actors of the films, enacts the leading role in this Fox Movietone all talking romantic drama adapted from Ben Ames Williams' widely read magazine story, "A Very Practical Joke," under the polished direction of Berthold Viertel.

Important feature roles are also played by Kenneth MacKenna, Sharon Lynn, Roscoe Karns James Bradbury, Jr., Oscar Apfel, Harvey Clark and Edythe Chapman.

The story concerns a beautiful girl who is loved by two men, one the owner of a night club and the other a newspaper columnist. The girl falls in love with the newspaper man, but cannot escape the other who has something of a claim upon her, having rescued her from drowning.

When the skies of romance look darkest, Fate steps in and the boy and girl are free to pursue the path of happiness together.

Children To Give Entertainment

Children of the Polish national vacation school, under direction of Rev. Father J. F. Lesniak, prepared an elaborate program of song by the whole class and smaller groups in solos or duets, declamations, musical selections on various instruments, also of two playlets bearing the titles, "Dolls" and "Small Letters." The performance will take place at the hall of the Polish National Catholic church, 40 Golden street. Sunday, beginning at 7:30 in the evening.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

Special prayer services were held Wednesday at the Swedish Lutheran church by the Luther league for the success of the Luther league conference, to be held here Sept. 20 and 21.

Clarence Michels and daughters, Misses Doris and Louise, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louise Walker, with whom they formerly made their home.

The well child conference will be held in the Emergency hospital Friday, Sept. 5, from 2 to 4.

Mrs. Adelard Lachapelle and her sons, Raymond and Alvin, George Langlois and son Neri motored to Fall River Thursday.

George Bates, Ernest Prince and Philip Duhame motored to Boston Thursday and attended the Athletics-Boston Red Sox game.

Joseph Steine, of this village, and James Maitland, Jr., of Thompson, have been chosen drivers of the new school busses which have been purchased by the town of Thompson for the transportation of the school children.

Prof. Malcolm Shurtleff, who was to have spoken at the Methodist church next Sunday, will be unable to do so as he has a position in the high school at Little Compton, R. I., and is moving his family there this week.

Bobbie Maynard, son of Mr. and Mrs Arthur Maynard, entertained friends at a birthday party the past week.

Walter Trzenine, of Putnam, held by the police in connection with a raid at the filling station in Grosvenordale Aug. 3, has been granted a further continuation of his hearing until Tuesday evening.

Joseph Ziemba, of Quinebaug, will be in the town court in North Grosvenordale Saturday, Sept. 6, on a charge of arson. The case, which was to have been heard Saturday, was postponed at the request of counsel for the defense.

In spite of the fact that his fine of $1 had been remitted, Philip Laporte, of Grosvenordale, appealed the case, when he was found guilty by Justice P. P. Tourtellotte of driving a truck not equipped with the required reflector. Laporte, arrested by State Officer Nolan of the Danielson barracks, pleaded not guilty to the charge but admitted he knew he should have a reflector on his truck. He claimed he thought such equipment was necessary solely for night driving. A. J. Dery, Grosvenordale merchant, acted as interpreter and counsel for the defendant.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lachapelle spent Wednesday afternoon in Providence.

Amedee Belleroee spent Thursday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Z. N. Bibeault, of Putnam.

Neri Langlois, son of George Langlois, has returned to Fall River, after spending his vacation with his father.

George W. Laflame, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Laflame, has joined the United States marines and is stationed in North Carolina.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE RESUMED IN INDIA

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 28—(AP)—The conflict of authority on one hand and passive resistance on the other was resumed in India today.

Word from Madras said that that province, following the lead of Delhi yesterday, had today declared the working committee of the all-India national congress an unlawful association. The six members of the working committee arrested here when the ban went into effect yesterday were sentenced today to terms of six months simple imprisonment each.

Several other provinces have banned the working committee, so that they can move against agitators if new disorders occur.

Meanwhile, the Delhi nationalists countered by naming a new working committee, while leaders of the Bombay government called for volunteers to assemble on the Esplanade Maidan Sunday despite a prohibiting ordinance. Such meetings were banned early in the summer by the chief magistrate, who said he feared their effect on native troops quartered nearby and police broke up several large demonstrations to enforce the order.

THE SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE CO., NEW HAVEN

The Southern New England Telephone company is the successor of the New Haven District Telephone company, which, with a capital of $5,000, opened the first commercial telephone exchange in the world on January 28, 1878, at the corner of Chapel and State streets, formerly known as the Boardman building. Later the exchange was moved to the top floor of the Ford building, now the Merchants National bank, and still later to the old Yale Bank building at the corner of Chapel and State streets, finally, in 1893, moving to Court street where its operating plant is still located.

The organizers of the original company were George W. Coy, at that time local manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph company; Herrick P Frost, a former merchant, and Walter Lewis, all of New Haven. The company was formally organized on January 15, 1878. The original license from the Bell Telephone company under which the company operated, covered New Haven and Middlesex counties only. After opening the New Haven exchange still further licenses were secured from the parent company in Boston, and exchanges were built in Hartford, Springfield and Holyoke. Other exchanges gradually were added to the plant in Connecticut from time to time.

In 1880 the name of the company was changed to the Connecticut Telephone company and ex-Governor Jewell of Hartford was elected its president. In 1882 a substantial increase was made in the capitalization of the company and the corporate name was changed to The Southern New England Telephone company.

Public acceptance of the telephone as a serviceable utility was slow in Connecticut. The first ten years saw but a small numeral growth from the 59 in service at the opening in New Haven on January 28, 1878, of the first commercial telephone exchange in the world.

In the next decade the development was greater but not as large as present day figures. At the end of 1919 there were 160,164 telephones in the Southern New England system. Today there are 330,000, the net increase in the past ten years being more than 100 per cent.

The company is a part of the great Bell system and its telephones may be connected with any one of 20,000,000 in this country and the several million in Canada, Cuba, and South American and European countries.

Today the company has $85,000,000 capital stock outstanding, owned by 6,750 stockholders, employs about 6,000 persons, has an annual payroll of about $12,000,000, pays a state tax of about $550,000, has 85 central offices, and has 1,400,000 miles of wire in its system reaching into every corner of the state.

About one-third of its telephones today are dial operated.

The present officers are: James T. Moran, president; Harry C. Knight, vice-president and general manager; Charles B. Doolittle, secretary and treasurer; Clinton J. Benjamin, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

The Southern New England is a Connecticut owned and Connecticut managed property.

Popular Concert

Rollinson's band of twenty musicians, during the summer, have met on the grounds of W. A. McDonald, Baptist hill for weekly practice, instead of the district hall. On this elevation and state road, it has given many an opportunity to hear the music. Many passing motorists parked their cars and enjoyed the music, while others could hear it at home. The church steps furnished seats for many others. The last concert gave those listening an opportunity to hear classical compositions. Weekly band concerts could be made popular in Mystic and it is hoped something can be done another summer to create sufficient interest to secure the concert weekly.

GREENEVILLE

BIG GAME AT PLAYGROUND ENDS IN A 7-7 DEADLOCK

A large crowd of baseball fans, numbering between 400 and 500 people, attended a very exciting game at the Greeneville playground centre last evening between the Old Timers and the senior members of the playground team that won the American league championship of the playgrounds. The Old Timers, who hit first, were ahead by the score of 9 to 7 in the first of the fifth inning when Umpire Frank Sweeney called the game on account of darkness and the score was reverted to the previous inning which made the game a tie, 7-7. The large attendance was more than surprised by the fast playing of the Old Timers who were applauded time and again for their fast fielding, base running and timely hitting. The fielding honors were divided between "Wild Pat" Sullivan who made a beautiful one-hand catch of a drive to right field and Tommy Ryan, getting three put-outs and four assists for his evening's work. James Daley won the hitting honors, getting three out of four trips to the plate.

Manager Bowen of the Old Timers said the game would have to be played off, so both managers agreed that it would take place next Wednesday evening. The line-up for the Old Timers was: Quinn, c; Mickey Nealon, p; Swanton, 1b; James Daley, 2b; Thomas Ryan, 3b; Edward Riordan, ss; "Wild Pat" Sullivan, lf; Tex Quinn, cf; Bouncer, rf. The Playgrounds: Blackie, c; Thomas Kirby, p; Gauthier, 1b; Pino Quinn, 2b; Snorty, 3b; Whitey, ss; Smiley, lf; Quinley, cf; James Ryan, rf. Frank Sweeney handled the umpiring in a very satisfactory manner.

NORWICH DEMOCRATS NAME DELEGATES TO FIVE POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

Delegates to the democratic state convention, congressional, county, senatorial and probate conventions were named Thursday night at the democratic town caucus in the town hall. There was an attendance of about 50 men and women at the caucus which was called to order at 8 o'clock by Jeremiah A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the democratic town committee. On motion of T. J. Kelly, Edward G. Moran was chosen moderator. "We are facing the situation in a short time of another state election," said Mr. Moran after thanking the caucus for the honor conferred on him. "I have been thinking of a remark made a short time before the last city election," said Mr. Moran. "A certain apparently prominent republican, a friend of mine, said to me, 'Will you tell me Ed, how anyone who aspires to be anything in Connecticut can be a democrat?' My answer was," said Mr. Moran, "that I would rather be a self-made democrat than a machine-made republican." Mr. Moran went on to say that he was confident that there has never been a greater opportunity for the democratic party in Connecticut than at the present time. The rule of dictatorship in the state has come to an end he informed the caucus. "The election in November," said Mr. Moran, "will sound the death knell of republican dictatorship in Connecticut."

Joseph B. Downes was elected clerk of the caucus and read the warning after which Mr. Moran called for nominations for delegates to the various conventions. On motion of Frank H. Quinley, the following list of delegates, which he said had the endorsement of the town committee, was unanimously accepted by the caucus:

State convention to be held at New London: Jeremiah A. Fitzgerald, Timothy C. Murphy, Milo R. Waters, Edward G. Moran, George H. Gilman, Robert Swanton, Hermon J. Gibbs, Charles S. Avery, Eugene O'Brien, Lawrence E. Millea, Mrs. Julia G. Casey, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Drew, Anna Cornell, Anna Tracy.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS GREATER BY $10,000

Internal revenue receipts in Connecticut during the 1930 fiscal year were $48,391,382.35, instead of $48,381,625.86, as previously announced, analysis of the official report of the commissioner of internal revenue to the treasury department reveals. Haste in which the figures were compiled explains the discrepancy.

Of the total reported for the state, income tax receipts accounted for $45,455,009.09, and miscellaneous taxes for $2,936,380.26. Individuals paid $24,429,630.26 of the total income tax receipts, and corporations $21,025,378.83.

Internal revenue taken in during the year in Connecticut was 15 per cent greater than during the previous fiscal year.

Connecticut ranked tenth in the country in the internal revenue collections from the tax on the transfer of estates of decedents during the fiscal year of 1930. The tax on the transfer of estates of decedents netted $1,940,931.95.

Connecticut was also among the leaders in the country in the internal revenue collections from documentary stamp taxes and the tax collected on playing cards. Of the documentary stamp taxes in the 1930 fiscal year, $111,330.39 came from the tax on bonds of indebtedness, capital-stock issues, and so forth, and $109,690.15 from capital stock sales or transfers. Sales of playing cards in the state brought tax receipts of $8,840.50.

MINOR VIOLATIONS LEAD IN ACCIDENT DIFFICULTIES

Minor traffic violations are responsible for more trouble with the police and more accident difficulties for motorists than any other cause, according to the state department of motor vehicles. It is also true that in virtually all of these cases the motorists disregard regulations and devices which have been provided for the safety and convenience of themselves and others who use the highways, the department statement says.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, in an article prepared for and read from WTIC, the Hartford radio station, Thursday, pointed out that because of the complex traffic situations in thickly populated areas, it is the city driver in particular who must deal with the greatest number of direction systems. "Traffic in cities," he said, "is usually directed by officers, automatic signals and signs. The automobile operator must know and be able to distinguish all the directions given by different officers, understand the lights and signs, and be alert to obey and properly interpret every one of them.

"The commonest form of traffic violation in the cities is not, needless to say, disobedience to an officer. The policeman usually has no trouble enforcing his commands. In fact, so few instances of disobeying an officer are heard of that it might be said that it never happens. Once in a while a man who is irritated will talk back, and occasionally there is a slight misunderstanding as to rights. In general, I think that where honor is due it is given the police, and direction in Connecticut is unexcelled in the United States.

"Most offenses occur in connection with signals or signs. Drivers find it easy to stretch the green light into the yellow and to go across. It is very easy not to see a direction sign, unless one wants to see it. Passing a red light deliberately is not uncommon. Such offenses must, for the benefit of the general public, be stopped.

"We in Connecticut must not forget that the pedestrian is still in an immense majority among highway users, and that he is entitled to careful and meticulous care. In the nature of things, he is the least able to enforce his rights, having no offensive or protective armor. Because of the very defenselessness of the pedestrian these offenses of popping past red lights, of stretching out the length of the run on a light, of disregard of signals, and any traffic breach when the pedestrian has a right to think the law is going to be obeyed, are serious."

FRANKLIN ST. HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE

An estimated damage of $100 was done at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the third-story apartment occupied by Nicholas Amito and family at No. 324 Franklin street. The blaze was discovered by a person passing by the building. He noticed smoke issuing from the windows and turned in the alarm, calling out four pieces of apparatus with Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan.

The firemen, using 52 gallons of chemical, were able to confine the blaze to the third story where it originated from an unknown cause. It is believed that it started in a quantity of clothing. The bed and clothing were destroyed and a hole was burned in a baseboard. Damage of about $50 was done to the building, which is owned by George Greenberger, and the same amount to the clothing and bed.

Called For Grass Fire.

A grass fire on land in the rear of No. 167 West Thames street, required the services of the fire department about 11 o'clock Thursday morning. A line of 1 1-2 inch hose was laid by Engines 5 and 6 and directed on the blaze. A quantity of chemical was also used. The blaze was caused by boys playing with matches.

Receiving agents of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative association were notified by U. B. Blalock, general manager, that the new schedule of advances for cotton agreed on by the farm board and the American Cotton Cooperative association is to be put into effect immediately.

At the request of City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, a continuance of one week was made in the case of Fred L. Glynn of New London, charged with manslaughter, when he was presented in the city court Thursday morning. The continuance was granted to await the finding of Coroner Edward G. McKay. He is at liberty under bonds of $2,500. On the night of July 27 a machine operated by Glynn struck and fatally injured John R. Tennant, late of No. 519 North Main street, as he was crossing the highway near his home.

SOLOMON PASTER FLEECED OF $2,000 BY STRANGERS

Two unidentified men representing themselves as dealers of high grade German cloth, swindled Solomon Paster of No. 245 West Main street, out of $2,000 Thursday morning. The men came to the aged West Side man's house Thursday morning with samples of the cloth and wanted him to invest the money in the cloth, promising him that he would realize considerable money in the transaction.

One of the salient points of the investment talk was that the money must be paid to them at once. After talking the matter over with his wife Paster went to the Dime Savings bank and drew out the sum asked for by the strangers. Returning home Paster gave the $2,000 to the two men, who went their way with the money.

Mulling the transaction over in his mind Paster came to the conclusion that the deal was not above board and communicated with his son, who lives in Preston and advised him of what had occurred. Realizing that his father had been swindled of the money, Paster immediately went to police headquarters and reported the occurrence to Chief George Linton.

Kearns was arrested Monday morning when he went to police headquarters to report the collision.

HEAT WAVE COVERS BRITISH ISLES AND THE CONTINENT

In London and Environs 50 Deaths Were Attributed to the Heat—Beer Ration Has Been Doubled in Germany During the Hot Spell—Terrific Electrical Storm in North of England Was Followed by Cloudbursts and Floods—Italy Experienced Another Sultry Day, the Temperature Reaching 91.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Englishman has taken off his traditional waistcoat, the Frenchman has eaten three meals instead of one on the sidewalk, and the German has doubled his beer ration during the heat wave which has fried Europe this week.

All over the continent and in the British Isles the inhabitants have suffered greatly with deaths due in some measure to the heat believed to have reached 50 in London and environs alone.

The mercury in London late this afternoon reached 94 for the second time in two days. It climbed to that point at 3:30 p. m., dropped to 93 at 4, but at 5— when sweltering office workers were rushing for sun-baked suburban trains and stifling subways —the red mark rose again to 94.

It was so hot that a platoon of guards, making the traditional march down the embankment for a night's duty around the Bank of England, marched at slow time on the shaded sidewalks instead of at the customary quick step in the middle of the street.

Swimming pools were filled everywhere, and many municipalities ordered them kept opened all night. The serpentine in London's Hyde park was congested all day and hundred waited in line for their turn. One uniformed policewoman was unable to cope with a crowd of youths who scaled the walls, undressed on the bank and jumped into the crowded pool. The police then ordered reinforcements to keep order and make the perspiring citizens take turns.

Thunderstorms brought temporary relief in Scotland, flooding a part of the town of Arbroath and striking heavily around Glamis, where the Duchess of York lies in Glamis castle with a newborn daughter.

The Duke of York, who was at Balmoral castle with the king and other members of the royal family, was unable to communicate with his wife for a time, as the storm severed lines of communication.

SUN WAS TOO HOT FOR ENG. CHANNEL SWIM

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Even the icy English channel could not be swum today because of the excessive heat.

Dr. G. B. Brewster started to swim from South Foreland but after seven and a half hours in which he covered nine miles he gave up because of illness induced by the blazing sun.

ITALY EXPERIENCEO ANOTHER SULTRY DAY

ROME, Aug. 29.—(AP)—This was another sultry day for Italy, the temperature reaching 91.

To escape the heat Premier Mussolini drove to Ostia by motor car and then took a cooling spin on the sea in a launch.

LIGHTNING TERRIFIC IN NORTH OF ENGLAND

LONDON, Aug. 29.— (AP) —Prime Minister MacDonald, returning from London to his Scottish home at Lossiemouth by airplane, was reported today to have been forced to turn back by a storm in Yorkshire, northern England. His airplane was said to have landed at York airdrome.

At Leucher airdrome near St. Andrew's, Scotland, where the prime minister was expected to make a halt on his way north, it was stated his airplane had been forced to turn back after leaving Catterick, Yorkshire.

An official at the airdrome said tonight that the storm there "has been the worst in the memory of anyone living."

The lightning was terrific in the north of England. The storm broke in cloudbursts. Floods followed.

All over the north telephone wires were torn down. The east coast of Scotland, so far as telephone communication is concerned, was practically isolated.

Catterick airdrome was cut off by the storm from telephone and telegraph communication with London.

Officials are confident the prime minister has landed safely, but no confirmation of this has been received.

SEEKING SLAYER OF AN 8-YEAR-OLD GIRL

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Police today could pick up only a few vague bits of information that would aid in apprehending the slayer of 8-year-old Marverine Appel.

Authorities found a barn in which the child is believed to have been attacked and killed a short time before her body was found last night in an alley two blocks from her home. There were bloodstains and also the foot print of a child on the earthen floor.

Little was developed, however, as to the identity of the slayer, who is believed to have been mentally deficient. One suspect was arrested here, questioned and released. Another suspect was held at Elkhart, a nearby city, but there was only a flimsy chance, police said, that he was the slayer. He gave his name as Frank B. Shuey, 34, of Greensburg, Pa.

In the hope that monetary rewards would develop some clew, the city council offered $2,000 for the capture of the killer. The St. Joseph county commissioners offered $500 and the South Bend News-Times added $100.

Marverine disappeared Wednesday evening. Playmates said that earlier that day a man had attempted to entice her into taking an automobile ride. Their descriptions of the man were vague but they said his car was of the small type recently introduced into this country.

The word picture given by the children of this man was completed somewhat by H. J. Jones, a school janitor. Jones, who had called Wednesday at the home of the child's mother, Mrs. Eula Appel, in regard to some laundry work, said he saw a man in a small car parked opposite the Appel home. Jones pictured the man as being about 30 years old, of heavy stature, smooth of face and wearing a Panama hat.

FURTHER HEARING OF FLORIDA CONSPIRACY CASE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Stafford Caldwell, Jacksonville attorney, testified at a preliminary hearing here today that Vincent C. Giblin, lawyer for Alphonse Capone, told him Frank Ralls had implicated himself, Fred O. Eberhardt and Henry Halsema in an alleged conspiracy to assassinate Governor Doyle E. Carlton.

Giblin had testified that it was Clem Dowling, and not Ralls, his room mate, who named the men. Giblin's interest in the case, he claimed, was because of reports to him that the Capone gang would be credited with slaying the governor, if it was done. Giblin is an attorney for Capone.

Severe cross-examination of Caldwell failed to elicit from him any confirmation that agreement had been made to have an Italian detective pose as a Chicago gunman in an effort to frustrate assassination plans.

THREE MEN WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Three men were critically wounded in a street corner gun battle here tonight. Police believed the shooting to have been a sequel to a gun fight in a Revere clubhouse two weeks ago when one man was fatally shot and three wounded.

The wounded were: Albert Scalia, 36, of Medford; Louis C. Malaga, 30, Boston, and Tony Guiffre, 31, Boston. Each has at least two wounds and all were on the danger list at the Haymarket Relief hospital.

Guiffre is thought by the police to be a relative of Carmillo Guiffre, who is in a Chelsea hospital suffering from wounds received in the Revere affray.

SEVEN WOMEN INJURED IN BARGAIN EVENT CROWD

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Seven women were injured, one seriously, when a bargain-hunting crowd crashed a furniture store display window here tonight in an effort to be among the "first 100 in" and win a bowl of goldfish.

A crowd of approximately 2,500 women had gathered at the store in answer to newspaper advertisements offering the gold fish as souvenirs. When the doors were opened, those in the rear of the crowd gave a mighty shove. The glass window gave way before the determined women.

Miss Helen Byrum, Mrs. C. D. Brady and Mrs. C. B. Byrum suffered severe cuts around the arms. Miss Byrum's condition was pronounced serious at a Charlotte sanitarium but her companions were allowed to return home after treatment.

Store officials did not reveal whether the women were rewarded with gold fish.

10-TON STEAM SHOVEL BEAM STOLEN IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29. —(AP)—Sometime during the night the beam of a steam shovel, 40 feet long and weighing ten tons, was stolen from a sewer construction job in the Drexel Hill section, so were a steel bucket, weighing three quarters of a ton and a cable, weighing about a thousand pounds.

James M. Kohler, an executive of the Delaware County Construction company, reported the theft to police.

"It beats me," he said. "It would required at least 40 men, a truck and a trailer to dismantle that shovel and carry off the beam, which is worth about $2500. It takes six men to put the bucket onto a truck."

The shovel stood in a field 500 feet from a road, he added, and there wasn't even the track of a truck to show which way the thieves had gone.

WITHDRAWS FROM DETROIT MAYORALTY ELECTION

DETROIT, Aug. 29.— (AP)—The opposition which Mayor Charles Bowles will face in the special mayoralty election Sept. 9th, was reduced today by the last minute withdrawal of Harold H. Emmons, former police commissioner, and Charles F. Clippert, member of the city fire commission.

In the hope that the field would be reduced by withdrawals, Richard W. Reading, city clerk, had extended to 4 p. m. today the time within which candidates could take their names from the ballot. The two withdrawals leave in the race against Mayor Bowles, his predecessor in office, John W. Smith; Frank Murphy, who resigned as judge of recorder's court to enter the race; George Engel, refused re-appointment as chairman of the city civil service commission by Mayor Bowles, and Phil Raymond, announced as a communist candidate.

Friends of former Mayor Smith announced that he had remained in the race because Murphy had declined to withdraw. Murphy still has five years of his term as recorder's court judge at $12,500 a year. The mayor's office pays a salary of $15,000 a year.

DAWES IS PURSUING HIS ARCHAEOLOGICAL RESEARCH

NIEBLA, Spain, Aug 29.—(AP)—Under a broiling sun General Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Britain and amateur archaeologist, today in his shirt sleeves followed the trail of primitive man through the ancient castle of Niebla and its surroundings.

Puffing steadily at his underslung pipe and streaming with perspiration, the ambassador trudged miles to examine one of the richest fields of archaeological research in Spain.

He scaled walls that were old even when the Romans came to Spain, and crawled into caves that had been inhabited for untold years before the Phoenician sailors came to trade with races already ancient.

Clambering through underground passages and fighting his way through underbrush, this diplomat and financier who makes a hobby of archaeology, wore out even the younger members of his party, but he himself was happy as a boy on a holiday. He was seeing what he had traveled very far to find—the traces left by every known age of human existence.

Designer Killed In His Home Made Plane

George Fernic Had Just Taken Off at the Chicago [illegible]nal Air Races.

[illegible]S REYNOLDS AIRPORT, [illegible]O, Aug. 29—(AP)—A crowd of [illegible] horror stricken spectators at [illegible]tional air races today saw the [illegible] "home made" plane of George [illegible]nic, of St. George, Staten Island, [illegible]e from the field, pause in mid-air, [illegible]hen plunge sickingly downward into a parked plane.

Fernic, a Rumanian, was dead when pulled from the cockpit. His plane demolished a ship in which Miss Hartie Bowman of Hemstead, N. Y., had just completed a closed course race.

The aviatrix missed death by inches as the falling plane cleft through the fuselage of her ship. She and W. S. Allison of Cleveland had just stepped from the plane and were standing nearby.

It was the second major crash witnessed by air race fans since the beginning of the meet, and brought the total fatalities to three. Fernic's craft, of radical design, had taken off successfully. As it soared to the north end of the field at a low altitude it nosed skyward, made one backward loop and fell.

Screaming in horror, thousands of spectators made a concerted rush onto the field adding to the confusion. Guards were powerless to check them and it was some time before a semblance of order was restored.

Fernic had flown his plane to the air races, arriving Tuesday. He designed and built the craft himself, placing on it a short auxiliary wing which he believed gave it additional stability.

In a large plane of similar design, which he had intended to fly to Rumania, he crashed several months ago at Roosevelt Field, but was unhurt.

The ship derived its energy from a motor of only 70 horsepower. Fernic had told friends he was pleased with the plane's performance, but that it needed a more powerful engine. Witnesses blamed his fatal accident on insufficient power to pull the ship out of the loop.

The accident occurred an hour after Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left the races for Detroit.

PLANE DESIGNED IN RAMSHACKLE WORKSHOP

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—In a ramshackle workshop at Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island, George Fernic, who was killed today at Chicago, designed a strange tandem wing monoplane with which he hoped to fly non-stop from New York to Bucharest, Rumania.

The plane was taken to Roosevelt Field August last for tests on its first flight it traveled about 25 miles and landed gracefully, but on the second trial Fernic cracked when a wheel hit a fence as he landed. He was injured and announced that he would have the plane in the air again in about a week. He continued with his tests, but the flight to Rumania was never made.

Fernic was a former lieutenant in the Rumanian Army.

Kite said he leaped from the car at an unguarded moment and fled into nearby underbrush as the kidnapers sent a volley of bullets at him.

RUMORS OF UPRISING INSOUTHERN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, ug. 29—(AP)—Foreign rumors of revolutionary unrest in the south Brazilian state of Rio Grande Do Sul were under investigation tonight by the Brazilian government.

They were generally discredited in official circles, where it was pointed out that acts of banditry in the big cattle raising state might have given rise to them. Confirmation, even in the shape of local rumors, was lacking.

The rumors emanated from Montevideo, capital of Uruguay, whose northern frontier touches Rio Grande Do Sul, and originated in the borden town of Rivera.

Brazilian soldiers were said to have been confined to barracks throughout the state, and political leader named Juan Francisco De Souza was reported to be leading a band of revolutionists.

Coming on top of revolutions, or rumors of revolutions, in Bolivia, Peru and Argentina, the rumors caused a flurry in journalistic circles, but this quickly subsided after the official statement.

PUBLIC DISPLAY OF ARMED FORCES IN BUENOS AIRES

Argentine Government is Alertly Awaiting For a Possible Revolutionary Outbreak or Attack Against President Yrigoyen—The President, Heavily Guarded, Went to His Office From His Home—Troops in the Federal Capital Were Held in Their Barracks.

BUENOS AIRES, ug. 29—(AP)—With three destroyers anchored in the harbor and troops confined to barracks, the Argenine government for the second successive time alertly waited tonight for a possible revolutionary outbreak or attack against President Hipolito Yrigoyen.

Two high army officers of the capital troops were suddenly placed under arrest in the First Infantry barracks. They are Lieut. Col. Pedro Rocco and Captain Luis Jorghensen, attached to the military communications division. No reason for their arrest was announced.

Beyond this and an impressive show of police strength, the day passed without any signs of danger to the state or its chief. The populace went tranquilly about its business, and there was a decrease in the number of alarming rumors that have spread through the capital recently.

President Yrigoyen, still heavily guarded, went as usual to his office today from his home. He conferred with General Marcilessi, commanding the first army division, and with provincial officials.

A demonstration of loyalty to him was begun tonight by members of the "Klan Radical," his personal followers.

Troops in the federal capital were held in their barracks again by order of the minister of war, General Luis Delleplane. Police were concentrated in force about President Yrigoyen's home and his office.

The reason for such an imposing public display of armed forces continued obscure. Some prominent public men deprecated it, believing that it would create unrest in the interior of the republic and apprehension abroad.

BLOOD HOUNDS TRAILING MURDEROUS MOONSHINER

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 29.— (AP) —Posses, armed with machine guns, followed blood hounds through dense woods near Marcola, Ore., today searching for Ray Sutherland, 67, alleged moonshiner wanted for the killing of Joe Saunders, 37, deputy game warden, and Oscar Duley, 35, Eugene policeman and deputy sheriff, in a gun battle.

Lee Bown, son of Sheriff Harry L. Bown, and Rodney Roach, deputy, who hastened to aid Saunders and Duley, were wounded as they followed the fugitive.

Duley and Saunders were shot down when they attempted to halt an automobile they believed to be delivering liquor to the Sutherland home.

A trail of blood led from the scene of the shooting to the Sutherland home and then into dense underbrush and timber.

First believing Sutherland had barricaded himself under the floor of his home, authorities equipped with machine guns entered the dwelling. They found Baude Sutherland, 20, Sutherland's son, and arrested him.

Authorities said Baude was in the automobile when Duley and Saunders were slain.

MIGHT BECOME MILK MONOPOLY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Fred H. Sexauer of Auburn, president of the Dairymen's league, testified today he believed the Harlem and Bronx Milk Dealers' association, of which Aaron Sapiro is the virtual head, was potentially a combination which might become a monopoly in the New York city milk trade.

Sexauer was testifying at the state investigation of alleged price fixing in the milk industry when he was asked whether he knew of any combination which would maintain a price or a condition which would bring about a monopoly.

"Some things are difficult to prove," he replied. "I do not want to be in the position of being unable to prove any statement I might make."

After consulting with counsel, however, he expressed willingness to tell what he knew.

"There are some things which lead us to believe," he said, "that such combinations may be in existence or in the process of formation and which may have no effect at the present time but which in due process of time, because of their very nature, may lead to monopoly conditions."

RULING BY COLLECTOR OF INTERNAL REVENUE EATON

HARTFORD, Aug. 29.—(AP)— Taxpayers submitting returns to the bureau of internal revenue and who have sworn to the truth of their returns before notary publics who are also lawyers to those taking oath, will be called upon to re-execute their jurats before other officials.

Col. Robert O. Eaton, collector of internal revenue, said today that in examining returns submitted to the revenue office, particularly estate tax returns, it is frequently found that an attorney who is also a notary public has allowed a client, required to submit a return, to execute the jurat on the return before him. This practice does not meet with the approval of the bureau of internal revenue, and taxpayers and executors who have executed jurats to returns before their attorneys will be called upon to re-execute the same before some other official empowered to administer oaths.

STRIKE OF ALL PILOTS OF ROYAL DUTCH AIR LINE

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 29.— (AP)— A strike of all the pilots of the Royal Dutch Air line today forced Amsterdam postal authorities to appeal to foreign air companies for the maintenance of regular air mail service.

Most of the airline's services, including that to London, have been suspended.

The immediate cause of the strike was the dismissal of Pilot M. Evert Van Dyk, who recently flew the Atlantic with Wing-Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith in the "Southern Cross."

Van Dyk had been detailed for duty on the Dutch East Indies line, due to start in September, but he refused to accept the conditions imposed, which were the same as those for air mail flights to Java. He was given notice of his dismissal as of November 1.

All the pilots, numbering 17, then went on strike. They are also demanding higher wages.

The pilots claim their salaries are ten per cent lower than those paid by the German Lufthansa to their European-route pilots. They are also dissatisfied with the arrangements made for the resumption of air service to the Dutch East Indies, stating that the company has not provided adequate compensation for their families in case of death or accident.

The salaries paid them at present and their demands for the future, have not been published.

BURIAL OF "DOUBLE" OF WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The burial here this week of William L. Cundiff dissipated the obscurity that surrounded his last years and brought to mind that he was the associate and "double" of William Jennings Bryan.

The two had approximately the same height and build and the same rugged face, wide mouth and prominent nose. It was Cundiff who placed Bryan's name in the list of nominations at the democratic convention in Denver 22 years ago and he accompanied him in the ensuing campaign.

Often during the tour when Bryan, fatigued, lay sleeping, Cundiff would stand on the rear platform and wave to the crowds who gathered to watch the "Commoner" go by. They never knew the difference.

AIR MEET WILL BE HELD AT WEIR FIELD

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 29.—All preliminary arrangements had been completed today for the Veterans of Foreign Wars air meet which will be held Saturday and Labor day in conjunction with the Elks' Country fair. While difficulty was experienced in securing a landing field large enough to accommodate as many ships as had been secured for the meet, it was indicated in a conference held today that Brainard field, Hartford, could be successfully used as a base of operations for formation flights over the city. The group flying is expected to be made by an entire army squadron of 16 ships. There will be a dozen or more ships landing at Weir field. The Interstate Airways and Curtiss-Wright Airways of Hartford and the New Haven Airways corporation will furnish ships and pilots. The "Cross of Malta," official safety ship of the Connecticut department of the V. F. W., piloted by Colonel Earl C. Popp, will act as pilot ship during the meet. A series of parachute jumps will be made from this ship.

Another well known airplane that will participate in the maneuvers will be the giant Bought Cessiare, official ship of the state of Connecticut, piloted by Captain Harry Generous, native of North Windham. The Lennox brothers, members of the A. E. F. post, V. F. W., of New Haven, will visit this city on one day of the meet, flying the Curtis Robin monoplane, official ship of that post. The Raymond A. Walling post of Danbury has also been invited to send their official ship to the meet.

Saturday and Monday evening there will be maneuvers, parachute jumps and stunt flying over Elks' park from 6:30 to 7 o'clock. The daily program will begin with assembly and inspection at Weir field. At various intervals during the days of the meet all ships will take to the air for formation flying, maneuvers, stunting, various types of landing and for group flights over the city. JACK-KNIFE THE WEAPON OF AN AGGRIEVED WIFE

Mrs. Lillian Blount, colored, wife of Charles Blount, of 28 Hill street, objects seriously to her husband consorting with Mabel Gass, also colored, and the former's dislike for Blount's persistency in entertaining Mabel today resulted in the wife being given a severe sentence in the police court, for Lillian carved Mabel with a knife. Mrs. Blount was fined $100 and costs and sent to jail for 60 days. Both Blount and his wife have police court records. Blount and the Gass woman had been in each other's company last night and about 1 o'clock the former had the audacity to bring his friend to his home. As soon as Blount and the woman entered the house trouble started, for Mrs. Blount resented the other female's presence. Mrs. Blount hurled a flow of words at the couple that shook the tenement from attic to cellar, and the more she criticized her husband for bringing the woman into the home and rebuked the latter for having the brazenness to enter the Blount house, the more enraged she became. Finally her anger got the better of her judgment, for she seized a jack-knife from a table and started for Mabel and before Blount could interfere Mrs. Blount attacked Mabel, who sustained four ugly cuts. The police were notified of the assault and Patrolman Frank Philopena went to the house, where Mabel accused Mrs. Blount of doing the cutting. DANIELSON

MRS. M. GRIFFITHS CELEBRATES HER 100TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 29.— Another Windham county resident will join the centenarian ranks Saturday, when Mrs. Mary Griffiths of Broad street celebrates the 100th anniversary of her birth. Mrs. Griffiths makes her home with her son, Frederick E. Bitgood. The event will be quietly observed, inasmuch as Danielson's only centenarian receives few visitors other than members of her immediate family.

In passing the 100th milestone of life, Mrs. Griffiths achieves a distinction enjoyed, so far as is known, by one other eastern Windham county woman—Mrs. Julia Clark Place, who lives in Putnam at the home of her nephew, Selectman Clarence E. Pierce. Mrs. Place became 100 years old on March 6, of this year.

Mrs. Griffiths enjoys all of her faculties. Her mind is keen. Physically she is strong for a woman of her age. She has been confined to her room for the past year, but she manages to be up every day and gets about with the assistance of a cane. Her eyesight is good although she no longer reads.

Mary Ann Pratt was born in Voluntown on August 30, 1830, her parents being Israel and Mary Perkins Pratt. She was one of seven children. In January, 1852, she was married to Joseph S. Bitgood, whose death occurred in 1880. Two children were born of this union—Frederick E., and a daughter, who died in 1894. She was married a second time on March 26, 1885, to Eben Griffiths, who died in April, 1905.

Mrs. Griffiths came to Danielson to make her home shortly after the death of her first husband. Previous to that time she lived for about ten years in North Sterling. After the death of Mr. Griffiths 25 years ago she went to live with her son.

Like Mrs. Place in Putnam, Mrs. Griffiths was but a young girl of 19 years of age when the people of Pomfret Factory set a movement underway to break off from parts of Killingly, Woodstock and Thompson and establish a town of their own. This was in 1849. In 1854, five years later, when Mrs. Griffiths was 24 years old, the series of debates that aroused the interest of the state ended when Pomfret Factory was incorporated as a town and named Putnam.

The laying of the first railroad iron for the serving of eastern Connecticut transportation necessities occurred in 1839, when the Norwich and Worcester road was opened. Mrs. Griffiths was 9 years old at that time. Through her long life Mrs. Griffiths has seen the development of scores of scientific and industrial wonders which fascinated the public on their introduction, among them being incandescent light, automotive transportation and the airplane which are present day commonplaces that were undreamed of in her youth.

Mrs. Griffiths worshipped at the Free Will Baptist church in North Sterling when a resident there, but following her marriage to Mr. Griffiths she became a member of the Westfield Congregational church of Danielson. She is the head of a family of four generations. There are four grandchildren, Mrs Evelyn Coulter of New Bedford, Mass., Mrs. Mary J. Young of West Haven, Wellington Bitgood of Danielson and Paul E. Bitgood of Norwich. She has six great-grandchildren who are Barbara Virginia, Frederick and Winthrop Young, of West Haven; Jane Coulter of New Bedford and Frederick Henry Bitgood of Danielson.

That Mrs. Griffiths comes from a long lived family is evidenced by the fact that her father lived to reach the age of 99 years and 5 months, and that two of his brothers were also nonagenarians.

In Danielson and in other parts of Connecticut today, Mrs. Griffiths' many friends will join with her family group in wishing her continued health and contentment in life.

The first of another month draws near. Deposits made in our Savings department between now and September 5th draw interest from September first. The Windham County National Bank.—Adv.

State Officer Lionel Poirier of Danielson barracks investigated an accident which occurred on the Brooklyn road Thursday evening, when cars operated by Walter P. Richman of Wallingford and Miss Eloise Babson of Danielson collided. There was but slight damage caused the vehicles involved and drivers and passengers of both cars escaped without injury.

This Saturday is Dollar day at the Alice-Eleanor shop, and in making it a worth while event to the buying public we have arranged some of the finest offerings we ever have listed for such an occasion. The Alice-Eleanor Shop, Danielson.—adv.

Following the appointment of Elbra L. Baker and Joseph Barabeau as delegates to the democratic senatorial convention to be held next month, democrats of Brooklyn while in caucus elected Judge Oscar F. Atwood as chairman of the town democratic committee. The following members of the party were elected to serve on the committee: John M. Bessette, Hugh Gorman Jr., Henry M. Evans and Leona Fornier. Only about a dozen democratic enrolled voters attended the session.

At a session of town court this afternoon, Ira Raynsford and Mrs. Viola Bennett Hubbard, both of the Mashentuck district of Killingly, were presented before Judge Francis on charges of cohabitation. At the suggestion of the prosecution, Judge Francis ordered a continuance of the case until next week. The arrest of the principals followed an investigation by State Officer Elton T. Nolan of Danielson barracks. Raynford was to have been released on bonds and Mrs. Hubbard was committed to the county jail pending the date of hearing.

That a group of young rowdies are in Danielson at the present time is evidenced by the fact that a homemade miniature golf course, the product of untiring efforts of a number of small boys living on Reynolds street, was found in a ruined condition this morning. The matter was called to the attention of Chief John McFarland by Sidney P. Marland, a resident of Broad street.

PUTNAM

TO OPEN BIDS FOR SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 29.—The transportation committee of the town school board will hold a special session Saturday evening, to open and consider the bids submitted by various city taxi concerns for the contracts of transporting rural children to schools during the forthcoming academic year. Edward W. Mullan, chairman of the committee, said this afternoon that his committee has been invested by the school board with the duty of settling the question which developed a week ago when certain hackney organizations sought an opportunity to secure the contracts by submitting price quotations for the town work.

At present the Independent Putnam Taxi Co. is in possession of the Putnam Heights and River road contracts and Ferdinand Gagnon of Bridge street is holder of the franchise for the carrying of East Putnam students. It was said this afternoon that several of the local transportation companies are vieing for the work. The drivers of the independent company announced that they are seeking a renewal of their contract, while the City Taxi Co., owned by James B. Tatem, is bidding for the same work and through its manager, Rudolph Muire, tonight announced it would also seek the East Putnam work, contract for which is also being contested for by Peter Racette, proprietor of Pete's Livery, and Gagnon, present holder.

Mr. Mullan stated that no bids will be received by the committee after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. In commenting on the matter, the chairman intimated that contracts will be awarded immediately after the adjournment of the meeting. The acceptance of bids, awarding of the work and establishment of a code of regulations to be observed by the successful bidders rests entirely with the committee on transportation, Mr Mullan said.

Following a meeting of the selectmen of the towns of Dudley, Webster and Southbridge, which was held in the municipal building in Webster last night, it was announced that the boards will investigate the terms of franchise regulating train service on the Southbridge and East Thompson branch, which was granted the New Haven road several years ago. The purpose of the investigation will be made with an aim for the restoration of rail passenger service for the three towns, which were entirely cut off from this means of transportation a week ago when the gasoline-electric coaches on the branch line were discontinued.

If it is found that the conditions of the franchise obligate the railroad officials to give passenger service to the town and that other contracts are being violated by the railroad, action will be taken by the boards of the three towns to restore service or minimize dangers at grade crossings, where only freight trains now pass.

The committee of selectmen plan to take their inquiry to the Massachusetts department of public works, Joseph N. O'Kane, a representative and Dudley selectman, stated. Besides the three Massachusetts towns now without rail service, the village of Quinebaug, a sizeable community in Thompson, is also at a loss through the discontinuance of the gasoline coaches.

James J. Perkins of 343 Dhayer street, Providence, discovered after leaving a coach of the Providence Springfield bus lines yesterday afternoon, that he had lost a pocketbook containing $70. He reported his loss to the state police and a call was sent to Southbridge police, asking cooperation in the matter. The bus driver, when questioned by the police of Southbridge, announced that he found the purse and would return it to its owner on his return trip to Providence. The coach was met by Perkins at 7:15 last night, at which time the driver handed him the pocketbook. Only a few dollars remained in the wallet. State police were asked to investigate further. The coach driver stated that he picked the purse up on the floor of his bus and placed it in his satchel without bothering to examine its contents. Perkins charged foul play on the part of some person riding in the bus, but after an investigation by State Officer Lionel Pourier, Lieut R. V. Urquhart at the Danielson barracks stated that in the event any theft occurred it was in all probability committed after the coach crossed the border line at Quinebaug, thereby becoming a case for the attention of the police of Southbridge.

An inspector of the state motor vehicle department was in this city today examining automobile braking systems. During the check-up, a number of cars possessing defective brakes were directed to a garage to be reconditioned.

Committal services for Miss Margaret L. McGarry, former resident of Putnam, who died at her home on Commonwealth avenue in Boston, Wednesday morning, were held this afternoon at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery. Miss McGarry was a sister of Rev. Thomas McGarry of Ansonia. She also leaves three sisters, Miss Mary McGarry of Woodstock avenue, Mrs. Edward Gibbons and Miss Ruth McGarry of Boston. A brother, Patrick McGarry, who survives her, resides in San Francisco.

Miss Susan Chilkott, operating room nurse at the Day Kimball hospital, has resigned her position to begin study of a course at Columbia university, which she will take up next month.

Mrs. Delina Bellerieve of Pomfret was operated upon at the hospital today for appendicitis.

Miss Charlotte Cutler, a graduate nurse of the Worcester Memorial hospital, has been appointed to the nursing staff of the hospital and will succeed Miss Susan Chilkott as operating room nurse.

Building contractors are making continued progress on the foundation of the new nurses' home, which is being erected on the lot on the west side of the hospital.

REPUBLICANS DETERMINED TO REGAIN LEGISLATIVE SEATS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 29.—The great objective of the republicans this year will be to return Putnam to the fold from whence it strayed two years ago when Governor Alfred E. Smith and the entire local democratic ticket smashed through to a sweeping victory. It is safe to say that the republican town administration, consisting of a majority on the board of selectmen, will remain intact. This leaves the party two seats in the house of representatives to be regained. There are many oaks in Putnam's republican political forest and their names are being openly mentioned as candidates for the legislative chairs wrested away by the democrats. None have openly declared themselves but included in the list are Irving H. Miron, A. Macdonald Jr., Walter N. King, Arthur C. Keith, Arthur Duvert and Leon T. Wilson.

Leon A. Talbot and J. Otis Fox, present representatives, are still leading the field in their party. Mr. Talbot is certain to be a candidate and Mr Fox, his running mate, is expected to follow suit.

It is said that a movement has been afoot for some time in the western portion of the county to make Willimantic the county seat. If such a programme is ever crowned with success, it will mean the centralizing of superior court and court offices in the Thread city. According to the informant, the task of cutting Putnam away from its share of superior court activities would be undertaken in the next session of general assembly. Such a plan was openly advocated some time ago, but was not favorably received. The bare possibility of such a movement existing is certain to heighten the party aggressiveness of the republicans for repossession of the assembly seats which they lost two years ago.

Bodies of seven French "pollus" who had been posted as "missing" since 1914 were found recently in an abandoned vineyard near Moivre. Huddled within a radius of ten feet, the dead seemed to have had the life shattered out of them by the same shell. Most of the papers featured: "France's crop of war dead has not yet been reaped."

Persistent Law-Breaker.

Palmer Saturday at the home of Grand Juror Thomas McDonald on a charge of violating the fishing laws. He was fined $3.00 and costs of $14.35, a total of $17.35, which was paid. Saini was before the same court earlier in the season and was fined for fishing without a license.

WESTFORD

When the annual meeting of the Ashford Bible society was held at Ashford Center Wednesday, Aug. 20th, the day was fine and the church was filled. An interesting program was presented consisting of speeches, band music and singing. Mr. Raymond, Rev. Mr. Sherrod Soule, and Gustave Bochman of Hartford were among the speakers, also Rev. Walter Lamphere, Rev. C. H. Reese and Mr. Peabody of the Gideons. Rev. Eliot Verney, formerly of Warrenville, also was present and spoke, as well as helping in many other ways. Several Russians of Westford sang a song in their own language which made a pleasant addition to the program.

Rev. H. A. Coolidge, of South Killingly, has returned from his vacation and will preach at Westford Hill Sunday next.

The Whiton reunion which was held Saturday, the 23rd, at Westford Hill was the largest gathering of the kind yet held. The weather was too unpleasant to have the picnic dinner out of doors as planned and the dinner as well as the meeting was held in the church, about 100 being present. As the president of the association, W. H. Hall of West Hartford, was unavoidably absent, Mrs. L. A. Gowdy, one of the vice presidents presided. The address of welcome was given by Dr. Whiton, of New Jersey, who also led the singing. After the business meeting brief speeches were given by S. G. Whiton of New York, D. Whiton of New London, H. Whiton of Washington, D. C., H. Walker and G. Leary from Massachusetts. Many others were present from Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, as well as from all parts of Connecticut. It was suggested that the association acquire a piece of land from the old Whiton estate and hold all future reunions here. The Whiton genealogy will probably be out this fall.

Flying engines and flying horses are synonymous to the London and Northeastern railway. It has named eight new locomotives after famous race horses. The engines, which are of the Pacific type, and which will haul passenger trains on the east coast route over the track of the Flying Scotsman, are as follows: Trigo, Manna, Gainsborough, Rock Sand, Book Law, Call Boy, Spearmint and Cicero. Their equine prototypes, with one exception, Book Law, have won the Derby in the last twenty-seven years.

What is the Most Efficient Oil Burner?

THE one that needs least attention, lasts longest, and costs the least to operate. The one which is silent. The one which is safe.

These may sound like simple and obvious points, but after forty years of experience in building oil burners for the nation's largest industrial plants, it took the Gilbert & Barker Manufacturing Company seven years to produce a burner which would meet the specifications covering these features.

The difference between a Gilbert & Barker Flexible Flame Oil Burner and every other burner made is in its long life; its low cost of operation, proved by your fuel bills; its little need for service; and in its all-round dependability.

A company whose operations extend all over the world says to you—"If you put a G & B Oil Burner in your cellar, you will be able to forget it. You will know it's there only because all the trouble and dirt of coal handling has vanished; because of your family's better health; because no matter what the temperature does outside, the thermometer on your living room thermostat will stay at the point which you set it."

ABSOLUTELY SAFE

Order a SILENT GLOW for your kitchen range today. Guaranteed 5 years

We sell the Flexible Flame Burner because we are familiar with every make of burner and we believe this one will serve you most economically and best. Come and see it in our show room or ask us to call and explain how easy and inexpensive it is to enjoy the comforts of oil heat.

CITY NOISES

The war upon city noises is not a new one. Movements to bring about the elimination of much which is unnecessary have been gathering strength for years. It cannot be said that the results are such that no added effort is needed, but there are evidences that such noises have grown in volume and variety to the point where there is a general realization that control is possible and should be exerted.

Noise that disturbs and becomes a nuisance is the result of civilization, and it is becoming more and more apparent that while we are striving for efficiency in many other directions we are seriously neglecting it when it comes to curbing noise. We are, in fact, permitting it to develop to a dangerous and destructive degree.

Careful studies have been made of the effect of noise. Dr. Foster Kennedy of New York found that the effect of a noisy environment upon physical condition was "heightened pulse rate, increased blood pressure, irregularity of heart rhythm, and, most important of all, increase of pressure upon the brain."

The effect of noise upon groups of animals, some subjected to it and others kept in quiet surroundings, according to Dr. D. A. Laird of Colgate showed that those reared under quiet conditions were better physically and appeared nearer normal in their mental reactions.

Scientists who have been studying the effect of noise in large cities declare that the noise which disturbs the peace in those cities night and day is a constant menace to the well-being of the inhabitants. Extensive researches disclosed to neurologists that "city noise undoubtedly is a serious interference with the normal development of infants and children."

In view of such evidence, backed up by the annoying experiences which most everyone has had at some time or other, there ought to be little trouble in getting the proper backing for those movements which are aimed at the elimination, as far as possible, of those city noises which menace health and which jar an otherwise good temperament.

KELLOGG'S NOMINATION

In the makeup of the world court it is natural that there should be a desire for the presence on the bench of a representative and outstanding American. Even though this country is not a member of the court, the desirability of having one of the justices from the United States is recognized and for years this course has been followed.

At the time he was nominated for the chief justiceship of the United States, Charles E. Hughes was a member of the world court. He had served with distinction in that court, quite the same as in all other offices which he held, but because the United States is not a member of the court those from this country placed on the world court bench are nominated by other countries.

When it comes to filling the vacancy caused by Mr. Hughes' resignation another American is desired and four nations—Denmark, Chile, Norway and Uruguay—have presented the name of Frank B. Kellogg. This is a choice that is highly gratifying to this country. Mr. Kellogg is recognized as a lawyer of marked ability. He has served with distinction as secretary of state, proved himself an excellent diplomat and won such a high place in the American public's eye that there is certain to be hearty approval. Whether he is chosen does not depend upon this country. That is decided elsewhere, but there is no doubt that he will be elected.

Mr. Kellogg has come into world prominence because of the part which he has played, while secretary of state, in peace treaty efforts and the general administration of that important office. His selection will mean no connection between this government and the world court. It will not, of itself, have any influence upon our adherence to the court or hasten the day when we will join, but it would be a most interesting development if it should come about that the United States joined the court while its former secretary of state and one who was closely concerned with negotiations concerning the country under our reservations happened to be a member of that body. It is by no means outside the bounds of possibility.

WATERWAY NEGOTIATIONS

Much talk has been indulged in since the idea of developing the St. Lawrence river jointly by the United States and Canada was suggested. Much money has been spent in having engineers study the feasibility of such a plan and giving an estimate of the expense. Much time has been used in setting forth the advantage of such a development over other projects and in comparing the outlays that would be required in the respective schemes.

Certain parts of the country have been more interested in the idea than others. Canada has appeared warm, then turned cold, but has later showed evidences of warming up again to the proposition.

Not a little interest centers in the request that has been made by President Hoover of Hanford MacNider, recently appointed minister to Canada, that he take up immediately a study of the St. Lawrence development plan with a view to opening negotiations with the Canadian government.

President Hoover has long been committed to the St. Lawrence development. The administration has endorsed it and with a more favorable sentiment in Canada it would appear to be a favorable time for seeing what headway can be made. As long as Canada was not favorably disposed little progress could be expected. The neighbors to the north have been looking at the matter from all angles. They were swayed by the belief in the first place that the changes which would make it possible for the ocean-going vessels to sail into the lake ports would deprive Montreal and Quebec of much business. From another standpoint, they have come to the realization that any such development will serve to attract more commerce to the St. Lawrence, and with more commerce they could not fail to benefit. Time and study have helped to change the sentiment it is believed.

That being the case, along with a new government in control of Canadian affairs and with a new minister representing this country, it is inevitable that there should be a desire to find out exactly how Canada feels and how far it is ready to go in the way of negotiations at this time.

INCREASING THE AIRPORTS

That aviation is making a steadily increasing appeal is manifested in various ways. It is to be noted in the increased flying service that is available. It is seen in the number of flying machines made and used. It is seen in the aeronautical accomplishments and it is displayed in the constant additions that are being made to the airports throughout the country. In each of these directions there is offered unmistakable evidence of growth.

With more people flying, more air transportation sought, it is inevitable that there should be a response to the demand for more and better airports. Throughout the country there are in the neighborhood of 1,700 airports of various sizes and descriptions. They are to be found from San Diego, Cal., to Presque Isle, Me., for even the potato-growing center recognizes the advantage to the industry of having a place where fliers can alight and take off. While that small community raised $40,000 for its field Boston is planning the extension of its airport by the expenditure of $1,500,000. Philadelphia is going to develop the island where so much shipbuilding was done during the war and, as you look the country over, there is a healthy interest being displayed in and about airports.

The prediction that was made not long ago that no progressive city could get along without an airport is often recalled as more cities provide for such facilities. Since the first of the year there have been about 100 cities, large and small, which have seen the desirability of preparing to get the full benefit of flying service. They indicate thereby that they are convinced that it will be greater before it is less, and it is no idle dream that Norwich must sooner or later secure a more prominent place for itself on the aviation map.

THE VITAL WORKERS

Possibly Professor Einstein has been thinking that when an audience sees a sleight of hand artist perform it stops to try to realize how it is done, but he doesn't seem to think that those of the radio audience, for instance, are disposed to listen with what he considers due respect.

Speaking at the radio exhibit at Berlin, Professor Einstein said: "One ought to be ashamed to make use of the wonders of science that are embodied in a radio set, the while appreciating them as little as a cow appreciates the botanical marvels in the plants she munches. Honored listeners, forget not when you listen how humanity came into possession of this wonderful means of communication. The source of all scientific advancement is the source of the God-given curiosity of the toiling experimenter and the constructive phantasy of the technical inventor."

Probably few stop to realize over how long a period the radio has been under development and how by the different steps it was brought to the present-day perfection. There were the early discoveries, the small beginnings, that must be given due credit for the part they have played and for the suggestions they offered to those who carried the development along from stage to stage.

There are the technicians, there are the experimenters, in all lines of endeavor who are doing similar things and about which all too little is known. There is much about their work in which the public has little interest and yet it is through just such efforts that important discoveries are made. It may not be necessary for the average person to know all these details but in the fixing of credit these unseen but important factors should not be overlooked.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Forgiving those with faults like your own is easy.

The spirit of unrest is being displayed in various sections of South America.

If political hot air would be of any use in the international yacht race it ought to be easy to prevent a calm.

If all the votes that were cast for opposition candidates vote against Senator Blease in the run-off primary, South Carolina is due for a new senator.

Inasmuch as "Ma" Ferguson got over 371,000 votes in the Texas primary, she may feel urged to run for the senate, though beaten for the gubernatorial nomination.

With the returning home of the fresh air children it is to be hoped that their outing has done them good, that they appreciate it, and that future opportunities will be provided for them and others.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The tercentenary exercises recently held in the good old town of Windsor went off strictly in accord with the plans of its projectors. We are all glad that the objections that were raised ten years ago when a similar attempt was made to observe the founding of Plymouth in 1620 did not mar the proceedings at Windsor. Ten years ago, objection was raised in some quarters that such a celebration might tend to overemphasize the matter of denominationalism. This arose from the fact that the Congregational churches are the outgrowth of Pilgrim belief and practice. But when the commonwealth of Massachusetts took hold of the matter with such characteristic energy, it was at once seen that the anniversary of the Pilgrim's landing was to be observed along the broadest lines. After six months of speeches by the most eminent men, its real Americanism was clearly seen. We were all glad that the recent celebration at Windsor was on this line.

As we are now rapidly approaching the fall season we know that some of our sweet companions of the summer will soon be gone. The flowers, the rich foliage, the singing of the birds will disappear before long. But they will live in sweet memory. If our spirits have been attuned to their music and poetry they will not become a part of a dead past because we have both memory and vision. Have not the hollyhocks, whose profusion of colors made a deep impression upon the retina of our eyes? Can we not shut our eyes and still see them? And this is true of all flowers that have delighted us in their season. If we have had the opportunity of sojourning at seashore or mountain, we must have come with recollections of what we have seen, and they will have some influence in making our burdens somewhat lighter. Let us be thankful for vacation!

I wonder if Sir John Lubbock has not been revelling in the beauties of the natural world when he wrote this paragraph in his charming book "The Pleasures of Life". It sounds just like a man of knowledge just home from a good vacation: "Poetry and music unite in song. From the earliest ages song has been the sweet companion of labor. The rude chant of the boatman floats upon the water, the shepherd sings upon the hills, the milkmaid in the dairy, the ploughman in the field. Every trade, every occupation, every act and scene in life, has long had its own especial music. The bride went to her marriage, the laborer to his work, the old man to his last long rest, each with appropriate and immemorial music." One can hardly imagine such words from any writer whose sense of beauty and music had not been intensified by some satisfying outing.

In the field of modern scientific invention the name of Maxim is one to be conjured with, whether Hiram, the father, or Hudson, the son! The high explosive, discovered by the father and brought to perfection by the son, is enough to scare the nations out of war. At least by the use of Maximite no war can be of very long duration. Cordite, or smokeless powder, is another joint invention of this wonderful family. It is a bit singular that Hudson Maxim, who in 1916—the year of his father's death—was a zealous defender of preparedness, should now come forward with the most convincing argument in favor of disarmament. He figured out that it would save the U. S. a billion dollars a year, and earnestly urges a truce for a period of five years. He shows most convincingly what that amount of money would do in developing the natural resources of this country.

The moral power of leading a kindly life is more far-reaching than anyone can estimate. It is one of those things that is beyond the scope of the statistician. To go through this life radiating sunshine and kindness would not settle all of life's problems, but it would bring in a foretaste of heaven beyond our power of realization. What sort of a world would this be very shortly if nobody desired to take advantage of anybody else? If nobody ever tried to fleece anybody? If we all stopped talking about other people's faults? If we were as active in helping the other fellow as we are in criticizing him? May we not have a cheering word for the bereaved? May we not insist that the downtrodden shall receive justice? That the naked shall be clothed? That the erring shall be rightly led? Do this and we shall soon see "a new earth".

During the summer in diverse places and on various occasions, subjects have been discussed both practical and impractical, possible and impossible. There have been during the season, if correctly reported, some addresses that were both timely and able, and are worth passing along the line. The writer remembers hearing one man speak who began at exactly 10 o'clock, and by exactly one minute past ten had settled down to "brass tacks". Mention is made of it because it is as rare as old China. He was talking about energies frittered away, and made this statement: "No society has a right to exist that is not willing to plunge right into the midst of the fight." Some definite object should lie at the root of all organizations. We have gotten into the terrible habit of doing many things that are not worth doing. The things worth while are the things worth fighting for, if fighting is the only means of achievement.

We are quite familiar with such unpleasant terms as neuritis, bronchitis and the like. But someone has recently coined a significant name for a current, widespread disease as "Americanitis"; a sort of nervous disorder that in the last decade has attacked the American people with savage intensity. It has its origin in overstrain, in attempting more than one has the strength to complete. Its antidote for fatigue is to take on just a little more work of a different kind. Speaking generally, our people have not acquired the grace of finding leisure. Consequently something snaps and we become irritable, uncomfortable, disagreeable, and find a little comfort in nagging. Martha, complaining to Jesus that her sister Mary shirked her household duties, was a good illustration of irritability that came from overwork. When you see a woman whose eyes fill with tears when spoken to you know that she has a claim to a fortnight at Block Island. Someone has said that a good dinner is spoiled if you know that some tired woman has been spoiled in getting it.

It takes some time in going from one point to another on public grounds because the paths are all curves. The landscape gardner revels in turns, twists, curves and parabolas. It is all very beautiful and costs so much per linear foot. Of course the poor fellow knows that a straight line is the shortest distance between two given points. Why not pay him a little more to go "straight" and save the public from getting the blind staggers by his turns and twists. If a pedestrian wants to go straight on a college campus he is admonished to "Keep Off the Grass". Suppose the boys inside the classroom should wander all around the points of the compass when they wanted to go due east, that is, suppose they should circumvent inside the classroom as they do outside, where would they fetch up?

TABLET TO ROBERT PARKE, WHO LED FIGHT TO GIVE MYSTIC TO MASSACHUSETTS.

Just 300 years ago Robert Parke, or Park, landed in America, the first of his name to set foot in this country. The tercentenary is to be commemorated this afternoon at White Hall cemetery, Mystic, where his descendants will dedicate a tablet placed upon a perfect boulder and inscribed to him.

Robert Parke's son Thomas was one of the first settlers of Preston. His posterity includes the late John Duane Park of Norwich, former chief justice of the Connecticut supreme court. In the collateral English family appears the name of James Parke, Baron Wensleydale, whom Queen Victoria elevated to the peerage in recognition of his eminence as a jurist.

A Passenger on the Arabella

Robert Parke came here from Preston, Lancashire, England, sailing from Cowes, Isle of Wight, in the ship Arabella on March 29, 1630. The vessel, which carried 76 passengers all told, landed at Salem, Mass., on June 12 and at Boston on June 17. With his son Thomas, Robert Parke settled at Wethersfield in 1640. After serving as deputy from that town to the general court in 1641-2, Robert Parke moved to Pequot, now New London, where he resided from 1649 to 1654. His new barn, which stood at the juncture of Hempstead and Granite streets, was used as the first house of worship in the new town. Thither, in the absence of a bell, the inhabitants were called to worship by the beat of a drum.

In 1654 Robert Parke moved with his family to the new settlement of Mystic, settling near the river of that name. A companion in this migration was Capt. John Gallup, who also settled near the same stream. Capt. George Denison, later a famous Indian fighter, joined the community in the same year, erecting his house near Pequotsepos brook.

At the time these new planters moved in, the local name of the settlement was Mystic and Pawcatuck, Mystic embracing the territory between the Mystic river on the west and Stony brook on the east, while Pawcatuck included the territory between the Pawcatuck river on the east and Stony brook on the west. It was understood by the new planters here, as a condition precedent to the new settlement, that as soon as a sufficient number had joined them they should be incorporated as a new town.

Local Government Is Refused

In 1654 they applied to the general court for corporate powers. Through the influence of New London, then embracing Groton, the application was defeated, as were also all succeeding applications. These defeats revived in the planters the recollection that Massachusetts had previously claimed a part or all of the Pequot territory, including Groton, Stonington and Westerly.

The claim was the basis for a memorial to the Massachusetts general court, which the Mystic planters prepared in October, 1657, complaining of their treatment at the hands of the Connecticut legislature. On June 30, 1658, the settlers followed this up by organizing "the Association of Pawcatuck People," which was formed for municipal purposes only and not in defiance of the laws of either colony.

On Sept. 16 the commissioners of the United Colonies ruled that all Pequot territory west of the Mystic river belonged to Connecticut and all east of it, including Stonington, North Stonington and part of the town of Westerly, belonged to Massachusetts. The general court of the latter colony thereupon passed an act that the Massachusetts section should be named Southertown and be attached to the county of Suffolk, Mass.

A Southertown Official

In all these proceedings, Robert Parke took an active part. In association with four other commissioners named by the inhabitants he laid out the bounds of the new town, extending them northward eight miles from the mouth of the Mystic river. He was also one of the officials appointed by the Massachusetts general court to organise Southertown in 1658.

The settlement remained under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts till Governor Winthrop succeeded in obtaining a new charter of Connecticut from King Charles II. By this new instrument the eastern boundary of the colony was fixed at Pawcatuck river, placing a large part of Southertown in Connecticut and the rest of it in Rhode Island. This was on April 22, 1662.

In 1665 the name of Southertown was changed by the Connecticut general court to Mystic, "In memory of that victory God was pleased to give this people of Connecticut over the Pequot Indians." In May of the year following the town of Mystic was called Stonington by legislative enactment.

Served in Colonial Wars

After the settlement of this dispute, Robert Parke's public services seem to have consisted principally of participation in the early colonial wars.

The approximate date of his death is fixed by the fact that his will was probated in March, 1665. He had four children, William, Samuel, Thomas and Anne.

Robert Parke was twice married. His first wife was Martha, daughter of Capt. Robert Chapen, in Edmundsbury, England; his second was Mrs. Alice Thompson, whom he is supposed to have married in Roxbury. Robert Parke's third child, Thomas, married Mrs. Thompson's daughter Dorothy.

Deacon William Park, Robert's eldest child and executor, was one of the wealthiest citizens of Roxbury. For more than 30 years he was a member of the Massachusetts general court. He was born in England in 1604 and died May 11, 1685. He married Martha Holgrove, who died Aug. 25, 1708. They had 12 children.

Son Moved to Preston

Thomas Parke, Robert's third child, owned lands in Stonington that he purchased of his brother-in-law, the Rev. Richard Blinman. These lands were situated on the east bank of the Mystic river, between the old Post road on the north, White Hall land on the south and the stone house farm on the east.

In 1680 he disposed of this holding and moved to Preston, where he was the first deacon of the Rev. Mr. Treat's church upon its organization in 1698. Like his father he served in the early colonial wars. He died July 30, 1709, the father of eight children.

YOUR HEALTH

WHY FOLKS FAIL

By James L. McCartney, M.D.,
New York
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

During the past year about fifteen thousand persons throughout the United States committed suicide, and nearly forty thousand more attempted to end their lives. More than half a million men, women and children passed through our courts and into our jails and prisons. Few would deny that these five hundred and fifty thousand folks had failed in every sense of the word and yet it would be safe to say that at least sixty per cent of the rest of the community are also failing to live successful lives, for they are existing without happiness or hope. Why, you ask, do all these folks fail?

To begin with, a person's success depends on his mental ability and emotional stability. Approximately a half million individuals in this country are feebleminded and at least four hundred thousand children in the public schools are so handicapped mentally that they cannot profitably follow the ordinary courses of study. It goes without saying that these children fail hardly before they begin; but fortunately if they are given proper training and supervision they are not total losses and may live very happy and useful lives.

Nevertheless, the big majority of mankind has average or superior mental ability; but because emotions or feeling are not under proper control they live unhappy lives even though they may be financially successful. In most cases these emotional misfits are failing in life because something went wrong in their childhood to warp their feelings or thinking. They never had the opportunity or are not taking advantage of the opportunity to see a psychiatrist or mental hygienist to have their kinks straightened out. Of course, these personality twists might never have been caused if childhood had been passed without storm or stress. As it happens, children are usually misunderstood and frequently mishandled by their parents or elders, so that the seeds of failure are planted with the inevitable result. One cannot expect a timid, shy child to enjoy life to the fullest extent, nor to develop initiative and courage. On the contrary this child will most likely grow into a weak willed adult, a prey and easy victim of his associates. But it has been found that such a child need not become a failure if he is given the proper treatment and environment.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—At 71 and 60 years of age, respectively, Gilbert Hitchcock of Nebraska and Thomas Gore of Oklahoma are attempting to prove that the old sporting axiom "they never come back," does not apply to the game of politics.

In winning their respective senatorial battles, this pair of veteran democrat former senators have at least a good start on reentry into active public life. All they have to do now is get elected to the senate.

Nebraska Flux Again

If this happened to be a presidential year, things might be different for both. As it is, an "off year" with the political situation in flux after a republican sweep two years ago.

In the case of Hitchcock it appears possible he might benefit by at least a sort of republican old guard benevolent neutrality. He might even get some degree of actual help from the regular forces of the opposing party when he faces George Norris, confirmed republican irregular, in the November election.

Nebraska regulars like former Governor McKelvie, now farm board member, were loudly clamoring for the Norris scalp even at the cost of giving the democrats a Nebraska seat.

The reorganized republican national committee seemed a little in doubt what to do about Norris. Field Marshal Fess rather indicated at first that Norris would get the usual support of the national republican organization if he won in the primaries. After the Norris victory, however it developed that the Nebraska senatorial fight might be left to the republican senatorial campaign committee.

And What Not?

Peppery George Moses of New Hampshire heads that committee. He it was who got out that blast about "sons of the wild jackasses," aimed at irregular republicans of the senate, more particularly at Norris.

And Moses has had notions about waging vigorous party disciplinary war against them.

Western republicans informed him they would handle their own affairs. They invited him to keep out of the west.

The upshot was that Senator Steiwer of Oregon was named campaign committee chief for the western states. He is less combative than Moses.

Senator Fess also verbally bombarded the irregulars at one time. He called 'em 'pseudo republicans.'

As national committee chairman, responsible for getting action in the November elections, however, Fess may not be inclined to disciplinary action if it risked even nominal republican control of the senate.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

THE ZAPON CO. STAMFORD

The Zapon company of Stamford, manufacturers of lacquers, leather cloth and rubberized material, is the successor of the companies which originated lacquer and leather cloth in the United States. These companies were: The Frederick Crane Chemical company, organized in Springfield, N. J., in the early 80's, originators and patentees of the first pyroxylin lacquers made in the United States; Tannette company, organized in New Jersey in 1890—the first to make pyroxylin coated fabrics in the United States, and The Evans Leather company, organized in 1881 the first to produce in the United States a waterproof fabric coated with a linseed oil base.

These companies and the Boston Artificial Leather company, organized in 1897, were consolidated into the Zapon company and in 1904 activities were transferred from New Jersey to the new factory at Stamford.

In 1917 the Zapon company became a subsidiary of the Atlas Powder company, Wilmington, Del. In 1929 the Duratex company in Newark, manufacturers of leather cloth and rubberized fabrics, was purchased and the equipment moved to Stamford.

The basic raw material for lacquer and leather cloth is nitrocellulose, and in order to assure itself of a high quality product, the company produces its requirements at Stamford under exacting chemical supervision. All material used in its products is under chemical control, thus assuring its customers of a high grade product of great uniformity. The factory buildings are of modern fireproof construction and the equipment is designed to produce a product of high quality and low cost.

Zapon leather cloth has for years been the standard of the trade and is used for auto tops, bookbinding, loose-leaf note books, furniture and automobile upholstery, luggage and novelties. It is waterproof, flexible and durable and is produced in many colors and finishes embossed in various designs to give pleasing effects. The annual capacity is 4,500 00 yards.

Zapon lacquers are used as a protective and beautifying coating on automobiles, furniture, radio cabinets, Connecticut's famous hardware, floors and interior wood work. The annual capacity is 3,900,000 gallons.

Rubberized fabrics are made in single and double texture for various purposes, the principal use being for auto top material. A new waterproof fabric of great beauty and attractiveness is "Izarino", which has found a ready sale for many uses. The annual capacity of rubberized goods is 1,500,000 yards.

The factory site includes 15 acres and being located on the sound enjoys water transportation to New York. About 500 men are employed and the company has insurance, pension and bonus systems in effect. The officers are: Leland Lyon, president; J. F. Van Lear, vice-president; Leonard Richards, Jr., vice-president; E. W. Maynard, vice-president; Isaac Fogg, secretary and treasurer; E. W. Moorhouse, general manager.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

On Whose Account

Why does God bid us love our neighbor? If we treat Him civilly and in no way interfere with His rights or his happiness, why is not this enough? Why ought we to try to feel for Him an emotion in some sense meriting the name of love.

Not on His account alone. We are bound for Christ's sake, to cherish such a feeling for our neighbor as shall enrich and bless His life as much as possible. Because we can benefit Him by loving it is our great privilege.

Yet undoubtedly it is on our account quite as much as His that God has bidden us. We need to love perhaps more than our neighbor needs to be loved. We need the softening, mellowing, ennobling experience of learning to see the divine likeness and the divine need of a Savior. If we have a love for the souls and realize the need, how our attitude will be changed. If this is our attitude our lives will radiate blessing to all we come in contact. It will be our pray to help and bless every life we touch. And in blessing our lives will be enriched and blessed with the love and blessing of our Savior. The blessing received exceeding that given.

BARN, GARAGE, SHED, 40 TONS HAY, DESTROYED IN EARLY MORNING FIRE

Fire destroyed the large barn, garage and shed owned by Michael Jomoyder on the Versailles-Hanover road shortly after 2 o'clock Friday morning. Besides the buildings about 40 tons of hay, a quantity of farm machinery and farming tools were destroyed. There was little or no insurance on the barn or the contents and the loss is estimated at about $3,000.

The blaze, which was of undetermined origin, was discovered by Mrs. Jomoyder when the reflection that shone into her window across the road awakened her. She aroused the other members of the family but the blaze had gained such headway that nothing could be done to stop it and their attention was turned toward preventing it from spreading to the dwelling house which is located some 50 feet away across the road.

Neighbors notified the Baltic fire department who made the run to the blaze but there was nothing that they could do although they remained at the scene several hours, to prevent a spread of the fire. The barn was about 70x100 feet and the adjoining garage and shed about 20x20 feet each. There were 12 head of cattle in the barn at the time of the fire but they escaped to the fields when the doors of the barn were opened.

CHMIELEWSKI EXONERATED BY CORONER McKAY

In a finding announced Friday, Coroner Edward G. McKay exonerates Alex Chmielewski, 21, of any criminal negligence in causing the death of Meyer Silverman, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Silverman of No. 24 Asylum street. A machine operated by Chmielewski struck and fatally injured the child August 2nd. The accident occurred on Maple street. In the finding the coroner says:

The little boy had been playing in the yard on the south side of the road with two other boys of about the same age. They had been watching a man place some horses in the barn. The boys came to the fence and were going to cross the road. Meyer started out ahead of the other two boys and apparently did not see the approaching car for he was looking towards the north sidewalk. He ran towards the sidewalk when struck. After he was thrown to the ground he was picked up and brought to the hospital. He was unconscious all this time and died a few hours later.

There is not sufficient evidence in this case to warrant a finding of gross recklessness. The operator of the car was not driving the automobile at an excessively fast rate of speed. If he were he could not have been able to stop as quickly as the witnesses testified that he did. In viewing the location of the collision consideration is given to the position and height of the fence in the front part of the yard on the south end of the street. It would be difficult for an operator of a car to see boys of the size of the deceased while they were in the yard and while the car was coming from the east. When the boy ran from the yard there was not much time allowed for the operator of the car to stop or turn the car out of the way.

Brief Mention

There is no place like home when it comes to drawing a meager salary.

The wife of a henpecked husband hasn't very much to crow over.

Blushes are the luminous reflections of a woman's thoughts.

Love should always be sent C. O. D.

A woman's ideal man is but a creation of her imagination.

The burglar does his haymaking while the sun doesn't shine.

A man may guess a woman's age—but that's as near as he ever gets.

An old bachelor says that marriage is but another name for trouble.

Happy is the wife who believes that her husband is the best man on earth.

Occasionally we meet a man who is wise enough to know that he doesn't know it all.

One kind of a fool is a man who thinks that he is having a good time when he is drunk.

A woman's idea of being neighborly is to send the woman next door a generous hunk of her angel-food cake.

A woman changes her mind so often that it keeps her busy speaking it.

It is often a man's strong right arm that favorably impresses a woman.

Women never criticize the grammar of men who pay them compliments.

It's queer when a woman doesn't act queer at times.

The man with a narrow mind usually makes up for it in the length of his arguments.

A man would rather win a dollar on a wager than earn five at honest labor.

Some men who claim to be self-made evidently cheated themselves.

Dead dogs wag no more tails than dead men tell.

Riches also cover a multitude of sins.

From the big-headed man's viewpoint his is a tiny world.

It's easier to coax some girls to sing than it is to induce them to stop.

When a woman can't win an argument in any other way she turns on the briny flow.

It's still a question whether love is an asset or a liability.

It's nice to live in the country—nice for your city relations.

The woman who marries a cranky old bachelor is as big a fool as he is.

Look within for happiness; troubles will come without being looked for.

We are all certainly justified in hoping for the best if we have paid for it in advance.

"IRON NERVE" WILL PLAY LARGE PART IN SPEED BOAT RACES TODAY

DETROIT, Aug. 29—(AP)—With the British challengers and the United States defenders seemingly equal in speed, nerve promises to play a large part in deciding the winner of the Harmsworth trophy races the first heat of which will be run on the Detroit river tomorrow afternoon. It will require no little nerve to take the several turns on the five mile course with a minimum slackening of speed.

On the straightaway stretches the hydoplanes will approximate 90 miles an hour. Gar Wood, defender of the trophy, has said that the speed reduction making the turns is at least 10 miles an hour. The course is long and narrow and no fewer than 24 sharp turns must be made in the 30-mile heat. Wood has been over the course many times oftener than the challengers' pilots, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs and Bert Hawker. He also has an advantage in that his mechanic, Orlin Johnson, has teamed with him in six Harmsworth races, numerous gold cup contests and scores of other speedboat events.

On the other hand, the British challenging craft, Estelle IV, and Estelle V., are admitted to be the fastest boats Wood ever has been called upon to race against.

Miss Carstairs, attractive young English girl, has monopolized most of the spotlight in the activities preliminary to the race, largely because of her courage in three times challenging the veteran Wood, and her sportsmanship. She will be at the wheel of Estelle IV, tomorrow, while Hawker will pilot Estelle V., faster of the two challengers.

Although Wood has entered three boats, the Misses America V., VIII, and IX., there is a disposition to believe that barring accidents the race will resolve itself into a duel between Wood in Miss America IX., and Hawker at the wheel of Estelle V.

"It takes me about a week to get used to the thought of a fast race," said Wood. "I have to tune up myself at the same time I tune up the boat. These big races make me feel about the same way I felt before I took my first solo flight. Several times before I went up, when I thought about it my breath came short and fast. But in my solo flight as well as these Harmsworth races, just as soon as the motor started I was all right. I'm never worried in a race."

Hawker said that "almost 100 miles an hour" does not bother him. "Somehow," he said, "there doesn't seem to be any danger in it. You just seem to feel that you're shriveling up. The faster you go the more you shrivel. You see your forearms and hands out in front of you. You know you've got a firm grip on the wheel and that's all that seems important.

"I'm just going to open her up and let myself shrivel."

The three speedboats that will contest Sunday in the second international trophy event were given tuning up spins today. They are the Phantom, of Houston, Texas, and Baby Minchas, of Bay City, Mich., defenders, and Hubert Scott—Paine's Miss Britain I., challenger.

BRAVES NOSE OUT PHILLIES IN ELEVENTH

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—(AP) — The Braves won a thrilling eleven inning contest from the Phillies here today, 9 to 8, to take a two to one lead in the series.

Rabbit Maranville, the veteran shortstop of the visitors, was the king pin in the triumph. He blasted out four hits and handled ten changes in the field without an error.

Many of them were difficult chances which had a great deal to do with the outcome of the game.

JACK CRONIN SIGNS CONTRACT TO PLAY WITH STEAM ROLLERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 29. — A national league football contract for a season's playing with the Providence Steam Roller's club was received yesterday by John H. "Jack" Cronin, former Boston college backfield ace and physical education director at La-Salle academy at Providence.

Mr. Cronin said that he had been notified by Jimmie Conzelman, coach of the "Rollers" to report for practice on September 8, but at that time he was uncertain of a seasonal berth on the team. The arrival of the contract assures the appearance of the local grid star in the team's line-up throughout the coming season, unless some unforeseen preventative arises. Jack Cronin's career in professional football is a colorful one. Since his initial signing with the "Rollers" he has been the club's ground gaining and offense checking mainstay and his work in the "Roller" back field has been the subject of sportswriters columns in many of the large dailies.

The player is an ardent student of football and physically, is a tower of strength. His massive proportions, coupled with his well developed legs make him powerfully fast. Cronin's past performances have elicited much praise from the ever growing galleries of professional football fans who are looking forward to a repetition this year of the excellent service he gave his team last season.

Jack told a Bulletin reporter last night that among the galaxy of stars to shine for the Providence professional team this year will be "Frosty" Peters, former Illinois quarter back; "Pop" Williams of Danielson, Killingly's own; Bill Cronin, brother of Jack and former Boston college backfield star; Bud Edwards, captain of the 1929 edition of Brown university gridders; Milton Rhenquist, all-American pro guard of last season and Nick Fleischman, Purdue top-notch backfielder in 1929.

GIANTS RALLY IN LATE INNINGS TO BEAT DODGERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)— The Giants came from behind in the late innings today to recapture second place from the Brooklyn Robins with a 3 to 2 victory which broke their losing streak of five games.

The Giants did not score until the seventh, when Hogan and Jackson hit successive singles and the big catcher came home while Roettger was forcing Jackson at second.

POLISH CITS GROOMING FOR INTER-CITY SERIES

Manager George Bizinski, of the Polish Citizens ball club, champions of the Norwich City league, is sending his charges through a severe drilling over the week end in preparation for the opening game of the series between the Kaceys, winners of the pennant of the New London City league on Monday afternoon at the campus. The Cits, who have been going at top speed all through the season, are keeping in trim so as not to go stale now that the strain of a pennant chase is over. Boots Greene, to whom credit for keeping the club at the top is given, will get the pitching assignment for the opening game.

Considerable interest is being manifest in this coming series with the Citizens a 5 to 4 favorite to take the series from the Whaler champions.

IDEALS VS. FISK CLUB SUNDAY

Tony Bernard's Ideals will furnish the baseball for the local fans on Sunday afternoon when they clash with the Fisk Rubebr team of Jewett City. The Fisk team is made up at the present time of the stars of the Jewett City twilight league, which closed the season last week. It is a fast club and should furnish the Ideals with plenty of competition. It is expected that Vachon, who was one of the pitching stars of the Jewett City loop, will be on the mound for the Rubbermen.

Bernard has strengthened his club for this game and has a brilliant array of ball players, the majority familiar to local fans who followed the city league this season. Boots Greene or his brother Johnny will be on the mound for the Ideals with Bob Shaw held in reserved. Jimmy Murphy will catch and the remainder of the line-up will be: Middy Dugas, 1b; Hal Cummings, 2b; Cimikoski, 3b; Carlie Krauss, ss; Ronnie Smith, lf; Lloyd Jarvis or Johnny Greene, cf; Fred Smith, rf.

This array of baseball talent should be capable of giving anything that Jewett City can produce a good run for the victory. With fair weather it is expected that the crowd will be exceptionally large.

ELKS HAND ROTARY A SEVERE SETBACK

The Rotary club suffered a severe setback in the Junior league Friday evening when they lost a close game to the Elks, 2 to 0. With two games to be played, one between the Elks and Duwells and one between the Duwells and the Rotary, anything may happen, as all three teams are closely bunched at the top of the league, with the Duwells holding a slim margin of one-half game.

Last night's game proved to be a pitcher's battle between Fuller, of the Elks, and Caron, of the Rotary, with Fuller having the edge. The Elks' twirler held the hard hitting Rotarians to two scattered hits and fanned nine. Caron was touched for seven hits and fanned three. Errors played an important part in the scoring, the Rotary cracking on two different occasions which paved the way for the Elks to score.

In the second, with one away, Bamber, Elks' centerfielder, singled to center and stole second. Dugas walked. Hamill hit to short and was thrown out at first, but when Sabroski threw to second in an attempt to catch Dugas, Austin let the ball get by him and Bamber scored. LaVarge ended the frame with a strike-out.

Again in the fourth, with one out, Bamber again started the trouble when he was safe on O'Neil's error. Dugas hit inside third for a single, sending Bamber to second. Hamill walked, filling the bases. LaVarge singled to right, scoring Bamber, but Dugas was caught at the plate when he tried to score on the hit. Fuller lined to Charron, ending the inning.

The Rotary's best chances came in the third and fourth. The lead-off man was safe and went to second in each of these frames, but was stranded there when his mates could do nothing with Fuller.

Dugas led the hitters with two singles out of two trips to the plate.

The Shymas will not play on Saturday at the Providence street grounds but will travel to Willimantic on Sunday to meet the fast Chapman Aces of the Thread City. The Shymas will be represented by the same line-up that has performed under the Shyma colors this season: Ulewicz, leading third baseman in the Junior league; Wilk will be at first; Lemieux, the ace of the Thermos, at short; Finn, in the left field; J. Raymond, in center; Pete Raymond will probably cover second; Dudek or Bourdon in right field; Burelle with catch; S. Raymond or Faucher will pitch. The Shymas feel sure that they will return on the long end of the score.

On Monday, Labor day, the Shymas will play two games with the fast Holy Name of Jewett City. In the morning, at the Providence street grounds, Taftville, at ten o'clock, in the first game of the series. In the afternoon the Shymas will travel to Jewett City to play the second game of the series.

E. C. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP WILL START AT GOLF CLUB COURTS TODAY

With a field of at least 27 entrants the quest of the Willowbrook tennis trophy will start at 9 o'clock this morning at the Norwich Golf club courts. The Willowbrook trophy is emblematic of the tennis singles championship of Eastern Connecticut and is at present held by Arthur C. Wright of Hartford former captain of the Yale tennis team. Wright last year beat his fellow townsman Sam Snider for the title.

Although Wright's entry has not yet been received it is thought probable that he will be present today along with a number of other players from the Hartford district. With this in view the tournament committee has left a number of vacant places in the lower half of the bracket and substituted byes.

The doubles play will not start until this afternoon when eight teams will swing into action.

The pairings were made on Friday evening and are as follows:

CARAWAY PITCHES BRILLIANT 13-INNING SHUT-OUT GAME

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 29.—(AP) — Cecil (Pat) Caraway pitched a sensational 13-inning shut-out over the hard hitting Cleveland Indians today and won his own game for the Chicago White Sox by smacking a double which scored the first run off Recruit Clint Brown. The final score was 3 to 0.

Caraway limited the Indians to three singles, all in the regulation nine innings. He came to bat in the thirteenth after Brown had got himself into a hole by allowing Clancy to single and fumbled Watwood's sacrifice to give both runners safety. A ringing smash off the right field screen sent Clancy across with the winning run. Then Mulleavy cracked a single to score Watwood and Caraway. That was enough as Caraway easily turned back the last three Indian batters.

TAUNTON BOXERS TO APPEAR AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 29.—A battery of Taunton boxers will appear in bouts to be presented in the card arranged for the North street arena Tuesday evening of next week. Taunton is alleged to have the best stable of amateur boxers to be found anywhere in southern New England. The four of them that will appear in bouts here Tuesday night are to meet local boys.

Eddie Heaney, one of the invading host, will take on Ray Landry of this town. They are in the 126 lbs. class. William Leo, a local high school boy, will have Lionel LeBrun of Taunton for his opponent. They are 135 pounders.

Battling Smelzy of Jewett City will box Tommy Anctil of Taunton for three rounds at 105 pounds. Frank Smith, another 105 Taunton boy, will have an opponent picked for him, possibly fighting Kid Brouillard.

Others in the list of boxers that will be on hand for bouts are Young Rabidoux, 114 pounds, of Danielson; Kid Durant, 114 pounds, Webster. Anselm Bernier, 126, Danielson, will tackle Joe Butler of Worcester; Kid Casavant, 135 pounds, Webster, and Benny Salinski, 130 pounds, Jewett City.

There will be a total of eight bouts. Patsy Flynn of Worcester and Russell Martin of Webster will appear in the main bout at around 150 pounds. These two sluggers staged a great three round battle here last Tuesday night, Flynn shading Martin for the decision. Martin has asked for a return bout and Flynn is accommodating him. If this bout goes the limit it will be surprising. The fans are looking for a knockout, but are not sure as to picking the victim.

Charles Goulet of Putnam and Fid Frisco of Webster will meet in the semi-final. This pair turned in the best fight of the evening at a show staged here two weeks ago. There will be plenty of action in this go and with Frisco trying to even up matters for the decision he recently lost to Goulet here.

CUBS FIGHT UPHILL BATTLE TO BEAT CARDS

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—(AP)—A remarkable uphill battle gave the Cubs a 9 to 8 triumph over the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals after 13 exciting innings today and snapped the St. Louis winning streak after nine successive victories.

The victory put the Cubs 5 1-2 games ahead of the New York Giants, who took second place again today, and cost the Cards a chance of going into third.

The Cards piled up five runs in the first five innings with a homer by George Watkins as the most important clout. With the game apparently won, Haines eased up in the ninth and Dan Taylor and Kelly opened the inning with singles. With one out, an error filled the bases and Pinch Hitter Gabby Hartnett drove in two runs with a single. Blair and English also singled to make it 5-4 before the second man was retired and Bell was called to the mound. Bell passed Stephenson to fill the bases and handed another pass to D. Taylor, forcing in the tying run and sending the teams into their second successive extra-inning game.

The Holy Name team of Jewett City, will play three games over the week-end, one with the Wauregan Independents in Jewett City, and two with the Shyma club of Taftville on Labor day. The first game will be a morning game, starting at ten o'clock at the Providence street grounds in Taftville, and the other game will be played at Ashland Park in Jewett City, in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The H. N. S. were to play the Plainfield Red Stars on Saturday but late Friday afternoon notice was received that this game could not be arranged.

PLAINFIELD WINS FINAL GAME — CLOCHER ALLOWS NO HITS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Aug. 29.— Plainfield defeated Moosup in the final game of the Eastern Connecticut Twilight league season here tonight by the score of 2 to 1. Clocher, on the mound for Plainfield, pitched in spectacular fashion, holding the so-called Moosup sluggers to no-hits. This being the second no-hit game in a week for Clocher. This is a feat which no other pitcher in the league has approached.

Plainfield scored in the first inning on an error by the catcher, a base hit by Ouillet, a base on balls to Dissinger and a hard hit by Jodoin to third base which scored Mercier. In the third inning Clocher opened for Plainfield with a sharp single to right, went to second on a put-out, took third on a fielder's choice and scored on Silva's error. Moosup scored in the fifth inning on Clocher's error, a stolen base and a fielder's choice and an error by Allard.

Eno also pitched in great fashion for Moosup, allowing Plainfield but two hits. Plainfield will play Moosup in a seven-game series, starting Sunday Sept. 7.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

IMPY GOES TO WORK

By Thornton W. Burgess

The greatest blessing life can give
Is work and thus the right to live.
—Impy the Chipmunk.

Impy the black chipmunk felt that he was really out in the great world. He felt, too, that he had found the most wonderful place in all the great world for a new home. Just outside a fence corner was a great pile of stones. There were big stones and little stones. The fence was a rail fence and offered a lovely place of a chipmunk to run. In some ways it was even better than the old stone wall. Impy had looked around somewhat hastily and had discovered that there seemed to be plenty to eat, so that was one more thing to make this seem a wonderful place.

"I'll dig me a house," said Impy as he sat on the old fence and looked things over. "The question is, just where shall I dig this house? To begin with, I want it to be a secret; so I must have my doorway where it will not readily be found by others. That means that I cannot have a lot of sand scattered around it. Sand around the entrance to one's home is a regular giveaway. There must be no sand at all around my doorway. I remember what my father, Striped Chipmunk, said. He told me that when I got ready to dig a home I should dig a back door first and take all earth out that way, and so finally open the front door, or regular door, from underground instead of above ground. Then I should plug up the back door and if my front doorway was properly hidden, there would be nothing to show where I lived. So the first thing to do is to look around to see where I want my front door. Then I must find where I want my back door, which later I will plug up."

Impy ran all over and all around the pile of stones. He went down in between the stones. He seriously thought of having the entrance somewhere under that pile of stones. Then he changed his mind. Perhaps this is because he happened to see Mr. Blacksnake thrust his head out from between some of the stones of that pile. Right then and there, that very instant, Impy decided that the entrance to his home would be somewhere else. So straightway Impy went looking elsewhere. Off one side of the pile of stones, and close to the fence, lay an old log. It was hollow for a short distance. In this hollow part was a big knothole, through which Impy could dig. He didn't dig but he could have. You see, that side of the log was the side lying on the ground. Impy went outside and examined that log all over. He went back inside. Here was a wonderful place for a hidden door. Impy got quite excited about it. Once more he went outside and this time he went over to the pile of stones. It was only a few feet away from the hollow log. Impy sat on a stone and studied and studied. A plan was beginning to form in his mind. Yes, sir, Impy had the beginning of a plan. Presently he jumped down and began digging a little round hole behind that pile of stones.

Now that Impy had actually started work, he couldn't work hard enough or fast enough. He dug his hole straight down for a short distance. The sand he threw out. When he had gone down sufficiently far he started a tunnel that would pass under that pile of stones and it was headed in the direction of that hollow log. Fortunately for Impy, the digging was easy. It was sandy soil. He encountered only two or three stones of any size and these he dug his tunnel around. Much of the sand he had to push back and out of the entrance; but not all of it. He found that he could pack some of it. That is, he could press it into the sides of his tunnel.

When Impy went to bed that night he was a tired chipmunk. Also, he was a happy chipmunk. He had the beginning of a home all his own, and this meant a great deal to Impy.

IDEALS DROP THERMOS TO THIRD PLACE IN FINAL GAME OF CITY LOOP

A two run rally in the fourth and final inning gave the Ideals a 2 to 1 victory over the Thermos in the final game of the City league season at the Academy last night. On two previous occasions the two teams had battled to tie games.

With the game apparently won, by virtue of their lone run that was scored in the third, the Bottlers took the field in the last of the fourth and Nap Liberty went to bat for the Gasmen. Nap drew a walk and while Jimmy Murphy was striking out moved to second. R. Smith poked his second single of the game into right and Liberty came all the way home. On the play to the plate Smith went to second. His brother went out, N. Lemieux to Hamil, and it appeared as if the game would again end in a tie when Perry came through with a clean smack into right. The runner scored from second and the game was over.

As mentioned, the lone Bottler score came in the third and was the result of a hit batsman, a walk, error, and sacrifice fly. N. Lemieux the leadoff hitter, was tagged between the shoulder with a pitched ball and went to second when Nap Liberty missed up Joe Hamel's grounder. Krauss walked and the bases were filled. On Bill Liberty's fly to Gley in left Lemieux counted. Hamil, however, was nipped going to second on the play. Nickerson ended the inning by grounding out, F. Smith to Perry.

The opposing hurlers, Nickerson of the Thermos and Buck Shahan of the Ideals both pitched nice ball, allowing but four hits apiece.

Smith, who has turned in a remarkable season in center for the Ideals, featured on the offense for the winner. He registered the first hit of the game for the Ideals in the second and came through with the blow that registered the tying run in the fourth. And the youngster hit as well in previous exhibitions there is little doubt but that he would have surely made the all-star, because, as one stated, his fielding has been brilliant. Jimmy Mullins led the Bottlers hitters with a brace of singles.

FIRE PREVENTION AND MOPS

Mr. Editor and Friends: Some fine weather we are having, but vacation time is nearly over and then look out for winter. It is coming time to build fires in the cook stoves. Now to prevent chimney fires put a piece of old zinc washboard in the fire. That keeps the soot from gathering in the pipe where the fires generally start first. I know this to be good for I have tried it.

I find there is nothing better for a mop than old stockings. They absorb the water quickly from the floor and it dries more quickly.

My cousins and I visited an old cemetery in Canterbury a few Sundays ago and saw the beautiful memorial that was erected to the memory of Moses Cleveland. On the tablet is this inscription:

"This memorial is erected for the founder of the city of Cleveland, O. He was a lawyer, a soldier, a legislator and a leader of men, was born in Canterbury, Conn., January 29, 1754, and died in Canterbury, Conn., November 16, 1806. Erected by the Cleveland house of commerce."

The monument was erected on the 100th anniversary of his death, and I was quite interested as he was an ancestor.

Kochia: Glad you have had some vacation. Hope it was not so hot as it was when I took mine. I went up to Libbie's for two weeks, but Oh me! Oh my! wasn't it hot! We were doing canning with two fires going to cool the house. It was 90 in the shade with the fires. Don't you wish you had been there to help us. Tell your ma the snakes are not all gone. One was killed near my well. Never mind, Kochia, we will soon be looking forward to another spring.

Aries: So glad to get your letter. Will answer soon. God was good and sent us rain. Hope you and Adam are well.

Rural Aunty, Ma of Greene Gables, L. T. H: Hope you are fine.

Cakkie: Was by your house Sunday but could not stop. Did not see you. Now give us one of your letters. Providence Rose is very much improved in health.

Johnny On The Spot: How did you arrive home? I suppose you and Mr. John and little John were some tired.

Harry E: Come now and tell us about that little Harry of yours.

Well the rock of ages is still right here and if anyone doesn't think so just call at 970 Hartford Ave. The roads are in fine condition. You are up on one side, down on the other, but it is fine to ride over now. Just try it for fun. It is worse than a merry go round. Ask Libbie and Dan. They were over it yesterday.

Where, oh where are the scenes of yesterday? It reminds me of the old darkey's complaint. "This country am gwine to de dawgs," he said. "At least, there am a lock on dat chicken coop doah."

Well, I hope all the sisters and brothers are fine and may God be with you all. NONESOPRETTY

TISH'S TERRIBLE TRIP

Dear Social Corner Sisters: At last I have been on a trip that I can write about. All summer I have read of the wonderful times that others have had going over mountain trails and viewing lovely scenery and now I have been on just such a time myself. Through the kindness of Milky Way I was fortunate enough to attend the picnic of club No. 6 at the home of Yellow Jacket on the 19th of Aug. We had an ideal day, and ideal dinner and an ideal place also some of the best kind of Corner sisters for our hostesses. After we had eaten all we possibly could we went out to see the sights, and let me tell you we got a thrill when the young lady of the house let Mr. Billy out of the gate right amongst us. Thank goodness his feet were tied somehow so he couldn't run or I am sure we would all have been seeing things upside down in no time by the look in his eye. I cleared out and from a safe distance saw him shoved and pulled back into the lot and the gate closed; then I breathed easier again.

The next thing someone proposed that we go to see an old fireplace made by the Indians and after they said it was only a little way and we couldn't possibly tear our stockings we started out and this was the beginning of my especially conducted trip. I have heard of these trips to European countries and Yellowstone park and other places but I want to tell you that no matter where you have been or how far you have traveled you have missed something by not going on this particular trip.

We started out with several of the children and four women including myself Pyrethrum, Sumac and one whose pen name I don't know, and we walked. Oh yes we walked alright and then we kept right on walking. Our special conductor was a very special one I guess for he knew just where to go to take the breath out of all of us in short order.

We went a long way down a little road through the lots and by a house where a dog came out and barked at us and across a brook over a stone bridge, where Pyrethrum wished she had her bathing suit as there was almost water enough to wet it good, and then he turned into a path that led into the woods and up the steepest kind of a hill, Cossaddue hill, if I have spelled it anything like it ought to be and we went up and up through a very good path until the treetops in the valley were below us. It was very beautiful with ferns of all kinds and the cool shade of the trees. Then we had to scramble down the side of the hill as best we could and finally we came to the fire place. It looked as though it were chiseled out of the solid rock and was well worth seeing though we were so plumb tuckered out that we didn't enjoy it half as much as we would had it been nearer our starting point. Then the special conductor gave us our choice of the two paths to return, either by the way we came or by the brook path which he assured us was as near and every bit as good as the way we came. Not wanting to miss anything we chose the brook path and we didn't miss anything. We traveled over moss covered rocks over fallen trees, over wood chucks or some kind of holes and every thing that a woods that is up to date has to hand out to anyone foolish enough to choose a brook path. The brook itself was pretty with moss covered stones and of course not much water just now but I didn't have time to look at any brook scenery I had to watch my step. One of the little girls had to be carried pig-a-back long before this and they all took turns at it but me. I brought up the rear most of the time and that was all I could do in good shape. At one particularly bad place to climb I asked that young man if he had considered the age of some of his party at all before he started out. He didn't say and anyway it wouldn't do us any good then, we had to keep on going or get left and I preferred to keep going. After a long time we came out on the same little road and started for the house where we had kept two cars waiting to bring us home. We stopped at a well and had a good cold drink and Sumac washed some of the childrens faces so their mothers would know them. Pyrethrum and I seemed to be in the lead at this time and in crossing what looked to be a dry brook she stepped on a loose stone and suddenly decided to sit down for awhile. There happened to be a puddle just where she chose her seat and she soaked that all up in her dress and scooped another one dry with her shoe. I just reached over to help her up when she skidded over the other way and skinned her elbow but she came out with no bones broken and wishing more than ever for her bathing suit and we continued on our way.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS.
Sept 3—Club No. 3 meets in Buckingham Memorial.

The next day my knee joints just creaked and when I tried to go downtown a day or two after I found my shin bones acted more like iron pipes than bones, only they felt so lame and so of course they must have still been bones.

Never mind I am still strong and would go on another trip any day if I had nothing else to do. I only hope that young man remembered the fence and went back and fixed it, that would sort of pay him up for taking us so far anyway.

I think that the title, "Tish's Terrible Trip Through Tree Tops" would be just the thing for this letter only we were at the bottom of the trees most of the way.

Well, I wanted to write a little about gardens but the page would be all taken up so will close and leave room for some one else. TISH

PROFITABLE TRIP TO KINGSTON

Dear Social Corner: Do you want to hear about my trip to Kingston college? This is another place that I enjoy visiting every summer. Last Thursday five of us made the trip to attend a farm bureau field day. Upon our arrival at the college we joined a party of ten persons who had come from our valley. First we looked at the exhibits of farm machinery. There was an apple cleaning machine from Michigan that was different from anything we had ever seen. Perhops some of you will see this same machine at the Springfield fair this fall.

All the booths of educational exhibits made us think that we were at a fair. I lingered longest at the tables where cut flowers were displayed, Pernickety would have enjoyed the vase of golden glow and veronica for she likes combinations of yellow and blue. As an example of a poor arrangement there was a bunch of the two flowers just mentioned and a tall spike of orchid liatris jammed into a vase. Haven't you often seen bouquets like this, that you just ached to get your hands on and fix over? The big bunch of liatris was certainly handsome, but I don't see why they put blue veronica with it. There was was a collection of wild flowers and my companion from Boston expressed a desire to take home some Joe Pye weed for her mulberry living room.

Our next stop was at the model roadside stand. This was a rustic shed made of slabs and sht exhibits were fruits, vegetables, canned foods and cakes. It was very attractive and when we admired the angel food cakes, our genial home demonstration agent gave us some helpful suggestions on cake making. Hereafter when baking sponge cake I shall not spoil it by having the oven too hot to start with.

The next thing on our program was luncheon and the 15 of us sat on the ground and made a merry time of it. Later, while the men went to see the crops, we enjoyed a lecture on salad making. She showed us so many ways of making salads that it would take too long to describe them here. But I will try to describe two of the grilled open face sandwiches that she made. For the first one she placed a slice of boiled ham on a slice of bread and spread it with mustard. Next she laid on a slice of cheese and then some sliced tomato. This was grilled under a broiler until the cheese began to melt.

The second sandwich was made by covering a slice of bread with peanut butter. Chili sauce was added next and over this she put some strips of bacon. After it was grilled, this looked very appetizing. Then the demonstrator made a lot of fancy sandwiches by covering rounds of bread with various spreads. I took notes so that I can try all of these some time.

On our way we stopped in Davisville to call on a friend and found her canning corn. She took us over her small farm to see the crops and the chickens. If I had a hen house like hers I wouldn't mind taking care of poultry. In the back yard I noticed a big elderberry bush laden with ripe fruit. My friend said that she never used this fruit and, as most people think that wine is the only way to use elderberries, I will tell you how I use them.

Elderberry Pie: Sprinkle flour on undercrust. Add one-half cup sugar mixed with one-half teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon. Next put in a pint of berries and another one-half cup sugar. Dot with butter and add one large tablespoon of vinegar. Bake with a top crust.

Wayside Jelly: For this I use one-third elderberry juice and two-thirds wild grape juice and make the jelly as wanted. This juice is also good in fruit drinks and I always can some for this purpose. SISTER RHODY.

MY FLOWER GARDEN PROBLEMS

Dear Social Corner Members: I have 256 portulacca blooms, 18 different shades! Yes, I counted them. It was partly cloudy and they stayed open all day. They certainly were pretty. They simply stopped growing when it was so dry but at the first touch of rain they started again and now they are full of buds. I wonder if they belong to the same family as the purslane? The growth is very similar and also the flowers, although there is such a vast difference in size.

Uncle brought over a pan full of jonquils and I have been busy setting them in. There were 130 fine large bulbs besides a few small ones. I put them all in two beds—one of them the bed of hardy heliotrope and physostegia. I hope they will bloom next spring. Do you suppose they will?

I have been digging the bulbs up at the next place. They haven't been reset in years and I didn't know that sods could be so tough. Then just as I could push the spade through I was sure to slash into a clump and slice them to bits. After a little trying I found that I could pry them out by getting the spade under the sod but that wasn't very easy either. Now I have most of the sod out and the bed is ready for a load of fresh dirt and then will come the fun of resetting them all.

Will fall asters survive transplanting at this season? I'd like to have a collection of the prettiest wild asters that grow around here and it seems to me like an impossible task to mark them so I ever could find them again. I've started with five plants of two shades of pale blue and they still are alive. The darker ones are a little later. The tall ones with the small white blooms grow along my garden wall and I pull out lots of them every year.

Years ago grandmother put some ground nut bulbs in her garden because she thought the blooms so very pretty. They are—but if she could have seen the damage the vines do I am sure she would have left them alone. The roots spread rapidly underground and the tough wiry little vines strangle every plant on which they grow. Last year we went through the garden carefully digging out every bulb but we must have missed a few in spite of the fact that we looked so carefully. Now they are climbing all over the peonies again.

The boltonias are full of buds and I am anxious to see them open as I have never had any in my garden before.

The prettiest glad I've had this year —at least the one that I like best— is called Orange Queen. It is a bright yellow flushed and tipped with apricot and the half-open buds look like rose buds. There is another in the garden this morning and I must go pick it. PERNICKETY.

GREETINGS FROM E. L. M.

Dear Social Corner Members: I intended to send a letter last week telling of the picnic but I was too slow and it was just as well as there were such nice accounts given. I can only add that I think special mention should be made of the young folks in the family. One of them spent much time in giving the little folks rides on the pony which was a beauty, and of the others who took several on a hike to see the beautiful works of nature in Yawbux. I have heard so many speak of the fine time they had.

Pyrethrum: Wish I had been near to laugh at you when you sat down in the brook, to pay you for laughing at me for running from the goat.

Cosmos: The box is as good as ever. Maybe we will have lunch out of it some day.

Golden Glow: It was a nice surprise to find you at the same old stand. Glad to mee O—too.

Mr. Bell: Was so sorry to hear of your illness. Hope to hear you are improving. You are greatly missed.

Laurel and Ravena: It was nice to be remembered. The views were lovely.

Some one spoke on the bugs eating the asters. I had a long row and today they were just covered with bugs and not a one in sight yesterday. Have had them sprayed so that may help.

Have just been picking string beans. Had three plantings of Burpee's stringless green pods and these are the third planting. Somehow things got twisted this year. Only two plantings of sweet corn, so its a long wait between the first and last.

Elm Tree Bobbie: Have some lovely velvet marigolds, not so many as the first ones I planted did not come up very good. Guess it was too early.

Isadore and Scottie: Hope you were not sick after your trip. Sorry I did not have room to put you in my car.

Now comes the month of fairs and people will be going hither and yonder. E. L. M.

CLUB NO. 5 MEETS SEPT. 3 AT BUCKINGHAM MEMORIAL.

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: Once again we are called to meet after our vacation. Hope all had a very happy summer and have enjoyed the several picnics. I have only been privileged to attend one, that at Bay States'. Would have liked to go to the others but on account of sickness in my home could not leave. I am very sorry not to be able to meet with you all on our first meeting but will have to ask Sister Florence Dean to look after you for this time. Please all come that can and don't forget to bring all the good things for our dinner as usual.

There is nothing solicited for this meeting so salads, beans, cake and all the other good things we must have to make ou meeing a success. Come one, come all.

Health and strength to the sick ones and sympathy for all the bereaved ones. Success for all. Lovingly ALTA.

DELETTERING AND USING GRAIN BAGS.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I think it about time I did my share of writing for the Corner page.

Cosmos: I live in Quiembaug again. I would love to see you and your mother any time. Aunt H. knows just where I live. I hope that I will be well enough to go to North Stonington fair this year.

Artificial Flowers: I am in hopes of seeing you in P. the first of next month. We are coming up for two or three days. I will have a lot to tell you then.

I wonder if any of the sisters would like to try my way of taking the letters out of the white grain bags. I take one quart of gasoline to a pail of cold water and soak the bags all night. In the morning I pour the water off and pour luke warm water with rinso in it on them. Soak all day and at night pour water off and put hot water on them with plenty of rinso in it and soak all night. In the morning you wash them in your washing machine and the letters will disappear.

I hope some of the sisters that are lucky enough to have the grain bags will try it as it saves boiling and rubbing. I earned a dollar making four aprons out of four of the bags last week. I am going to make me four pillow cases this week out of four bags. Best wishes to all. ALVERNON.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have attended a number of your meetings and would like to join your circle.

I'll send in my recipe for

Boiled salad dressing: Take 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon corn starch, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup sugar. Sift to gether and mix with two eggs well beaten, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cup vinegar. Cook in double boiler until thick; beat with an egg beater while cooking.

I'll take for my penname LORNA DOONE.

(You have chosen a name that is so similar to another member's as to cause confusion. Please select another and with it forward your correct name and you will be enrolled as a Corner member. S. C. Ed.)

A SHAWL PAGEANT

Dear readers of the Social Corner: These are busy days, days of canning and pickling. At my last count, I find I have canned 77 cans of vegetables, perserves and berries and have a small barrel nearly full of cucumber pickle. I have several tumblers of different kinds of jellies and jams; strawberry jam, apple, elderberry and blackberry jell. Yet I have much to do.

Although I am busy, I will take time for recreation. My favorite pastime is writing; I also enjoy picnics, also I have atended three this summer, also a lawn tea.

The picnics were held at Wyassup. One was given by a very kind and generous friend for the benefit of the community, another picnic was planned and given by the Ladies of the Baptist Sunday school at Atlantic Beach and the other was the Social Corner picnic which many were able to atend and enjoy every minute. We were so sorry not to see some of those familiar faces, but I can assure you these members who were not there had very good reasons for not coming. One was very ill, another expected company and her granddaughter was ill, and two more had no way of going for which we feel very sorry as they would have had such a lovely time.

Wednesday the 20th the Woman's league held a tea on the lawn of the Third Baptist church at North Stonington from 2 to 6 p. m.

The feature of the afternoon was a shawl pageant, also an exhibition of antiques. The exhibits were on display inside of the church.

My pen cannot describe the beauty of that rare collection of pewter, polished to a mirror brilliancy, elegant Burmese silver, very old China in pink, blue, brown and mulberry hues.

The very old lustre pitcher, cups and vases were beautiful beyond description. Quaint bonnets and dresses of silks and delaine, made by hand hung in graceful folds at points of vantage. Quilts of various patterns, quilted by hand also drew the attention of antique admirers.

Those who were interested in very old pictures and Indian arrow heads had a chance to view them.

Last, but not least, I will mention the rare and beautiful shawls. Iwill confess I cannot do them justice. Words cannot describe their rare beauty and value, yet I will try and describe at least one of them.

Several of the shawls were made in the East Indies. I examined one very closely, I was told its value was $1,000. I could not say how many pieces, sewed neatly togethed, formed that wonderful piece of handiwork, but it must have been thousands of them and some so tiny. There were pieces as small as a dime while others were as large as silver dollars. Many pieces were irregular. Upon the right side embroiderd by hand in gold thread were most beautiful patterns. A shawl from Turkey, of the finest Cashmere, also Spanish shawls of fine lace, both black and white were on display.

By merely reading these lines, no one can visualize their extreme beauty; only those who were fortunate to see them could appreciate their loveliness and gorgeous colorings.

The ladies who owned the antiques and shawls were most kind and generous to give the public a rare chance to admire those pieces of furniture, dishes, pictures, quilts, dresses, bonnets, table spreads and shawls. A small price was required to view the antiques but I am sure no one regretted paying the price for such a rare occasion. PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

ANTIQUES OF DELAWARE

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers: There seems to be a craze with many people at the present time, for any article that bears the marks or brand of antiquity.

Furniture and various kitchen utensils, crockery and glassware, pewter, britannia ware, lamps used in the days of the only illuminating oil, either lard oil or whale, that for brilliancy was about equal to two tallow candles.

All such things are eagerly sought for. In my travels through 28 states, there was no section of the country where I saw so much in general use; (antiques) as I saw in state of Delaware where I spent the winter that I was 18 years old.

It was the last year of the rebellion. I was one of a party of 14 men, mostly from Connecticut who went to Delaware. Our mission there was to cut hickory timber to be shipped to the factory of Turner and Day at Greeneville, now Norwich, to be manufactured into axe and pick handles mostly for the army.

Leaving New London by boat for New York, the night of November 9th, the day after the reelection of Lincoln for president.

Landing in New York on the morning of the 10th. Immediately taking train for Dover, Delaware, our destination, arriving there at 9 o'clock that night, after a drive of six miles east near the Delaware bay, I arrived at my boarding place, where I met four of the men who had gone to the state in August.

After a night's rest I was up early in the morning to make a survey of the premises before breakfast. Things antique met my eyes at every turn. The buildings were built of logs, chimneys to the house were built on the outside. Outside doors swung out. Antiquity marked every part of the interior of the two story house. A log cabin standing a few feet from the main house had a covered walk way, to the house. The chimney of the cabin were of strips of split oak, locked together, cobhouse fashion, lined with clay inside; as was the openings between the logs of the cabin, which was the kitchen where the cooking was done before a large open fireplace. The kitchen was also the sleeping quarters and abode of the old Negro cook, Aunt Sally Craig and her son Sampson; a boy of 24 years. Aunt Sally was nearly as antique as the buildings and the house and cabin furnishings.

She was once the slave of Mr. Wilson, the present owner's father, who was at one time the owner of 600 acres of land and 10 slaves. He gave Aunt Sally her freedom, the year her son was born. The older Wilson bought her at auction in Georgetown in the year 1807. She was then 16 years old; paying $870.00 for her. She was active; a good cook, and interesting to talk with. She was a mulatto, had good features for a Negress. Her son was much lighter than she.

Pewter plates and platters with a few britannia articles, and a scattering of crockery, constituted the table service, with the well worn iron knives forks and spoons. The furniture was the most ancient of any I ever saw; the cooking utensils were equally antique. Pot hooks and trammels suspended from thecrane, bore the pots and kettles, when cooking was being done. Bread, bisquits, cake and some meats, were baked in a tin oven before the open fireplace. Lamb, veal and fowl were roasted on a spit over coals. The bakekettle with coals underneath and on top of the concaved cover, baked the tasty cornpone; the toothsome cornbread and Johnny cake were baked on a board before the fire.

Bedsteads were very high, with bars on top of the posts on which were hung netting to protect the sleeper from flies and mosquitoes.

Thick heavy feather beds covered with hand woven linen sheets, with quilts of old time printed patterns, made a bed that took two jumps to get into. Highboys and lowboys were articles of furniture; tables with claw feet, chairs and stands of antique design said to be of the Queen Annie age.

All the cabins used in slavetimes, except the one that housed Aunt Sally, had been used for fuel.

In the seven different places where we boarded, there were but two, where stoves were used, and all buildings were of early date. Nearly all of the house furnishings were antique.

In Sussex county, the south county of the state, the old tall clocks were greatly in evidence, everything looked very old, no stoves and but little of modern articles were used.

The manner of living was about the same wherever we went. It was remarked by one member of a family where we boarded, who had lived in Philadelphia, that the people of Delaware were 200 years behind the times.

Nearly all the land owners once owned slaves, but were given their freedom, or bought it of their masters several years before the rebellion.

Nearly all the people with whom we became acquainted had Negro help in house and field. They were once some of their slaves who preferred to remain with their old master and mistress to going among strangers.

In Sussex county the people were more behind the times than they were in Kent county. Upon the whole we found the people industrious, frugal and hospitable. We Yankees were invited guests to many social parties and dances.

I cannot call to mind a winter, or four and a half months that was more pleasantly spent. The people were a bit old-fashioned but were sociable and agreeable. Our work was arduous; from sun to sun, unless stormy. My brother and I sawed down the trees, while the others sawed the logs into required length.

On our knees at the work of sawing down, whether in snow or on wet ground, was not always agreeable. The protection to our knees was a strip of leather tied over them. We at one time boarded with a Pennsylvania Dutch family; the kitchen was underneath where we slept. This family had a stove. There was no chimney on this part of the house, so the stove pipe was run out of a window, depending on the direction of wind which window was used. Should the wind change during the night, we were awakened by the stove being drawn across the floor to the proper window.

At Christmas time we joined in making Aunt Sally a present; two large red figured bandanna handkerchiefs. You never saw a person more pleased and proud, as she appeared to us Christmas morn, with one handkerchief wound around her head turban like, and the other over her shoulders, as a shoulder shawl. As she approached us, she made a low "curtsy" and said, "You northern gentlemen have been very nice and bliggin' to Aunt Sally. An she air going to give yous all a fine Christmas dinner. Sampson he have killed my big gobler turkey an hit will be roasted in good southern style, an' Aunt Sally knows how hit air done."

We had the turkey with all tasty fixings; some that we Yanks, never tasted before; all were very nice and we did honors to our first southern Christmas dinner. When we left Mr. Wilson for another section of the state we each gave Aunt Sally a dollar.

During our life in the timber we occasionally indulged in a little innocent fun. One Saturday night four of us went to Dover, six miles, for our mail. On our return near midnight, and near home, in a cabin the Negroes were having a dance, being well patronized and enjoyed as only the southern Negro knows how. It was a dark night; the only light was that which shed its ray through the open door; the board shutters to the windows were closed. After dancing a while, three or four of the party would make a rush to the well to get a drink; there would be a race to see who would get there first. The well was six or eight rods from the cabin, and where we timber men got our drink when working. The depth of the well was that of two molasses hogsheads; one set top of the other made the inside curbing. Small rails locked together at four corners, formed the upper curb, three feet high.

Water in the well was about two feet deep. We watched the proceedings for some time from the road some distance from the cabin. Finally one of our number (not I) suggested setting the curb over on the opposite side of the well from the approach from the cabin. It was a good idea and all seconded the motion; the curb was silently and quietly removed as suggested. We then hid in the near bushes to watch results. Soon out rushed a party to the well; the curb wasn't where it once was, consequently two of the foremost took a plunge into the shallow well. With the lowering of the bucket they were easily helped out none the worse for their bath; then came a hunt for the perpetrators and we were conspicuous by our absence.

Now don't say: "You should have been severely dealth with." I'll wager that had you been there, you would have been a party to the prank.

Calla Lily: Yes, daughter A— was at her cousin's and through them I learned who you were. The cat is out of the bag. Yes, I knew your daddy J. M. very well ,and your mother, too. I boarded with them in Bozrahville in 1867. No I haven't told Dad Shaw about the mule and I having a slight misunderstanding.

Believe me; for a few days I was a good subject for a picture in a comic almanac; the end of my nose was apparently on a hinge, and could have been operated like a tin tobacco box cover, but it is a pretty good nose now with a slight scar. I would like to meet you and talk over old time. Had a letter from Dad Shaw a few days ago; very interesting.

Iwa Lynn! If you will purchase a package of "Kenyon's famous Rhode Island johnny cake meal, you will find a splendid recipe for Rhode Island johnny cakes. I have eaten them in Rhode Island, before I knew of Kenyon's meal, and that was the way I was told they made them. I often make them of Kenyon's meal; won't use any other to make a cake fit for a king.

To all concerned: Isn't it a pleasure to see so many interesting letters in the Social Corner page? Let the good work go on. Best wishes to all. QUID NUNC.

AUTHOR OF THE VERSE

Dear Social Corner Editor: Although I am not a Social Corner member, I often read the letters. I noticed Pernickety asked for the author of a certain verse and as I have more of the verse in a framed motto, thought I would answer her query and give the whole of the verse.

"A Garden is a lovesome thing, God wot:
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Ferned grot—
The veriest school
Of peace; and yet the fool
Contends that God is not,
Not God, in Gardens when the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign:
'Tis very sure God walks in mine."

The author is Thomas Edward Brown. R. E. B.

PROVIDED A BANNER DAY

Kind Editor and Writers: Will write before I am called a slacker.

Lowthorpe: Your letter was most interesting from start to finish. It seemed almost like being there when reading it. I would have enjoyed hearing the soprano and Meadow Lark sing. Hope you write again and tell us all about the next picnic. We shutins enjoy it so much.

Aries: You must have been born under a lucky sign to get a chance to change your dress when a corner surprise came. I had 22 drop down on me at once and I did not have a chance to put an apron on over my overalls which I wear as a farmerette suit. I like them so well I wear them all the time, ha ha. Then no one can say my dress is too long or too short. I am happy with them and farmerette shoes and oh so comfortable. Well, I got busy with two helpers and soon had clam chowder cooking, ice cream freezing and we all had one glorious good time. Some brought cake, doughnuts, cookies, bread, bananas, pies. And Mr. Happy brought a mammoth big watermellon. It was delicious. Then all that could went berrying on my own land. No one trespassed on any one. All declared it a banner day's outing with such a lovely view and such a big shade tree to sit under. I forgot to get the corner members to write in my book.

Then Violet and I planned a birthday surprise on three. Their birthdays were the 22nd, 23nd and 24th, so had it the 22nd with three birthday cakes and candles on tables at once. Mr. Happy brought a big watermelon. I made eight quarts of ice cream, and the others brought fruit and various other goodies. So I can imagine you did have a good time.

Quid Nunc: Your letter was just grand. It brought back happy memories of the past when I was young and on a farm where all those good eats were raised. Such lovely beef and pork. And fresh salted-cod, scup, buckeyes, mackerel—and oysters and clams—big wagonloads kept on sea weed in cellar and fed on salt water once or twice a week. Such big eels, split and baked. It makes me hungry to think of it. Crackers, sugar, flour and molasses were bought by barrel. Rye, wheat and buckwheat flour and white corn meal raised on the farm and such delicious baked corn bread and milk, hulled corn, big cheese, plain and sage! All were well and hearty eaters; no reducing diets then.

Red Rose: Thanks for lovely card from N. H. I do love the water. Hope your health is better. I do miss dear John's letters. She did enjoy the Social Corner.

Red Wing: I waved at you one day as I passed you. How are the little ones? All well I hope.

Zero: Is your pen broken? Why don't you write? Miss your nice letters.

Aunt Jerushy: How is the ivy and fern? How you must miss Johnny Cake since she moved. Hope you can go and see her, also go to the Corner picnics we read so much about. Wonder if Corner sisters gave you a surprise. But you are used to company and would be on the lookout and ready if they did.

Violet: Most school time, so you are busy getting kiddies ready. I received souvenir folder. Glad they are having such a fine time.

Pineapple: How I would like to see you and have a good chat. The gladiolus are blooming and I am so pleased with them. Hope your health is better. Who owes the letter you or I? Ha ha. Pie was good but not as good as yours was.

Wishing all the sick and shutins health, happiness and prosperity. I will ring off. Best wishes to all. L. T. H.

DELPHINIUMS

Dear Social Corner Members: There is a very interesting article on the care of delphiniums in "Better Homes and Gardens" for May of this year. I saw this number of the magazine by chance, and as so many of the garden-lovers of the Corner are interested in this flower, I am going to copy a part which tells of a new treatment, new to me, and perhaps to you who have this plant in your gardens, but evidently very old as the writer of the article got this idea from a very old book printed in 1793, entitled, "A Table of British Herbs, as Also the Planets That Govern Them."

When the writer of this article was a small child, she often heard her grandfather speak of this book. After his death she found the little book. She says—I turned to "Delphinium," for it is my hobby, and was surprised to read: "Delphiniums are of the most common Crowfoot family, or Ranunculace, as our college of physicians calls it forsooth, so as to have the common folk. The dame in her cottage garden calls it larkspur and uses a decoction thereof to kill the lices in little children's hair. When grown in the fine gardens about Kent and London it is known as delphinium, but the fine gardeners cannot grow it so well as our cottagers. If they would but look the length of their nose they would see without the use of a pair of spectacles that the cottager groweth it in old plaster. They cannot buy lime such as the fine gardeners do to make the ground sweet and right. If that be too low for him (for the gardener is finer than the master), he may go out and dig up a wild one, he will find either dead leaves around it, or else the ground so loose that the plant, being a poison even to itself may breathe its poison out off its roots else it die of itself. Mark you it is always well drained and if you dig down to the end of the root you will find limestone."

"And so, (This paragraph is by the modern writer), after years of disappointment and failure, like my own grandfather, I turned to the "Table of Herbs" and there found the secret of delphinium culture—old lime or plaster and the soil so loose the roots can breathe."

The writer says the annual species comes from Switzerland. She says, "So wonderful and immense has been the improvement that it is in the fullest sense appropriate to speak of the evolution of the modern delphinium, and in that evolution some of our greatest hardy plantsmen have played important parts."

This flower lover has one plant five years old and in 1929 it grew 20 flower stalks seven feet tall, so I should think her advice must be worth taking on this subject.

She had no luck either from plants she had bought or from seed until she begged seed from a neighbor, gathered it herself, and planted it at once.

She says, "Now I pay $10 for a package of seed that I know to be fresh. By fresh I mean seed that has just ripened on the plant,—if one is to meet with success growing delphinium from seed, the seed must be fresh—'just off the stalk.' Our Pacific coast and California growers send out seed as soon as ripe, about August 1st.

That she was willing to pay so high a price for fresh seed certainly shows her faith in it, but even deeper faith in fresh seed would not induce me to pay so much, considering the contents of my pocketbook.

To quote further—"Now to sow the fresh seed. I use old plaster broken in half-inch pieces. I even save some of the dust to mix with the top soil." She goes on to tell size of box, etc. Then,—"The width and length of the box do not really matter, just so it may be easily handled. The depth does count and that should be almost 4 1-2 inches. One inch in the bottom of the box should be broken plaster. In a separate container, mix 3 parts garden soil with 1 part leafmold and the dust from the broken plaster. Fill the box to within one inch of the top with this mixture. Then sift leaf mold and a little of the plaster dust over it until the box is filled to within half an inch of the top. Water, and the next day sow seeds thinly in very shallow drills. Sift a light covering of leaf mold over the seeds and cover lightly with fine peatmoss that has had one tablespoon of wood ashes mixed with it. Place the box in a shaded coldframe. (My frame is under an old apple tree). Be sure to keep it moist and cover the frame in bad weather. Always take care that the air can circulate freely.

"When the third leaves appear, the box should be moved into another cold-frame, this time in the full sun, and there, as a well known grower say, 'let the sun and wind do their work.' Shade is important during the germination of seeds and the sun is just as important to the young plants after the third leaves appear.

"Let the little plants remain in the boxes over winter. It is wise to sprinkle a little more peat around them in the late fall. Cover with sash. It is necessary that the air circulate freely, so tilt the sash a bit.

"Prepare the soil in the autumn for spring planting. Select ground where the soil is not likely to become waterlogged, as that condition means sure death, to delphiniums.

"Cover the soil first with a heavy coat of lime, then a coat of cow manure and coal ashes. This should be spaded deeply. Leave as rough as possible from digging time in the autumn until just prior to planting time in the spring.

"Autumn planting and water standing over the plants has killed more delphiniums than disease or cold. When the surface is fairly dry in the spring, give a liberal top dressing of coal ashes. Break down the clods and work in the top dressing with a short-tined fork.

"When planting the young plants, scoop out a one-foot hole, and work into it a god handful of bone meal. Put a little mre soil in the hole, pour some water in and set the plant. After the planting is finished, mulch with peat moss and give a liberal coating of wood ashes.

"The correct time to begin feeding with concentrated fertilizer is when the flower spikes are seen to be rising. Do not feed delphiniums after the end of August. To do so simply encourages a sappy autumn growth which will make the plants unfit to undergo the trials of winter.

"About the first of December cover the crowns of the plants with coal ashes. The following spring dig in the coal ashes, mulch with peat moss, and sprinkle on the wood ashes. When the flower stalks begin to rise dig a shallow circular channel around the plant one foot from the stem. Work in the channel a good handful of bone meal, a little lime, a spoonful of sulphur, and cover.

"If the flower stalks are wanted for exhibition, the trench should be one foot around the stem, six inches wide, and four inches deep. Put coarse peatmoss becomes matted and compressed, cow manure into it. When the peatmossbecomes matted and composed, loosen the surface with a fork. Allow the trench to absorb the moisture before applying more liquid."

The writer goes on to describe in detail two methods of delphinium propagation. She considers the use of cuttings the best way.

The last paragraph of the article is —"Last but not least, a health rule for your delphiniums, which is that the soil must be kept light so the roots may breathe. In heavy, cold soils a black-rot fungus often appears on the base of the stems, which if neglected penetrates to the crown of the plants and causes decay of the rootstock. A little bit of powdered charcoal, lime, and powdered tobacco dust mixed together and worked around the stems is an excellent precaution against most fungus diseases."

I meant to quote only the part about the use of plaster and lime for delphiniums, but as this was so mixed with other directions, it seemed necessary to copy more than I intended. I have copied this with care so that anyone wishing to try these directions can be sure there is no error.

And as I went on, I thought that the culture-method of one who loved delphiniums enough to pay $10 for one package of seed would be appreciated by the flower-lovers among the Corner writers. And I became a little fascinated, as I copied these careful directions, and I wish I could follow them myself.

Nevertheless, my recollection of larkspur in a garden of childhood is that it seeded itself and grew pleasingly with no care but the removal of weeds. However, these directions are mainly for the hardy variety.

Betsy Bobbet: Many thanks for the recipe, My friend sends you this message, "Tell her that I haven't tried it but I am going to this coming week and would be glad to send her a jar of it for her kindness in sending the recipe, if I could get it to her." She says she will give me some instead, and that it is just the kind of a recipe she wants. One that she had before was not satisfactory. I should like to see the lovely pink larkspur.

Pernickety: I am interested to hear of the red larkspur. However, either red or pink larkspur, seem to me like blue roses which I should not care to see especially, even if some unborn Burbank produces some. Other colors have been so long associated with these flowers, that I prefer them. I enjoy reading of your garden.

I have been much interested in all the letters recently and have made several memos expressing interest and appreciation to include in my letter but I must leave a little space for other writers, so I will close with good wishes to all. PEDESTRIAN.

ANSWERING STAMP INQUIRY.

Dear Social Corner: I have looked every week for some ont to answer the question a sister asked in regard to the value of a stamp. She will find out the value by sending to B. L. Voorhees for his price list. If you will send me your address I will send for you.

How many of the Social Corner members belong to the grange? I hope to meet you all in our hall at the grange fair next month. I know you all will have a fine time and our fair book covers have the Corner color.

What has become of Gypsy Wanda? Have not heard from her for a long time. ABLETEW.

HAD TO POSTPONE PICNIC

Dear Social Corner Friends: Am sorry but I can't have my picnic for two or three weeks yet, it will have to be late on account of sickness in the family. My son-in-law's brother had a bad case of tonsilitis; he is a great deal better but I want to get rested up before I have my picnic. So watch out for a later letter. Hope to have a large gathering as of old. What nice times we did have when I had annual picnics at Lake Waugunebaug didn't we? So many of the old ones have left us.

Cheer up a good time is coming.

There's always a silver lining to all clouds. BIDDY

WORK BUT DON'T OVERDO

Dear Social Corner Folks, one and all: My, how time does fly, almost the first of September! Days are growing shorter all the time. I never did like the fall of the year and am always so glad when the days begin to grow longer in the late winter.

I am and have been a very busy woman all summer long but I know I am not the only one who is busy, we live so fast nowadays. There is so much going on time slips by before we hardly realize it. I was quite sick in the spring, had a mastoid abscess in my head and ear and it still bothers me quite a lot but is getting better every day. Right now I want to thank all of the members who sent me nice cards and kind messages. I am sure those things are nice to have when one is not well. We are doing a lot of canning. We have raised so much of everything in the big garden we are getting a supply for winter use.

There has been much said about flower gardens in the letters lately and I just wish you could all see ours, such beautiful zinnias and so many of them, and cosmos, calendulas, marigolds, snapdragon, asters, spiderbrush and lots of other kinds of flowers. They stand dry weather very well and don't need so very much attention when once they get started. I have a weed, I think it's called "pigweed", back of the house near the sink drain and it has grown to be ten feet high and still growing. Some of the first leaves have turned red and, honest, it's not so bad to look at. We have lots and lots of squashes so you see I shall soon begin my old job of making pies and in a few weeks we are going to move up the line toward Sterling hill so that is a big job ahead of us. But I am pleased to go, Where we now live is lovely in the summer but, oh, those cold winds of last winter. I never will forget! This house is big and needs repairs. Where we are going is a smaller house and in better condition. We have lovely crops of all kinds this year. As soon as they are gathered we will move, not so far but what all mail comes to the same address, only the box number will be changed.

Am planning to make more quilts this winter saving all pieces that are good, as I pick over boxes and throw away a lot of useless things that have gathered for a long time. I always want to be doing something. Sometimes I think I have too much to do, then if I don't have anything to do, I am uneasy, so I guess the best thing for us all is to work, only not to overdo.

I am sending a recipe for mustard pickles that we like very much, it came from Pennsylvania.

Mustard Pickles: Take small cucumbers, wash and pack closely in quart jars then cover with the following mixture, seal tight, store in dark place and you will always have nice crisp pickles ready to eat and warranted not to hurt the most delicate stomach. Mixture—Take one cup sugar, one cup salt, one cup dry mustard and mix together thoroughly. Then add one gallon cider vinegar, stir till all is dissolved then fill jars to overflowing. In a few days they are ready to eat or will keep a year or more.

Goodness, this is a rather mixed up letter but I have written just as the thoughts came to me.

Seems so the Corner page is not what it used to be. Wake up, sisters, don't backslide we must in some way keep up our Corner page now and always. Best wishes to all sympathy for all in sorrow or trouble. I am as always. MA OF GREEN GABLES.

A DELIGHTFUL MOTOR TRIP

Dear Corner Sisters: It has been quite a while since I did my "bit" for the Corner but have been just as interested in all the letters. Will tell you a little of my vacation this summer.

The second week in August I spent at Lord's Point and enjoyed every bit of it.

Last week hubby and I took a motor trip through the New England states and New York.

We left Norwich Tuesday morning going through Putnam, Webster and Worcester to Chelmsford, where the great fruit section of New Hampshire is located. I never saw so much fruit of every kind. All orchards were loaded with apples, pears, peaches, also a good many vineyards. Every few rods there was a vegetable and fruit stand.

From Chelmsford we drove along set out in 1825, I was much interested shau. Manchester to Concord where we spent the night. After breakfast we visited the capitol and were shown all through the building. Directly in front was an elm tree that Lafayette set out in 125. I was much interested in their form of government.

The general assembly consists of 427 representatives and 24 senators. The governor has a suite of three beautifully furnished rooms.

His secretary, who was at his desk, has held that office for 44 years.

In place of a lieutenant governor there is a governor's council consisting of five members. One is elected from each district.

The governor appoints a man at the head of each department, also to fill all vacancies but the appointment must be approved by the council, who meet every two weeks.

The government is much more democratic than in Connecticut as there is less power vested in one man.

We crossed the Hudson at Troy then came down the Storm King highway—the most wonderful motor experience imaginable. It is called the "Monarch of American mountain highways" and is considered the most expensive road in the world. It is carved out of the granite more than 400 feet above the Hudson river. In some places mountains overhang the highway on one side, while the great expanse of the Hudson can be seen on the other side with the Catskills as a background, making a magnificent scenic view. All cars are limited to 20 miles per hour.

We stayed overnight at Highland Falls. The next morning we visited West Point Military academy which was very interesting. We crossed the Bear Mountain bridge—another beautiful drive. Directly above the river from the east extends the scenic approach highway carved out of solid rock for 3 1-2 miles. We had breakfast in Peekskill, then started for homegoing through Danbury, Waterbury and Middletown back to Norwich Friday night after a very pleasant trip. I always enjoy reading of the trips the sisters have taken. Sympathy to all in trouble.—NAOMI.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I must say "How do you do?" if onthing more. Am a shut-in with care of a blind husband, so am very, very glad when some one thinks to call or give any attention. Am missing all the picnics but am reading all you say about them. Am too busy to write all I have to say, as all my spare time is used in reading aloud and playing double. BEE TRUE.

PRICE RANGE OF 90 SHARES GAINED ABOUT 2 POINTS IN MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The stock market ended the month of August with one of the most substantial upturns since July, today, although it must be pointed out that the month has been a period of narrow movements on the upside.

The closing of the exchange for the three day week-end found that putting the speculative house in order required more closing out of short than long contracts, and as shorts attempted to buy back their stocks, offerings appeared only after considerable bidding.

The price average of 90 shares gained only about 2 points, but individual advances ranged from 1 to 6. Trading was extremely dull during the forepart of the session, but quickened as the advance got under way. Total sales aggregated 1,858,820 shares.

Such displeasing corporate news as the omission of the Celotex and Oliver Farm Equipment preferred dividends was without visible effect upon the list. The further reduction of $26,000,000 in brokers' loans was given more consideration, and bulls placed a favorable interpretation on it, asserting that it indicated the market was in an important period of accumulation.

The weekly mercantile reviews were mildly cheerful, pointing to moderate pickup in both wholesale and retail trade, and some gains in industrial activity. Despite the fresh heaviness of wheat, it was notable that the Bradstreet's weekly food price index showed a slight gain. Bradstreet's still described business as "quiet," adding that stirrings of seasonal buying were more in evidence. Dun's pointed to a better undertone in business, explaining, "any turn in the right direction at this time, however slight and although not generally manifest, is considered significant as an indication of further gains to come."

Credit conditions failed to show any tightening, despite the holiday currency requirements, estimated at close of $100,000,000. Call loans held at 2 per cent. A further gold shipment to France was announced.

Rails displayed a better tone than for several days. The short interest in this group has been large, and July earnings statements, while showing little improvement, have at least shown a change of trend. A wide assortment of industrials, amusements, and specialties gained 3 points or more.

Such shares as American Can, American Telephone and U. S. Steel gained about 2 points. U. S. Steel was an active feature, and more than made up the 1 3-4 dividend. Shares gaining 2 to 4 included Air Reduction, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago Northwestern, Rock Island, Eastman, Loew's Fox, Warner Brothers, Macy, Southern Railway, Norfolk and Western, Westinghouse Electric, and Worthington. Some of the oils turned upward. Independent gained 2 in a fair turnover, and Royal Dutch rallied as much.

Electric Autolite dropped 6 3-4, then rallied to reduce its loss to 4 1-4, late in the day, but this did not have any appreciable effect upon the rest of the list.

Corn futures were the feature of the commodities, rising about 3 cents on bullish private crop reports. Wheat was sluggish, closing unchanged to 1 cent lower. Cotton turned heavy late in the day, and closed about $1.50 a bale lower.

Foreign exchanges eased. Sterling cables slipped back 1-16 to $4.86 15-16, and most of the Latin Americans were again under pressure.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—(AP)—Buoyancy developed in the corn market today as a result of widespread belief that private corn crop estimates next week would show a sensational slash. According to current gossip, a leak indicated that one leading unofficial authority had reduced to 1,925,000,000 bushels his forecast of the 1930 crop, whereas the lowest predictions heretofore have been about 2,000,000,000 bushels. Flurried buying that ensued hoisted the corn market 3 1-4c a bushel, with some sales as high as $1.00 even, but then heavy profit taking led to something of a reaction.

Closing quotations on corn were firm, 1 7-8a2 3-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed unchanged to 1 1-8c down, and oats 5-8a1 3-8c up, with provisions ranging from 10c setback to a rise of 5c.

Provisions held about steady, influenced by the course of hog values.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Treasury receipts for August 27 were $3,821,300.17; expenditures $9,426,234.32; balance $107,275,219.12.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—A short covering movement that developed during the afternoon fused strength into the curb market today.

Public utility issues were the focal point of interest, and closed strong, up 1 and 2 points, and buoyency extended to some of the specialties and industrials. The volume of business was the largest in a fortnight, totaling 443,100 shares.

Buying was ascribed to the desire of shorts to even up their positions before the protracted week-end over Labor day, and some fresh commitments by bull traders who anticipated a further advance with the turn of a new month.

The best gains in the utility group, which provided the leadership for the belated rally, were made by Electric Bond and Share, Brazilian Traction, Central Public Service, American Super Power, Dixie Gas and Utilities, American Gas and Electric, and Standard Public Service A all up 1 to 3 points. Electric Bond and Share, the most active of the group, closed at 84, an advance of 1 3-4 and the best figure of the week.

For the first time in many sessions Cities Service assumed the position of the most active curb stock, and moved up 3-4 to 28 5-8. Standard of Indiana was bid up 3-8. Humble registered a gain of 1 1-2 on a small turnover.

Investment and holding company stocks profited from the increased trading. Goldman Sachs moved up 1-2, and United Founders gained 5-8. Singer Sewing Machine reappeared in trading to sag 17 points to 433. Mead Johnson was under further pressure and lost 2 points. American Cyanamid worked 5-8 lower. Columbia Pictures, Gramaphone, Glen Alden Coal Great Atlantic and Pacific, Lehigh Coal and Navigation, U. S. Gypsum, and Zonite Products gained about a point each.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Disquieting reports of military and political trouble in Latin American countries, caused sharp breaks in a wide list of foreign bonds on the New York Stock exchange today.

The heaviest pressure was applied on Argentine obligations and the prices of about a dozen bonds dropped 1 to 3 points with the average loss about 2. Bonds of Brazil, Chile, Colombia Buenos Aires, Sao Paulo, Costa Rica, and Rio Grande Do Sol were reactionary, with many losses of more than a point, and Uruguay bonds were heavy in sympathy.

The weakness in the Latin American list, with the sharpest declines in months, overshadowed interest in the quiet movement of domestic bonds, where changes were of a different nature. More than a dozen railroad and utility issues reached new highs under broadened trading that climaxed a week in which former price levels were eclipsed.

Among the issues advancing to new highs were Chicago, Burlington and Quincy 3 1-2s, Chicago, Great Western 4s. Long Island 5s, St. Louis, Southwestern 4s, Chicago and Alton 3s, St. Paul 4 3-4s, Virginia Railway 5s, Central of New Jersey 5s. Big Four 5s, D, California Gas and Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, and Portland Electric Power 6s.

Bethlehem Steel 5s, Bowman Biltmore 7s, Central Steel 5s, Container corporation 5s, and White Sewing Machine 6s gained a point or more. Industrials were the only group to show an advance in the averages.

The buoyancy of stocks was reflected in the improved status of convertible and warrant bonds, some advancing to the highest level in several weeks. American Telephone 4 1-2s, reached 165 up 4 1-4. American Natural Gas 6 1-2s, with warrants gained about the same. Atchison 4 1-2s, rose 1 1-2, while other railroad convertibles held firm. Amusement issues were among the chief gainers. General Theatres 6s advanced 2. Warner Brothers 6s, 1 1-2; Pathe warrant 7s, 1, and Loew's 6s, 3 5-8.

Standard European governments were firm. Municipal bonds of the British Empire, were in demand. Austrian 7s, Japan 5 1-2s, Belgian 6 1-2s, and 7s, made good gains. Mexican and Peruvian issues moved contrary to the general trend in the Latin American section, rising 1 and 2 points.

On slim buying U. S. governments registered small advances.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Commercial failures for the week totaled 471, compared with 436 last week, and 365 a year ago, R. G. Dun and company reports.

The financial district, with the exception of the banks, closed its doors tonight for a three day holiday over Labor day. The New York Stock exchange, Curb, and other exchanges and the commodity markets will be closed until Tuesday morning.

FINES METED OUT TO TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATORS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Aug. 29—A number of violators of motor vehicle traffic laws were before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Friday morning session of third district court. Court matters were disposed of as follows:

New writ entered before the calling of the Docket-Boston Lightning Rod Co. vs. M. Cherenzie. Answer and continued two weeks.

Civil Docket—Westerly Hospital vs. Ernest Panciera et al. Continued nisi.

Dr. John Champlin, Jr., vs. Antonio Panciera. Continued nisi.

Mary Kreoleakn vs. John H. Sendafan. Continued one week.

John O. Mills, Inc., vs. Angelo Pucci. Attorney Ferguson was ready for plaintiff but Attorney Dunn did not make a court appearance and the case was continued one week.

John O. Mills, Inc., vs. Anthony S. Catalano. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim.

Michael D. G. Papalia vs. Holden P. Ballou. Passed.

Byron Champlin vs. Medusa Portland Cement Co. Defendant submitted to decision for $150 and costs.

General Roofing Co., vs. Angelo Manfredi. Continued nisi.

Michael D. G. Papalia vs. Peter Cozzantino. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim in $15.46 and costs.

Passed for proof of claim were also the case, Morris Goldberg vs. James Bliven, later announced as defaulted and judgment rendered for the plaintiff to recover $76.70 and costs.

Boston Lightning Rod Co. vs. Westerly Ice Co. Continued one week.

LeRoy B. Talbot vs. Michael Vacca. Defaulted and judgment rendered the plaintiff in $67.26 and costs.

After a short recess Ernest L. Panciera of Granite street, who was apprehended on August 19th at 7 p. m. by Rhode Island State Trooper Sherwood F. Healey, of the Hope Valley state barracks, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an automobile on the Nooseneck Hill state road at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper. The state trooper testified that the defendant from the foot fo Tefft Hill to Wyoming was traveling 55 miles per hour and passed four autos. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $15 and costs.

Eric Hill, 24 of Chase Hill, Hopkinton apprehended on August 20th on the Chase Hill road south from Meeting House bridge, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without a license. He told the court that he worked in Connecticut and only returned home over week-ends, and that he came to see a brother in the hospital. State officer said the driving was at 5 a. m. and traffic was light. A fine of $10 was imposed by Judge Williams with the admonition "Don't make any more mistakes." "I'll try and be careful" was the response.

Albert O. Leif of Providence, apprehended on August 21st by Trooper Healey, pleaded guilty to driving at a rate greater than reasonable and proper. The state officer said four cars were passed going in the opposite direction between Brightman Hill and Hope Valley Hill on the Nooseneck Hill state highway. A fine of $15 and costs was imposed.

David Sunderland, attorney of Providence appeared before the court with a nose covered with bandages, and pleaded guilty to a charge of fast driving on the Nooseneck Hill road in Hopkinton on July 21st last. Judge Williams said he had a letter from a law firm in Providence stating that the accused had been ill and unable until now to appear in court. State police officer testified that the defendant traveled from the Ten Rod road to Wyoming Corners, a distance of 5 3-4 miles at a rate of speed from 60 to 70 miles an hour and from Wyoming Corners to the Hope Valley barracks of the state police at 75 miles per hour. The accused said he had a summons to call in New Haven at 9 a. m. that day and that he was accompanied by another man. He explained to Judge Williams that his bandaged nose had nothing to do with any auto accident and that there was no accident at the time he was given a court summons. "There appears to be a growing disrespect for laws, especially motor traffic laws," said Judge Williams in passing judgment, and "in 75 per cent of the cases the trouble grows out of autoists not according to pedestrians their rights—the fine is $50 and costs."

Continued cases of the state police department in which defendants did not make court appearances were Sherwood F. Healey vs. Howard K. Simmons; Corp. Albert L. Taylor vs. Harry L. Rossily and John F. Kennedy vs. Arthur Richard Mista.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Unforgettable men and boys moving in a dramatic panorama—a tense story moving smoothly and told tellingly—thrilling action on the ground and in the air—Richard Barthelmess in a characterization radically differing from anything he has done heretofore—these are the highlights of "The Dawn Patrol." The First National-Vitaphone production which opens a week's engagement at Warner's Broadway today.

"The Dawn Patrol" relates the story of a group of youthful flyers in the Royal Flying Corps. The time is 1915 and the situation concerns these inexperienced youths taken from school, placed in antiquated planes and sent up to almost certain death against better-equipped and more experienced German aces. It is a new phase of war—a new story to tell audiences.

Barthelmess has never been supported by a finer cast which includes Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Neil Hamilton William Janney, Gardner James, Clyde Cook, Frank McHugh, Edmund Breon James Finlayson and smaller roles are handled by Harold Lockwood, Jr., Claude Gillingwater, Jr., and others.

Palace Theatre

Beautiful Constance Bennett is the star of "Common Clay" which will open at the Palace theatre Sunday evening. "Common Clay" is one of the most dramatic and appealing productions ever offered to theatre patrons and the fact that it was held over four weeks at the Roxy theatre in New York indicates its popularity in other cities.

The plot of the picture is about Ellen Neal, a speakeasy hostess who, after a raid is given a job as maid in the home of a well known society family. Here she loves too well but not wisely. The scenes change and time passes A year later we find Ellen with her mother in a lawyer's office asking that her baby be given a name and respectability. A fine and unique disclosure of the plot reveals many surprising and dramatic situations.

Lew Ayres who leaped to fame as the star of "All Quiet on the Western Front" has the role opposite Miss Bennett, Tully Marshall who has played in many recent successes has the part of Ellen's lawyer and Beryl Mercer who has been a mother to so many soldiers has the part of Ellen's mother.

"Common Clay" is a production which has been a prize winner. It will be shown at the Palace for only four days and unless you want to be sorry that you have missed a great play be sure to get there as soon as possible.

A double-feature combining "Recaptured Love" with Belle Bennett and "Rough Romance," a story of the western mountains with George O'Brien and a large supporting cast, will be shown at the Palace for the last times today.

Strand Theater.

An extraordinary picture will be shown at the Strand theatre on Labor day, September 1. There will be four performances, beginning 1:30 p. m. continuously.

The picture is a modern Polish melodrama and is very refined. It is the story of a beautiful young princess who trifles with men's hearts only to throw them away. To redeem her sins she enters a convent and devotes the rest of her days rendering service to others. The sacrifices she makes are tremendous and the story is beautifully told on the screen.

What They See In Each Other

By ALLEN RAYMOND

A CASE OF MARITAL "INFIDELITY" WHICH WAS NO GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE

"WHAT in the world does he see in her?" asked one of Richard Boyd's intellectual friends when he heard of the boy's engagement to Hallie Ordway.

"What on earth does she see in him?" retorted one of Hallie's crap-shooting playmates.

Everybody in Amity was amazed or amused by that surprising love affair, and nearly every one agreed that Richard and Hallie were not at all suited to each other.

All that furor was seven long years ago. Hallie and Richard have been married ever since. They seem to be getting along all right. A couple of years later, condensed editions of Richard, revised for the better by Hallie's good looks, were seen tumbling and racing about his lawn or big back yard on almost any fine afternoon. Yet from time to time one hears around our country club those two old inquiries?

"What do you suppose that very intelligent Mr. Boyd can see in an uninformed woman?"

"What in the world can a good sport like Hallie see in that old-stick husband?"

Perhaps a revelation of that hideous skeleton which rattled its horrid bones a while in the Boyd family closet may answer these persistent questions. It was nothing less than infidelity; a strange, unique and pardonable unfaithfulness of which each accused the other and which Richard confessed to me brazenly.

I was playing chess with him one evening in the drawing room of his home and had him so baffled at one stage of our struggle that most onlookers would have said he had gone to sleep on his elbows. Being an old bachelor, an intimate friend of the family and thirsty, I went to the kitchen, opened the icebox and a nearby small cupboard, and mixed myself a little something that tinkled musically and was not difficult to swallow.

Hallie was there with her great wolf-hound and a plate of meat scraps, teaching him to sit on his haunches, play dead and roll over, and all the rest of the tricks which her dogs have had ever since she was a leggy little girl with a pigtail climbing all the trees in my orchard and Colonel Ordway's.

"I've just discovered something dreadful, Uncle Tim," she said to me.

"What's that, Hallie?" I asked her.

"Richard's unfaithful to me."

"You don't say so!"

"I do say so."

She said it calmly enough, but it staggered me so much that I almost choked. I stared at her with suspicion. Seated on a white enamel table with legs aswing, she was withholding a meat scrap from her elephantine pet and looking out the window. It was a gorgeous moonlit night beyond that room, but the full moon pouring light on Hallie's garden could not possibly be as lovely as she, I thought. I always gasp a little at her beauty in these recent years.

The dog, deprived of its bite, moaned piteously. Then Hallie laughed. I chuckled. Her thoughtful mien was replaced by a customary arch vivacity.

"HE'S gone and got himself a mistress," she chattered in her silly way that sometimes irritates me. "I've always wondered what a wronged wife would feel like. And can you imagine Richard in the role of Don Juan? Just when I thought he was getting so humdrum and prosaic and settled in matrimony the old dear ups and has an affair of the heart. Wasn't he sweet to do it?"

"You seem to take it philosophically," I commented, wondering where the catch was.

"Why, I'm thrilled to death! I'm so curious to know who she is, and how it started, and how it's all going to end. What will become of me and our poor dear innocent children? Will you be my counsel, Timmy dear, if I sue for divorce?"

I was a bit disgruntled at that. I know quite a bit about divorce cases, having practiced law in this county for more years than I like to admit. The idea that Hallie's thoughts should ever run in that direction, that she even dreamed of the possibility of a sordid wrangle with Richard in an open courtroom, made me mad. Her charge that Richard was guilty of infidelity with some person unknown to her was too ridiculous to dignify by credence.

"Don't be any sillier than you have to be, Hallie," I growled at her with the freedom of my older years.

She laughed outright at that and started to croon:

Poor Butterfly-y-ee,
'Cause she loved him so.

Hallie really can be outrageous at times.

"Rats!" said I, and escorted my drink to the drawing room, where Richard had made his move and awaited me. My exit was intended to be a dignified stalking, but I knew the jade was laughing me out.

"What's all this nonsense Hallie's talking?" I asked of Richard as I took my place at the board and sized up the game anew.

"What particular nonsense?" he countered wryly, in that soft, unexcitable, even tone that is characteristic of him.

"Something about your having a mistress," I answered.

"Oh, that!"

His instant recognition of her accusation made me look at him sharply. His eyes were just as sober as Hallie's had been when she accused him to me, and his lips had just about the same kind of smile as I had seen upon hers. Whereas she had looked out the window toward the moon, he gazed thoughtfully into the fire which danced cheerily on their great open hearth. It struck me at that moment, I remember, that there was a certain similarity about the two of them, and that the similarity was growing, however strangely mismated the town might consider them.

"Yes," I persisted. "Hallie was talking about divorce courts when I left her."

An animation that was close to glee came over his lantern-jawed face and shone through his spectacles.

"Was she really?" he asked, as one who has just received news that delights him. "Was she really? You can't beat her, can you?"

"I can't," I admitted. "But what's the game? What's all the joke about?"

"It isn't entirely a game," he said, "and not exactly a joke. There's too much truth in it."

His tone was grave and regretful.

"You mean?" I asked.

"That in a way she's right," he declared. "I have a mistress, possibly several of them, and Hallie's jealous. What's more, Hallie's in love with a man that isn't I—and sometimes that makes me sore."

"Sometimes!" I almost shouted.

"Why, yes," he said calmly. "Wouldn't it anger you?"

"It might annoy me a little," I said sarcastically. "But you know it's all nonsense."

"It's your move," he suggested pointedly. "Of course, you've never been married, so you wouldn't understand. But don't be worried. We aren't going into any divorce court."

I beat him handily all that evening, for his mind obviously was not upon the game. I could understand why it was not when Hallie came into the room and sat silently in a corner, looking over a succession of style magazines, and when the two of them bade me good-night they both were warmly cordial to me, as always, but an obvious chilliness existed between them.

Riding home, I reflected comfortably on the blessings of being a bachelor. Even supposing that two persons are far more fitted to dwell together than our town considers Hallie and Richard to be, marriage must inevitably involve a considerable conflict of desires and temperaments, a host of minor exasperations which are apt to be aggravated into major grievances simply by repetition and the constant propinquity of husband and wife.

I sat late that night before my own grate, in the ease of slippers and house jacket, thinking over the rift in their connubial lute.

Richard is a bookworm. He is a tall, lean, raw-boned student, slightly stooped from bending above books and papers, nearsighted from eyestrain, but with one of the finest and most attractive smiles I have ever seen. His manners are exquisite and his nature warmly sympathetic. His hobbies are playing chess and writing sonnets. His business is being chief librarian of our public library, with a salary of $2,700 a year.

Hallie is the daughter of old Colonel Ordway, the founder and president of the Amity Foundry company, a tough, shrewd, two-fisted business man. The colonel gives Hallie an allowance of about $10,000 a year. Most people admit she is the town's most beautiful woman, with her snapping black eyes, her stunning figure and unquenchable vivacity.

I did have a momentary suspicion that there might be one of those casual passing flirtations, after our best small-town country-club manner, causing friction in their home. But I quickly ruled that out, too. Hallie bulks too large a woman for such affairs and lavishes herself too impartially upon all her friends and neighbors, even upon this stodgy old bachelor whom she calls her Uncle Tim, for her to single out any particular one. Richard would not know how to go about a flirtation even if one were demanded of him.

What species, then was this infidelity? I wondered whether Hallie, Richard or both might not be wielding upon the other that common weapon for the punishment of marital shortcomings: the recollection and comparison of some earlier sweetheart who might have become something nearer and dearer, and who now was taking on added virtues and attraction in the distance of years and geographic location.

In Hallie's and Richard's case, however, I dismissed the supposition that their infidelity was of this regrettable type. Of course, beaux have swarmed around Hallie ever since the first fresh budding of her girlhood, and a merry dance she led the lot of them. I see quite a few of them still here in Amity, and while they seem to be very estimable fellows for the most part, the years have brought them all a certain matter-of-factness so that they cannot retain any glamour for Hallie. Both she and Richard, it seems to me, have too keen a sense of humor to wield some lost one's image like a clumsy club.

All these considerations left the infidelity of Hallie and Richard more and more puzzling to me after my pipeful of meditation.

THE next forty-eight hours enlightened me. I drove downtown on a little errand about 10 o'clock the next night and saw the light still shining in Richard's office at the public library. The old boy ought not to work so hard, I thought to myself, not at all acquainted with the nefarious reason for his being there.

Richard puts in too many hours thinking up schemes to lure boys and girls from our schools and men and women from our shops and offices into the jungle of steel-stacked volumes that is his lair and to send them away again with more packages of wisdom or dreams beneath their arms than they ever will know what to do with. He plots too long at ways to bludgeon extra sums from our city hall for the maintenance and expansion of his own domain. I thought he was busy at the library that night with things like these. I believed he was there because of excessive loyalty to his job.

It seems I was wrong. The wretch kept a rendezvous there with a woman who was not his wife. If I had known that, I might not, perhaps, have honked my horn in such a friendly imperious manner when, on returning homeward toward midnight, I saw Richard locking the bronze front doors of the library building. I rolled my car to the curbing and he came down the steps to it slowly, with that stooping, leisurely amble of his that sometimes reminds me of Abraham Lincoln.

"I'll take you home, Richard," I offered, opening the door to him. When he was seated beside me, I asked: "How's Hallie?"

"Who? Oh! Hallie? Er-r—still ambitious, Tim," he answered with a chuckle, after dragging his mind back from reverie.

I saw that he was distraught, so I did not press him with any further questioning. His characterization of Hallie as ambitious interested me. I could not see what Hallie had to be ambitious about beyond the further happiness of her home. She is not a politically minded woman. She plays her golf for amusement rather than competitive fame. The honors and burdens to be found in women's club activities have a way of seeking her because of her driving force and old Colonel Ordway's money; so that she does not have to compete for them. The idea of Hallie as ambitious was absolutely a new one to me.

As luck would have it, I met her on the first tee at the country club early the next morning, with all the lovely roses in her cheeks and a perky red beret worn like a tam-o'-shanter over dark chestnut hair. She was swinging her driver with such vim that its shaft fairly whistled as it flew through the air.

"I'll play you for a brand-new dollar ball," I offered, "if you'll give me five strokes."

"Why Uncle Tim! You scheming old pot hunter!" she answered abusively.

"Four strokes," I suggested.

"I wouldn't give you a stroke if we played for nothing," she informed me.

"Three strokes, please," I pleaded. "I'm hooking badly off the tee these days; my mashie play's gone all to pieces, and you know my putting always was rotten."

"Not a stroke," she countered. "You should be ashamed to ask for strokes from a poor weak woman."

Hallie inherited a share of her father's bargaining power. We played on even terms.

We had not gone four holes before I saw that some inner fury, controlled with tight lips, was adding twenty yards to the length of Hallie's drives; that she was chipping her shots right up to the pin with grim determination, and then dropping the ball in the hole with a deadly accuracy. Prevented by the cramping conventionalities of polite society from hurling a frying pan at the object of her wrath, she was calming herself by a vicious assault upon old man Bogie. I was about to lose that dollar ball.

With such a catastrophe before me and playing at just about the top of my game, there was only one thing to be done. That was to bring into play the forces of psychology to help me defeat this relentless Amazon. No appeal of my old gray hairs could soften her. In her present mood she would be absolutely callous to the spectacle of financial loss which defeat would entail upon me. The prospect of humbling my masculine pride meant nothing to her. I must call upon wile, craft and the power of suggestion to crumble her powerful attack.

"How's Richard?" I asked, with an air of friendly innocence as she took her preliminary waggles at the start of the fifth hole.

She stopped and glared at me.

"There's such a thing as carrying a joke too far," she snapped.

OF COURSE, her statement was a little trite, but still I had to admit it carried its vein of truth. She drove, and I saw I had shaken her. She fell into an old error of hers, a slice, which landed her in a sand trap to the right of the green. Scoring a 4 on that hole against her 5, I became content that my strategy was correct. The fury of the girl should be nursed until it overreached itself and changed from a force lending strength to her game into a mental distraction to weaken it.

"So Richard is carrying a joke too far," I persisted as we walked to the sixth tee. "I thought he had too much finesse to do that."

"Finesse!" Her exclamation was scornful. "Do you think it's finesse to tell your wife you prefer the company of other women and then leave her and call on one of them?"

"Surely Richard couldn't have done that," I objected.

"He did," she contradicted. "He did last night."

"Oh!"

I chuckled inwardly. Now I had struck the trial of Richard's infidelity. He had told his wife he was going to call on another woman and then had spent the evening in his public library. This other woman, this mistress of his, was whom? Ah! The goddess of labor. Knowing Richard as I did, I believed I had the solution to the mystery.

The job, then, was Richard's mistress. I almost was ready to place a small wager on it. Under the exigencies of his marital duel our librarian had conceived of labor as a goddess to be courted fervently, and on provocation he tormented Hallie with a metaphor. His hobby always was writing poetry, and his mind might very easily wander among such images.

Reasoning along these lines, you see, as Hallie and I roved over the blossoming fairways of our country club, I was making headway toward identification of the Boyd family sketeton. Already, I believed, I knew Richard's mistress. There remained to be determined the name and nature of Hallie's paramour.

Surely he was to be found in that domestic discord which had chased Richard downtown to his library. I had one clue to him. That was Richard's characterization of Hallie as ambitious. Perhaps the nature of Hallie's ambition would cast some light on her husband's pique and on the man who was not Richard, yet was the man whom Hallie loved.

At the fourteenth green I had Hallie 1 down, but I missed my putt and the girl holed a long one. She evened the match. Now surely was the time to question her. We had to toil up a steep hill to the fifteenth tee, and at stages of the course like that my old legs like to take things leisurely.

"So that bold, bad husband of yours ran off and left you last night," I remarked.

"He certainly did."

"There must have been some cause for it."

"There was—his mysterious lady-love."

She cut the conversation short by teeing up her ball, addressing it and driving too quickly, throwing her wrists, arms and body into such a swing as if she meant to knock that inoffensive little ball to kingdom-come. I politely repressed my mirth.

There was her old erratic slice that caught the ball in midflight and swung it off line, far, far off the straight line, until it fell to earth in some thick unmowed grass on a bad slope off the fairway, where she would waste one stroke and possibly two before the ball was well away once more on its journey toward the little red flag that marked its goal.

I slapped my own drive straight and hard down the middle of the course for a modest 190 yards. Then, with that courteous consideration which is due one's opponent at this peer of all games, I walked with Hallie to help her find her own.

NOT until she evened the mtach again at the short sixteenth by a very pretty pitch and putt for a birdie 2 did I broach the subject of Richard. With only two holes left for cross-examination and with my wagered dollar golf ball in direst peril, I felt that the time was ripe.

"I knew Richard was very angry last night when I saw him striding down Jefferson avenue," I mused aloud.

"You saw him, Uncle Tim?"

"I drove him home. He was very silent. He seemed almost morose."

"He was sad to think he had to come come home to his wife," she suggested.

"You two must have waged a pretty battle before he departed," said I.

"We didn't. We never fight. That's one of the things that makes Dick so exasperating. He just won't fight. He absolutely refuses. He merely shuts up like a clam and glooms. Or that was all he did recently. Now he's got this other girl, and when things don't suit him at home he puts on his hat and goes to see her."

"What went wrong last night?" I asked sympathetically.

"Oh, it's the old grievance; those poems of his. He refuses to publish them; says they're rotten.'

"Maybe they are."

"Why, Uncle Tim!"

Her exclamation was one of bruised and horrified reproach.

"I never read the poems," I wriggled uncomfortably. "Richard ought to know what they're worth. He's a scholar. He wrote them."

"Richard's too modest. You know that, Timmy. He's so positively humble that he makes me sick. If I knew all he does I'd stand up on a roof and flap my wings and crow a little. So would you, Uncle Tim. I'd let people know about it. He doesn't care whether anybody knows about him. Why—he's really a great poet. I know he is. I've read what he's written, and then I've compared it to the other books in the library. Not one of them can compare with Richard's work. You know poetry bores me, usually. But Richard's verse makes me all shivery—like moonlight. It makes me cry, sometimes, like when I think about the babies growing up and leaving me."

I changed the subject.

"Your drive," said I, with a gesture toward the tee.

She rapped out a beautiful long ball with a natural, absent-minded swing, and I laid my ball within two feet of it. We strolled side by side.

I believed how I had learned all I wanted. I knew what Richard meant when he said that Hallie was ambitious. I was pretty sure I knew whom he meant by the man other than himself with whom Hallie was in love.

The girl and I halved the seventhth hole and stood with everything evenly tied, and with victory or defeat in the balance, upon the last tee looking up toward the clubhouse across a nasty little fishpond.

Hallie stood waggling her driver above her ball. There was a woman who was in love with the vision of a famous poet, whom Richard might be, but was not. There was the woman who made my old friend so angry that he put in long and arduous extra hours with his mistress, Labor, at our public library. There stood the woman who was about to get my dollar golf ball if I did not bestir myself.

"So Richard is restive under the spurs," I mused aloud, as Hallie stood there.

She turned around and her black eyes snapped with fire.

"I'll spur him," she said. "I'll spur him."

Then she turned to the ball. Her two arms came back slowly till her hands were shoulder high. Then her wrists fixed upward. She whipped that club of hers through the ball in a perfect arc with the speed of a rattlesnake striking. The ball sped 205 yards straight as an arrow for the eighteenth flag and came to rest visibly within easy putting distance of the little cup where victory awaited. A decent veil may be drawn upon the tragic fate of my drive which followed.

I TAXED my old friend Richard with undue torture of his estimable wife when I saw him that afternoon. I was curious to check the accuracy of my deductions as to the nature of the Boyd family skeleton.

"It's no use, son," said I. "this joke of yours. It's got on Hallie's nerves too strongly. Just because she's in love with a great poet, which I'm convinced you're not, is no reason you should take refuge among poetic images. Women are apt to be too literal-minded."

He grinned, a trifle sheepishly, I thought.

"So you've run it down, old Sherlock," he said. "The identity of the shadow Hallie's in love with."

"And the name of your mistress, you gay deceiver!"

"Who is it?" he challenged.

"The job," said I. "Your business. A very common mistress, Richard, but a trifle vulgar for a man of your reputed intellect."

"You're wrong," he contradicted me. "It isn't that at all. I'm still too deep for you."

"And I'd heard you were modest," I jibed.

"Not to you, Tim," he told me haughtily. "I can beat you at chess, and my light-of-love is still beyond your deductions."

"All right," I growled, a little nettled that one of my conclusions should be wrong.

He laughed at that and slapped my shoulder amicably.

"I'll admit the joke's gone far enough, but 'twas good while it lasted."

"Are you calling it off?"

"I certainly am. Come around and play chess with me tonight."

I told him I would. Richard's and Hallie's home is a little like a family living room annexed to my bachelor quarters. I have the unrestrained run of it whenever I feel the need of company. That's fairly often in these later years. Before I left the boy I shot another random question at him, still trying to solve that riddle he bragged was too deep for me.

"What did your sweetie say to you last night at the library?" I asked him lightly.

"My sweetie? Oh!" He chuckled and then turned thoughtful. "You might guess the name of this one," he said. "But, to be absolutely honest, I've got several. I don't know how I'm going to explain to Hallie the extent of my philandering."

So that was Richard's pardonable unfaithfulness! The scholar kept a harem of glorious women, gathered from the centuries, to beguile him when his wife annoyed him.

All the mystery of their two affaires de coeur was solved for me. But it as not until Richard explained his dereliction to Hallie and was forgiven for it that I learned the extent of what they see in each other.

THAT very night I was playing chess with Richard in his drawing room and Hallie was sitting off to one side beneath a reading lamp, traveling her accustomed path through the pages of the fashion magazines. I could sense that the family rift still existed.

"Richard," I demanded. "Just what did that other light of love say to you—the one before the last?"

Out of one corner of my eye I could see Hallie flash a glance our way. She was listening, though ostensibly immersed in new modes for frocks. Her husband turned red. Then he set that obstinate chin of his and looked away.

"She was singing, Uncle Tim," he said. "She was singing Tennyson's beautiful lullaby, 'Sweet and Low,' to her baby and I sat there and listened."

"It's a very pretty game you have there," I conceded. "When did you first start to play it?"

"When another girl I know," he said, "was singing to her first-born son. I have always loved that lullaby and the only image of the mother I could get was the face of the girl I knew. The same thing happens with La Belle Iseult, with the Blessed Damozel and all the others in my library. I try to see them—to visualize them—and they all remind me of those fugitive, dazzling glimpses I get of a girl who continually eludes me."

Wings must have been lent to Hallie's feet, for almost before the boy finished speaking she was silently beside him and went sliding over the broad arm of his easy-chair and into his lap without the slightest semblance of matronly dignity. I looked away, but I caught the whisper:

"You darling!"

I heard the sibilant which followed and after a long minute Hallie laughed out loud.

"I could play that game, Uncle Tim," she said. "I could think of Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan. Richard is both of them—a brilliant clown and a sweet little boy."

Now do you gather what these two see in each other?"

GIRL STARTS SUIT FOR $10,000 CLAIMING MAN JILTED HER

Suit for $10,000 damages has been started in the superior court by Roseta Lewis, of Old Lyme, against John Beckwith, also of Old Lyme. Miss Lewis brings the suit for breach of promise and the papers have been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city.

In the complaint Miss Lewis alleges that Beckwith proposed marriage about January of this year and that she accepted. She claims that she has since requested him to marry her and that he has failed to do so. The defendant owns considerable property in Old Lyme.

Among other civil actions filed in the court office is an appeal from the decision of the New London probate court allowing the claim of Johanna S. Erickson and Edith I. Erickson, of New London to the estate of Anna Carolina Hansen, late of New London. The appeal is brought by Johannes Erickson, Josef Ludwig Erickson, Mathilda Kristina and Erik Dolberg. The administrator of the estate is A. O. Peterson of East Lyme.

Mary Josephine Smith and Ward Bush, of East Lyme, claim damages of $6,000 in a suit against the town of East Lyme. The town owns land adjoining that of the two plaintiffs, and a fire set on the town land to burn up rubbish by order of the selectman, Fred A. Beckwith, spread to their land. About 1100 cords of wood and laurel were destroyed by the fire. Plaintiffs claim negligence.

The court is asked by Thomas H. Morrison of Westerly to set aside as null and void the conveyance of a half interest in property in Stonington owned by Norman C. Church, Stonington, made to his wife, Irene Church. Plaintiff claims the transaction was to avoid payment of a debt for merchandise and materials amounting to $2526.70. He also asks for a lien on the property to cover his claim, and $3500 damages.

Damages of $3,500 are asked by the Minneapolis Milling company, Minneapolis, in a suit against W. C. Jones, proprietor of the Bamby bakery, New London. The plaintiff concern claims that Jones agreed to buy, through a broker's agreement, 1,000 barrels of flour, to be shipped up to August 1, 1930, at a price of $6.55. Jones has refused to send shipping directions in accordance with the terms of the contract, it is charged, and the company seeks damages.

Injured when she was hit by a falling limb from a tree in Elmwood avenue, New London, Jessie H. Ripplin, New London, is suing the city of New London for $2600 damages. The accident happened on November 28, 1929, and the plaintiff claims she suffered severe bruises about the head and back, the displacement of a bone in her lower back, and a nervous shock. She claims the department of public works should have removed the deteriorated limb.

CORONER EXONERATES GLYNN FROM CRIMINAL BLAME

Frederick L. Glynn, of New London, is exonerated from criminal responsibility in causing the death of John R. Tennant, 57, of No. 519 North street, Coroner Edward G. McKay finds in a decision made public Friday. Mr. Tennant was struck and fatally injured the night of July 27th at the intersection of Ninth and North Main streets. The coroner says in his finding:

At about 11 o'clock on July 27th the said Frederick L. Glynn was operating his motor vehicle north on North Main street. He had three passengers with him and this party of four were on the way to Jewett City. There was no traffic in the immediate vicinity of Ninth street and North Main street. The automobile of Mr. Glynn was in good mechanical condition and the brakes were in good order. The headlights of the Glynn car were shining full. The weather at that time was fair and the road surface was dry.

As Glynn approached the intersection Mr. Tennant started to cross the street. He had been seen talking to a man south of Ninth street and walked up the sidewalk on the west side of North Main street. When he came to Ninth street he started to cross to his home on the east side of North Main street. When he was about in the middle of the highway he was struck by the Glynn car and was carried along for about 50 feet when he was thrown to the highway. He received substantial injuries and was taken immediately to the local hospital. While there only a few minutes he expired.

Investigation was made of the surroundings on the scene of the collision and measurements were taken. There were no wheel marks on the road surface that would indicate the application of brakes of the Glynn car. Immediately after the collision the Glynn car stopped near the east side of the concrete at about opposite the injured man. In front of the Glynn car about the radiator was considerably damaged.

The testimony as to the manner in which the Glynn car was being operated did not show that the car was being operated in a grossly reckless manner. Most of the testimony indicated that the car was being operated at a speed that was not accessive under the circumstances. Combined with this is the fact that there was no evidence of the car having been brought to a stop by the sudden application of brakes. The distance that the car travelled after striking the man would not indicate accessive speed. Consideration is also given to the fact that this section of the road is unlighted. I do not doubt the claim of the driver of the Glynn car that the man was not seen until immediately in front of the automobile.

NEW LARGE TENDERS FOR LOCOMOTIVES

The New Haven railroad has just received delivery from the American Locomotive Co. of two of an order of six new large capacity tenders for its fast passenger service between New York and Boston, to cost $100,000. The new tenders have capacity for 18 tons of coal and 16,000 gallons of water, and are designed to eliminate the necessity for any stops to take coal or water between New Haven and Boston.

The two tenders just received have been placed on the locomotives hauling the Bay State and the Puritan east bound, and the Quaker and the Owl westbound.

The other four, when received, will go on the engines which haul the Owl, the Federal, the New Englander and the Colonial eastbound, and the Shoreliner, the Puritan, the Gilt Edge, and the Colonial westbound.

The six tenders which the new equipment will replace, will, in turn, replace smaller tenders on other engines, this process continuing progressively down the line and resulting finally in the junking of six of the older type.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The preparation for the encampment of the veteran soldiers and sailors of the state at Niantic are all completed, and not less than 100 will go from Norwich.

Orange-Pineapple
and Black Walnut

MILD FLAVORS have a subtle charm—but the tang of orange and of pineapple thrills the taste. Just a bit sharp. The tongue and palate quickly respond to these two—either of them. But imagine them together—frozen in cream!

Enough and plenty in one package, but there are black walnuts, too. A first grade selection of nuts adds quite a different flavor-note to the taste of the fruits. An unusual combination.

POETRY

God's Hills

I had kept my eyes on the footpath,
That winds and twists up the hill,
I had doggedly followed that selfsame path,
Each day, without thought or will.

I had caught on the briers and stubbles,
I had slipped on the frosted leaves,
I had startled a partridge day after day,
And heard the low tones of the breeze.

When one gray day, part way up the hill,
I stopped and whirled about,
And there at my feet a kingdom lay,
God's, without a doubt.

My eyes looked far to the cloud blue hills,
My spirit sang, and was gay,
No more would my eyes look at sodden paths,
But God's hills each day.

—Edith L. Nichols in Nautilus Magazine.

The Foolish Hen

I sing the hen, that great and tireless mother,
Whose perseverance hardly can be matched,
Her fine enthusiasm aught can smother,
Although her eggs are very seldom hatched,
But are, by some rude raider or another,
From out the nesting box untimely snatched
And, duly poached or scrambled, boiled or fried,
Appear upon our plates at breakfastide.

If we can scarce defend the exploitation
Of these maternal virtues, none the less
It is to all apparent that the nation
Is much the gainer by her selflessness.
Though, with a total lack of penetration,
That is a fact she never seems to guess,
She goes on laying eggs for us, and hence
We may deduce a want of common sense.

'Tis well to hold a congress in her honour,
But much I hope, skilled breeders that they are,
The learned experts who are sitting on her
Will soon evolve a wiser fowl by far.
Why is she almost certainly a goner
When she is overtaken by a car?
Why should she always with loud clucks and squeals
Dash back and forth beneath the advancing wheels?

(Touchstone in the London Post).
